FAMOUS DOCTOR COOK IN JAIL

Dr. Frederick A. Cook (left), once acclaimed by the world as the discoverer of the north pole, is now an inmate of the federal penitentiary at Ft. Leavenworth, where he was sentenced for 14 years for promoting fake oil schemes. Cook is shown here on his way to prison in custody of a U. S. marshal.

MANY PEOPLE AT EASTER SERVICES

Braved the Snowstorm to Join in Happy Celebration of Easter.

OMEMEE, April 16.—The attendance at the Sunday evening services was somewhat marred by the heavy snow, although people for several miles around braved the elements, sooner than miss the Easter services. The morning service in Christ church was well attended and communion service was held in both the Anglican and Presbyterian churches. Bright Easter music marked the services.

At the Methodist church, the choir was assisted in the service of song by five young girls wearing white dresses who sang Easter carols, at both services. In connection with the evening carol, Miss Elda Overholt recited with good expression "The Story the Lillies Told", while the other girls, Daisy McAughey, Katie Weir, Mary Weir and Jane Earle, approached the altar with reverent attitude and there adorned a beautiful white cross with flowers, after which they sang "Lillies For Mmory." The choir rendered three joyous Easter anthems at each service. The Mission Band and the Women's Missionary Society occupied the central pews at the evening service and an Easter thankoffering was given in aid of their work. The sermons, both morning and evening, were in keeping with the season.

The three churches were frarant with Easter blossoms; the profusion of bloom in the Methodist church having been supplied by Lady Eaton, who although still in the south of France, has never forgotten her home church on Christmas and Easter with an offering of fowers.

Play Was Repeated.

L.O.L. No. 114 made no mistake when they arranged with the young people of the A.Y.P.A. to repeat the play given here two years ago, entitled "Nothing But the Truth", on Easter Monday evening. The characters delineated their various roles with rare ability. The original cast of characters was maintained with the exception of Mrs. Ralston and "The Bishop". These parts being very cleverly portrayed by Mrs. E. Jamieson and Horace Hill. The play was under the direction of Miss Edith Robinson, who is deserving of much credit for the splendid presentation. The costumes worn by the ladies of the cast were very much admired by the feminine portion of the audience. A number of pretty choruses were rendered between the acts. The cast of characters was as follows:

Mr. Ralston—A. Ford.

Mrs. Ralston—Mrs. E. Jamieson.

Gwendolyn Ralston — Miss A Clemett.

Billie Ralston—Harry Burgess.

Mr. Van Duzen—S. Nurse.

A guest at the Ralston Home—Mrs. A .Ford.

Mabel and Sabel—Mrs. Nurse, Miss M. Rowan.

The Maid—Miss Edna Morton.

Robert Everett—John Bent.

AMENDMENTS TO MUNICIPAL ACT TO AFFECT CITY

Give Power to Pass Bylaw Providing for Use of Schools as Polls.

VEHICLE LIGHTS

City May Compel Carrying of Lights on Horse-Drawn Rigs.

The amendments to the Consolidated Municipal Act which were planned at the session of the Ontario Legislature just closed include many clauses which are of much importance, and which may, under certain circumstances, have a direct effect on the City of Peterborough. Some of the most important sections relate to the election of mayor and aldermen when these offices became vacant throughout the year, and relating to the use of schools and public buildings as polling stations in municipal elections. One clause provides for the making of agreements between city councils and township and county councils for the use of fire fighting apparatus belonging to the city, in rural sections. Still another enables municipalities to pass bylaws requiring all vehicles to carry lights after dark. The following gives a summary of the most important clauses which are likely to have an effect upon Peterborough.

Regarding Elections

An amendment is contained in the new bill whereby an election for mayor will no longer become necessary in a city where the mayoralty becomes vacant before the expiration of the regular term. When under such a circumstance an election has not been ordered by the regular judical proceedings, the city council may elect one of its number to the office of mayor for the remainder of the term.

Another interesting feature of the new bill is provision that if a vacancy occurs in the office of counciller after November 1 in any year it shall no longer be necessary to fill the vacancy if the council so directs, until the next regular election.

Similarly if the office of alderman becomes vacant where aldermen are not elected by a general vote and judical proceedings have not been taken to order an election, the council may elect a person to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the unexpired term.

Polling Stations

One of the most important changes wrought by the bill is that by-laws may be passed by the councils of cities or towns for providing that either, or both public and separate schools within, belonging to, or controlled by, the corporation and within the municipality shall be used for a pollings place or polling places or one of more polling sub-divisions and any school house or public building may be used although it is not situated in the polling sub-division or divisions for which it is used. The section of the bill dealing with the use of public buildings as polling places is apparently an effort at economy, the sum being paid for the use of the building being merely transferred from the city council to the school board instead of, as formerly, being paid to private individuals for the use of their houses or stores. Provision is made that no school is to be used without the consent of the school board. Peterborough Board of Education has already given permission for the use of the schools on suggestion of Mayor J. J. Turner.

Voting Qualifications

The owner of the city property who resides within five miles of the municipality in which the property is located will in future be entitled to vote, instead of the former regulation, which limited the area to only two miles, under the provisions of the new bill.

New arrangements are made for fire protection, by which fire protection may be afforded by one municipaity within the county on such terms as may be agreed upon between the municipalities concerned

Light on Vehicles

A much-debated question is also dealt with in the new bill which provides that bylaws may be passed by the councils of counties cities or separated towns requiring every vehicle drawn by a horse or other animal whenever on a highway after dusk and before dawn, to carry a light on the left hand side of the vehicle. The light is designated as a lighted lamp or reflector approved by the county engineer and so placed that its shall be plainly visible from front and rear.

A license, for which a fee not exceeding $250 shall be collected is provided for wholesalers who deliver or sell vegetables or fruit, not grown in the Province, to various parts of the Province. This provision will apply to those who sell to retail stores in the cities of Ontario, and who deliver at wholesale prices in sections where they are not residents. The section refers only to imported fruit and vegetables.

Bridge Repairs

A section of the bill provides that debentures may be issued for re-flooring an iron, steel, or concrete bridge, the debentures to be issued by the regular passage of a bylaw authorizing the issue. The debentures must be issued for a period not exceeding ten years at a rate of interest which the City Council may determine, providing that the bylaw is passed by a two-third majority of the council, and receives the approval of the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board.

The FLAPPER WIFE

By Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER I

It was the last night of Gloria's girlhood.

Tomorrow would be her wedding day!

She stood looking down at the white satin dress spread out on her bed.

It had been worn by two other brides . . . her grandmother and, later, her own mother.

"But I certainly don't intend to have the kind of life they had!" Gloria shook her bobbed head at the white walls of her room.

. . . Her dead grandmother, whose work-worn hands had raised ten children!

Ten children! Think of it . . . Gloria shuddered.

"Not for me!" she said aloud, "Not if I know myself!"

Of course, Dick might want children. He probably would. Most men did want them. Why not, since they had none of the bother and pain of having them?

They could go on living their lives while the wives lost sleep and freshness caring for the children.

They could rush about, doing as they pleased. For their women were safe at home, chained to the cradle. . . .

No, she was not going to have babies! Not even one!

So that was that!

Then Gloria's thoughts flew downstairs to the sitting room. She knew her mother was there in the old rocker, mending stockings. She was always mending. And still the basket was always full. It held an endless job.

Poor Mother! How hard she worked!

There was nothing for her but housework and her family, year after year. Ye gods, what a life!

. . . A woman was either a slave or a doll.

But if she was a slave, it was her own fault. And that's all there was to it.

Gloria had made up her mind that she was through with hard work, forever, last week when she had said goodby to her typewriter and her job in Water street.

Gloria lifted the old wedding dress from the bed, and put it on a clothes hanger in the closet. But the silk was heavy and the dress slid off into a heap on the floor.

"Mother!" Gloria called downstairs, "Will you come up here right away? I want you to help me with this tricky dress. It keeps falling off the hanger."

Gloria Gordon's mother was a small brown wren of a woman. All her life she had "babied" her beautiful daughter.

Now she hungt he dress neatly in the closet. Then she turned down Gloria's bed, and put a hot water bottle between the sheets.

"Dear me, Glory," she fretted, "I don't know how you're ever going to get along without me to take care of you, when you're married and gone!"

"Don't you worry about me," the girl answered, "I'll be taken care of all right. That's what I meant today when I told you I didn't want to learn anything about housework. You see, if I don't know how to do it, Dick will have to hire a maid for me right from the start."

She set her lovely mouth in a firm red line.

"I had different ideas when I was a bride," Mrs. Gordon said quietly. "I thought a woman ought to help her husband."

"I know you did. Your idea of married life was to take care of your husband. Mine is that he is to take care of me!" Gloria shrilled. "Where you ran a carpet sweeper I'm going to run an automobile!

"I've made up my mind that I'm going to be Dick's sweetheart . . . not his housekeeper. I'm going to stay in bed every day till noon, and keep my looks and my husband!"

She crossed the room to her dressing table. She leaned forward and studied her face in the mirror.

She knew that she was beautiful. She had red-gold hair and dark eyes and lashes. Her skin was smooth and white as a gardenia. And the forees that had modeled her features had made them clear and fine.

But behind this sweet and womanly mask, she was wildly discontented and eager for life. And Life—with a capital L,—was beginning tomorrow with her wedding day!

Tomorrow she would burst forth like a butterfly from its cocoon, and fly away. Away from this shabby house, and the alarm clock that had wrenched her from sleep at seven every morning for the last two years. Away from the necessity of working six days a week as typist for a real estate firm on Water street.

And mixed up with Gloria's love for Dick Gregory was an enormous gratitude toward him for taking her away from all this to a life of ease with him.

At least, Gloria intended that it should be ease . . . and luxury, too. She was tired of penny-pinching and hard work. Dead tired.

A job and a business career were all very well in their way for girls who weren't beautiful and desirable . . . girls whom men didn't want.

But with a face like hers . . .! Then she turned out the lights above the dressing table.

She climbed into bed, pulled the covers around her shoulders, and sleepily kissed her mother good night.

Two hours later she sat up in bed wide awake, with the feeling that someone had called her.

She listened. No sound in the darkened house.

Then suddenly she heard a low "Bob White" whistle out of doors.

Dick!

She swung her feet over the side of the bed, and flew to the window. There he stood down on the moonlit lawn. She heard him laugh as she threw up the window.

"It's our wedding day," he said. "Ten minutes after twelve! How's my bride?"

"Oh, Dick, how wicked of you!" Gloria said, exasperated. "Don't you know it's bad luck to see your bride on your wedding day before the preacher makes her yours? And besides, what will the neighbors think if they see you?"

"Oh, bother the neighbors! They won't be your neighbors after tomorrow, anyway," Dick replied in a stage whisper. "Look here, I want to kiss you. . . . I've been thinking about you all evening during that doggoned bachelor dinner . . ."

With a bang, Gloria shut the window, and went back to bed.

She lay there waiting for the sound of Dick's departing roadster. But there was no sound anywhere except the lonesome shriek of a train in the distance.

At last she got up and looked out of the window. Dick hadn't moved. He was still waiting for his kiss.

Gloria opened the window.

"Why in the world don't you go home?" she asked crossly.

Dick didn't answer at once. He stood twirling his hat in his hands.

"Oh, have a heart, Glory," he said finally. "Come on down to the front door for just a minute. . . . I must kiss you, dear! Think, it's our wedding day."

Gloria hesitated. After all, where was the harm in one little kiss in the dead of night? In another twelve hours they would be man and wife.

"All right, I'll be right down," she whispered.

She put on her bathrobe and thrust her bare feet into slippers. She tiptoed out into the hall.

Halfway down the stairs she paused.

This was not the thing to do!

She was making herself cheap . . . "easy." The way to hold a man was to keep him guessing. To kiss him so seldom that love-making would never lose its tang and flavor. . . .

A man was a born hunter. He loved the chase. As soon as he got what he wanted he was off at top speed for something else, for somebody else!

Well, she would keep Dick running after her! She would never go to him as she was going now! Never!

She turned and ran back to her room.

"Dick!" she called softly from the window. He came out from the shadow of the porch.

"Darling, I'm not coming down," Gloria said. "I just can't. It wouldn't be right. You shouldn't have asked me to do such a horrid thing!"

Without answering, Dick crossed the lawn and started his car.

Gloria lay in bed listeniug to the sound of it. She heard it for a long time, and she knew that Dick had gone out on Victoria heights to take one last look at the house he had built for her.

What a boy he was!

At twenty, she was more worldly wise than Dick, in spite of his thirty years and his reputation as a lawyer.

He was like wax in her hands. She could make him utterly miserable by refusing him a kiss. And when she was tender he would willingly go through fire and water for her! He said so.

. . . When she did kiss him, she was never thrilled by it. What excited her was the power that kiss gave her over him!

Yes, Dick was mad about her. He would give her anything she asked for. And she was not going to be slow in asking for the things she wanted . . . leisure, love and luxury. But above all, luxury!

Gloria's first thought the next morning was "This is my wedding day."

Her second was "This is the last morning I shall have to wake up in this dingy old room, thank goodness!"

She hated everything in it, from the battered brass bed to the imitation ivory toilet set.

By tomorrow morning she would be the wife of a man who would buy her wonderful things . . . a toilet set of silver, perfumes, lacy handkerchiefs, chiffon stockings too thin ever to be mended!

She had made up her mind that her honeymoon would be a shopping trip, too. With Dick to pay the bills!

"Sweetheart," Dick had said, "let's honeymoon in some quiet place where we can be alone." But she had laughed him to scorn.

"Don't you know you can be lonelier in a big city than anywhere else in the world, silly?" she had asked. "I've decided on Montreal. It's romantic, but it's full of lovely shops and restaurants. And we shall stop at the Ritz . . . and be very smart and Ritzy!"

Dick had laughed. And she had her way.

So when a certain train rolled across the country that November night, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gregory were on it. Their drawing room was packed with brides' roses.

"You're like a rose, yourself, my little Glory! All mine at last!" Dick murmured. His arms held her close. His eager lips pressed down hungrily upon hers that were so smooth and cool.

(To be continued To-morrow.)

NOTES ON BOOKS

The books concerning which a few words will be said this week are outstanding ones, and deal with a variety of topics. The first on the list is entitled Damaged Souls and is by Gamaliel Bradford, an American writer. Mr. Bradford was born at Boston in 1863. The most interesting sketches in this book are those that deal with Benedict Arnold, Aaron Burr and P. T. Barnum of circus and Jenny Lind fame. Mr. Bradford's silhouettes are remarkable for the kindliness with which he treats his subjects. His is the knife of the trained and sympathetic surgeon and not of the butcher. The other character sketches in this book deal with Thomas Paine, John Randolph of Roanoke, John Brown and General Benjamin F. Butler.

Another volume along the same lines which has been recently published by Mr. Bradford is entitled Bare Souls, and deals in the same kindly yet searching manner with the lives of Voltaire, Horace Walpole, Cowper, Lamb, Keats, Flaubert and Edward Fitzgerald. So many people are under the mistaken impression that fiction is the only reading that matters, that it will enlighten their minds to know that in these sketches they will find that truth is not only stranger than fiction, but fifty times more interesting.

Theodore Roosevelt's Letters to His Children is a book that must appeal to children and adults alike. They show his kindliness and his love of childhood and bring into fine relief the splendid character of the man who wrote them. These letters were written between the years 1898 and 1911 and deserve the notice of all fathers and mothers who have the love of home life implanted in their hearts. One critic has stated that for the good of American citizenship (and, it might be added, for the good of citizenship everywhere) this volume should be scattered broadcast in every household containing parents and children.

The following extract from one of his letters will serve to show how well he knew what would interest the young mind.

Dear Kermit,

It was great fun seeing you and Ted and I enjoyed it to the full. Ethel, Archie and Quentin have gone to Mount Vernon today with the Garfield boys. Yesterday poor Peter Rabbit died and his funeral was held in proper state. Archie, in his overalls, dragged the wagon with the little black coffin in which poor Peter Rabbit lay. Mother walked behind as chief mourner, she and Archie solemnly exchanging tributes to the work and good qualities of the departed. Then he was buried, with a fuchsia over the little grave.

Winter Studies and Summer Rambles in Canada, By Anna Jameson.

In the editor's introduction to this book the following words occur: "Most travel books die young. Here is one that not only has outlived its three score years and ten, but is still in its prime at eighty-five."

There is no better book extant to show us what Canada was like at the period of the rebellion in 1837, and for that reason if for no other, this volume should appeal to the minds of patriotic Canadians. But Mrs. Jameson was not a writer of one book. She was very well-known in her day, and although Canada cannot claim her as a native, we as Canadians can certainly lose no interest in the book or its author, for that reason.

Anna Jameson was the eldest daughter of an Irish miniature painter of considerable ability, D. Brownell Murphy. She was born at Dublin in 1794. She married a man, who was afterwards appointed Puisne judge in Dominica, and who after a few years of residence there obtained a legal appointment in Canada. Here his wife joined him, but after a stay of a few month returned to England and spent the rest of her life in literary work. Her best known books are those connected with religious topics. Legends of Madonna, Legends of the Monastic Orders and Legends of the Saints. We have a copy of the Legends of the Madonna in the Library.—F.M.D.

GIRL CAN KEEP RING.

Engagement Symbol is a Gift, Not a Trust.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—An engagement ring is a gift and not a trust, and if the fair recipient retains possession of it she is not guilty of embezzlement, it was ruled here by a Police Judge.

Louis H. Peterson asked the Court for a warrant for the arrest of his former fiancee, Miss Dorothy Howard, on a charge of embezzlement, asserting she had retained ownership of a diamond ring he had given her when Miss Howard promised to become his bride. He said they subsequently had abandoned their plans and that Miss Howard refused to return the ring.

GIRL'S BODY FOUND.

Drowned With Companion in Lachine Canal Last December.

MONTREAL, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—The body of the young girl recovered from the St. Lawrence River Thursday was identified as that of Dolores Moffat, aged 8, of Lachine, who was drowned with a companion on December 11 last, when they broke through the ice at Ville Lasalle. The identification was made by the parents of the little victim.

Dolores Moffat and Pauline Sickini, aged 10, lost their lives when they were returning home from school with Jean Sickini. They were running over the newly formed ice in the Lachine Canal when the surface broke and the three children plunged into the icy water.

The Sickini boy was saved by Deputy Chief Cherrier, of the Lachine police, at the risk of his own life, but efforts to rescue the two girls proved unsuccessful. The body of the Sickini girl was recovered shortly after the fatality.

TEETHING CONVULSIONS

Hot Bath is Sure Relief for Teething Children in Seizures.

During teeth cutting time children sometimes have convulsions and throw their mothers into fits of alarm.

The child is rigid for a moment, with fixed eyes, clenched hands and contracted face.

Then the muscles relax and the little patient falls into a heavy sleep.

Physicians say that the child should be placed in a hot bath as quickly as possible, a tablespoon of mustard being added to the water.

A cloth wrung out of cold water should be wrapped around the head and changed as it becomes warm.

After the child is immersed he should be lifted out, wrapped in a blanket and left to sleep.

If there is another convulsion, the bath should be repeated.

Sometimes relief may be obtained by placing the child into cold water and then rubbing vigorously.

There is no cause for immediate alarm if the mother will keep her presence of mind and follow these directions.

However, a doctor should be called to determine the possible cause and to look for a remedy for this cause.

PARRY SOUND THEFT.

Lumber Mill Office Robbed of $175.

PARRY SOUND, April 17 Canadian Press)—Thieves have been busy in town this week having entered two business places. From the premises of Mr. Harry Demick, garage owner, they secured nothing but some tobacco, but the next night when they entered the lumber mill of Mr. Mark Rogers they secured one hundred and seventy-five dollars in cash. As yet no clue has been discovered.

The newly appointed night policeman, P. C. Murphy, made a discovery this week which resulted in the arrest of T. Stevens charged with having liquor for sale in an illegal place, to which he pleaded guilty, as it was the first offence of this kind the lawyer for the defence urged a lenient sentence. Stevens was fined $400 and costs with an option of going to jail for six months.

GIVE SEEDS TO SCHOOL PUPILS

Horticultural Society Wishes to Encourage Planting and Care of Flowers.

HOLD FLOWER SHOW

With the idea of encouraging young people to plant and look after gardens the Peterborough Horticultural Society is distributing seeds to the pupils of the schools. These seeds are being sold at cost with a small membership pin which entitles the wearer to free admission to the Flower Show to be held on September 10 and 11. They will also be permitted to enter exhibits from the produce of these seeds without payment of an entry fee.

The pupils are given their choice of Asters, Calendulas (Marigolds), Snapdragons, Verbenas, Zinnias, Beets, Carrots, Parsnips and Turnips.

To encourage the students to enter their flowers and vegetables, the society is giving two awards of merit to be given to the schools whose pupils gain the greatest aggregate of points for prizes at the show.

It is the hope of the officers that at least 1000 children in the various schools will take home a package of seeds and plant them and they would like to see 500 of them make exhibits at the Flower Show.

ISHAM JONES WRITES FOX TROT SUCCESS

"I'll See You In My Dreams" the Hit of the Hour.

At the present time New York is raving about Isham Jones, the popular Chicago orchestra leader now playing at Rue de la Paix, New York City.

Any night you listen in on the radio you will hear his new fox trot, "I'll See You In My Dreams", flooding the ether.

Seldom has a song broken into such instanteous popularity as has been accorded "I'll See You In My Dreams". It posseses that lucky rhythm that makes it welcome everywhere.

Isham Jones wrote "Swingin' Down the Lane" but his new tune promises to eclipse his former success in point of popularity. The following are the word of the chorus:

"I'll see you in my dreams,
Hold you in my dreams,
Someone took you out of my arms
Still I feel the thrill of your charms
Lips that once were mine,
Tender eyes that shine
They will light my way to-night
I'll see you in my dreams.'

"It's easy to keep enamel glistening white this way"

—says Mrs. Experience who has long ago made her choice in soap

"My! Sunlight really is wonderful for cleaning these bathroom fixtures. It makes them spotless and shining in almost no time.

"The secret, of course, is the pure, cleansing lather of Sunlight. Sunlight simply dissolves dirt and grease so that they just rinse away.

"I wash the linoleum and paint-work with Sunlight, too, because it's less work the Sunlight way.

"After all, you can't beat a pure, honest soap for economical cleaning, so give me Sunlight — and nothing else — every time. I always use it for the dishes because Sunlight is so easy on the hands. It is made by the largest soap-makers in the world, Lever Brothers Limited."

Motor Notes

AKRON, O., April 16.—A cheaper, better and longer-lived tire may result from a new method of manufacture introduced here.

It concerns the vulcanization of rubber under water, instead of in live steam.

Frank A. Seiberling, veteran tire man, has adopted the method, after testing the process in his labaratories for a long time. The invention is under the name of L. A. Laursen of Eau Claire, Wis.

Curing of rubber under water, it is explained here, causes it to retain its natural oils in almost perfect condition. The result is said to be longer life for the product.

Tires and tubes already built by the Laursen method are said to afford increased mileage.

As a result of the experiments with this method, it is said here, motorists may soon see a new kind of tube on the market, and a new tire by the end of the year.

JOLIET, Ill., April 16.—Women are taking a night course in automobile mechanics at the Joliet high school here.

The course, in charge of Thomas L. Reilly, has been inaugurated for night as well as day instruction.

From 6 to 12 women are constantly enrolled.

The chief purpose of the instruction is to spread knowledge of the mechanism of the automobile, so that women can make emergency adjustments on the road that will enable them to get their cars to a repair shop.

A complete demonstration room has been fitted up to aid in the instruction.

HOME NURSING CLASSES CLOSE

Hundred and Ninety-two Members Present With Their Friends.

A DEMONSTRATION.

There was a capacity audience in the auditorium of the Public Library last evening, for the closing exercises of the combined Home Nursing Classes which have been held in the city during the past few months, under the auspices of the Red Cross Society. Ladies formed the audience, the only gentlemen present being Dr. F. W. Routley, of Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Red Cross Society, and Dr. J. C. Robertson, of Ottawa, chairman of the Central Red Cross Committee. Both gave brief addresses at the conclusion of a very interesting demonstration of the work which has been carried on in the classes since their inception. The one hundred and ninety-two members of the classes which have been conducted under supervision of Miss M. McNaughton of Toronto, at the Library, and Mrs. E. H. Wood, at the Y.W.C.A., were present with their friends. A great deal of interest has been taken in the course from the start to finish.

The demontration given proved exceptionally interesting. Miss Mary Kennedy, of the Quaker Oats class, acted as a patient, and various examples were carried through successfully of the work taught. The young ladies, in their crisp white uniforms and caps, acquitted themselves admirably, their work being a real credit to themselves and to the skill of their instructors.

The Misses May Caird and Josephine Hunt, of the Wednesday night class, gave the patient a bed bath, the Misses Stewart and Coon, of the Tuesday night class, made the bed, also took temperature, served tray, Mrs. McMillan and Mrs. Hetherington, of the Wednesday night class, gave a foot bath and steam inhalation, the Misses Grant and Murray, of the Friday night class, made flaxseed poultices and mustard plasters, the Misses Sylvia Holmes and Agnes McClenahan, of the Monday night class, bathed and dressed a very amiable baby, and the Misses Jean Bryce, Gwen Dobbin and Annie Heiderman gave a demonstration of head and ankle bandaging.

Dr. Routley's Address.

Dr. Routley congratulated the Peterboro Red Cross Society and all those who had interested themselves in the Home Nursing classes, for the splendid work which had been accomplished in so short a time. Peterboro, with fifteen Home Nursing classes to its credit, has made its full quota to the total in the Province, 208 classes.

Dr. Routley spoke of the present-day activities of the Red Cross in health work as being inspired mainly by discoveries of conditions of world health, made in war time. He referred also to the wonderful advances made in the realm of medical research. During the South African War, more soldiers died from typhoid fever, or enteric fever, as it was called, than fell in the combat. In January of 1918, during the great World War, the British Empire's great army of five million fighting men numbered among them only eighteen cases of the disease. Tuberculosis also, declared the doctor, had its back against the wall, and he predicted the day when this dread enemy of mankind would be eradicated entirely.

"Diseases of childhood are the worst things in the life of a child; they never leave that child as good as they find it—never," declared the speaker, saying that the aftermath of such sicknesses was often some malady, such as a weak heart, which wrought great damage in later years. "I prophesy that the time will come, perhaps, in your day and time, when it will be a disgrace for a child to be suffering from measles or whooping cough."

Red Cross Mission.

The mission of the Red Cross Society, said Dr. Routley, lay in disseminating information of this sort. A voluntary organization of this type could do wonderful work in bringing to people's attention the value of good health measures.

The speaker alluded to the excellent work being done in Northern Ontario, where isolated districts are served by Red Cross hospitals, and went on to stress particularly the importance of educating children in habits pertaining to health. "It is not so important that a child should know all about the size and shape of its stomach, as that it should have knowledge of what should enter that stomach." Health habits were simple; plain foods, regular habits of life, cleanliness of the body, sleeping in the right kind of room.

The idea of the Junior Red Cross societies was to inculcate this health consciousness in children.

Dr. Robertson.

Dr. Robertson gave a very brief but most interesting talk, referring to some of his own conclusions drawn from a wide experience. At one time as Canadian Commissioner of Agriculture, he did some pioneer work in those days in laying the foundation for the present system of health propaganda. He spoke with enthusiasm of the wonderful work being done in the Western outposts maintained by the Red Cross Society, and spoke of visiting Florence Nightingale shortly before her death, and hearing her declare that the mothers of England could do no better work for their country than to see that their babies, during the first two years of life, were fed properly and kept clean.

In the space of a quarter of a century, he said, England and Wales, with the dissemination of health knowledge, nursing and pre-natal visits, had cut their infant mortality rate of babies of one years of age, by 55,000. The law of the sea that said, "Women and children first," should prevail on land as well, and women and children should be given a chance to preserve their health, by playing the health game with its simple rules and obeying the health law.

"The greatest mistake in Canada is that we have unlearned the art of eating things that are wholesome and nutritious," said the doctor, who spoke of experiences gleaned in war time, when he acted as Director General of Food Supplies for Canada. He also described briefly his visit to Paris, as one of the first delegates to the League of Nations, and of the fifty-four nations of the world which belong to the League of Red Cross Societies.

Miss Ruby Hamilton, of Toronto, organizer of the local Home Nursing classes, was also present at last night's meeting.

Miss McNaughton, who has proven a very popular instructress, was presented last evening with a beautiful bouquet of roses and carnations, from the members of the Tuesday and Wednesday night classes, also a box of candy from the Wednesday afternoon class. At the last meeting of the Catholic Women's League class, the members presented her with a silver Wahl pen and pencil. Miss McNaughton acknowledged the gifts in appropriate terms. A hearty vote of thanks to the speakers and instructors was moved at the conclusion of last night's meeting, by Dr. J. Birnie, and seconded by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner. Mrs. R. Harstone, president of the local Red Cross Society, made the announcements.

ANTIQUES SEEN IN ART EXHIBIT

Women's Art Association Opens Exhibition To-day —Attractive Showing.

AT CONSERVATORY.

The loan exhibition of antique and rare furnishings which opened this afternoon at the Conservatory of Music under the auspices of the Women's Art Association, contains some interesting objects d'art. The homes of Peterboro yield many rare and out-of-the-ordinary pieces for a collection of this sort.

Contributions were emonig in this morning, among them a walnut chair of the Queen Anne period, a small Chippendale table with turned legs, and a big Dutch 'cello, reputed to be one hundred and fifty years old, and bearing a repair stamp of the year 1824. On a tall cupboard were a big white porcelain German stein from the Rhineland, with blue and brown figures on its fat sides, and a bulbous grape handle; a decanter, with silver top and frosted glass sides and the first oil lamp of Peterboro, with a yellowed marble base, a brass standard and a blue and white bowl. A cruet stand held pieces of the old glass of the period when such things flourished.

An odd little painted chair, with piecrust edging is flanked by a big copper warming pan and a small mahogany table with round top.

There are novelties in old French ivory, some of them exquisitely carved; a dresser set, delicate ivory brooches, a prayer book and a crucifix.

A visiting card case from India is done in minute mosaic pieces; there are big pewter coffee and tea pots, old silver plate from Sheffield, a pair of ancient candle snuffers, a piece of Pompeiian pottery reproduction, and some wood-knot carvings, a yard of red cross-stitching, sixty years old, a silver and brass Benares tray, minutely covered with intertwining figures and an Indian vase of hammered brass.

A paper knife carved from bamboo is a dainty bit of work, and there is lovely needle work in the French hand-made lace and embroidery pieces. An old sampler, seventy-five years old, rests on top of a Persian prayer rug, and there are some wonderful things in Burmese embroidery, done in wax painted over in gilt, with peacock designs and birds of paradise. One piece of tapestry shows a Burmese bride and bridegroom, thick brass sequins outlining a bird border. An address from an Indian Rajah at the first Delhi Durbar occupies a place of honor, printed in curious East Indian characters on white satin, with the flowered edging in solid gold.

A piece of dark brown filet is interesting; there are quaint little old daguerrotypes and an ancient German print, done in the stippled engraving fashion.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN MET

Reported Collecting $143 for the Nova Scotia Relief Fund.

ADOPT BUDGET.

The Local Council of Women held its regular monthly meeting in the green room of the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon, the president, Mrs. A. Stevenson, in the chair. There was a good attendance of ladies from the affiliated societies.

The roll call, which included expression of opinion from the various societies as to the budget of the National Council, resulted in an affirmative vote from all the members present answering the roll. As the budget of the National Council is heavy this year, and each local council is called upon for its share, it was decided to form a committee to consider ways and means of raising the amount allocated to the Peterborough Council. Those named on the committee were Mrs. A. Mowat, Mrs. A. Stevenson, Mrs. F. C. Weber, Mrs. F. Hooper, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Mrs. C. Hodgson and Mrs. McKee Bingham.

Discussion of the securing of a souvenir newspaper edition some time this year as a means of raising money was held. On motion of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, seconded by Mrs. R. Bugg, it was decided to consider this project, and also that the Local Council interest itself in the pageant being projected in connection with the centenary celebration in Peterboro in the year 1926.

Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, representing the Women's Morning Musical Club, also recommended the consideration of the Council to the concert planned for the 19th of May by the Peterboro Symphony Orchestra, and asked their support and patronage for this event. The suggestion was seconded by Mrs. Stevenson.

A report of the Nova Scotia Relief Fund was given by the president, showing the sum of $143 collected by the Local Council, for which fifteen barrels of flour, at a special cheap rate, were procured from the Quaker Oats Company, which has sent already nearly $350 worth of flour from its factory to the miners.

Mrs. A. Mowat recommended patronage of the coming attraction of Bernard Shaw's "St. Joan" to the members.

A motion passed, setting the hour of commencement of regular monthly meetings at three o'clock, half an hour earlier than heretofore.

A letter asking the support and co-operation of the Council in furthering the work of Forest Week, to be held from April 19th to 25th, was read by Mrs. A. Mowat, and a motion passed asking The Examiner to support this effort. Allusion was made to the fine growth of protected trees on the site of Armour's Hill Park.

Report of Visit to Toronto.

Mrs. A. Stevenson gave a brief review of some questions brought to the attention of the Provincial Government and the Premier at a special gathering in Toronto recently of ladies interested in resolutions furthered by the National Council. The various subjects submitted for Government consideration were promised careful attention.

The League of Nations Society is making a campaign for membership. Lists will be available at the city banks for those desirous of joining. The first paper on the League of Nations will be given at the next regular meeting by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner.

On account of the quinquennial convention of the World Council, recently held in Washington, the annual meeting of the National Council will be merely a formal one-day meeting, to be held in Toronto in May. The next annual meeting will be held in 1926 in Vancouver, B.C.

Nominations for the National Council were considered. Many of the offices have been filled unanimously, including the office of president, which Miss C. E. Carmichael, of Nova Scotia will again fill this year.

For corresponding secretary, Mrs. Chas. Thorburn, of Ottawa, was endorsed, Dr. Adam Shortt, of Toronto, for the convenorship of the Mental Hygiene committee, Mrs. Forbes Read of Vancouver, for National Recreation, Mrs. C. R. Edwards of Calgary for Public Health, Mrs. Ira McKay, of Montreal, for Immigration, Mrs. J. N. Wood, of St. John's, N.B., for Films, and the following for the offices of vice-presidents: Mrs. H. Carpenter of Hamilton, Dr. Stowe-Cullen, of Toronto, Mrs. Dennis of Halifax, Professor Carrie Derrick, of Montreal, Mrs. Kirby, of Calgary, Mrs. Smily of Ottawa, and Judge McGill, of Vancouver, B.C.

Mrs. W. R. Morris is nominated again, without oppostion, for the convenorship of the committee on Soldiers' Pensions and Dependents.

Earthquake At Formosa.

Damage Slight on Island—Minor Quake Rocked Tokio.

TOKIO, April 17 (Canadian Press).—Heavy earthquakes were reported at 4.52 this morning on Formosa Island, but the damage was slight. At the same time a minor earthquake was felt in Tokio.

SURPRISE PARTY.

Home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Renwick Scene of Pleasant Social.

Last evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Renwick, Aylmer Street, was the centre of a very pleasant gathering. A number of the ladies representing the Women's Missionary and the Ladies' Aid Societies of George Street Church, had planned a small party for Mrs. Renwick, which proved to be a very great surprise to the hostess.

This, combined with the suitable occasion for a house-warming, made the evening one of interest to each one present.

At a suitable moment, a poetical address was read to Mrs. Renwick by one of the ladies, and, at various stages of this address, she was presented with a series of gifts—a handbag, a Boston bag and an umbrella—all suggestive of little visiting jaunts which Mrs. Renwick has earned by merit of her many, many services rendered the societies for years past.

The hostess was completely surprised, and found expression tardy; but in her accustomed whole-heartedness, she plainly communicated to her friends her very great appreciation.

After the serving of dainty refreshments, the gathering dispersed.

Dainty Desserts for the Kiddies

Cup Custard
½ cup St. Charles Milk, ½ cup water, 1 egg beaten, 2 tablespoonfuls sugar, ½ saltspoon salt, nutmeg and vanilla.
Dilute St. Charles milk with the water and bring to scalding point. Add sugar and salt to beaten egg. Pour over them gradually scalded milk, flavor to taste, pour in custard cups. Place in deep pan and pour boiling water around until it nearly reaches top of cups. Bake in moderate oven about twenty minutes.

Spanish Cream
1¼ cupfuls St. Charles Milk, diluted with 1 ¼ cupfuls water, ½ teaspoonful salt, ½ cupful sugar, 3 eggs, 1½ tablespoonfuls granulated gelatine, 1 tablespoonful vanilla.
Let gelatine stand in the milk for five minutes, then scald the mixture. Combine egg-yolks, sugar and salt with the scalded milk, and cook until slightly thickened like a custard. Then stir mixture into egg whites beaten stiff; add vanilla. Turn into individual moulds which have been dipped in cold water and when set, unmould and serve with light cream, or preserved fruit

Prune Snow
½ cupful St. Charles Milk, ¾ cupful water, 1 pint well cooked, pitted prunes, ½ cupful granulated sugar, ½ teaspoonful butter, 2 egg whites, ¼ cupful powdered sugar.
Combine the prunes, milk, granulated sugar and butter in a shallow baking dish. Make a meringue of the two egg whites and powdered sugar, spread it over prunes, place in very slow oven; bake fifteen to twenty minutes, when milk will be absorbed by prunes and the meringue a delicate brown.

Simple, wholesome, nourishing, appetizing, these St. Charles recipes are but a few of the many you can easily prepare with this rich, pure country milk. It is economy as well as a convenience to "use it wherever the recipe calls milk". Your grocer has it—four handy sizes.

The Two-Piece Suit
Still Stands Firm

Regardless of the ensemble's popularity, the smart Two-Piece Suit is still high in Fashion's favor, and will be, too, while it continues to present itself in such stunning diversions. The long tailored coat with a matching wrap-around skirt in no ways detracts from the short Box Jacket Suit, boyishly cut, double-breasted, with eight buttons in naval uniform style, with a front-plaited skirt.

The Whims of A Dress Coat

For more dressy occasions is the Wrap-Around Coat with its fur border and, strangely enough, its furless cuffs and collar. The simple little collar of the coat material, usually a cashmere fabric or corded silk, is particularly youthful and new, and makes the Coat equally appropriate for informal morning engagements, and dressier evening occasions.

$35.00 to $59.00

DRYDOCK LIFTS LARGEST LINER OUT OF WATER

Majestic, Weighing 56,500 Tons, Lifted by Southampton Drydock.

LIFTS 60,000 TONS

Dock is Largest in World and Covers Over Three Acres.

LONDON, Eng., April 17 (By Canadian Press).—The lifting of what is probably the greatest weight ever raised by men's ingenuity, was announced in an inconspicuous cable a few days ago, when the liner Majestic, the largest ship in the world, weighing 56,500 tons, was put into dry dock at Southampton. The mighty vessel was raised right out of the water, her keel clearing the water level by five feet six inches.

The work was as simple as the docking of a trawler. A fleet of tiny tugs escorted the liner into the dock, sunk to a level to take her immense depth. Then a man in a valve house, pressing buttons, raised the ship high and dry. Her three funnels and masts towered high above the town of Southampton.

When the great hollows of the pontoon dock are filled with water it sinks and as the Majestic, unladen, draws 35¼ feet of water it was necessary to sink the dock to its maximum of 39½ feet so that the liner might float in. When she had been tugged into position longitudinally, mechanical steel arms or buffers slowly and simultaneously emerged from each side of the dock, under water, and pushed her into dead centre, between the two walls, exactly over the keel blocks and cradle waiting to receive her bulk on the submerged floor of the dock beneath her keel.

Up in a cabin built on one of the dock sides a man was anxiously watching for the flash of green, red and white lights just in front of him. Down below water on the keel blocks are a number of electrical contacts, and when the ship's keel was in exact position over the blocks it made a contact with these electrical devices and the lights flashed up in the cabin. She was thus shown to be directly over the submerged cradle.

The man in charge signalled orders to the fourteen big pumping stations on the dock sides to begin pumping the weight of water from the hollow spaces of the pontoon. Lightened of weight in this manner, the dock slowly rose under the Majestic until her keel rested securely in the cradle. To imagine what would have happened if the Majestic, robbed of the supporting water as the dock rises, were to fall over on its side, is to realize the importance of making certain that she is positioned securely in the cradle which is to hold her erect. But the operation of handling this mighty bulk of thousands of tons and manoeuvring it into position calculated to an inch was performed without a mishap, and within four hours 80,000 tons of water had been pumped from the pontoon and the keel of the Majestic, now five and a half feet above the water, had an army of workmen engaged on it.

This mammoth floating dry dock has a lifting power of 60,000 tons. Her over-all length is 960 feet, over-all height 70 feet 6 inches, and over-all width, 170 feet. When sunk to a depth of 38 feet the top deck of the side wall is still 6 feet 6 inches out of the water. The complete weight of the structure comes to 19,000 tons, and its total area is about 3¾ acres. It lifts 14,000 tons more than the next largest dry dock in the world.

MUCH RED TAPE AMONG SOVIETS

Many Examples of Bureaucracy Still Found in Russian Government.

TONS OF PAPER

(By William Henry Chamberlain, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MOSCOW (By mail to United Press).—Russia has always been a country of red tape and bureaucracy and this condition has not been changed by the extension of state management to most of the industry and a good deal of the trade of the Soviet Union.

While no exact statistics are available, it would probably be safe to guess that Russia holds the worlds record for paper used up in reports and questionnaires, and time spent in congresses, large and small.

An enterprising reporter for the "Pravda" has dug up three stories which deserve to take prizes as illustrations of this humorous, if sometimes exasperating, side of Russian life.

One of the Russian railroads decided to build a branch line in a western part of the Soviet Union, which is known as White Russia. A vigilant official or unofficial inspector discovered, or thought he discovered, evidences of mismanagement in the construction of the branch line. So there arose a case or as the Russians call it a "dyelo."

The dyelo grew with the rapidity and momentum of a snowball. The highest tribunal in White Russia passed it on to the Supreme Court in Moscow. The Supreme Court decided that the case didn't belong there and sent it back to White Russia. Finally it was agreed that the case was too trivial to demand the attention of the highest courts, so it went to Smolensk, the largest town in the neighborhood of the branch line. A game of battledore-and-shuttlecock ensued between Smolensk and a smalled district centre.

When the case finally came up for trial in the latter place, the documents which had accumulated weighed over two hundred pounds. How the case was finally decided is not recorded, and is really not very essential, in view of the fact that the expenses involved in bringing the case to trial outweighed not only the cost of the alleged mismanagement, but the cost of building the branch line itself.

The Penza Wool Trust distinguished itself by drawing up what may be the longest accounts in history. Its monthly accounts were made out on enormous sheets of paper five yards long and two yards wide; and its accounts for the year, when spread out, covered an area of eighty-four square metres. The offices of the Supreme Economic Council contained no tables large enough to hold these voluminous reckonings. So, in order to scrutinize the operations of the Wool Trust, it was necessary to spread the accounts on the floor and newcomers in the Supreme Economic Council are sometimes startled upon finding accountants sprawled out in full length on the floor checking up on the trusts balance sheets.

The Tula Trade Union organization also put itself in line for a red tape prize by sending ont to its members a questionnaire with 225 headings and about fifteen or twenty questions under each heading. This made a grand total of some four thousand questions through which the Tula trade-unionists are supposed to struggle.

CHURCH UNION IN SCOTLAND

Direct Breach of Treaty of Union Between England and Scotland.

NO RIGHT TO ALTER

A point was raised in the House of Commons recently by Mr. Neil MacLean, M.P., challenging the validity of the Scottish Church Bill, and pointing out that to pass such a Bill would be a direct breach of the Treaty of Union of 1707 as between Scotland and England.

The point thus raised by Mr. MacLean was simple and direct! He said, "If we are going to scrap this treaty which at present stands as between Scotland and England and we break the treaty in this respect, then it will be for the Scottish people to say that the Treaty of Union has been revoked. It will be left to them to set up their own Parliament once again."

Although challenged to give a ruling on this point by several members of Parliament, the Speaker failed to do so, and permitted the debate to proceed on the Bill. In taking this course, the Speaker of the British House of Commons has allowed discussion on a Bill which, if passed into an Act, will be a violation of the Treaty of Union of 1707.

The "Act of Security" which enacted that "The Commissioners for the treaty should not treat of or concerning any alteration of the Church of this kingdom as by law established," adds, "that this Act of Parliament with the establishment therein contained shall be held and observed in all time coming as a fundamental and essential condition of any Treaty of Union betwixt the two kingdoms without any alteration thereof, or derogation thereto, in any sort for ever."

The Act of 1707 ratifying the Treaty of Union refers to the foregoing Act of Security and confirms and adopts it, expressly declaring it to be "A fundamental and essential condition of the said treaty in all time coming."

The Lord Justice Clerk Hope, in reference to a law case in 1808, said that the Parliament of Great Britain should have no power to alter or repeal the provision of the Act of Security. An attempt to do so would amount to a dissolution of the Union. Resistance on the part of Scotland could hardly be termed rebellion."

The British House of Commons, with the consent of the Speaker, was publicly entered upon a course which is obviously leading to the tearing up of the Treaty of Union of 1707, by which the Scottish Parliament became incorporated with the English one.

It is important to note that the old Scottish Parliament was not dissolved, but simply adjourned without any date being fixed for its re-assembling. It is now, therefore, open to the Scottish people to request the King to summon a Scottish Parliament to take the place of the one adjourned in 1707. The Scottish M.P.'s must see to it that there is no delay in pressing home the claim.

It is clear that only a purely Scottish authority is entitled to deal with any Scottish Church Bill.

Some may say, "Surely the Imperial Parliament can pass Acts to annul or alter any Acts of its predecessors." It certainly has the power to pass any Act, in the sense that there is no higher legal authority to prevent it, but it has no right to alter the basis of the Union without obtaining the explicit consent of the people of Scotland. And that consent must not be taken for granted.

If the Church Bill is passed Scotland has a right to remind the King that by assenting to it he would break his Coronation Oath; and if the King does give his consent the Union is thereby deprived of its basis and Scotland is entitled to resume its status as a separate State.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestents

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gassourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestents, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or two tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in a little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

PENALTIES REDOUBLED UNDER NOVA SCOTIA TEMPERANCE ACT

Bill Introduced in Legislature Cancels Option of Fine on Second Offences.

LAW IS SIMPLIFIED

Stringent Action Against Druggists Who Exceed Quota for Prescriptions.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 17 — Redoubled penalties and simplified measures of prosecution will face the violators of the Nova Scotia Temperance Act if the bill introduced in the Legislative Assembly yesterday by Hon. W. J. O'Hearn, succeeds in passing through both Houses without amendment. All cil, made when its representatives cil, made w hen its representatives paid their annual visit to the government a few days ago, were met, with the exception of the requested abolition of liquor export warehouses. There was no mention in the bill of such organizations but the use of prescriptions was curtailed and the procedure in obtaining second convictions, calling for prison sentences of four to twelve months without option of a fine will be rendered so simple that under the provisions of the bill, if a man charged with violation of the law is recognized by the Magistrate as one who has already been sentenced by him for a similar breach, he may punish him for second offence without further recourse.

Escaped by Technicalities

Mr. O'Hearn, the Attorney-General, discussing the bill last evening, outside the House, pointed out that in the past technicalities of the law rendered it very difficult to procure charge of second offences. The workings of the act made it possible for many offenders to escape their proper punishment and many were convicted over and over again on first offences. With this provision, it rests upon the Magistrate's memory. In addition, however, if the Magistrate is doubtful or the man is suspected of being an old offender and is tried before a different magistrate, the old machinery by which second offence prosecutions were sought, may be invoked.

Check On Druggists

Regarding the issuance of prescriptions, any chemist, druggist, or vendor will be liable to a fine of $500 to $1,000 if he issues liquor on prescriptions from doctors whose prescription quota has been passed for that particular period, providing such vendor has been notified in writing by the inspector in chief. The same penalties are provided for violators of the law against selling or keeping for sale, for first offences, while the second offence in each case calls for imprisonment without option of a fine from four to twelve months. The previous first offence fine was $200 to $500.

Increased penalties are provided for people convicted for drinking in public places. Under provision ot the act, as amended by this new bill, a man convicted of drinking liquor in a restaurant or on the street or in any public place shall be liable to the extent of $100 on conviction. The previous minimum for this offence was $50. Incorporated companies guilty of violations of this act will be subject to fines of $300 minimum and $1000 maximum.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONARIES.

The Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir: In the issue of The Examiner for the 13th inst., it is stated, in connection with a report of a meeting addressed by Rev. Mr. McConnell in St. Paul's Church, that Mr. Dutton asked whether those missionaries of the Presbyterian Church in Canada who are non-concurring in the matter of Church Union are being discriminated against. The report states that:

"The reply was that they had not been, originally, though they were requested to declare themselves on Union. Many did so, and, latterly, those who decided to remain as Presbyterians had been treated discourteously."

May I state most emphatically that there is absolutely no difference made in the treatment of missionaries by the Foreign Mission Board or its secretaries, but that all are treated alike regardless of their attitude on the Church Union question? There is no foundation whatever for such a reply as Mr. McConnell is reported to have given to Mr. Dutton's question. Salaries are being paid in full to all missionaries whether they are concurring or non-concurring, notwithstanding the fact that many anti-unionists are withholding, upon advice, their givings from the Missionary Budget of the Presbyterian Church for the maintenance of those work all members of the Presbyterian Church are alike responsible up to June 10.

The missionaries who are non-concurring are not being "treated discourteously" is proven by the fact that some of them have expressed the desire to remain in the work to which they have given many years of their lives, and are willing to serve under the United Church. This is quite satisfactory to the Foreign Mission Board—"one of the best Boards," as one non-concurring missionary styles it. There will be no difference after June 10 in the treatment of such missionaries and those who enter the United Church.

Appreciating your giving publicity to this statement, I am,

Yours faithfully,
A. E. Armstrong,
Secy. Foreign Mission Board.

CARE OF THE LAWN MOWER.

Before the lawn mowing season opens, the machine should be given a thorough overhauling. Take everything apart and wash off all old grease and oil with gasoline, from the stationary as well as the working parts.

Then go over the working parts and replace with new, any that are badly worn. The dogs, pinions (cogwheels) and ball bearings are the most liable to need this attention. The brackets which hold the roller, become worn rather quickly also and will need replacing occasionally. If this is not done the cutting will be done irregularly due to the fact that the roller pins wear the brackets unevenly. The ridge along the front of the stationary knife will wear down and eventually disappear. Before it is entirely worn out replace it with a new one. When ordering a new knife be sure to include the necessary number of screws which are especially made for that purpose.

Finally set up the machine and oil it thoroughly. A little vaseline or cup grease may be used in the ball bearings while replacing them.

If your machine is of the right kind it can be ground down and sharpened at home. Use the hand sharpening crank supplied with the machine and apply a thin paste of emery powder and machine oil to the revolving blade and the stationary knife. The set screws on the cast iron back plate of the stationary knife should first be carefully set and the grinding should be persisted in until the blades are cutting their entire length quite evenly. When sharpened sufficiently they should cut a strip of paper quite easily.

During the season, the machine should be kept well oiled with a good grade of light machine oil. Also an occasional grinding and slight adjustment of the set screws will help to keep it in excellent shape. Keep it under cover and give it a light cleaning every now and then, especially after cutting wet grass and it will last very much longer.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: May I ask J.O.C. what stores in Peterboro are closed in the afternoon, and does he realize just how many hours per week store assistants have to work for the convenience of such as he? Does he know they have to earn every holiday they get by working the night previous? not to mention keeping open many nights before Christmas, and the New Year. Why even before the last Dollar Day an attempt was made to keep open the night previous; fortunately, however, it was found to be illegal. Does he refer to the half holiday during July and August? Then let him look around and he will find places hereabouts much smaller in size than Peterboro granting the half holiday during the whole of the summer months. Do Eaton's close half a day every week during the summer months? Are the banks open after 3 p.m., daily? And do the lawyers, dentists and similar gentry require the summer half holiday? Possibly they may be of a higher caste than the common or garden store assistant. Is not the whole thing selfish and absurd when you come to think of it?

As to the bogey of the mail order threat. That is just the cry of the one or two merchants in Peterboro who would keep open all the hours the Lord sends. Would it not be quite as easy for J.O.C. to send his mail order to Peterboro as elsewhere?

No! Business comes through fair prices, not by long hours, or having tired and poorly paid help.

SHOP ASSISTANT.

STRONG FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—It is difficult to see how the opponents of daylight saving can justify their standpoint. Their view apparently is that clock time is something that always was. I would like to ask them, what connection clock time (apart from customary usage) has with solar time. Their arguments range from stating that it is impious to alter the clock to a frank confession of liking to be in bed in the morning. As regards the first, the earliest instance of daylight saving is recorded in the Bible when it was instituted by Joshua for the wholly pious and laudable purpose of adding to the slaughter of his enemies, while as for the second, well, that is human nature. Seriously, though, as you so ably stated in one of your editorials, the opposition is largely on psychological ground and process from an inability to think clearly. Those people have what may be termed the Bourbon type of mind, they are incapable of forgetting an old thing or learning a new one. Supposing their hour for retiring is 10 p.m., and for arising 6 a.m. Unable apparently to accept the clock for its face value, when 10 o'clock comes they argue to themselves that it is only 9, and defer their bedtime by an hour. In the morning at 6 they say it is only 5 a.m., and, being short an hour's sleep by their needlessly late retiring, they arise, sleepy and tired, with an added grievance against the world in general, and daylight saving in particular. If they had ordered themselves by clock time things would have been as usual, and their early morning grouch would have had to vent itself on something else.

It is significant that in those countries and cities where daylight saving has been really accepted, it has proven a success, and where it has not been so accepted (i.e., mentally) it has been a failure. It seems that where the clock is accepted at its face value everybody is satisfied, but where people are clinging mentally to standard time or referring always to the clock as being an hour ahead, then daylight saving has no chance.

Some mothers have written fearing the effect to their children. Have they so little control over their offspring that they cannot say when they shall go to bed? How do mothers control their children's bedtime in Great Britain, where in summer the sun does not set until after 9 p.m., and when owing to the long twilight it does not get really dark in June for more than about three or four hours? Or how do they do in Alaska, where the day may be up to three months long? Do the children stay awake for weeks at a time? The argument is absurd. Babies have their afternoon sleep. Why cannot older children be made to go to bed at sunset instead of an hour or so later. After all, the sun sets at about 8 p.m. here in summer, and if the children went to bed at 9 (daylight saving time) they would lose nothing of the actual day.

One of your correspondents instanced boarding-house keepers. If they did start earlier, they would finish earlier, so what is the difference? As regards teamsters and the like. How do they do in towns situate on the borders of the existing time zones? For instance, Fort William and Port Arthur, two towns practically adjoining, with an hour's difference in time all the year round. When I was there some years ago I did not notice any distress. People were not agitating for the readjustment of the time. They simply accepted it as a thing existing and let it go at that.

Peterboro is an industrial city; most of its inhabitants are confined within doors in their work; it seems a pity that their leisure hours should be mostly hours of darkness. Considering also the tremendous value of sunlight to the physical well-being, not only of ourselves, but to that of the children; its curative value in such diseases as tuberculosis, ricketts, etc. Why in the name of common-sense cannot the clock be so adjusted that the sleeping hours be dark and the active hours be in the light?

It is to be hoped that those in favor of daylight saving will not rest confident in their belief in the rightness of their cause, but will clearly and unmistakeably make known their views by filling in the ballots. Get out and vote!

Yours truly,
R. FARTHING.
416½ George Street, Peterboro.

LEAVING BONAR LAW

John Morrison is Moving to Vicinity of Stirling—Heavy Snowstorm.

BONAR LAW, April 16.—John Morrison has sold his farm on the 14th concession and has bought a beautiful home near Sterling, known as the Hawkins Farm. Mr. and Mrs. Morrison will be greatly missed here as they were both jolly good fellows, and their friends wish them the best of luck in their new home.

Owing to the warm weather a good number of farmers are having their horses clipped.

Mr. Harvey Green, who has been seriously ill for the last week, passed away on Friday morning. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, interment at Zion cemetery.

Simon Mathews left on Friday for Hamilton to spend the Easter holiday with friends there.

M. Gifford of Holloway spent Sunday with Jos. Willman.

A real old fashioned snow storm visited Bonar Law on Sunday. Everything was completely covered but Monday morning brought a change as the sun soon melted it away.

William G. Stiles of the Union Bank at Sterling spent the Easter holidays under the parental roof.

A pleasant evening was spent at Mr. Wm. McKeowns las t Friday, when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered to spend a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. Holmes before their departure for their new home. The great number of useful gifts they received showed them the high esteem in which they are held. After the opening of the presents lunch was served. Everbody reported a first class time.

Money
AT WORK

Turnover measures the efficient use of capital invested in stock.

Suppose you owned a piano store and your stock consisted of one piano for which you paid $500. The number of times you used that $500 to buy a new piano to replace one sold is your stock turnover. If you had two such pianos and sold the same number of pianos your turnover would be just half as much.

Money is worth at least 6 per cent in the way of interest so what you lose in interest by having your money tied up in pianos or what you pay as interest in borrowing is a cost of doing business. If you can increase your turnover by having only five hundred dollars instead of a thousand in stock you increase your income because you can invest the other $500 in some outside security.

Stores watch turnover very carefully, for increased turnover reduces expenses and increases profits and at the same time gives customers fresher merchandise.

GENEVA, April 17. — The demand of ocean travellers for news has become so insatiable that the safety of vessels is imperilled, according to the radio telegraphic committee of transit and communications commission of the League of Nations.

What You Get For The Last $10

YES, there are lower-priced bicycles than the C. C. M., but the C. C. M. is by far the cheapest in the long run.

That last $10 you pay for a C. C. M. is the most important part of your purchase. It assures you—extra years of easy riding, extra reserve strength, extra durable finish,

fewer repairs,
a higher selling value for your "used" C. C. M.

For that last $10, you get, among other things—
the smooth-running Triplex Hanger, a frame of English Seamless Tubing, reinforced at the joints, extra coats of rich, lustrous enamel, rustproof nickelling over copper,
the classy Gibson Pedal with rustproof aluminum frame,
the new improved Hercules Brake, a bicycle with everyone of its 1761 parts made with watch-like accuracy, a bicycle "trued up" at the factory.

And, remember, five years from now your "used" C. C. M. will easily bring $10 more than a five-year-old inferior machine—if the inferior machine has not already reached the scrap heap. You simply cannot lose by buying a C. C. M.

Prices Are Again Reduced

They're now $20 to $25 less than the "peak" prices. This year C. C. M. bicycles are the biggest values since pre-war days.

SHARK HUNTER SURVIVES MANY BATTLES WITH THE MAN-EATERS

Captain Thompson, of Miami, Has Killed More Than 10,000.

AFRAID OF THEM.

Captain Charles Thompson of Miami, famous fishing guide, has killed more than 10,000 sharks, and yet insists that he is deathly afraid of them. The Captain, perchance, owes his life to this fear—a fear which seems to have endowed him with uncanny intuition of approaching danger. His left shoulder is scared with scars left by a man-cater's trap-like jaws.

"I couldn't figure it out then and I can't now," explained Thompson. "But I jerked my head clear to the right just the fraction of a second before I felt the terrific jolt and my shoulder afire with pain."

It happened in February, 1908. The Captain was out in the Gulf Stream between Miami and Bimini with some wealthy "clients" who sought thrills in a hunt for tigers of the sea.

launch, and I was about to demonstrate how to harpoon a shark," he said. "I had sighted one of the fellows, and we slowly approached him. He was in just the right spot—down and before me—when I hurled the harpoon with all my might. Some one had carelessly left oil drippings upon the bow's deck. As I threw my foot shot out from under me and I tumbled overboard. Of course I missed the shark. Plunging downward, my first thought was to avoid the launch's propellor. I took a few quick strokes, and in so doing missed the chance of grabbing the harpoon rope.

Shark Didn't Turn Over.

"The man at the wheel turned the boat immediately and put back after me. I was swimming breast stroke toward the approaching launch—both arms completely back at the finish of a stroke—when the shark struck me. If my arm had been forward or out to the side he would have clipped it off. I can't figure why I jerked my head aside, because I didn't see him coming. He didn't turn on his back to grab me, either. I remember his mud-colored belly slipping over me.

"Every one in the boat thought he had me until I bobbed up again. Speeded by terror, I was beside the boat immediately, and friends yanked me aboard before the monster flashed back for me. In spite of the pain and fright I had presence of mian to seize another harpoon and plunge it into him as his black dorsal fin cut through the water alongside. I was almost fainting when I reached the hospital in Miami. It was some months before the wound healed completely."

In the guide's attractive new home in South Miami mounted trophies of reel and line are hung on the walls of library and dining room. Photographs of large and unusual fish flirt with the eye of the sportsman. Albums with pictures of celebrities, caught in odd poses, await the curious upon the library table.

The Captain has achieved financial success in his singular profession. He owns valuable properties in Florida and in Georgia. As his wife phrased it, "Charlie's made a lot of money doing just what he liked." Mrs. Thompson is an alert little woman, the mother of two daughters, Gertrude, 16 years old, and Mildred, 9.

When 16 years old the Captain had an experience which gave him a horror of sharks and caused him to make a study of them. He and his two brothers had been fishing in a large sail boat several miles off Soldier Key, where his father was keeper of a lighthouse. They had been very successful, having caught more than fifty large barracuda and amberjack. A sudden squall capsized the boat and the boys found themselves swimming in water with dead fish floating all about them.

Water Alive With Sharks.

"It seemed that the glassy-black waters suddenly were alive with sharks," said the Captain. "We struggled about the capsized boat like rats, expecting every minute to be grabbed and dragged under. Black, triangular fins sprayed through the water. Every now and then came a swishing splas as a shark's jaws cruniched a fish and swirled it downward. It seemed like an age before I managed to crawl up the slippery, barnacled bottom of the boat.

"I succeeded in clamping my hands over the keel and hung on while my brothers climbed up over me. We clung to the keel for more than seven hours. Our family put out in search and, aided by moonlight, finally located me. During those long hours the thought of drowning never entered my mind. But a thousand visions of myself being seized by saw-toothed jaws tormented me. I considered sharks from all angles and wondered where they came from and how they knew there was something in the water for them. I decided that if I were saved I would learn all about them, and I did."

The Captain maintains that man-eating sharks are the most dangerous of all creatures on land or in the sea. He does not believe that a man can kill a man-eater in the water with a knife.

"Of course almost any one can dive into the water with a knife and kill a nurse shark," he admitted. "A nurse shark is a slow moving shark without teeth, that swims sluggishly, close to the bottom. For the entertainment of tourists in various parts of the world, supposedly brave swimmers dive into the sea and stage a daring encounter with these harmless creatures, drawing from the gullible spectators gasps of astonishment and silver dollars.

"But let one of these performers get into the water with a real man-eater of the Gulf Stream. If the shark were not hungry, he would probably dart away, but otherwise he would chop the fellow in two like a flash."

The Captain named three reasons for the shark's being such a fearsome creature. He said it had incredible speed, developed through necessity in gaining a livelihood off barracuda, tarpon, amberjack and the like—fastest of marine inhabitants. Secondly, he emphasized the tremendous chopping power of the shark's jaws.

"Any one who has ever tried to chop with an axe the bumpy back of a giant sea turtle realizes what resistance the shell, often inches thick, can offer," he said. "Yet these same turtles are favorite morsels of the shark. Time and again when landing a huge sea turtle I have seen a shark dart at him and bite out a goodly chunk, much as a person might bite into a piece of cheese.

"Sportsmen who have caught big fish in the Stream know that sharks get possibly one in twenty of hooked amberjack before they can be landed. It seems that the minute a hooked fish starts to bleed a shark gets on its trail. When the fish is almost up to the boat there comes a great splash and the line sings out or breaks. If the line remains, only a portion of the fish is pulled in, and that portion is chopped off as clean as if sliced by a huge razor. It's appalling what those crunching jaws can do. I have seen sharks gobble up floating wooden tubs, boxes, pieces of driftwood, in fact almost anything that happens along. It is not a matter of selection that causes them to attack humans—merely a desire for any kind of food."

The Captain explained that the third reason for fearing sharks was their ability to sense blood in the water from a great distance. Most followers of the sea attribute this ability to the shark's power of smell, but the Captains says he has proved this to be wrong. He maintains that blood sets up an oscillation or vibration that can travel against the current of water. As a test, some years ago he took two launches to a channel where there was considerable current. Men in one boat threw out pieces of beef. When the sharks came they identified the markings on them. Then the captain, in a launch some distance down the current, chopped heads off four chickens and threw the bleeding fowl into the water. Immediately sharks at the upper launch started for the fowls. Men in the upper launch followed and identified the sharks.

In spite of the numbers of sharks in the Gulf Stream, the Captain pointed out that a person bathing on a Florida beach was in no danger of molestation from them. On the other hand, persons bathing in Summer on beaches of the North might be attacked. His reason for this was that food was so plentiful in the Stream that sharks never came into shallow water, while in the North food was scarce and sharks did attack bathers.

"I have never heard of any one being attacked on Florida beaches by a shark, but I know of many cases where bathers were bitten by barracuda and were thought to have been attacked by sharks. Barracuda often attack bathers. Their backward pointing teeth tear the flesh from the bone, but do not chop. They cripple, but do not kill like the sharks. They attack for love of battle rather than for food."

The Captain's Largest Fish.

While Captain Thompson was harpooning sea devils in February, 1925, with Commodore W. K. Vanderbilt and his daughters, a tragedy was narrowly averted. They were fishing in a 3 -foot launch east of Fort Jefferson, Fla. Two of the enormous wide-winged, horned creatures were jabbed, but escaped with harpoon lines and float barrels. The third, when harpooned, attacked the boat by rearing under it and almost upset it. The launch rolled over so far that it shipped mtch water. The enraged monster charged the boat three times before it could be riddled with bullets.

Captain Thompson in 1912 captured what is said to be the largest fish ever caught. The fish, which still puzzles scientists, weighed more than 40,000 pounds, was 45 feet long, and towed the boat more than thirty-nine hours before an almost constant stream of bullets finally quieted its struggles.

A tugboat helped tow the gigantic fish to Miami, where its captor was met with a band. Residents of Miami inspected the strange catch, a fish the size of a young whale and with the general outlines of a minnow; but a few days later, as it still lay on the shore, the Board of Health got after Captain Thompson.

In the meantime the capture of the fish had arosed a storm of controversy. The news ,cabled North, was generally disbelieved, and steps were taken to preserve the trophy and exhibit it for the benefit of the scoffers. There was not enough preservative in Miami to take care of such a gigantic catch. A carload of preservative material was sent down from the North and the huge fish was skinned and stuffed. It is now mounted on a houseboat that cruises up and down the Florida Coast.

A feat that gained the admiration of fishermen the world over and almost cost him his life was the harpooning of a "killer whale." A killer whale is a sort of shark with a head like steel. It kills whales by butting them from beneath. The killer always works with a thresher shark, which beats the whale over the head with its tail. After death the killer bites the tongue out of the whale and leaves the carcass for the thresher and other sharks.

The Captain had been warned of the danger in trying to capture a killer whale, so he was very careful. He picked out a small killer whale cow. But the moment the harpoon plunged into the cow a killer bull bear by came to the rescue. He struck the launch a terrific blow. His head crashed through the hull, reducing it to splinters and spilling the fishermen into the sea. Men in another boat filled the bull with bullets before he could wreak vengeance. The sportsmen struggling in the water were picked up unharmed.

The Captain's fear and hatred of sharks causes him to kill them whenever possible. Even when anchored on a yacht or houseboat he is never content until the shark line is out.

Some of His Clients.

"I can't imagine any other profession in which I might have become so intimately acquainted with so many well-known and interesting persons," he commented upon his calling.

His long list of "clients" includes the late President Harding, with whom the captain angled on many occasions. Grover Cleveland was his warm friend, and the guide tells an interesting story of how the country nearly lost its President when Mr. Cleveland hooked his first amberjack. Waldorf Astor presented the Captain with a watch in appreciation of his services. Others who have fished with the Captain are the late John Jacob Astor, Theodore Roosevelt, John Oliver La Gorce, Andrew Carnegie, Commodore Colt, Senator Johnson, Newton Camden of West Virginia, Carl G. Fisher, who erected a statue at Miami Beach in Thompson's honor; Jack Dempsey and Reginald Werrenrath.

Two Wisconsin Senators Make Wine

MADISON, Wis., April 17—Two Wisconsin State Senators make wine in their homes, and they defy the authorities to stop them. The two Senators are Bernard Gettleman of Milwaukee and James A. Barker of Antigo, who appeared before the State Senate Committee on State Affairs to support an amendment to the State law to legalize home brew and light wines for home use.

"We make wine in our own home and don't care who knows it," was Mr. Gettleman's declaration. "Some people may say this is in defiance of the law, but we don't care about that. Here is my home address. Come and take us."

Members of the committee had barely time to recover their senses when Senator Barker jumped to his feet.

"Mrs. Barker makes wine, and I want to tell you it has a kick in it," he declared.

The various anti-dry and prohibition advocates seated in the Capitol hearing room were astounded by the challenge.

Senator Gettleman declared that 90 per cent. of the people of Wisconsin are violating the State law as it stands. He insisted that the Volstead law permits the making of wines and beer as well as cider for home consumption, and cited the case of Representative Hill to prove his point.

"Before prohibition we never had wine in our house," Senator Barker declared. "Now we have three kinds, and all of it has a kick in it."

Mrs. Anna Warner, State President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, read a passage of Scripture ot show that Jesus was a prohibitionist.

Immediately Senator Herman Billgren, Iron Ridge, asked her: "Do you believe in the Bible?"

"I do," replied Mrs. Warner, whereupon Mr. Billgren produced a copy of the New Testament and requested that she read underscored passages dealing with the miracle wherein Christ turned water into wine, and Paul advised Timothy to drink a little wine "for his stomach's sake."

"There are several interpretations of just what was meant by wine," replied Mrs. Warner.

"Yes, if you want to misconstrue the Bible," replied Senator Billgren.

Another prohibition advocate suggested that Paul meant Timothy to apply the wine externally.

ONE-WHEEL SULKY MAY SET RECORDS

New Vehicle, if Adopted, Not Unlikely to Cause Many Trotting New Marks.

Light harness horsemen are of the opinion that the new one-wheel sulky, if generally adopted, is not unlikely to result in the wholesale reduction of trotting and pacing records. A similar result followed the introduction of the bicycle sulky in 1892. At that time there was a drop of four or five seconds and the rate of speed has been getting faster every season since. The latest innovation also seems destined to make light harness racing safer, since it will do away with locked wheels and the possibility of a horse putting his foot through the wheel of a competitor.

The one-wheel sulky is the invention of H. W. Hannan, owner of Etta Druien and Hope Frisco. One morning last June, while Murphy was training his two mares at Syracuse, Mr. Hannan exhibited a rough sketch of this new style of racing vehicle. Later on he made a trip to Marion, Ohio, and placed an order for a sulky to be made from his drawings.

In the new sulky the single wheel is placed ten inches further back than the two wheels now in use. The driver's seat is over the wheel. Instead of having his feet in the stirrups alongside of the shafts, the driver sits erect like a man n a saddle. The gith and the wheel alance the sulky. It is also impossible or a horse to put his foot in the wheel, while locked wheels will be a thing of the past if this striking innovation stands the acid test of utility.

In the evolution of the racing sulky the one-wheel vehicle promises to be the most interesting development. In 1844, Lady Suffolk trotted the first mile to harness below 2:30. She was hitched to a high-wheel sulky with a straight iron axle. The seat of the driver was higher than her head and it was mounted on springs. As it was not possible to get a close hitch with a straight axle and an ordinary height of wheel, the first sulky builders increased the height of the wheel and removed the springs from under the driver's seat. This change was an improvement, as it also placed the driver where he had better control of his horse.

Arched Axle in Use.

When harness racing took root in the vicinity of Boaton, a carriage builder in that city make a sulky with a steel arched axle. This was the first move toward getting a close hitch in a practical manner. Later on, Charles Caffrey brought our a sulky with a wooden arched axle. This reduced the weight. The limit was reached in high-wheel sulky construction when Oliver Toomey of Canal Dover, Ohio, secured a patent for a truss axle sulky. It permitted a close hitch and it was also light and rigid.

To these different kinds of sulkies the trotters reduced the record from 2:28 in 1844 to 2:08¼ in 1891. The first mark was made by Lady Suffolk over the Beacon Course at Hoboken, N.J., and the last by Sunol over the kite track at Stockton, Cal.

The champions that intervened were Highland Maid, Flora Temple, Dexter, Goldsmith Maid, Barus, St. Julien, Jay Eye See and Maud S. During that period the pacers also made a place for themselves in the racing world. Pocahontas was the first star. She pulled a wagon in 2:17½ in 1854. The next champions were Sweetzer, Sleepy George, Rowdy Boy, Sleepy Tom, Little Brown Jug, Johnston and Direct. In 1891 the last-named paced the kite track at independence, Iowa, in 2:06. He cut a quarter of a second from the mark that Johnston made in 1884.

In the spring of 1892, Sterling Elliott attached a pair of bicycle wheels to the frame of a sulky. It was a crude affair. After trying the new vehicle in two or three races it was crated and shipped to Budd Doble at Detroit. Elliott also wrote Doble requesting him to hitch Nancy Hanks to it and see how fast she could trot. At that time Nancy Hanks had a record of 2:09. When made, it was within a quarter of a second of the world's record of 2:08¼, then held by Maud S. Later in the season Sunol cut it to 2:08¼.

Doble was at the time preparing Nancy Hanks for a trip against the record. He had little faith in the cumbersome sulky sent by Sterling Elliott and would not use it. Bd Geers borrowed it. The spectators laughed when they saw him in the low vehicle. Many of the trainers considered it a joke, but Geers won with Honest George. When he won again the following week at Cleveland from a fast field, there was a rush for bicycle wheels and appliances to attach them to the sulky frames.

High wheels disappeared in a few weeks. Doble fell into line like the others and secured a bicycle sulky for Nancy Hanks. On Aug. 15, at Chicago, she trotted in 2:07½, a new world's record. That night Doble wired Robert Bonner and made a claim for the $5,000 which he offered to anyone who could reduce the 2:08¼ of Maud S. The trip that Sunol made in 2:08¼ did not count, as Robert Bonner owned her.

The following day Doble received a reply from Robert Bonner. He advised Budd that when Nancy Hanks trotted a mile faster than 2:08¼ under the same conditions as Maud S. and which prevailed when the offer was made he would send him the money. Doble never made another trial to high wheels with Nancy Hanks. Later on she trotted in 2:05¼ at Independence and in 2:04 at Terre Haute. Also the day after Nancy Hanks made her record, W. J. Andrews won a heat in 2:04 over the same track with Mascot. This was a new world's record for pacers.

Changes Made in Sulky.

In the past thirty years many changes have been made in the bicycle sulky. A firm in Illinois monopolized the field for a time with a tubular sulky. It was followed by sulkies of wooden construction. The limit was reached when Faber sent out a 28-pound sulky for Joe Patchen and a few other high-class performers.

The manufacturers experimented for some time with wheels and axles of different heights. These permitted such a close hitch that if a horse reared he was apt to go over backward. The sulky to which Alta McDonald raced Major Delmar and the one to which Star Pointer made his record were extreme examples of this type.

Finally the manufacturers and drivers decided that the low-wheel sulky, with shafts long enough to give a horse plenty of room, was the most desirable. With it goes the liability of accidents from a horse putting his foot in the wheel of a competitor. In the big-wheel sulky days, when anything of that kind occurred, there was a shower of spokes, but falls were rare. With the small wheel, when there is a mix-up, one or more horses go down, like Dr. White and Emma Harvester did at Lexington. Also as the wheels are now placed, it is an easy matter to block a rival by locking wheels. This is the helper's best move.

Experiments have also been made with disk wheels, but none has been placed on the market. Increased weight is one of the objections urged against them, while others state that they are unable to find material that is satisfactory on account of the vibration.

CREATION OF NEW INDUSTRY

H. M. Bishop, of Dustless Sweeper Company Tells of Inventors' Trials.

MANY KNOCKERS.

"The creation of a new industry" was the subject discussed by H. M. Bishop, of the Dominion Dustless Sweepers, at the Kiwanis luncheon to-day. Mr. Bishop spoke of the difficulties encountered by the man who tries to start anything new. He spoke of the knockers who were ready with their hammers to discourage Bell, and Edison and Ford, and many others who had new ideas. He said that they couldn't help knocking, and were always waiting for an opportunity to interfere with and run down someone's new idea. Recalling the introduction of motor cars and trucks, he spoke of the scentics who said they might be all right for Calffornia but not for Canada.

A new industry, said Mr. Bishop, starts with a thought in some inventive mind. But the thought alone is not enough. It must be backed up with faith, encouragement and capital. Very rarely is something worth while invented by someone who has a sufficiency of this world's goods. The millionaire has no incentive to discover anything. It is the man who wishes to make life easier for himself and others that makes the great invention.

How often, said the speaker, does anyone think of Edison when he presses the button and floods a room with light; or of the inventor of the "horseless carriage" as he steps in his motor car and is whisked away to wherever he wishes to go?

The man who tries to start a new industry is subject to an unfair criticism. He is looked upon as a promoter. Formerly, said Mr. Bishop, a promoter was looked up to, but there were too many promoters and some of them were out for nothing but their owrn advantage and they caused their honest colleagues to be looked down upon.

In conclusion, Mr. Bishop said that he and his associates had labored for seven years, and were now opening up a wide market for dustless sweepers and air filters, and he invited the members of the club to come down and view the huge air filter which is almost ready to be installed in the Quaker Oats Company's Peterboro mill.

A new member, Arthur Blade, of the Imperial Oil Company, was introduced, and Bob Mackey was given a hearty welcome back to Peterboro.

FINANCIAL "BILLY SUNDAY" GETS MILLIONS FOR CHURCHES

Collects Money in 36 States and Canada—Made $15,000,000.

FOR RELIGION

LEWISTOWN, Ill., April 17.—If you want to make millions and don't know how to, then take a tip from the Rev. Dr. George L. Snively of this little place on how the trick's turned.

Snively was born within a few miles of here in a little town called Cuba. The countryside was his horizon during youth, and the field of frenzied finance was a far-removed picture.

Yet, during the past 16 years, Snively, the farmer boy grown up from admitted poverty, has gone out and wrested from the world a cheerful matter of some $15,000,000. In the past five years he has collected $9,037,272.21.

H edidn't get it for himself, but for churches about the country in need of finances to save them from the sheriff's hammer and other fates.

HERE IS A TESTIMONIAL OF REV. SNIVELY'S ABILITY—IT IS HIS BALANCE SHEET, WHICH RECORDS THE MONEY COLLECTED FOR CHURCHES IN 36 STATES AND CANADA.

Financial "Billy Sunday."

Snively to American religion is a financial Billy Sunday on wheels. He dislikes to be called a professional money-raiser, but of what it takes to get the dough he has in plenty.

He has mixed up in his personality the intangible magic of making money.

He goes into a town and within a week or less, sinners, the good, the bad and the indifferent have fallen under the sway of his talents and chipped in anywhere from $100,000 to nearly $500,000.

And Snively makes them like the act of giving.

Yet for all the millions that he has raised he has made only a comfortable living. He will not accept a percentage on the funds he gathers. And he has turned down corporation jobs with six-figured fortunes as yearly compensation.

Years ago he was ordained to the ministry of the Christian Church and held several successful pulpits. His mother had dedicated him to God, he says, when, during infancy a seeming miracle snatched him from death through illness.

He is 59 now and on the road forma one week's end to the other hopping across the country and back to raise a fortune for some church in need, or wishing to pay off a debt to prepare for dedication.

Snively never yet has failed to raise any amount of money needed by any church. And so wide is his fame that his schedule is filled up for almost a year in advance.

"How to make money or get it is rather a hard thing to explain," he says.

"There's no magic attached to it. Yet there is something of thought transference. It's not occult. And the only way I can explain it is to say that you just have to crawl into the other fellow's mind and heart.

"When you can do that you will know what I mean. I can't put it clearly because it's something you feel and can't express."

In Snively's travels he has run into scores of the wealthy and many millionaires.

Opens Their Hearts.

Hard-shelled individuals with a reputation for stinginess have opened up their hearts and purses when Snively came around in the interest of some local church.

Unbelievers, too, have grasped his hand and left substantial checks behind.

"Most folks give to religion because they really want to," he says. "But there are many wealthy men who give because they feel that the church is all that stands between them and lawlessness—and it is a moral protection of their property."

And Snively has the givers spotted. They're the round-faced, full-browed persons.

"But look out for the man with a receding forehead and protruding teeth," says Snively.

"It's just naturally hard for that man to give. Something is against his will to do it."

Likewise, Snively observes that most millionaires are kind and decent and that the Bible must be in error when it says that it's as hard for a rich man to enter heaven as for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle.

When not our raising millions Snively stays on his farm. He loves the rural life and could be wealthy if he would.

But just to exercise the gift of money-making magic for God and humanity—that gives him his chief delight. Yet this paradoxical statement:

"If I worked for money I should lose my power," he said. "Money would ruin me."

WHOLE TOWN MOVES.

Litigation Result Takes the Right to Surface Away From People.

CASPER, Wyo., April 17 (Canadian Press).—This is moving day for the entire town of Lavoye, an oil boom settlement near here of 1,800 inhabitants. The right to possession of the surface of the land on which the town is situated, after four years' litigation before the courts, was awarded yesterday to the Ohio Oil Company. Lavoye townspeople voted to obey the court's order to vacate.

STREET CAR STOPS AN AUTO JOY RIDE

Two City Youths Drove Hired Car on Tracks Yesterday.

A small sedan crashed headlong into street car Number 33 at the corner of George and Hunter Streets yesterday afternoon during the five o'clock rush. The automobile had just been rented from Fontaine's Livery by two young lads, who had planned to relieve the tedium by a spin. They had just motored up east on Hunter Street to George, and were turning south on George Street. In the turn they swung out to the car tracks, and Number 33 came up at the crucial moment, and there was a grand crash. Glass spattered the asphalt. The left front wheel and fender of the sedan were completed smashed. The street car bore a few signs of the blow, its matched lumber being broken, but it was able to continue in service.

Neither of the boys was hurt, but both were badly shaken and unnerved.

OCEAN RATES.

Committee Gets Down to Business With Masses of Information.

OTTAWA, April 17 (Canadian Press).—With the production of masses of information on ocean conferences the special committee of the House investigating ocean rates got down to business today. Sir William Petersen of London, with whom the Government made an agreement looking to the control of ocean rates, was an interested spectator. Sitting near him was W. T. R. Preston, who made the sensational report on the North Atlantic "combine." Both are to give evidence later.

Calf Has Two Heads and Can Use Either Mouth

BROCKVILLE, April 17. — The latest in freak calves to appear in this section is one born yesterday on the farm of Ransom Ferguson, South Augusta, which has two heads and four eyes and can drink by either mouth. The animal, of normal size, is still living.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

HE WOULD SIT AT HOME

The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—I was reading last evening a letter from a "Farmer's Girl," also one from A. C. Carveth and feel just about daylight saving the same as they do. Only I would say a farmer would be very foolish to spend the best part of a day going to town to buy when he can sit at home and order his wants from Eaton's and only have to walk to his gate for them. This five o'clock closing would mean four o'clock early time. Yours.

FRED W. GIRVHN.

PREFERS DARKNESS.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Factory hands, especially young men, are out most of the night. If our sleep is shortened one hour it will be nearly impossible to work. On the farm they work from daybreak till dark. In town they work all day and dance all night.. And we would rather have the darkness.

Thanking you for your sapce.

Dave Humber.

HARD ON FARMER.

Cavan, April 15, 1925.

The Editor, Peterboro Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Daylight saving is of no use to the farming community that is so dependent on climatic conditions. While it may be a nice thing for those who begin work in the middle of the morning and are through their day's work in the middle of the afternoon, an hour earlier in the morning doesn't matter. Take a farmer in the harvest time; it is eight or nine o'clock in the morning before hay or grain is ready to haul into the barn and during catchy harvest weather all farmers are going to work until dark if necessary to harvest as much of the crops as possible, but this can't be done if the help leaves at five o'clock. I have known farmers have a supper at four or four-thirty and draw in after supper again and get in as much as they did in the morning.

Let those who want it arrange it to go to work an hour earlier, but leave the clock alone. Twelve o'clock noon on Saturday is bad enough now for the banks to close.

Yours truly,

Harry I. Seymour.

OPTIMISM ISN'T A CRIME HERE

Judge Refers To Advertisements of Gold Syndicate —Convictions Made.

RECOMMEND MERCY.

TORONTO, Ont., April 17 (Canadian Press)—J. B., C. P. and E. F. Flater were convicted by a jury in general sessions here today after deliberating two hours and twenty minutes of conspiracy to defraud, and theft, and of receiving $8150, the property of members of the Flater Gold Syndicate.

The father and two sons were remanded for sentence in custody until April 22nd, a strong recommendation to mercy being added, on behalf of the boys.

On a charge of obtaining $2500 by false pretences the accused were found not guilty.

"Optimism is not crime, nor is exaggeration," Judge Coatsworth said, referring to advertisements of the Flater Gold Syndicate. He pointed out in his charge to the jury that misrepresentation of fact must be proved.

Some $11,000 received by the syndicate had dwindled away. His Honor pointed out, the Flaters having just $16 in six bank accounts when the proposition failed.

CONFERENCE CONTINUES.

Besco and Miners in Consultation All Day—No Result Known.

HALIFAX, April 17 (Canadian Press).—Representatives of the British Empire Steel Corporation, headed by President Roy M. Wolvin, and the United Mine Workers of America, headed by International President John L. Lewis, again went into conference today under the charimanship of Premier E. H. Armstrong of Nova Scotia, in an endeavor to effect a settlement of the wage dispute which has tied up the coal mining industry throughout the province for the past six weeks.

FOUGHT POLICE SEEKING STILL

Lindsay Court Crowded By Liquor Cases—Man Got Gun.

USUAL FINES.

LINDSAY, April 17 (Special to The Examiner).—If court business keeps up in this neck of the woods, Police Magistrate Bradford will be obliged to secure an assistant. There have been court sessions every day for a week, the bulk of the cases being infractions of the Temperance Act.

Jacob Bartley, of Bexley Township, and his son, Thomas, were the latest to appear in a court of justice. They were arrested for having a still on their property—the second plant to be located there. When Provincial Officer Storey and License Inspector Porter visited their farm to arrest the pair, the son showed fight and obstructed the police. The old man in the meantime rushed away and secured his trusty rifle, which Officer Storey wrested from him. The son was fined $200 and costs for operating the still, and $200 and costs for having liquor in his possession, and given one month for obstructing the officers who arrested him. The father, who also had a still on his farm, was similarly fined, and also fined $10 for obstructing the police. The father paid the fines imposed upon himself, and an effort is being made to raise the money required to pay the son's fines.

METHUSELAH SENTENCE.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

HURTS HIRED HELP.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: Daylight saving is certainly a great inconvenience to the farmers, especially when you have hired help in harvest time. By standard time grain is not ready to handle before 8 o'clock in the morning, but by daylight saving, which is one hour earlier, means a great loss to the farmers, especially when hired men are concerned, as you cannot ask the men to work after six o'clock standard time.

F. D. McIntyre,

R. R. No. 8, Peterboro, Ont.

P.S.: To a great extent farmers would deal in the village stores, as they run on Standard time.

ANOTHER VIEW.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: Mr. Ketcheson writes a long letter in the Evening Examiner re daylight saving but tells little of its disadvantages except the mention of the 3.35 train (going west), and the boarding houses. He omits to mention how travellers will benefit who arrive or depart on the early morning C.P.R. trains from Ottawa and Montreal under daylight saving time. What about the expressmen, postmen, etc., who will have to rise one hour earlier to meet these trains if we remain on standard time?

He says the breakfasts will not keep from four o'clock! That's too bad; how does it keep at present?

Don't forget Mr. K., under daylight saving time, it will be made and eaten one hour earlier.

Did you tell your railways friends about the nice long evenings they would have under daylight saving?

Mr. Carveth, in a recent letter, tells us he will buy elsewhere. Go ahead, Mr. C., we will try and struggle along without your patronage. Those in favor of daylight saving can say the same, but when it is all boiled down its a question of dollars and cents, where we buy, and as regards daylight saving having any effect upon trade, that is all BOSH.

J.O.C. says he will stop trading in Peterboro by necessity, which is an absurd remark. Why necessity? Does he always do his buying during the last hour before closing time? One hour makes little difference to the average farmer.

The citizens of Peterboro are not getting sufficient consideration on this daylight saving question. It is just as easy for them to send their business elsewhere as it is for the farmers, etc., but who ever heard of anyone saying "I will not buy in Toronto, etc., because they are on daylight saving time?"

Do we ever see any controversy in Toronto papers opposing daylight saving?

Certainly not; nor any other cities where they are enjoying it.

What will daylight saving mean? For a few weeks in June and July it will be light until almost 10 p.m. (daylight saving time) or dark a little before the average family bedtime.

Consider the benefits derived—factory, office, and all indoor and outdoor workers will be able to enjoy an additional hour's recreation—be it baseball or football, tennis, gardening, motoring, fishing, etc.—an additional hour daily of fresh air. Our evenings in summer are all too short—let us have daylight saving.

G. M.

THE FARMER'S REASON

Editor of The Examiner:

Your ballot on the daylight saving question is demonstrating something that did not need to be demonstrated that is that the farmers are opposed to the plan.

It would have been safe to have taken that for granted.

There is nothing in the daylight saving plan for the farmer and consequently he is against it, as he is against everything that has nothing for himself, no matter how much there may be for somebody else.

There is no such thing as an altruistic farmer.

Daylight saving in Peterboro would scarcely touch his life at all but he is bitterly opposed to it, having no consideration for the hundred of industrial workers in the city who want the benefit of an extra hour of daylight.

It has always been a sore point with many farmers that the urban workers would not work 14 hours a day at small pay in order to make it easy for the farmer to secure help at low wages for long hours.

They have no compunction, therefore, in seeking to block a plan that concerns them, but little, but that would be beneficial to the industrial worker. Their attitude is in line with their demand, that they be given protection against United States fruits and vegetables and free trade in United States farm machinery and implements. "Save us from competition in the products we grow, let us get the implements we need duty free and what do we care whether the fellow in the Canadian factory has a job or not?" is about the position they assume.

So far as the effect in business is concerned, the Council should not be stampeded by threats that the farmers will deal elsewhere. They'll continue to do as they have always done, buy where they can buy to the best advantage.

As a matter of fact how many farmers come to Peterboro in the summer evenings to shop?

It is safe to say that the number is trifling and that being so, how does daylight saving affect that phase of the situation?

The bulk of the rural shopping is done on Saturday—and the fact that Peterboro is operating on daylight saving time will not make much difference except that the farmer will have to remember that the market will open an hour earlier.

The farmer may be dropped out of this argument altogether; the sole issue is whether or not the majority of the people of Peterboro want daylight saving.

If the evidence shows that they do the duty of the Council is plain; they should give what the greater number want.

PROGRESS.

ABOUT WOMEN

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—The writer attended a lecture by a very clever woman in a nearby town and was much impressed by it. The subject was "The Selfish Woman." The speaker said, "Do any of you women lie in bed in the morning and allow your husband and children get their own breakfast, not caring whether they take the proper nourishment, but anything they can get in a hurry, usually bread and jam washed down with strong tea? Do you spend the whole afternoon on the street or in the shops,—rushing home a few minutes before the evening meal, with a can of something or other in one hand and a bag of doughnuts in the other? If you do, your children will grow up stunted in body and soul, and you will live to regret your neglect and selfishness. Again, do you when a holiday comes around, leave your family to fend for themselves, while you go away and enjoy your selfish hunger in riotous living. It may be in dancing, card playing or joy riding, who knows? Do you insist on having a car just absolutely for yourself and usually you have it to yourself, for you have very few friends, or at least your friends will not be lifelong. A few months usually is long enough for them to find out your true self. Or do you insist upon having expensive clothes while your husband is working hard and doesn't feel able to afford a new overcoat for himself, but for peace has to hand out the funds for you. If you are that kind of a woman, I pity from my heart the home you live in. It certainly is more bleak than the dreariest moor. And where your happiness lies, I cannot perceive."

I wonder if we have any women like this in Peterborough. Examine yourselves.

BOMB EXPLODED BY CLOCK WORK

Cathedral Tragedy Takes King to Scene—200 Were Injured.

SOFIA, April 17 (Canadian Press).—The bomb that wrecked the cathedral here with a toll of scores of lives apparently was detonated by clockwork mechanism. It had been concealed under the roof in the southern part of the cathedral and spent most of its force upon the crowd in that part of the edifice.

In addition to a large number of fatalities it is estimated that about 200 persons were wounded. Upon learning of the disaster the King went immediately to the scene.

The director of central prison was assassinated in the street here today, but otherwise there were no disturbance last night or this morning in either Sofia or provinces.

Passengers on trains are being searched rigorously. Citizens are enrolling and forming patrols to maintain order under direction of War Minister General Voulkoff.

HE WAS REAL ANGRY.

BOSTON, April 17 — A Boston "hot dog" seller got real angry when he was arrested for operating his stand in front of a lunchroom. So he bought the building with savings of $12,000, which had accumulated in five years.

TO MAKE BREWERS TAX COLLECTORS

Must Be Made Agents For Government, Hon. W. S. Price Thinks.

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—Asked this morning how it was intended to collect the beer tax, Hon. W. S. Price, Provincial Treasurer, stated: "Brewers and retailers will have to be made agents for the Government as far as I can tell at the present time, and they will be the collectors." Mr. Price has been busy ever since the close of the session trying to find out the best method of collecting the beverage taxes. It is quite likely that the tax on carbonated drinks will be collected by the stamp method. Stamps would be fixed to the bottle when the retailers sell it to the consumer. "However," the collection of these taxes is a matter of negotiation at the present time," said the Treasurer. "The Government is anxious that the collection should be carried out with the least interference with business." He pointed out that the stamp system would not do on beer, as much of the latter would be sold by the glass from bulk quantities. However, the exact method of collecting the beer tax cannot be determined until regulations as to its sale are finally drafted.

The phrase, "saving the bacon," originated during the civil wars in England when housewives took unusual precautions to save their principal meat dish from soldiers on the march.

Y. M. CARNIVAL FULL OF PEP

Crowning Event of the Gymnastic Year Staged in Y.M.C.A.

REPEAT TO-NIGHT.

The crowning and final event of the gymnastic year of the Y.M.C.A. took place last night when the carnival circus was staged in the "Y" gymnasium. There were nearly 200 boys ranging in size from the little fellows of the junior school class to the burly fellows in the young men's division.

The programme was made up of drills, apparatus stunts and clown acts. Each number came off lively, each boy knowing easily what he should do showing the result of the training under Mr. D. Loomis and Mr. F. G. McNeely's instruction.

The carnival will be put on again this evening.

The Programme

The carnival opened in true circus fashion with a grand parade. Then came a funny act by the clowns in which a black cat was extricated by means of medical science aided by a pump from the abdomen of an ailing clown. The senior young men's class composed of nearly thirty gave an exhibition of the physical drill of "gym" work. The clowns, Gordon Manning, Ronald Fleming and Gordon Hain then gave an exhibition of tumbling. These clowns brightened the whole show. Gord Ham's work, the clown in orange and blue, was especially good.

The intermediate school class next gave a fine dumbell drill accomplished in perfect order which was followed by another rollicking clown act. The Junior school class then gave an exhibition of pyramid building. "Buddie" Laye and a partner of his gave a clog dance.

This was followed by one of the finest numbers on the programme a human statue act. This was accomplished by turning the room into total darkness and three boys painted gold taking up position under a strong arc light.

The Intermediate school class then did some exercises by means of the "gym horse." The clowns sang a heart rending duet entitled "Sarah Jane."

A squad of senior boys formed of Hamilton, McLeod, Ecobichon, Taylor, Callahan and Dundas did some fine apparatus stunts of skill and strength on the parallel bars. This act was much aplauded by the gallery. This was followed by another clever drill, a wand drill by the juniors.

Mr. J. Harris and a clown, G. Manning, then staged a little act called "Foolish Business." Mr. Harris then amused the gallery by some amusing jokes.

The carnival closed in a wonderful drill by the Intermediate and Junior school combined. Over seventy youngsters, each carrying a lighted Chinese lantern, went through a drill. The gymnasium was in darkness and this aided the effect of the lanterns.

COUNTRY STORE NITE AT ROYAL MONDAY

Country Store Nite with its fifty prizes will be repeated Monday at the Royal. Patrons last Monday night enjoyed it thoroughly and many requests to repeat the novelty have been received.

Every Monday night will be Country Store Nite, presented in a different and original manner. Every prize will be of value, either foodstuffs, dishes, etc., just what you would expect to find in a country store, even to Si Perkins' himself, with his Rube Jokes.

FIRST AMATEUR NIGHT A SUCCESS AT ROYAL

Last night the first of a series of Amateur Nights announced by Manager McGeachie, was presented to a crowded house, which seemed to thoroughly enjoy the novelty. Mr. Harris acted as master of ceremonies and in comedy make-up was responsible for many laughs. Mr. Harris is well known as a hiker, having walked from Kitchener to San Francisco, working his way by entertaining in theatres en route.

No judging by the audience was done. Every amateur receives a substantial cash prize. All the children did the best they could and it would not be fair to single out any particular winner.

Little Miss Dorothy Cooney has personality, and her clever song won her lots of applause.

Edith Johnson with a new semi-classic ballad and "June Night" has a voice that deserves special attention.

Other little singers who gained applause were Katie Cherney and James Marchen, while Crayton Freeborn entertained with step dancing. Clark's Full of Pep Orchestra supplied a couple of jazz numbers in fine tempo.

Mr. Harris appropriately brought the entertainment to a close with a parady on "It's all over now."

MISS TALMADGE BACK IN FROTHY AIRY COMEDY

"The Goldfish is Ideally Suited to Light Touch of Famous Star. PICTURE OF ZIP AND PEP

Fast in Tempo, Chock Full of Laughs—Jack Mulhall Has Lead Part.

"The Goldfish," which opened last night at the Royal Theatre, is ideally suited to the comedy touch of Constance Talmadge. It is light and frothy and airy and Miss Talmadge enacts her part with her usual zip and pep.

In this picture Miss Talmadge has got away from her costume and semi-serious parts to the kind of comedy for which she is famous. It is the story of a flapper who has five proposals, is married four times, is a widow once and who finally remarries her first husband. It is the kind of comedy which has a peculiarly strong appeal to women.

Imp of Mischief.

Miss Constance, an imp of mischief, takes the part of Jennie, a Coney Island wildflower, who picks the piano while her husband sings in a cheap variety show. Her metamorphosis into a patrician hothouse plant who almost becomes a Duchess, affords the comedienne opportunities for some of the most delicious comedy she has ever given the screen.

The picture is fast in tempo, chock full of laughs, and is good for many a smile of merriment. Besides Constance's New York "woiking goil" comedy, Jack Mulhall's Bowery boy "line," Jean Hersholt's teutonic mannerism, William Conklin's Fifth Avenue brand of humor, Frank Elliott's Piccadilly quips, and Edward Connelly's French brand of fun, all add to the general good time. Even the dog, "Dinky" and the goldfish himself in his glass bowl provide many laughs.

Fifth Avenue Scenes.

But "The Goldfish" is not all Coney Island, Harlem boarding houses and apartments for Riverside Drive women who spend a million a year. There is a quiet elegance in the Fifth Avenue scenes in which Constance, stripped of her chewing gum, blossoms forth as a real queen.

"The Goldfish" gets its title from the fact that the married couples who disagree, instead of going to Reno, hand each other the goldfish, for a heart's balm.

The picture was adapted from the sucessful Broadway production in which Marjorie Rambeau starred.

AT THE GRAND

FAMOUS CANADIAN ACTRESS JULIA ARTHUR

Coming in Shavian Drama

B. C. Whitney will present George Bernard Shaw's much discussed play "Saint Joan" with Julia Arthur in the title role at the Grand Opera House. One performance only, Monday evening, April 20.

Seldom has the production of a play caused so much diversified opinion. Shaw's idea of the Maid as expressed in his play is that she was "That good Joan". She is honest, limited, rough, and actually too stupid intellectually to understand the questions that were put to her at the trial. Joan's one idea was his Saints, Michael and Catherine God, through the messages sent by that she was the mouthpiece of and Margaret so Shaw tried to explain the story of Joan. Convinced of her divine mission, she proceeds from one important personage to another, convincing them all along the line partly as in the case of the blustering but weak willed De Baudricourt, her father's lord by sheer personality and his willingness to try anything once, partly as in the case of Duneis as the wind changed and made the attack on Orleans possible, when she came, partly as in the case of the army, because she won victories.

Whereas Mark Twain canitulted the Joan legend, unreservedly and became skeptic, though he was as true an admirer of Saint Joan as any Roman Catholic. Bernard Shaw ignores, as much as he can the seemingly supernatural incidents which starred her career. Though Shaw does not actually say so, he seems to believe that Joan had, as a natural gift, the state of self confidence that several firms are trying to produce artificially in their patrons through "Little gray books", courses in "Go getting", and otherwise, Joan was a born "Go-getter".

A distinguished cast of players besides Miss. Arthur includes Edwin Mordant, Lynn Pratt, John McGovern, Albert Barrett, Henry Travers, Lowden Adams, Erskine Sanford, George Fitzgerald, Edward Skinner, House Baker Jameson, Will J. Maloney, and many others will present the play here. Many large theatre parties among literary and Shakespearean circles have been arranged for during the week. The engagement is causing more than unusual interest.

AT THE REGENT

"JANICE MEREDITH' TELLS HISTORY OF DAYS OF '76.

Paul Revere's Ride, Washington Crossing the Delaware, Surrender at Yorktown, and Many Other Incidents of the Revolution Shown in Picture.

Spectacular scenes of famous episodes of the American Revolution are accurately reproduced in "Janice Meredith," Marion Davies's pretentious and beautiful Cosmopolitan production, which starts Monday for 3 days at the Regent Theatre.

The skirmish at Lexington—"the shot that was heard around the world"—the breathless moment of suspense, waiting to see whether the British would fire the first shot in the American Revolution; the dauntless Minute Men bravely fighting against frightful odds—this is one of the thrilling scenes of the production.

Crossing the Delaware.

Washington crossing the Delaware, a living reproduction of the famous painting by Trumbell, is also a gripping chapter of the photo play. A channel 400 feet wide had to be cut through the Saranac River in the Adirondacks to permit the crossing of specially constructed flat boats and rafts, transporting the soldiers and loaded with cannon, oxen and supply wagons.

Paul Revere's immortal ride — when his horse's hoofs resounded through the night, when startled heads appeared at windows in answer to his call, and when he took desperate jumps over fences and hedges, is full of thrills and artistic effects.

The Battle of Trenton—Washington's timely attack, and the victory is vivid and gripping, a magnificent bit out of history.

The Battle of Yorktown.

Then there's the battle and surrender of the British at Yorktown, impressive, authentic and thrilling. No time or expense was spared in remodelling the Cosmopolitan Studio into an exact reproduction of Yorktown and its vicinity.

When Benjamin Franklin, in his sober garb, pleaded for aid to the Colonies at the Court of Louis XVI. at Versailles, and the thousands of French nobility in their gorgeous brocades and satins and elaborate head-dresses surrounded him — all reflected in enormous mirrored walls with sparkling chandeliers—is another historical scene.

The hardship and suffering of Washington and his troops is vividly depicted, when the General shared the cold and misery endured by his soldiers at Valley Forge; while on the opposite side of the Delaware General Howe was tendered a farewell ball by his officers at the Wharton Villa. Beautiful women, richly gowned and bright coated British officers danced on polished floors, lighthearted and comfortable; while the American soldiers attempted to keep warm near their camp fires — a striking contrast, wonderfully photographed.

NOISES COMING FROM THE REGENT THEATRE TRACED TO CHILDREN.

Youngster Sent Into Ecstacies By Fox Thrillodrama "Troubles of a Bride."

The reason for the noises emanating every afternoon from the Regent Theatre, according to our official investigator, has been traced to the rising generation's whoops of joy, salvos of applause, and shrieks of laughter, caused by a William Fox special photoplay titled "Troubles of a Bride," which is running at the popular motion picture house.

Although the same sounds in deeper tone can be heard coming from the Regent Theatre in the evening they have never caused any perturbation. It is the matinee performances that have caused adult passersby stop, look, listen, investigate and then wander away to come back in the evening.

There are many other things on the brilliant posters and signs hanging in the lobby that makes you, no matter how pressing your business, want to wander in and sit down with the children. For instance, there is the scene of the blazing runaway train.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE THUNDERING HERD"

One of those pictures which has most of the elements of a thrilling movie production is "The Tundering Herd," the film dramatization of Zane Grey's novel. It has action, fierce and constant, and romance and dramatic episodes which crowd in on the story which resembles to a great degree the story of "The Covered Wagon." It is filmed in the lawless west of the middle seventies, and the tale centers about the trek of a caravan of pioneers, who abandon their farms and make a drive for the buffalo plains of Wyoming and Montana.

Jack Holt is the hero, Tom Doan of Kentucky, and Noah Beery is as effective as usual in the role of the villain, Jett. Lois Wison is the heroine, Milly Fayre, step-daughter of Jett, and object also of his unwanted affections. The conflict between Tom and Jett forms the basis of some big scenes, with a smashing fight in one of the final sections.

The way of the pioneers is beset with difficulties and the big picture makes the most of them. They strive through a raging blizzard, there are skirmishes with marauding Indians, and starvation haunts them through winter days. The hunt for the buffalo provides some exciting moments.

With the big picture is an interesting series of short reels in a silhouette comedy, an animated cartoon of the Cat and the Magnet, and a Hal Roach uproar, in "Change the Needle," illustrating the interior of a haphazard phonograph record factory.

"THE AIR MAIL," PARAMOUNT FILM

Irvin Willat Production Due at the Capitol Theatre.

The once little thought of air mail, now pioneering the way in commercial aviation and demonstrating that it is practicable to operate cargo carrying planes on schedule time over vast distances, day and night, winter and summer, becomes a screen thriller at the Capitol next Monday in Paramount's "The Air Mail," produced by Irvin Willat from the original screen story by Byron Morgan, who wrote "Code of the Sea," and others.

Warner Baxter, Billie Dove, Mary Brian and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., have featured roles in the production, adapted for the screen by James Shelley Hamilton.

We can't imagine anything more fascinating or thrilling than the pictured flights of the fearless air mailmen as they "carry on" in all kinds of weather to bring the mail through on schedule time, some even going so far as to give their lives in the service.

The picture has to do with Warner Baxter, in the role of Russ Kane, master-mind crook, who becomes a mail pilot to rob the planes and winds up by routing his former cronies, and marrying a beautiful girl.

Scenes of the picture take place at Sacramento and Reno, two big stations along the air route and in a "deserted city" where BillieDove and her father, the victims of a poor real estate deal, live. Kane is forced down near Bille's home during a storm. He meets her and from then on they are the very best of friends.

Later, Kane is "winged" by two bandit planes and vol-planes to earth on the desert, where with Billie Dove and Fairbanks, Junior, he gives the crooks the fight of their lives. The picture comes to a close with the arrival of a sheriff's posse and capture of the thieves.

Playing in support of the leading players in the picture are George Irving, Guy Oliver, Dick Tucker, Lee Shumway and others.

RUTH UNDER KNIFE.

Operation For Abscesses Due To-day in Hospital.

NEW YORK, April 17 — Babe Ruth will undergo an operation here today for relief from abscesses which have developed since his removal to the hospital upon the return of the New York Yankees from their southern training trip.

Announcement to this effect was made by physicians who have been attending the home-run king since his collapse on a train bound for New York and his removal on a stretcher from the Pennsylvania station to the hospital, where he has been suffering from indigestion and influenza. Weakened physical condition, resulting from his illness and rigorous training for the baseball campaign, are blamed by his physicians for the new complications. His temperature was reported as higher today.

CURLING CLUB OF KEENE A PIONEER

Deserves Mention in Any History of Ontario Curling.

KEENE, April 16—A short time ago a Toronto paper published brief sketches of what it alleged were the oldest curling clubs in Ontario. In this list the Keene club did not appear and the members of what is really the patriarch of them all are inclined to regard the omission as a slight on their organization. Perhaps the Fergus club antedates that at Keene but if it does it is only by a short space of time and the game was played here, at least informally, before it was at Fergus.

The Keene club was organized in 1859, a full history of the event appearing in The Examiner about two years ago, together with a list of its early triumphs, especially over the pioneer curlers of Peterboro and Cobourg. Some of the first "stones" used were carefuly prepared beech blocks while others were made out of iron. That club carried over 50 members on its list last winter. James Dixon, the oldest member, won the Manley trophy, which is competed for every season. M. Kenneally, proprietor of the Victoria House, is a charter member of the club and is yet one of the best players that the organization has ever developed.

CENTRAL LEAGUE TEAM PRACTICE

There will be a practice of the Central Ontario team to-morrow afternoon at 2 p.m. at Riverside Park. All players wishing a try-out are asked to be on hand.

Started Season By Pitching No-Hit Game

In 1900 "Doc" Amole, pitching for Buffalo, got away to an auspicious start by shutting out Detroit without the semblance of a hit. The score was 8 to 0.

Amole, obviously, was in great shape that afternoon, holding the heavy-hitting Tygers in check all the way. And they never seriously threatened the offerings of the Bison hurler either.

It was one of the greatest games Amole ever hurled and was even more noteworthy in that it was dished up on the opening day of the season.

H. CRESSMAN IS PRESIDENT OF MERCANTILERS

Popular Leader Re-elected for Third Term as Head of League.

FOUR-TEAM GROUP

Clubs May Use Two Outside Players for This Year's Games.

The Mercantile Baseball League held its annual meeting last night in the Cressman store. Harry Cressman, who has guided the league for the past two years was in the chair and there were repesentatives present from the Lock Works, Canadian General, Bankers and Examiner.

After the minutes of the last meeting had been confirmed and the treasurer's report, showing a balance of $3.70 had been read, officers were elected for 1925. The Honorary presidents are Messrs. R. M. Glover, J. Crane, C. H. Westbrook, and R. Dobie. Harry Cressman was again elected president and Fred Whaley and Bill Bennett are the vice-presidents. Mr. Hudon is secretary-treasurer. These four, with Mr. Ackman, last year's secretary, and one representative from each club, will form the executive. Each club is required to notify the secretary before May 1, giving him the name of its member.

Messrs. Ackman and Whaley were appointed a grounds committee to make arrangements for a playing field, preferably James Stevenson Park, and Harry Cobb was re-appointed Umpire-in-chief.

Notice was given of a motion to change the constitution and by-laws of the league to permit of each team using two players who are not employees of the plant. The two outside players must be registered at the beginning of the season and may not be either Central League or Senior City League players.

The Wright and Ditson ball, which was used last year and gave perfect satisfaction will be used again this year and the entrance fee required from each club will also be the same as last year, $10.00.

It is expected that with only four clubs instead of six it will be possible to get the scheduled games over sooner and avoid playing in semi-darknes as was done at some of the games last year.

ADVICE BY SOCCER PARSON AND PLAYER

Tips by Rev. K. R. G. Hunt Well Explained—Defence and Attack.

Here are some of the sayings of the Rev. Kenneth R. G. Hunt in his new book on football:—

The Defence

Never allow your backs and halves to enter upon a game without a full understanding as to the "plan of campaign."

Backs must never play "on a line" with one another—always one behind the other.

Big kicking is generaly unnecessary, and frequently the only result is to give an opposing back an easy chance of returning the ball.

A half is a terrier; he must worry, worry, worry the opposing forwards from start to finish. But he must also nurse his own forwards.

A back must never dribble; a half but seldom.

One back must always play close up to his half-back.

"Clear to the wings" is an excellent motto for every member of the defence.

The Attack

Dribble straight.

Never pass (a) for the mere sake of passing; (b) merely to shift the responsibility of making a shot on to someone else.

Always pass well ahead, and, if posisble, on the ground.

Alway try and "draw" your man before passing.

Go straight; and remember that goals are your object.

Always follow up a long kick; even the most remote chances sometimes lead to goals.

When you get a good opportunity of a shot, use it! do not wait for a certainty.

RUTH'S APPETITE HIS UNDOING

Big Bambino Gradually Eating His Way Out of Major League Baseball.

BY BILLY EVANS

NEW YORK, April 17.—When Babe Ruth starts to slip physically he will pass out of the picture quickly.

Overeating has ruined more ball players than any other form of dissipation.

Babe Ruth is not only the world's greatest slugger but the champion eater as well. His dining room average is far better than his diamond efforts.

About five years ago in a series at Detroit, Ruth crashed out three home runs. His super-batting feats crowded out of the headlines some of the remarkable play of the great Ty Cobb.

That evening I bumped into Cobb in the lobby of the hotel where I reside in that city. I joshed him about Ruth hogging the spotlight.

"The Babe has it coming to him; he's a wonder," said Cobb. "But when he breaks it's going to come quickly. I was in the majors about ten years before Ruth made his debut and I am inclined to think I'll still be there after he is through.

"Ruth has a great physique and he is punishing it. His worst fault is the way he eats. He can eat as much as three ordinary men. He's bound to pay the penalty.

"I watch my diet, particularly during the playing season, more closely than any other feature of my work.

"A good batting eye depends entirely on the condition of the stomach. The slugger must time his swing more perfectly than any other type of batter. When there comes a break between the eye and the muscles, the slugger is generally handicapped. There must be the proper coordination.

"Some day Ruth is going to pay the penalty and it is going to be costly. When his nervous system breaks down, he's done."

As I read of the two nervous breakdowns suffered by Ruth, first in the south and later in New York, I recall vividly Cobb's conversation. If reports as to Ruth's condition are correct, the prophesy of Cobb seems almost uncanny.

Ruth ridicules the diet theory. He believes in eating and does it.

Before a ball game several hot dog sandwiches, as many bottles of pop, all washed down with a quart of ice cream, is a light lunch for the Babe.

About the second inning Babe usually starts taking large doses of aromatic spirits of ammonia or bicarbonate of soda in water to relieve the gasses on his stomach due to the wild combination of food he has disposed of.

It is the same thing every day with him. It looks as if nature is beginning to remonstrate in a most forceable manner.

Ruth is prone to be fat, takes on weight easily. Instead of paying attention to his diet he has reduced each year by hard work and many vapor baths. That system also is beginning to exact its toll.

When I saw Ruth in the south he was about 20 pounds overweight. That is not unusual for him in the spring. He complained at the time about his legs, saying they worried him more than the extra weight.

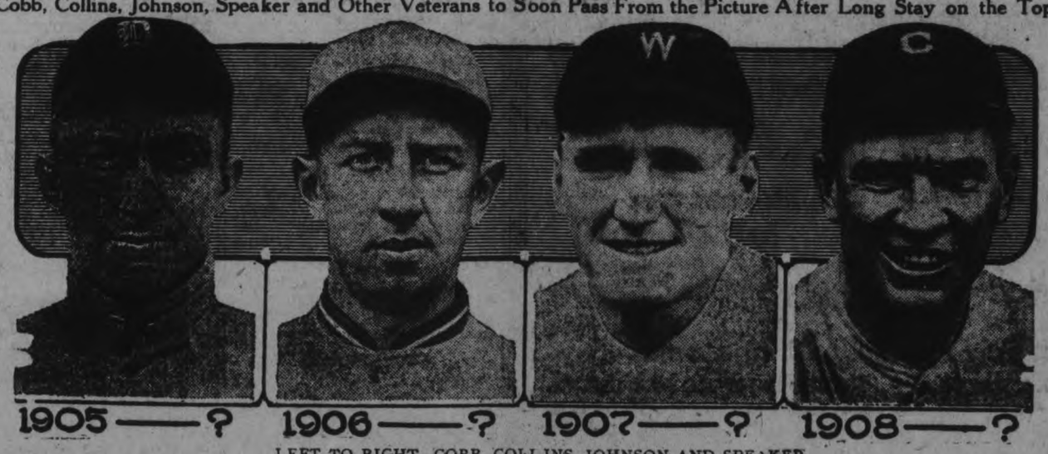
Ruth has slender legs, not the type to carry 230 pounds. Possibly that was a sign that he was slipping.

Despite all these wild rumors, I still think there is a chance for Ruth to be in the game within a week.

The Babe is a good actor and he realizes the value of publicity.

SEVERAL DIAMOND STARS NEARING END OF THEIR STRING

Cobb, Collins, Johnson, Speaker and Other Veterans to Soon Pass From the Picture After Long Stay on the Top.



LEFT TO RIGHT—COBB, COLLINS, JOHNSON AND SPEAKER.

In perhaps less than five years baseball will be losing several outstanding stars.

Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Walter Johnson, Eddie Collins and a half dozen other celebrities will soon be passing out of the sport picture.

Walter Johnson would have retired this year had he been able to purchase a satisfactory minor league franchise. Ty Cobb has announced that he doesn't expect to play over 100 games in 1925.

Who is going to take the place of these players who have done so much to make baseball the game that it is?

Disappointed With Recruits.

Franky, I have been greatly disappointed with the big league recruits I have looked over in the spring training camps. The situation has been much the same for several years. There seems to be a dearth of first class major league material.

Frankie Frisch is really the only truly great ball payer who has come to the front in the last five years. Frisch is a remarkable player. It seems such players come just every so often.

Perhaps no better illustration could be offered to prove the scarcity of big league material, than the fact that the real stars in both major leagues, with a very few exceptions, are veteran players.

It is the exception for a recruit to show enough ability in spring training to win a berth as a regular. Of all the recruit players I saw in action this spring, I didn't see a single one who looked to have the ability to crowd out any of the regulars.

I observed perhaps a dozen players who satisfied me they have the ability to deliver in the big show but none of them appeared quite ready.

Connie Mack has a worth-while battery in "Lefty" Groves and Gordon Cochrane. The ability of Groves is too well known to need comment. He has plenty of stuff. If he can get the ball over he will win consistently for Mack. Cochrane is a mighty good catcher right now and will show improvement.

The Boston Braves have a corking good looking third baseman in Bill Marriott from the Southern Association. He is scheduled to start at that position.

Looks Like Star.

Shortstop Travenor of Detroit is a ball hawk. His hitting is a question but he will be retained. Cobb regards him as most promising.

There are perhaps a dozen others I could name who are big leaguers in the making. However, I saw close to 100 ball players in the training camps so far removed from the big league standard that I wondered how a conscientious scout could send them up for trial.

Unquestionably there is a scarcity of big league timber. The reason is difficult of explanation. Possibly golf is using up as caddies many a big league possibility in the making.

SOCCER SEASON OPENS SATURDAY

Three Senior and Six Junior Teams—Game at the Oval.

WOOLLENS V. QUAKERS

Soccer! Soccer! Again comes forth just like spring. Players and fans are all anticipating a splendid season for the league championship and the various trophies associated with the game.

New life will be brought out in the G. N. Gordon competition when three senior and six junior teams will be entered in this popular competition. It is stated in good authority that the juniors have a great desire to win the Deputy Speaker's cup.

Last year there were four senior teams. This year there are only three—Canadian Woollens, Quaker Oats and the Thistles, who are in a serious predicament through the lack of players, but intend giving the rest of the boys a good game at any time.

The White Challenge Cup goes to the league winners and the Clark Shield to the runners-up; also the Phelan and Peck Cups, being run in the regular competition. A new cup, Alex. Kay Trophy, is for the benefit of the injured players' fund.

The juniors have many splendid trophies. Louis Yeotes Cup goes to the league and ex-Mayor Taylor's and Mayor Turner's Cups are run under cup tie principles.

In the junior circles they expect to have at least six teams who have the privilege to enter all competitions. Two years in succession the C.P.C. have won mostly all the cups, but the De Laval have revived interest and expect some of the silverware, along with Dummer or Masseys. The junior season does not open officially until May 16th.

The seniors open the league on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval, when the Quaker Oats and Canadian Woollens meet for league points. Kick-off at 3 o'clock. J. Rickard will be the official referee. Both teams have been greatly strengthened by the addition of new players.

SOCCER FINALS STILL IN DOUBT

Huddersfield Town in Good Position if They Defeat Cardiff.

IMPORTANT GAMES.

LONDON, April 17 — (Canadian Press Cable) — For a number of clubs in the first division of the English Football Association, Saturday's games will mark the second last to be played for the current season. At least three teams have only one more league game left after that, the early closing combinations being Newcastle United, West Ham and Sheffield United. The latter, however, are finalists in the English Cup which is slated for a week from Saturday.

The league title is likely to be in doubt right up to the last sound of the whistle, although at the moment Huddersfield Town are in the most advantageous position. They lead the league by a margin of one point plus one game in hand over their present runners-up, West Bromwich, and should they dispose of Cardiff City tomorrow they will have the situation well in hand. This encounter, however, offers quite a problem for the leaders, for the city also cup-finalists, have been travelling in better form recently than at any other period of the past season. Their victory of three to zero over Blackburn Rovers on Wednesday, succeeding as it did their creditable performance over the Easter holiday, was reminiscent of the Cardiff City of the early part of last season rather than the mediocre club that has done little impressive this year. It indicated a belated turn to their real form and augured badly for Huddersfield should the latter be inclined to regard the Welshmen as second-raters — which is unlikely. Whether Cardiff will extend themselves on Saturday or not is another point. They have other fish to fry in the opportunity that has just been presented of taking the English Cup to Wales for the first time in history and it is not improbable that they will conserve the greater part of their energies for the great tilt at Wembley on Saturday week.

West Bromwich are not up against any insurmountable proposition for Notts Forest, whom they play on the latter's ground, are now ear-marked for relegation to the second division. It is just such situations, however, that have spelled ruin for over-confident clubs and despite their projected denotion, Notts Forest are not incapable of giving the Albion a bad turn. Perhaps West Bromwich took the lesson handed them at Highbury to heart on Tuesday when the Arsenal delivered a severe blow to their pretensions. If this is so, the Albion will be expected to do their duty at Notts Forest. They still have a great hope for the league title and this hope is based very substantially. Everything depends now on what can be done by the other clubs who have still to meet Huddersfield and on what West Bromwich can do against their own opposition. The battle lies between these two.

BOXING BOUTS NOT CONCLUDED

Adjourned at Midnight to Continue 17 To-night—in 112 Semi-finals.

TORONTO, April 17.—(Canadian Press). — Twenty-one bouts only partly weeded out the contestants for Ontario boxing championships at the tournament opened in the Arena Gardens last night. When the midnight hour was passed, 17 more bouts were needed to reach the half-way mark, so it was decided to continue the meet to-night, with the finals on Saturday.

Only three boxers remain in the 112-pound class, half of the semi-finals being decided in the last bout last night, Earl Pickering, of St. Helens, winning by a narrow margin over J. Mooney, of Hamilton.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Will Pittsburgh's sensational youngsters of last season live up to their 1924 performances during the coming campaign?

That seems to be one of the big questions concerning the McKechnie outfit just at this time.

FIVE REAL TOTS.

On their ability to repeat their efforts in their debut seasons depends to a great extent the chances of the Pirates in the 1925 jamboree.

Last year the Pirates did the unusual in major league baseball by turning out five remarkable youngsters in Moore, Cuyler, Wright, Yde and Kremer.

They were all real finds. Yde and Kremer, as pitchers, rated with the best in the league.

Moore got into 72 games, hitting .309. He was used at second, third and in the outfield. This season he is being groomed to take Maranville's old place at the keystone station.

Many experts ranked Moore as the greatest prospect to come up last year.

WAS IN EVERY GAME.

Cuyler, an outfielder, was a sensation almost the entire season. He closely pursued Hornsby in batting right up until the last few weeks of the chase, when an injured shoulder threw him off his stride, and caused his batting to slump. But at that he finished with a mark of .354.

Cuyler also showed plenty of speed on the bases, rating next to Max Carey in the pilfering art.

Wright, at shortstop, played a whale of a game. He drove in more runs than any Pittsburgh player ever recorded, getting 111. He turned in 177 hits for a batting average of .287. His fielding was of a spectacular order, too.

Wright did the unusual for a rookie by taking part in every inning of every game Pittsburgh played.

Yde and Kremer proved star hurlers. The former won 16 games and lost but three. He led them all in the won and lost column.

Kremer chalked up 18 triumphs to 10 defeats. He was tenth in allowing earned runs per game, showing a mark of 3.20. Yde was fourth in this respect.

The pair together copped 34 victories to only 13 defeats, a pretty good record for two youngsters.

ABOUT SAME TEAM.

McKechnie, outside of Maranville, Grim and Coper, will have much the same team he disported last season.

In lieu of the three mentioned, who were sent to the Cubs via trade during the winter, the Pirates will have Grantham, Aldridge and Neihaus. Grantham will probably be used in the outfield, with Neihaus on first. Aldridge is a pitcher.

In the final analysis, however, Pittsburgh's position in the 1925 canter depends strongly on how the five tots of last year come through.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions, "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

There is a natural acceleration of the speed of the golf club in the back swing which the golfer should at all times understand. The rhythmic exertion, of any kind starts slowly and gradually, and naturally speeds up. This is so with throwing a ball, cracking a whip, or anything else you might think of. Yet golfers by the thousand violate this natural law with their golf clubs. Another factor is this: Regardless of the speed you use in starting the back swing this speed always progresses from that a a more violent action. You never saw a golfer start his back swing with a quick jerk and then slow it down. Thus it is the quick, jerky action at the start that really causes all the trouble. Use all the speed you want to—after you start away from the ball slowly and easily.

LIQUOR AT DANCE OWNER ARRESTED

License Inspector Stewart and Constable Maker on War Path.

License Inspector Joseph Stewart and Provincial Constable Norman Maker made an all-night trip to Burleigh Falls and visited a dance at the hotel, where they arrested Max Dixon with a bottle of moonshine liquor in his possession. In Police Court, Dixon was remanded to Monday, April 20. It is said to be his second offence.

Two young men were fined $2.00 without costs for riding bicycles on the sidewalk on Chamberlain Street, but Magistrate Langley warned those in Court that in any further cases the fine would be heavier.

Dog licenses must be taken out before May 1, which is only two weeks away, and the Police Department would like the owners to get the medallions for their canine pets in good time so as to avoid the rush on the last day of April.

REAL COMEDY IN MINSTREL MIMICS

Annual Kiwanis Show Said to be Best Put on Here in Years—Proceeds For Underprivileged Children.

So many times in a minstrel show one finds that the setting of the piece is most elaborate and the costumes beautiful, yet the comedy which is one of the big parts of a successful show is lacking. In other words, a Minstrel show cannot be a real Minstrel show without much keen and original wit.

The Talent Committee of the Kiwanis Club has been most careful in selecting the fun makers for this production and have been most successful in adding to the list of seventy taking part, the names of Vernon Morphet, Norman Lang, Carl McLean, Fraser Skinner, Kenneth Anderson and Charlie Nicholls. These Shines are here to guarantee one hundred per cent. dividends on one million laughs before the curtain goes down on the Minstrel first part. In all there will be thirty real live wire fun makers and singers of merit in gaudy costumes to greet your eye as soon as it comes up.

Some of these men are well known to Peterboro theatre goers, so they really need no introduction. However their names will appear at a later date. "Minstrel Mimics," the annual Kiwanis show, will be staged at the Grand Opera House on Friday and Saturday nights of April the 24th and 25th, at 8:15.

The reserved seat sale will start April 22nd, at 10 o'clock.

Remember the underprivileged children.

IN MEMORIAM.

DEWDNEY—In loving memory of my dear sister, Mrs. Maud Dewdney, who departed this life, April 17th, 1923.

Had he asked us, well we know,
We should cry, "O, spare this blow!"
Yes, with streaming eyes should pray—
"Lord, we love her, let her stay."

But the Lord doth nought amiss,
And since He hath ordered this,
We have nought to do but still Rest in silence on His will.

ASPHYXIATION CAUSE OF BABY'S DEATH, BUT JURY DECIDES THAT NEGLECT BY MOTHER NOT WILFUL

Capable Medical Attention Was Lacking at Birth, Was Doctor's Opinion.

BURIED NEAR HOUSE.

Inquest in Mariposa Township Held at Oakwood Last Night.

LINDSAY, April 18 (Special to The Examiner).—An inquest into the cause of death of a baby born to Mary Bearden, a widow residing in Mariposa Township, was held in the village of Oakwood yesterday evening, with Coroner Dr. Logan, presiding.

The baby was born on April 8. On its death it was taken from the home by a neighbor woman on Mrs. Bearden's suggestion, and buried about ten feet from the house.

On Wednesday af this week, Dr. Logan and Provincial Constable Storey visited the Bearden home, located the grave of the child, had the remains exhumed and taken to Oakwood, where an autopsy was made by Dr. Shier.

The evidence of Dr. Shier, Dr. Stuffer of Manilla, Miss Kate Gorrill and her mother, Mrs. Christina Gorrill, and Provincial Constable Storey was taken. Dr. Shier stated that the child lived and breathed after birth, death being probably due to asphyxiation.

The jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the baby came to its death from asphyxiation due to the neglect of capable medical attention. The neglect, the jury found, was not wilful on the part of Mary Bearden.

Interesting developments are expected to follow in the case.

HOLD-UP WITHIN CALL OF POLICE

Robber Entered Loan Office Only Fifty Yards From Traffic Cop.

HAUL ONLY $554.

DETROIT, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—While three traffic policemen stood at their post within 50 yards of the Peninsular Bank buildinf late yesterday afternoon, a lone robber entered the building and held up the offices of the Interstate Loan Company on the fourth floor and escaped with $554. The robber thrust a gun in the face of Mrs. Norm. Bentley, the cashier, who was alone in the office, and commanding her to be quiet, threw her to the floor and bound her securely to a leg of the heavy office table. Then, after t hreatening the woman with his revolver, the robber walked into the front office, leisurely searched the safe and cash drawer, and with his loot jammed in his pockets, walked out.

Members of the Detroit Clearing House Association will meet with Police Commissioner Crowl to discuss the protection of the city's financial institutions against bandits.

TRAFFIC CONFERENCE.

Total of Forty Nations Accept—Canada and Australia Not Yet.

GENEVA, April 18 (Canadian Press).—Ireland and Argentina accepted invitations as members of the arms traffic conference yesterday, bringing the total number of nations in conference to forty. The Argentine's entry breaks the Latin-American bloc of thirteen nations, and the League expects at least ten more South and Central American countries to follow, especially inasmuch as the United States has indicated its intention to do business by naming a complete delegation. Canada, New Zealand, South Africa, Australia and Egypt have not yet accepted.

The death rate for whites in Manila is about half the New York City rate.

HOUSE LACKED QUORUM.

Only 18 Members Present When First Count Taken.

OTTAWA, April 18. — (Canadian Press).—The debate on the budget was almost counted o t in the House yesterday afternoon.

T. W. Bird of Nelson rose and drew the Speaker's attention to the fact that there was not the necessary quorum of twenty members in the House.

Speaker Lemieux asked the clerk to count the members present. He found eighteen, two less than a quorum. In the interval, however, four members had drifted in. A second count was taken, the result announced as twenty-two, and the debate was allowed to proceed.

Speaker Lemieux, commenting on the incident, said the quorum should be raised to fifty.

SPRING DRIVE.

City By-law Will Be Strictly Enforced—45 Already Warned.

In the annual spring drive on erring motorists opened by the police today, Mayor J. J. Turner and Alderman J. O. Fife, chairman of the Board of Works ,were the first to be garnered in. Each of these gentlemen found a polite note on the running board of his car requesting him to call at the police station and explain why his automobile was parked in a place not designated as a public parking place. They were let off with a warning.

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall points out that parking within 200 yards of the market square on Saturday before one o'clock is prohibited unless the owner of the vehible pays a toll to the market cerk. Certain locations are designated by by-law as parking places, and cars must not be left standing in any other place. A list of these parking places in handy form for motorists' reference is printed on page 13. This should be clipped out and kept handy in the car.

In other cities, it is said, the convictions for breach of parking by-laws number 1200 and upwards every year, and similar measures must be taken here if the regulations are not respected by motorists. Already this year here have been 45 warned, and Chief Newhall has declared his intention to hale all offenders after to-day before the court.

Other provisions of the Highway Act, and regulations imposed by by-law of the city will be strictly enforced.

French-Canadians' Tour To Pacific Coast Mooted

MONTREAL, April 18.—In a letter to Edward Montpetit, General Secretary of the University of Montreal, Premier Taschereau endorses the proposal of the University authorities to organize a trip of professors, students and French - speaking Canadians generally across Canada to the Pacific Coast, the trip to be undertaken in July. Premier Taschereau says in part:

"I have already expressed publicly my opinion upon the importance of binding more closely the ties that unite the different provinces of our country if we wish the Canadian Confederation to endure and prosper. We will never be better united unless we set ourselves to knowing each other more intimately, any any movement that has for its object the drawing together of Canadians from all parts of the country merits general encouragement."

EMPLOYMENT BETTER.

Statistics For February Showed Improvement.

OTTAWA, April 18. — (Canadian Press).—Employment in Canada indicated a slightly upward trend in February as compared with the previous month. The average number of vacancies and placements, according to reports from the Employment Service of Canada, rose slightly during the first half of that month but again declined during the latter half.

At the beginning of March, the percentage of unemployment among the members of trade unions throughout Canada was 9.5 as contrasted with percentages of 10.2 at the beginning of February, and 7.8 on March 1, 1924. This calculation was based on statements from 1,642 local unions, with a membership of 164,367 persons.

Reports from 5,696 firms showed that they were employing 715,158 persons in March, or 6,921 more than on February 1. The employment index number which is based on the number employed in January, 1920, as 100, rose to 87.0 on March 1 from 86.1 in the preceding month.

WORLD SHIPPING COMBINE DENIED BRITISH MAGNATE CLAIMS RIGHT TO FIX RATES WITHOUT CONTROL

He Had Never Seen a Government Conduct Business Better Than Private People.

FEDERAL ENQUIRY.

Londoner Objects to Government Control of Ocean Rates as Harmful.

OTTAWA, April 18 (Canadian Press).—A defence of the conference system as in effect among the steamship lines operating on the North Atlantic was made before the special committee of the House of Commons on ocean rates, Friday afternoon. Henry M. Cleminson, general manager of the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom, told the committee that those who controlled merchant fleets in Canada, Australia, and the United States, "had found it essential in the interest of their shippers to confer as to rates." The allegation made in the report of W. T. R. Preston, appointed by the Canadian Government to investigate ocean rates, that the steamship companies formed a gigantic world combine of which the North Atlantic Conference was but a part was untrue, Mr. Cleminson said. Such a world combine, he declared to be an impossibility.

Failure of Control.

Mr. Cleminson expressed surprise at the charge that British shipowners discriminated against Canadian ports in the matter of rates. Highly placed advocates for the artificial maintenance of the United States Government Merchant Marine had urged that British ships discriminated against that country, he said. "It is almost tragic, therefore, to find the same charge made in this country."

He deprecated "artificial control" of ocean rates, pointing to instances where such control had failed along other lines. He suggested that the best method was one which would permit the investigation of ocean rates whenever considered necessary.

"Do you," questioned H. J. Symington, Dominion Government counsel, "consider it a sound economic principle that the people who charge the rates should fix them without any control?"

Hits Public Ownership.

"Yes, certainly," Mr. Cleminson replied. He thought control would be in the worst interests both of the trader and the shipowner. One reason for his objection to control, said Mr. Cleminson, was that he had never seen a Government conduct business better than private people.

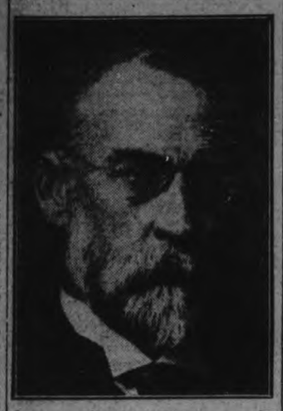
HONORED BY MASONS.



E. H. D. HALL,
Who last night celebrated his fiftieth year with Corinthian Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

LOCAL LODGE HIGHLY HONORS EMINENT MASON

E. H. D. Hall Presented With Silver on Fiftieth Anniversary.

MANY VISITORS.

Only Surviving Past Master of Long and Honorable Roll.

Last evening brought together at Corinthian Lodge meeting a gathering of local men connected with the lodge and many visitors, drawn to the scene with the purpose of celebrating a service of fifty years' duration by a member who has loyally stood with the lodge through years of affluence and adversity, and who is now the only surviving Past Master of a long and honorable roll who have served in the years that have gone.

Twenty-eight Past Masters of the Lodge participated. The work before the meeting was despatched with diligence and in excellent form, and when Wor. Bro. E. A. Peck brought from a secluded corner a parcel and carefully unwrapped and exposed the contents, it was apparent that something was doing. He held in his hand a magnificent silver serving tray, or salver, beautifully ornamented, and a fine example of the art of the silversmith. As the lights flashed and were reflected from the surface of the tray, Wor. Bro. Peck told of the entrance into Masonry of the member who was to receive the gift, fifty years ago; of his full and large conception of the aims and objects of the Craft; of how he had assisted in helping almost countless brothers of the Order along the road of duty and up the staircase that all must climb to gain distinction in the Order. He told of friendships formed in the Lodge and which existed outside in daily life and sweetened and helped to better ideals and accomplishments, all very interesting and informative to the younger brethren.

The salver was inscribed as follows: "Presented to Right Wor. Bro. E. H. D. Hall, by Corinthian Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 101, G. R.C., on the occasion of his Fiftieth Anniversary in Masonry. Peterborough, April 14th, 1925."

For the gift the recipient made brief but feeling thanks, which he promised to extend further on when the members had adjourned to the refreshment room. He gave an interesting narrative of the several homes the Masonic body had occupied since the year 1849, often at considerable inconvenience and through vicissitudes. Other brethren took up the tale of incident and story and for an hour the past was raked over and offered for comment. Most of what was said was in reminiscent vein and thoroughly enjoyed.

Songs by Bro. John Smith, community singing led and provoked by Bro. Devey, whose efforts reflected more credit on his exertions than the performance reflected on him, helped brighten the closing exercises.

The public schools of the United States cost about $1,800,000,000 in 1924, the largest yearly amount in history.

TOMMY CHURCHS LABOR NOSTRUM IS PROTECTION

300 Unemployed in Toronto Fed One Night This Week, He Tells House.

CREATE MARKETS.

Protect Home Industries, He Advocates, Providing a Home Market For Farmers.

OTTAWA, April 18.—T. L. Church (Conservative, North Toronto) suggested in the House yesterday, that Parliament pass a resolution congratulating His Majesty the King on his receivery from his recent illness.

Continuing, he said he supported Protection, not for bankers and manufacturers alone, but for all Canadians. Such a policy would make a better Canada and a happier and more contented people.

Free Trade was impossible in Canada, said Mr. Church. It had proved unworkable almost everywhere else. Under Free Trade, England had bid fair to degenerate from its position of workshop of the world in 1840 to being the workhouse of the world in 1925. The safeguarding of industries act had placed hundreds of British industries under protection and the whole tendency of the British fiscal policy was towards Protection.

The House had heard much of the troubles of the West. He thought Eastern Canada should form its "Ginger Group" in the House for the better presentation of the needs and problems of the East. Perhaps then the West and the Maritime Provinces would realize that the rest of Canada had its troubles.

Toronto's Unemployed.

Unemployment appeared to be nobody's business. It was due largely to an absence of Protection for native industries. In Toronto alone, three hundred unemployed were fed by charity one night this week. The statement of the Minister of Labor that there were 20,000,000 unemployed in the United States was refuted by a letter which Mr. Church had received from J. D. Davis, U. S. Secretary of Labor. The letter stated that there were less than two million unemployed, and that the situation had been improving since August, 1924.

Hon. James Murdock. Minister of Labor, interrupted to say that during recent months the employment in Canada had increased in manufacturing industries by 10 points.

"The Minister of Labor doesn't know what he is talking about," declared Mr. Church. "That statement is probably as accurate as the one about unemployed in the United States."

Mr. Church concluded by espousing the principle of Protection, which, he stated, would give work to our factories, employment to our workmen, produce a home market for farmers and market gardeners and benefit Canada as a whole. "Canada for Canadians," would be our idea, he declared. Reciprocity and Free Trade would be ruinous to this country. Free Trade did not build up the United States, and would never build up Canada.

German Cocoa Dumped.

Mr. Church complained that many returned soldiers were out of work in Canada because German-made goods were being dumped in Canada to undersell Canadian manufacturers. He found it galling in a city so filled with unemployed veterans as is Toronto, to pick up cocoa in the stores and find them "Made in Germany," and a returned man had complained to him that the only means of livelihood he could find was peddling needles, which were also made in Germany—"and rusty."

Mr. Church advocated a national policy fro the operation of Canadian coal mines. Both Capital and Labor, in relation to coal mining should be nationalized, and the mines of the country should not be under the control of United States Labor organizations. Mr. Church believed that a Safeguarding of Industries Act similar to that introduced by the Baldwin Government, would be the best solution for Canada's industrial problems today.

BIG GELATINE PLANT.

Million Dollar Concern to Locate in West.

WINNIPEG, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Establishment of a gelatine manufacturing plant in Western Canada, at a cost of more than $1,000,000, is a probability in the near future. A representative of a large Australian corporation was in Winnipeg Friday investigating conditions, where the plant will be located has not been decided as yet, but it will be situated in one of the larger cities of the West.

Plumb St. Lawrence For Effects of Earthquake

MONTREAL, April 18. — The French language newspaper, "La Presse," yesterday carried a despatch from Quebec saying that a party of engineers will shortly make an inspection of the bed of the St. Lawrence river to determine whether or not the recent earthquake disturbances which had their centre in the Saguenay district have had agy effect upon the depth of the river. The newspaper says:

"It is learned that in certain parts of the gulf, since the 'quake of February 28 last, rocks that had never been observed before are noticeable at low tide and it is reasonably considered that the slightest interference with the depth of the water will render navigation very dangerous."

The newspaper says that the engineers, who are in the employ of the Federal government, will undertake their inspection on board the C.G.S. "Cartier," and that considerable importance is attached to the trip.

SEVEN STRIKES BEGAN IN MARCH

Time Loss Was 244,703 Working Days Last Month in Canada.

FIFTEEN DISPUTES.

OTTAWA, April 18. — (Canadian Press). — An increase in the time loss, due to strikes and lockouts in Canada, is shown for the month of March last, as contrasted with February, 1925, or March, 1924.

Fifteen disputes were in existence during the past month, involving 11,729 employees, and resulting in a time loss of 244,703 working days, while in February the industrial disputes totalled 12 only, involving 3,026 work people, and causing a time loss of 26,334 working days. In March, 1924, 13 strikes and lockouts were recorded concerning 827 employees, and resulting in a time loss of 11,087 working days.

Seven new strikes and lockouts commenced during the past month, while four of the disputes commencing prior to March and two which started during that month, were terminated before March 31. Nine strikes and lockouts were on record at the end of March, affecting 11,563 work people, not including those disputes in which employment conditions were reported to be no longer affected, but which had not been formally called off.

POLISH COUPLE TELL OF TRIALS TO GET JUSTICE

Trouble Over Ownership of Property in Quebec They Farmed 13 Years.

SUMMARY ARRESTS.

Husband Held Seven Months in Jail Without Trial For Assault.

MONTREAL, April 18. — A story in which the claim was made that she was driven half-naked in a cart through the village of Bryson under arrest while some people jeered at her, of the struggles of a Polish immigrant couple when they came in conflict with a law and a language which they did not understand, and finally of a walk of fifty miles through woods and swamps that she might secure the liberty of her husband who had spent seven months without trial in prison facing a charge of assault was told through an interpreter here to-day by Alef Korkura, wife of Alexander Korhura. Her struggles were not in vain. Her husband was liberated from Bordeaux jail here on a writ of habeas corpus and the Attorney General's department in practice court today will be asked to know the reason why Korhura shoud not be allowed to go to his work at Otter Lake, fifty miles from here.

With all the characteristic features of the Polish peasant, Mrs. Korhura has a drawn face, gaunt through trial and hardship, yet calm and serent, and eyes that give an impression of laughter and tears. Her clothes are old and worn. A common safety pin is her best brooch, and old black coat worn more than ten years is her best style. Her husband is dressed in a suit of patches, varied as the rainbow. Collarless and unshaven he wears an old coat and shoes, torn shirt and Polish cap. They are a picturesque setting of the foreigner in the land of his adoption.

Claims by Neighbour.

The woman's story as told through an interpreter on Friday in the law offices of MacNaughton and Goodstone, was as follows:—

Thirteen years of farming in this country on primitive land which they were struggling to improve, went well except for the hardships of labor, until a neihbour made claims on their property and drove pegs to establish his claim. Mrs. Korhura, indignant after the couple had put their life's saving and toil into it, tore up the pegs. She went to Quebec, she said, in 1920, and consulted a lawyer and paid him all the money she had in order to get the proper titles. She heard nothing more and rested confident in the assurance of ownership.

But officers came and seized her home, put her into a cart without giving her time to dress, and half naked, she said, she was driven to Bryson while the curious gathered around the spectacle presented by humble peasant to jeer and laugh.

"The entire trip was ridicule. "I served six weeks jail and then walked back home."

Husband Arrested.

Last November, her husband hit the claimant neighbour on the nose. "Nothing was heard of the affair," Mrs. Korhura continued, "until a few days later when my husband was going to Ottawa with our little girl Alef, thirteen years of age. Near Bryson, officers boarded the train,

NOMINATION OF MILTON MAYBEE REGARDED SURE

Conservatives of Northumberland to Hold Annual Meeting at Warkworth June 5.

FEDERAL ARENA.

No Opposition Hinted For Present Member of Parliament—Many Successes.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 18.—The political dogs of war have been let loose and the fight is on. The Conservatives of Northumberland County are preparing for the next Federal election which they seem to regard as impending, and will hold their annual meeting in Warkworth on June 5, when officers will be elected and a candidate nominated. And the identity of that candidate appears to be a foregone conclusion.

M. E. Maybee, is serving his first term as Federal representative of the riding. He is a prominent farmer, residing in the vicinity of Trenton, and as a public man has never yet met with a reverse. When he sets out to attain any objective, he always manages to reach it. He was a member of his Township Council for years and when he reached the Counties Council at Cobourg, he was elected warden, a position which is always regarded as a preliminary step of Federal or Legislative honors.

"Maybee is a winner, and the Conservative party never goes back on a man so long as he maintains himself in that class," is the way an ex-Conservative M.P. in Campbellford sizes up the present situation.

I. A. Humphries was secretary of the Conservative Association until his removal from Campbellford to Toronto, following his appointment as inspector of legal officts in Ontario. Mr. Humphries was always rated one of the brightest young members of the party. His removal has left a vacancy which has been filled by the appointment of A. R. Willmott of Cobourg, who is one of the rising young barristers in the county town.

Twelve o'Clock Club.

The members of the Twelve o'Clock Club held another successful dance in the assembly room of the High School Thursday evening, the Leonard Orchestra furnishing the music. This club has got away from the original programme which was to close all dances at midnight, and now, in order to compete with other entertainments in town, the affairs are coninued until the early morning hours.

TROTSKY TO RETURN.

Former Soviet Leader Coming Back as Member of Bolshevik Cabinet.

MOSCOW, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Leon Trotsky may soon return to political life. It is believed that the deposed War Minister withing a few weeks will be re-appointed to an important post in the Soviet Cabinet, probably to the Council of Labor and Defence, the Supreme Economic Council or the Commissiarate of Foreign Trade.

CAMPBELLFORD COUNCIL.

W. J. Abernethy is another native born son of Campbellford, who has spent all the years of his life here, who was educated in the local schools, built up a business and now finds himself enjoying the esteem and confidence of his fellow citizens who have twice tlected him to a place on the Town Council.

Mr. Abernethy belongs to one of Campbellford's most distinguished pioneer families, an uncle, S. J. Abernethy, having been a member of the Water and Light Commission for years, and who is now the chairman of that body.

W. J. has always been an enthusiastic political worker since he was old enough to cast his first vote. His first run for public office was made in 1924, when he was nominated for the council, and in a heavy vote was returned at the head of the poll. He made the grade again last January.

Mr. Abernethy has always given attention to his civic duties and never misses a regular or special meeting of the council. He is a resident of the west side, but there is nothing of sectionalism in his make-up. The greatest good for the greatest number, is his motto.

Councillor Abernethy has another side line besides party politics. He is a confirmed poultry fancier and his birds have won prizes to the fairs and at special poultry shows all over the district. He is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Seymour Agricultural Socieay and one of the most energetic workers in the interests of that organization.

STILL DOING GREAT WORK FOR WOMEN

What Madame Plourde Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Quebec lady suffered for years with Dropsy, Gravel and Sugar Diabetes, and benefitted by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Danville, Que., April 17.—(Special.)— One more tribute to the great work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing for women of Canada comes from Mde. Gerard Plourde, well-known and highly respected here.

"I have used several boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and have been greatly benefitted," Mde. Plourde states. "I have suffered many years from Dropsy, Gravel and Sugar Diabetes. My head used to ache and my appetite was fitful. My sleep was broken and I was nervous and irritable.

"I have taken ten boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and feel much better, especially my kidneys.

"I give you the right to publish this testimonial because your Dodd's Kidney Pills merit the honour."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely a kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys so that they do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood.

Pure blood coursing through the body means new health all over the body.

TROUBLES OF GRANDPA.

St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. Puts on a Splendid Performance.

Packed with mirth-provoking situations, full of vim, with a hearty laugh in every line, the "Troubles of Grandpa," as presented by the A.Y.P.A. of St. Luke's in the S. O. E. Hall last evening, were followed with keen interest by a capacity audience, who enjoyed every moment of the play from beginning to end. Those who took part are deserving of great credit for the splendid way they carried out their parts. This play was put on by St. Luke's A.Y.P.A., under the auspices of the Daughters of England.

PRACTICAL EDUCATION.

SALEM, Ore., April 18.—Speaking of practical education, a new course in instruction in the junior high school here will be on how to dodge automobiles. Several accidents have occurred near the school.

WEATHER

This date last year was Good Friday—cool, with a very heavy rain, in fact one of the heaviest downpours of 1924. Almost an inch and a quarter of rain fell. Considerable snow still remained on the ground in the more secluded places.

While on a visit to Ottawa not very long ago, I had the privilege of being shown through the Dominion Observatory, and one of the places that interested me most was the section where the correct time is sent out every morning to every telegraph station in Canada. We hear and read about daylight saving time, standard time and sun time until it has become almost as productive of hard feeling as prohibition or church union. On descending to the basement of the Observatory, we entered a hall. After passing through double doors, a few feet apart, we approached a room in the centre of the building. To enter we again had to go through double doors. This, I learned, was to avoid changes of temperature in the time room. Summer and winter, year in and year out, the temperature was never allowed to vary more than a couple of degrees, as variations in temperature interfere with the going rate of timepieces generally. The room was heated by electricity, and automatic thermometers regulated the temperature to a nicety. Several large sized clocks hung on the walls, but sitting on the cement floor in a semi-circle were six or seven time-pieces of the finest work of Swiss, French and English manufacturers. In the centre, in a glass case, from which the air had been exhausted, was the master clock, "the daddy of 'em all" —not the largest, nor the handsomest, but the one whose performance had been the most nearly correct. One of these clocks told standard time, another Greenwich time (exactly five hours slower), another true sun time (which was in use previous to 1883, when every town and city had its own time.) Then there was sidereal time, or star time, and also daylight saving time.

Since 1883, the time in practically every civilized country has been regulated by Greenwich Observatory, England. Thus Nova Scotia and the Maritime provinces, keep Atlantic time, which is exactly four hours slower than Greenwich. All the eastern section of the United States, and this section of Ontario, as far west as Port Arthur, keep Eastern Standard time. Farther west they have Central time, then Mountain time, and Pacific time—each zone being one hour slower. The time is checked every night at Ottawa by the transit of certain stars across the meridian. If the night is cloudy dependence is placed on the chief time piece in the basement, and the signal is automatically flashed over the telegraph wires to every town and city in the Dominion. Standard time is purely artificial. There is nothing sacred about it—it is neither sun-time nor star-time, but an arbitrary division of the 24 hours, to cause the least inconvenience to people residing in each zone. It was the idea of Sir Sandford Fleming (after whom Fleming Place is named, and who in his life time was a visitor to, and interested in, Peterboro.)

True sun time, such as we had previous to 1883, was in Peterboro 20 minutes slower than Montreal time, and 7 minutes faster than Toronto time. Standard time is about 17 minutes faster than sun time here.

I said the clocks resting on the cement floor were in a semi-circle. I asked why, and was told that if they were placed parallel with each other the swinging of the pendulums of some would affect others. I was doubtful at the time, but further inquiries from other sources showed that the correct reason had been given. There is subject matter for a text for a sermon by some of our ministers right here, such as "The Influence of Others on our Lives and Character," or "Environment versus Heredity."—W. P.

The distance from Lagos to Kano is 705 miles, and all along the line at all stations vast crowds, stirred with intense enthusiasm, gathered to do honor to the royal traveller.

The Prince was greeted ceremoniously by the assembled chiefs of Kano. Large groups gathered at points of vantage to see the Prince drive through the city later in the afternoon to visit the aged Emir of Kano, who rules over 2,000,000 souls.

WEDDING BELLS

McCOLL—DAVIS.

LASSWADE, April 17. — St. Paul's church, Lasswade, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Wednesday when Lucinda Maud Davis, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Davis, of Lasswade, became the wife of Stephen McColl, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. McColl of Apsley. Archie Whitemore was groomsman, and the bride was attended by her sister Mary and Miss Ellen Steen. The Rev. C. A. G. Spence performed the ceremony. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the marriage, when about forty guests were regaled with a dainty repast. Mr. and Mrs. McColl will reside at Lasswade. Cars from Apsley conveying guests experienced a lot of trouble owing to the frightful condition of the road, which, it is said, has never been worse, and the car containing the bridegroom's parents meeting with a mishap, had to be abandoned, and another one fetched from Apsley to complete the trip. As a consequence the passengers arrived an hour after the ceremony was over.

JONES—HATHERLY.

MILLBROOK, April 17. — The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hatherly, Main street, was the scene of a pretty wedding at high noon on Wednesday, when their youngest daughter, Mary Hazel, became the bride of Mr. Stanley Jones, of Newtonville.

The bridal party stood under an arch of evergreens and flowers, with a large white bell suspended immediately overhead, and silver holders filled with pussy willows marking the base on either side. Smaller white bells, with tiny silver cupids and darts suspended therefrom, were also a part of the decorative scheme of the arch, and the room in use.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was unattended, and looked charming in her wedding gown of steele grey canton crepe, with trimmings of silver lace, and tiny pink rosebuds. The groom's gift, a white gold bar pin, with diamond setting, was the only ornament worn. Shoes and stockings matched the dress, and the bouquet carried was of cream ophelia roses, sween peas and maiden hair fern.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Jones, B.D., of Hampton, the groom's uncle, and Mrs. Jones played the wedding march. An informal reception was held, following the marriage, and immediately afterward the guests sat down to the wedding breakfast.

The dining table was centred with the handsome three-story wedding cake, the floral decorations for the tables being sweet peas, and the table runners of rose pink, harmonizing with the dainty hues of the fragrant blossoms.

The happy couple left by motor for Toronto, and other points west, the bride travelling in a dress of sand colored crepe, with shoes and stockings to match, the coat, of Kasha cloth, being trimmed with fur and braid. Her hat and scarf, of henna hue, were in pleasing contrast to the rest of the becoming costume.

Quantities of confetti, and hosts of good wishes were showered upon them as they made their way to the waiting car. Upon their return they will reside near Starkville, where Mr. Jones' farm is located.

Gift From School.

Mrs. Jones, who has been the popular teacher for the past four years at Zion school, near Newtonville, was the recipient of a handsome, lacquered, brass jardiniere, containing a beautiful Easter lily, on the closing Thursday when her resignation finally took effect. The following address accompanied the gift:

To Miss Mary Hatherly, Teacher:

Dear Miss Hatherly,—We, the scholars of Zion school, have learned with regret that you are soon to sever your connection with us as teacher.

We thought we could not let this last day at school together pass without showing you, in a small way, our appreciation of your services.

You have been painstaking and patient, in teaching us our lessons. We know we have often been very trying, yet you have always done your best, while we have to admit we have not always done ours.

We hope that you may be happy in your new sphere, and we can assure you if our good wishes are any help you have them in abundant measure.

Please accept this gift as a slight oken of our love for you.

Signed on behalf of Zion School Section, No. 6, scholars.

Edna Cook, Charlie Faby, Elsie McHolmb Forrest Inch.

Zion, April 19th, 1925.

The many other beautiful gifts received, including silverware, cut glass, fine china, cutlery, linens, etc., were evidence of the esteem and affection in which the young couple are held by a large circle of relatives and friends.

The guests at the wedding included the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Payne. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Best, Miss Mary Jones, and Messrs. Cecil and Ethan Jones, of Newtonville; Mr. antd Mrs. Will Jones, Miss Ethel Hatherly, of Toronto; Rev. Wesley and Mrs. Jones, of Hampton, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Hatherly, of Cavan.

GETTING TOGETHER.

The announcement that the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific have initiated tentative negotiations with a view to co-operation between Canada's two railway systems is good news.

It has long been felt that both railways have been suffering by useless competition and expensive duplication of service, and that an amicable arrangement between the two would irradicate many of the present drawbacks, and while providing an adequate service, would greatly reduce the operating cost.

The question of duplication of service is not the easiest matter in the world to settle—yet a getting together of the heads of the two great systems might produce good results along this line.

The trouble is that we are, to use an expression employed by the Ottawa Journal, "over-railwayed."

There are too many trains.

Eighteen passenger trains operate every day between Ottawa and Montreal, and all over the country we find a similar state of affairs.

So many trains are not needed, and they are not all doing business; the spirit of competition keeps them running because one system is afraid to take steps to reduce the service so long as the rival line keeps up the pace.

But if the present negotiations led to a definite pact much of the present duplication may be eliminated.

Surely it is a consummation not only "devoutly to be wished" but to be worked for as well.

LONG SPEECHES.

A member of the House of Commons suggests that when the speech of a member exceeds twenty pages of Hansard he be required to pay the cost of printing the excess.

The idea has its good points, but there will be many people who will be of the opinion that the suggested maximum is too high.

There is very little that the average back-bencher says that is worth so much space—and often that applies to others higher up in the scale.

In fact, this tendency so common at Ottawa of inflicting three and four-hour speeches on the House, reading long extracts from newspapers, putting on record endless columns of statistics, is becoming a public nuisance, because the people have to pay for all this talk.

In the Mother of Parliaments, it is the exception, rather than the rule, for the Premier or the leader of the Opposition to speak for an hour, and then only on a subject of grave importance, while the common or garden variety of member who attempted to talk for sixty minutes would not be likely to attempt to repeat the experiment.

It would be to the general advantage of our Federal representatives—and all parties are equally guilty—would emulate the example set for them in the Parliament which in almost every other respect is closely followed in this country.

SAVING THE FOREST.

The big point to remember in connection with Forest Fire Week and the message that the campaign seeks to put over is the fact that in Canada forest industries are second only to agriculture in importance, adding as they do from four to five hundred million dollars annually to the national wealth.

The permanency of these industries and inevitably to a large extent of Canada's prosperity, is bound up in the question of the adequacy of our forest resources to meet the needs of industry.

We cannot go on allowing hundreds of square miles of valuable timber to be burned up every year and expect to find the reserves equal to the demand.

In 1923 forest fires cost Canada a grand total of $46,696,772.

The figure speaks for itself.

Surely it presents a warning that should be heeded by all the people of Canada.

But bad as it is, it does not reveal all.

Stumpage value of timber destroyed do not represent a true statement of the economic loss.

In the forest industry, more than in any other, the cost of the manufactured product is made up of labour charges, and thus the destruction of the present or future stumpage represents direct loss of the means of sustenance of an important part of our population.

Forest fire prevention concerns everybody; that is why the Examiner hopes the people of Peterboro will take some interest in the question next week.

THE STORY OF ALBERTA.

The mournful speeches of some of the Western Progressive members of Parliament have undoubtedly had the effect of creating the impression among those not familar with the facts that conditions in the Western Provinces are, to say the least, far from good.

The Government of Alberta has just issued a publication that gives a much brighter picture and presents a much truer conception of the real state of affairs.

The figures given are inspiring.

They show that during the past two decades Alberta has made most remarkable progress.

Just a few of them may be quoted to demonstrate how great an advancement has been made.

Twenty years ago, in 1905, the total wheat area of Alberta was 150,000 acres, as compared with the present are aof 5,500,000 acres.

In 1905 the area of all crops in the Province was 616,000 acres; in 1925 the total had climbed to 11,000,000 acres.

In the same period the wheat production has jumped from 3,000,000 bushels to 144,000,000 bushels.

The same story is told of other departments of agriculture.

Twenty years ago Alberta produced but 800,000 pounds of creamery butter, and last year the production had increased to 21,000,000 pounds.

It is only a few years since the Province was importing butter; last year Alberta exported 4,000,000 pounds.

The value of the poultry at present in Alberta is estimated at $4,500,000, and, in fact, that Province stands second among the Provinces of Canada in poultry value, and last year exported 60,000 cases of eggs.

The combined agricultural production increased in value from $20,000,000 in 1905 to $217,000,000 in 1924.

Despite the Progressives' laments there is evidently nothing much wrong with Alberta.

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS.

The report of the Canadian National Railways for 1924 leaves room for neither complacency nor anxiety. No room for complacency because a net deficit of $54,000,000 is, at our present juncture, a vast burden for Canada. No room for anxiety because, business conditions, a small crop and decreased rates considered, the capacity of the system to contract expenditure and to thus increase its operating revenue, apart from fixed charges, is a sure guarantee for the future. With a return of prosperity, with continued growth of the country, with development of natural resources, with more people and traffic, and with anything like sanity in rates, public ownership will triumph.

* * * *

Three things, however, seem necessary. The first is that the Canadian National Railways be relieved of its ridiculous over-capitalization. The second is that railway rates be not reduced below possibility of traffic without profit. And the third is that some effort be made to reduce railway duplication.

* * * *

To over-capitalization, the Journal has made frequent reference. We oppose it, not because we think that its reduction will reduce the charges of this country by a single cent, but simply because it is unfair to public ownership, hurtful to confidence in public ownership, to make the National Railways roll up deficits, by paying interest on debts to which it has hardly the remotest connection—losses that should have been "taken" long ago and would have been in the case of any railway not publicly owned. Private ownership, not public ownership, produced most of our costly railway mess; and there is no reason now why public ownership should be made to carry the burden.

* * * *

In regard to railway rates, we cannot do better than quote Sir Henry Thornton:

> "As was pointed out in last year's report continued reductions in freight rates will inevitably postpone the day when the National System will become self-supporting. The recent decision with respect to what is known as the Crow's Nest Agreement has established a condition which is serious to all of the transportation interests of Canada."

That is as clear as crystal. This country cannot have its cake and eat it. It cannot have its railways spend a dollar to carry freight which brings 95 cents, and expect the railways to make profits. And in fixing rates with guarantees against possibility of such folly, there is only one right thing to do. It is to leave the fixing of rates, not to their effect on the fortunes of parties in Parliament, not to the dictates of sectional clamor, not to political expediency or to Ministerial opportunism, but to a tribunal which, like our own Railway Commission, acts solely upon realities and actual economic requirements. That is what Sir Wilfrid Laurier had in mind when he established the Railway Commission, that is what this country must have.

There is the question of duplication. It is not an easy one to remedy. People in this country are powerful for economy—by the other fellow. For years and years this country clamored for reduced deficits on the old Intercolonial. But when the late Frank Cochrane, who was Minister of Railways in the Borden Ministry sought to provide that economy, what happened? In the Maritime Provinces, and in some parts of Quebec, he was as popular as Judas. Everything but stones was hurled at Mr. Guetelius when he struck at waste; and when a suburban train was taken off between St. John and Rothesay it almost lit the fires of revolution.

It is the same today. Out in Saskatchewan at this very moment a political storm has rolled up just because it has been stated that the Provincial Government co-operated with Sir Henry Thornton in having a shorter branch line built where a longer one was contemplated. And we venture to think that if one-third of the 18 passenger trains that run between Ottawa and Montreal each day were removed, the very hills would reverberate with protest. People have been spoiled with too much service.

* * * *

Yet the problem should be tackled. Nothing is more manifest than that we are over-railwayed. What takes place between Ottawa and Montreal takes place between Ottawa and Toronto, between Quebec and Montreal; takes place all over this country between Sydney and Vancouver. It is not an issue of politics. It is not a question for partisanship. It has nothing whatever to do with public or private ownership. It is simply a question of our great railway heads, supported by all parties, getting together to work out a manifest need.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Examiner daylight saving vote closes this evening. It's your last chance to express an opinion.

At least the summer-time controversy has provided a lot of people with some unusual literary exercise.

Canada has far too many forest fires, and they destroy far too much of our timber reserves. The prevention of such conflagrations should be everybody's business.

And now they are using Babe Ruth as an example of what overeating can do even to a trained athlete.

When a Progressive member of Parliament declares that "daylight saving is the greatest curse that this country has ever known," surely the last word has been said. No local opponent could think of anything worse than that to say about the scheme.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, April 17.—Moderate runs and good prices have gone together this week in the cattle market, that is, so far as butcher cattle prices are concerned. Unfortunately, shippers orf heavy export cattle have not fared so well. Owing to a series of unforeseen and unavoidable incidents for which Toronto export buyers were in no way to blame, the usual quota of heavy export cattle were shipped in for Monday's market. Almost at the last moment, and too late for shippers at country points to be notified, buyers were advised that the expected vessel space would not be available this week. The result was that a lot of heavy cattle were left on the market on Monday for which there was no immediate outlet. It looked in fact that after giving out that there would be the usual demand for the big cattle that the export buyers had fallen down on their job, causing some losses to shippers who had expected to find a good market. The buyers at Toronto, however, were not responsible for the cancelling of one boat's scheduled time for sailing, nor for an accident to another boat later in the week which resulted in a further hold up. These incidents explain why there has been but a very small demand this week for the heavy export cattle shipped in. Some were taken, but a considerable number will probably have to be carried over until the week for the official opening of navigation, the first boat leaving Montreal on May 1st or 2nd. Up to the present no word has yet been received of any boat being available for next week.

The stocker and feeder trade has been quiet, probably due to high prices and the present good market for anything in the killing class. Short keep feeders have sold up to $7 and $7.25.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—The tone of the egg market is about steady, with very slight changes in prices to note. At some centres eggs are reported to be accumulating owing to a large number of the Jewish buyers being off the market on account of holidays. Prices are being shaded to attract buyers.

Toronto jobbing specials 34, extras 32, firsts 30, seconds 28.

Montreal unchanged. Quebec jobbing extras 35 to 36, firsts 33 to 34, seconds 31 to 32.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—In a lively re-action from recent severe declines in price, the wheat market to-day scored an extreme gain of 7 cents a bushel as compared with yesterday's finish. Reports indicating 110,000,000 bushels less winter wheat production in the United States this season than last year did much to lift values. Wheat closed strong, 1 3-4 to 7 cents net higher, May 1.51½ to 1.51 3-4, and July 1.41 3-4 to 1.42, with corn 3 3-4 to 4 5-8c up. Oats at 3-4 to 7-8c to 1 3-4c gain, and provisions varying from 7 to 10c decline to an advance of 2 cents.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here to-day as follows:

Sterling demand, $4.78¼.

Sterling cables, $4.78 7-8.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 17.—(Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for oats and barley in the Montreal market to-day was good, but the volume of business was not large owing to the fact that exporters stated that most of the orders received were at prices that could not be accepted and in consequence only sales of odd loads were made. On the other hand there was a good demand for ocean grain room from this port for May loading and especially so from United States exporters, which resulted in engagements being made of 80 to 100 loads principally to the Continent at firm rates. The May rate to Liverpool, London and Manchester was reduced 3d per quarter to 2c 3d for heavy grain, and 2s for oats, while some business was done to Avonmouth at 2s 10½d per quarter for heavy grain. The trade in cash grain on the domestic market showed no improvement, the demand from local buyers and exporters being still somewhat limited, but the tone of the market was stronger and prices were advanced 1¼ cents per bushel.

A stronger feeling developed in the local market for spring wheat grades of flour, and prices were marked up 15 cents per barrel, which was attributed to the renewed strength in the Canadian cash wheat situation. A fair amount of business was transacted in this direction for both local and export account. The market for winter wheat flour was without any new feature to note, prices being steady with little business passing.

The receipts of cheese were 578 boxes, as against nil for the same day last week, and the corresponding day a year ago. The tone of the market continues weak, with little business passing, and Western fodder, No. 1 white and colored, were quoted at 18½c per lb., and No. 2 grades at 17½c per lb., while sales of small lots of Quebec 20-lb. cheese were made at 18c to 18¼c per lb.

Beans were steady at $2.70 per bushel.

THIS Your BIRTHDAY

SATURDAY, APRIL 18— If today is your birthday, you will be one of the comparatively few persons who are really forward-looking and constantly planning for the future. Trivial things will not interest you in the least and your careful plans for the future will bring you success if you are careful in choosing your associates. Your fortunate day will be Tuesday. Your nature is not the marrying kind and you will make a better uncle than a father—a better aunt than a mother.

SUNDAY, APRIL 19.—Love of discipline is one of your outstanding traits, whether you are a man or woman. If a man, you will love the military life. If a woman, you will make a good mother or teacher. Although you are very trict in all things and present a most military front, nevertheless you have a kind herat and will make many friends.

GOOD MANNERS

From the setting of the table, when you have guests, until it is cleared, a plate must remain at every cover. When the soup plate is removed, the underneath plate is removed with it, and a hot plate immediately exchanged for the two taken away.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE.

FOOD PRICES LOWER.

Slight Decline in March From February List.

OTTAWA, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Canadian retail food prices, due chiefly to seasonal declines, showed a decrease during the past month.

The cost per week of a list of 29 staple foods for an average family of five, in terms of the average retail prices in some 60 cities, was $10.74 for March, as compared with $10.93 for February, 1925, and $10.58 for March, 1924. Including the cost of fuel and rent, with that of foods, the total budget averaged $21.00 at the beginning of March, as contrasted with $21.19 for February last, and $21.00 for March, 1924.

In wholesale prices, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the index number declined substantially, being 161.6 for March, as against 164.8 for February last, and 154.1 for March, 1924.

KEEP CANARIES DRY.

NEW YORK, April 18.—An inkwell water bowl for canaries has been invented to decrease the number of birds which die while being shipped on a railroad train. Heretofore the movement of the train splashed out water and caused the bird to catch cold. The new bowl won't release any water except when the birds peck at it.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 3

Mountain-Grown Teas Best

The tea plant grows best in the pure cool atmosphere of a mountain tea garden. The higher the garden, the finer and more delicious the flavour of the tea. This is partly due to the clear sunshine on a high mountain side, partly to the more invigorating air, partly to the more frequent rainfall and perfect drainage. The largest and roughest leaf grown at an elevation of 7000 feet is much superior in flavour to the tiniest tip grown only 2000 feet above sea-level. All teas used in the "SALADA" blends are grown from 4000 feet to 7,500 feet elevation. The trademark "SALADA" is a guarantee of quality.

NEW BRIDGE TO SPAN OTONABEE

New Bridge Near Cemetery Canadian National Building on Belleville Line.

USE LARGER TRAINS

The Canadian National Railways have erected a new bridge over the Otonabee river on the Belleville line. This bridge is of much heavier construction than the former bridge and will carry much heavier loads. The bridge is strong enough to permit the Mikado type of engine to cross. The use of larger engines will result in longer and fewer trains although A. McNab, local C. N. R. agent, expressed the hope that they would shortly require just as many of the big trains as they use small ones now. The swing portion of the new bridge is ready now for the opening of navigation. It is electrically operated, and excursionists will miss the old, familiar sight of the bridge tender walking round and round, turning the huge crank that operated the old bridge. The remainder of the bridge will be entirely completed about the beginning of May. The old bridge was taken down and the new one erected without any interruption of traffic.

HOTEL GUESTS HONEST.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Ninety-seven per cent of a hotel's guests are honest, says Wilfred P. Olson, head of the newly organized Hotel Credit Managers' Association. From 2 per cent it is difficult to collect bills, and 1 per cent need watching by the police, he says.

"You Certainly Don't Look Well"

Mr. Erick Thompson, Maloneck, Sask., writes:—

The 'flu' left me in such a condition that my back ached, I could not walk a quarter of a mile and my heart beat like a sledge hammer. My wife, who had great faith in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, finally induced me to try it. This treatment was not long in restoring me to my former health and strength."

NO sign of failing health escapes the eye of an observant wife.

When you do not sleep well, lose your appetite and become nervous and irritable she naturally recalls her own experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and recommends its use.

As a means of restoring vigor and energy to the nerves and through the nervous system to the whole body there is no treatment to rival Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

You can soon prove this to your own satisfaction for the tired feeling will disappear and you will take a new interest and joy in life.

W.M.S. ELECTED NEW OFFICERS

Millbrook Ladies Had Annual Meeting to Prepare to Enter Union.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR

MILLBROOK, April 17.—Since the organizations of the three uniting churches are asked to go into the union as a "going concern" in order that activities may be continued without interruption until necessary changes in the constitution may be made, annual meetings are being held and officers elected as usual in cases where April marks the closing month of the church year.

Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Howard invited the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist church to hold its annual gathering at the parsonage on Wednesday, nearly forty members being in attendance.

The secretary, Mrs. C. W. Richards, presented the annual report showing a total enrollment of sixty-two annual members, and 15 life members. Eleven new names have been added to the roll during the past year, and one new life member, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, was received at Wednesday's meeting. Twenty-five dollars is the fee for life membership. One member, the late Miss B. Hetherington, was lost through death, in the year just closed.

Nine regular meetings were held with an average attendance of thirty-five, and two public gatherings, the Day of Prayer in November, and another on Easter Sunday morning, both most helpful. The study book, China's Real Revolution," taken up through the year, has proved both interesting and instructive. The various groups, with their respective leaders, has assumed responsibility for the meeting each month in turn, and the work was efficiently carried on.

Mrs. Howard announced that the individual group reports will not be given until the May meeting as final figures are not yet available.

The treasurer, Miss M .E. Hetherington, reported a total on hand of $271.33, with more money still to come in. The Easter Thankoffering this year amounted to $87.30 and was the largest in the history of the Auxiliary. It is hoped by the end of the month to have at least $300,000 to remit to the branch treasurer.

Mrs. O. Williamson, superintendent of the mission band, reported $36 now on hand, and a successful year's work with the boys and girls. The band send $30 annually to the support of the "Millbrook Sunshine" cot in the Women's Hospital at Chentu, West China.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Howard, took the meeting for the election of officers, the list for 1924-25, being:

President—Mrs. Rev. Howard.
1st Vice-Pres—Mrs (Dr.) Rea.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. G. E. Burnham.
Secretary—Mrs.. C. W. Richards.
Cor. Secy.—Miss P. Burnham.
Treasurer—Miss M. E. Hetherington.
Superintendent Christian Stewardship—Miss Estella Hetherington.
Superintendent Mission Band—Mrs. O. Williamson.
Strangers' Secretary—Mrs. G. W. Sayles.
Mite Box Secretary—Mrs. P. Stinson.

On motion, Miss A. Hampton, who has been a devoted worker in the Auxiliary for several years but is now prevented by ill health from actively engaging in its efforts, was appointed Honorary Vice-President, Miss Hampton has filled the office of first vice-president for some time, past most efficiently, and the members were anxious that she retain her position in some capacity until able to resume atetndance and again engage in the work of the organization.

The group of which Miss Mary Widdis is convener reported five new members, Mrs. D. Sanderson, Mrs.. F. Winslow, Mrs. Allan Mitchel, Mrs. L. W. Smith, and Miss Ethel Forsyth.

Mrs. Williamson was elected delegate to represent the Auxiliary at the annual branch meeting to be held in Oshawa the first week in June. Mrs. Howard is the alternate delegate.

Among those present were: Mrs. H. A. Elson, Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. W. Lowes, Mrs. C. W. Richards, Mrs. T. Luxon, Mrs. A. J. Brown, Mrs. W. H. Byam, Mrs. W. Mullen, Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. T. H. Aiken, Mrs. J. McComb, Mrs. W. Larmer, Mrs. W. Armstrong, Mrs. W. West, Mrs. H. A. Earle, Mrs. J. Rowland, Mrs. F. W. Smith, Mrs. M. Sutton, Mrs. R. H. and Mrs. Ross Edmunds, Mrs. Elmer, Mrs. J. Perrin, Mrs. J. Stephenson, Mrs. O. Williamson, Mrs. J. Turner, Mrs. M.. Weatherup, Mrs. H. Lang, Mrs. G. Locke, Misses E. Krieger, M. E. CRIMEAN VETERAN TELLS THE STORY

BROUGHT BACK TO HEALTH BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MAJOR GEORGE WALKER

"I am a veteran of the Crimean War and Indian Mutiny, having served under Lord Roberts. Fierce hand-to-hand fighting and continual exposure left me a great sufferer from Rheumatism, so much so, that my legs swelled up, making it impossible for me to walk.

WHEAT DEMAND UNDERMINED BY PRICE PLUNGES

Winnipeg and Chicago Markets Have Demoralized Foreign Trade By Fluctuations.

PRICE TOO LOW.

Wheat Pool Manager Reports False Propaganda Designed to Injure the Pool.

WINNIPEG, Man., April 18. — "It is clearly indicated that the old theory of supply and demand controlling prices on the Winnipeg and Chicago markets has been a mere myth during the past few months, and instead of these markets being of assistance in marketing the wheat of the two continents, they have brought about a demoralized situation in all the importing countries," declared D. L. Smith, sales manager of the Canadian wheat pool, in a statement issued here on Friday."

Mr. Smith comments at length on the violent fluctuations in wheat prices of late, declaring that he hoped prices would soon become more stabilized and permit legitimate business. Unfortunately the situation had not improved, as would be seen from the undernoted price fluctuations of five consecutive days:

April 11, market advanced 11 cents, April 13, broke 7 cents, April 14, advanced 5 cents; April 15, broke 7 cents; April 16, broke 9 cents.

Break Unwarranted.

Mr. Smith added that the tremendous break in wheat prices from $1.80 was entirely unwarranted. "The world's wheat situation," he said, "is such that every bushel of wheat in this country is worth at least 25 cents a bushel more than the present market as quoted in Winnipeg and Chicago."

The statement continues: "One might think from the action of these markets that we were determined that Europe should not pay such a high price for our wheat. For example, on March 30, we had acceptances from all parts of the United Kingdom and the Continent totalling close on a million bushels on the basis of $1.62 in store Fort William. While we were receiving these acceptances the Winnipeg market was forced down, closing that day at $1.49 7-8, or more than 12c a bushel under what Europe paid for Manitoba wheat on the same day."

False Reports.

Mr. Smith charges that "powerful interests, in the apparent attempt to break wheat prices, are spreading false reports regarding the Canadian wheat pool, this seemingly with a view to further demoralizing the market and enable them to reap huge profits by their unfair tactics." He also charges that "this propaganda is not confined entirely to this continent," and quotes cables received from London Thursday reporting declines in the Winnipeg market "owing to heavy selling by Canadian wheat pools."

Mr. Smith replied to the London cable stating that the wheat pool did not sell a pound of wheat on yesterday's market" and that "some of the trade on this side are doing their utmost to demoralize the markets."

Early Garnet Wheat Not Ready For Distribution

WINNIPEG, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Garnet wheat, which the Dominion Covernment cerealists have breeded to mature 12 days earlier than the famous Marquis wheat, is not yet ready for general distribution, according to Dr. Newman, Dominion cerealist, who is in Winnipeg in connection with the inauguration of rust research work at the Manitoba Agricultural College station.

"The new wheat should ultimately prove a boon in the north, where early frost is a bad handicap," Dr. Newman declared, "because it is early and particularly able to resist drought."

Milling and baking tests are now in progress. A definite pronouncement as to the value of the new breed is likely at the end of the summer, he said.

THIS WOMAN STOOD UP FOR HER RIGHTS

Housekeeper Haled Into Court for Beating Her Employer With Broom.

COBOURG, April 18.—A case in which a woman was charged with beating up a man and thereby standing up for her rights in no uncertain way, occupied the attention of the Police Court here before Magistrate Floyd all day Wednesday. The altercation between the plaintiff and his housekeeper is stated to have taken place in the chicken-yard, when a broom was used by the latter, it is alleged, with the result that the man received a badly discolored eye. The defendant claimed it was accidental and that she was pulled about the yard by her hair. Her nine-year-od son is alleged to have taken a hand and hurled a stick or stump into the man's face. The defendant was fined $5.00 and must pay the costs, amounting to about $20.

SHARES IN RINK FOR LAKEFIELD

Company Presents Village Fifty Shares Valued at $500.

ANNUAL MEETING.

LAKEFIELD, April 18.—The annual meeting of the Lakefield Rink Co. was held in the Council Chamber on Tuesday evening and was attended by a good proportion of the shareholders. Mr. E. W. Bailey, president of the company, occupied the chair, and Mr. W. G. Morrison, secretary-treasurer, gave the report which was satisfactory. Weather conditions militated against the rink this season, and the prevalence of sickness during the last six weeks had an effect, but in spite of these drawbacks, the season was very good.

Mr. A. E. Dawson presented to the village 50 shares valued at $500, which is now a stockholder in, what has been, a great municipal asset.

The following directors were elected: Messrs. E. W. Bailey, A. W. Mackenzie, G. J. Elmsley, M. P. Kennedy, J. F. Lillecrap, W. H. Casement, W. J. Charlton, T. Crawford, R. J. Jory. The Reeve of the village is an ex-officio member of the Board of Directors.

HEAVY CLAIM BY SCHWAB'S COMPANY

With Counter Claim For Millions By U. S. Government.

NEW YORK, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Suit for $9,744,899.94 was filed here Friday by the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation against the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, claiming that amount as balances due on account of construction of 56 vessels during and just after the war.

The filing of the complaint in this suit in the United States District Court here was simultaneous with the Government's filing of a suit for approximately $11,000,000.00 against the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation and subsidiaries in Philadelphia, in accordance with an agreement by opposing counsel. Summons in the Bethlehem Company's suit had been filed in the State courts last May, but action is now transferred to the United States court.

Both Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation and Eugene G. Grace, president of the former concern, issued statements Friday in denial of the charge made in the Government's suit at Philadelphia that Mr. Schwab, as director-general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, from April 11 to December 12, 1918, misused his powers in favor of his own companies.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton

Her honeymoon was the most wonderful time of Gloria's life.

She slept the mornings away, and breakfasted elegantly at noon.

In the afternoons she and Dick hired a fiacre to take them far up the steep road to Mount Royal, or out into the country.

They ate in quaint little French restaurants.

And Gloria shopped!

She bought beads and earrings and more than a dozen bottles of French perfume, while Dick stayed in the hotel reading.

Gloria had never known anyone who read so much as he.

"For a rising young lawyer, you're quite a high-brow, it seems to me," she said one morning.

She was lying back in a long chair while the hotel hair-dresser marcelled her reddish gold hair. She laughed almost scornfully.

Dick made no answer. He sat down and picked up a book, only to put it down. He filled his pipe and laid it unlighted, on the dresser.

"Come here, restless soul, I want to talk to you," Gloria held out to him a slim hand. "Do you know, it's awfully cold out doors? I nearly froze yesterday. I need a coat. I'd like a fur one. I've been looking at one in that little shop down the street . . ."

Her voice trailed off. The hair-dresser had finished her work and was putting her iron and brushes away in a little black bag. Glory paid her.

The moment the door had closed behind her, Dick came across the room. He put his hands under Gloria's elbows, holding her away from him.

"Look here, please don't have people hanging around here all the time," he said. "You're beautiful enough without having your hair curled every time the wind blows. I want you alone, all to myself. . . ."

With sudden passion he pulled her to him, and kissed her eyelids, her mouth, the little hollow of her throat.

"Wonderful! Beautiful!" he said. His voice was choked and queer.

Gloria could feel the beating of his heart against her own, and the quivering of his hands.

With one of her own she pushed him away from her. She smoothed down her ruffled hair.

"Do you think you can afford the coat? It's four hundred dollars . . . the one I want, dear," she said coolly.

"It's a jacket of Siberian squirrel."

She laced her fingers at the back of his neck, and held her face up to his. "Say you'll get it for me," she said.

Without a word Dick nodded and turned away. He picked up his pipe, and his book.

"I'm going down to the men's lounge for a while," he said shortly. "I'll meet you at the elevator at two. We'll hunt up a new place for lunch, shall we?"

And so it happened that the new Mrs. Richard Gregory came home from her honeymoon wearing a costly fur coat, fragrant with scent.

They went to dinner that first night with Dick's father and mother in the old homestead on Orpington road.

"Roly-poly pudding!" said Dick when Maggie, the maid, brought in the dessert, "I'll bet Mother made it just for me."

"She certainly did," answered old Mr. Gregory. Mrs. Gregory beamed at Gloria.

"Dick sometimes has nervous indigestion, as you probably know, my dear," she said in her rich contralto voice, "and when he has an attack, I always cook everything for him myself . . . very carefully. You undoubtedly will, too."

"I can't cook," Gloria said in a very small voice. "I can't cook at all."

CUT SLUG¶ ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶ ¶¶

"Do you think you can afford th e coat? It's four hundred dollars . . . the one I want, dear," she said coolly.

Mother Gregory frowned. Then her wide brow cleared.

"You will learn," she smiled comfortably. "You will learn."

And Gloria smiled back with her ripe lips. But there was no smile in her amber eyes. They were like pools of water that no sunlight has warmed.

. . . She would never learn to cook! She would never be a household drudge, her hands shriveled with washing dishes. Her nails broken. Her dresses smudged with pastry flour. . . . If Dick's mother thought this was the kind of girl her son had married, she was jolly well mistaken!

Gloria widened her eyes. She turned to Mother Gregory.

"By the way, I'll need a cook right away," she said sweetly. "I wonder if Maggie would know of anyone who wants a place. If Dick has a weak stomach, my efforts at cooking would kill him, most likely."

After dinner she and Dick walked home to the new house. It was white with green shutters, and it nestled among the evergreens that surrounded it. Everything in it was fresh and new. Dick and she had spent happy months buying furniture for it.

"I say, Glory, I wonder if we can afford a cook," Dick began the first of what Gloria later called his "economy sermons."

They had just come into the little house. Glory switched on the lights and sighed with joy. The house with its Chinese rugs and yellow silk curtains was a dream. A dream come true!

"Afford a cook? Why, of course, we can afford a cook," she said.

It was absurd that a successful lawyer couldn't afford a cook for his wife!

"I'm not so sure," Dick said. He set their bags on the floor and dropped into a chair.

"You see, dearest," he went on, "the furniture isn't quite paid for. And our honeymoon sent a thousand dollars to the four winds. Then, there was the fur coat I gave you . . ."

"Well, for goodness sake, what did you want to get married for, if you couldn't afford to keep up a home?" Gloria asked with sudden fury. She was tired, and she was sure that Dick's mother hated her.

"Your mother thinks that I ought to spend my whole life cooking, so you think so, too! Well, I'm not going to . . . d'you hear? I'm not going to fry all the color out of my cheeks standing over a red-hot stove for hours and days and years . . ." Gloria's voice rose in a scream. . . ."

Then she burst into wild sobbing and ran upstairs.

She threw herself on the bed in their room, and waited for Dick to come to her. She wanted him to comfort her, to forgive her, and to tell her she could have a cook.

But he didn't come. She listened. No steps on the stairs.

Then Glory began to laugh. Not as she had ever laughed before in all her life, but with great gasps that shook her from head to foot.

And as she laughed tears rolled down her face.

. . . All at once she was aware of Dick standing at the foot of the bed. He had a big pitcher in his hands Then she felt the sting of ice-water in her face!

It choked and blinded her. But she went on laughing and crying. She tried to stop. She couldn't stop!

Presently she heard the low rumble of Dick's roadster under her windows. . . . And the next thing she knew it was broad daylight. She lay in her own bed, very tired and hungry.

"What's happened?" she asked herself. For she felt blue and unhappy as if something dreadful were hanging over her. Then she remembered last night.

"Dick!" Gloria called, "Oh, Dick!"

Immediately he appeared in the doorway. His face was covered with lather, and he held a shaving brush.

"Dick Gregory, why did you throw that water into my face last night?" Gloria asked. Dick grinned.

"Because I thought you had hysterics, and I guessed right," he cheerfully answered. "I went out and got Doc Seymour, and he gave you some pills to put you to sleep, or you'd probably be crying yet . . . or laughing. . . . I'll admit that the laughing got my goat."

"Well, don't you ever dare to throw one drop of water at me ever again, no matter what I do," Gloria said solemnly, "or I'll walk right out of this house and never come back. D'you understand?"

Instantly he was beside her bed holding her close, stroking her perfumed hair.

"Darling, I was a brute to do it, but I'd always heard that ice water was a sure cure for hysterics . . ."

Dick stopped talking and put a finger to his lips in warning. From the stairway came the tinkle of dishes and the aromatic smell of fresh coffee.

Maggie, Mother Gregory's maid, walked into the room carrying a huge tray!

"Here she is! The world's best cook!" Dick said with a flourish. "Mother has promised to lend Maggie to us for a few weeks, until you get your bearings, Glory."

"Indeed, I wanted to come, Mr. Dick," said Maggie heartily.

"I phoned Mother last night that you were ill, and Maggie came over first thing this morning," Dick explained when the door had closed upon Maggie's broad back. "And she sent word that you are not to worry about her. She says she can get along beautifully, alone, for a few weeks."

It had not occurred to Gloria to worry about Dick's mother in a maidless house. She seemed so large and capable . . . so adequate to any of the small worries of life.

There was breakfast for two on the big tray . . . chilled grapefruit, shirred eggs, and coffee with thick cream.

Gloria beamed at Dick over the rim of her cup. Her eyes were soft as a child's, once more.

"Darling, I was dreadful last night, wasn't I? Tell me I don't deserve such a duck of a husband," she cooed. She patted Dick's big hand. She was yielding and adorable now that she actually had a cook in the house.

For she had had her own way, as she always had since the day she was born!

"I'm afraid my Glory is a spoiled child," Dick said, but his voice was deep with love.

"Next time she has a tantrum I'm going downtown and play poker all night with the boys," he finished.

She gave a gasp of surprise. This from Dick!

"Just you try staying out nights!" she cried. "Just you try to pull anything like that on me! Do you know what I'll do?"

POLISH COUPLE TELL EF TRIALS

arested my husband and took him to jail, leaving my little girl to travel alone. My husband pleaded, but he was absolutely ignorant and understood nothing.

"At first when placed in jail at Bryson he went on hunger strike and fasted twelve days. In Montreal the strike continued two days until he was promised his freedom. But this was not come about.

" I could not wait any longer," the woman said, "First I went to Bryson. My husband had been sent to Montreal. I walked back again and I was obliged to go through the woods for fear of people and neighbours laughing at me. On the road the journey was long.

"I fainted twice, the first time and kind people took me in."

"I continued to fight and work and do the best I could on the farm. But it was a losing fight. I could not continue as I was weakening under the strain.

"I gave away the cattle and the chickens and locked the door and set out for Montreal."

Rejected by Lawyers.

For a day and a night the woman journeyed through woods, swamps, and over highways a second time. Here she met fresh difficulties. Lawyer after lawyer refused her case until she was referred to Albert Goodstone, who speaks her language, with the result that her husband for the present at least is free, and the couple are happy for the first time in many weary months.

The two are lost in Montreal. Neither of them had ever been in a restaurant, and they are terribly scared of elevators. Thursday, Mrs. Korhura almost lost some of her fingers while in the elevator. In a swing door she does not know which way to go. She and her husband are penniless.

The Polish consul-general, Dr. Straszenski is interesting himself in the case.

Mrs. Korhura is fifty-four and her husband sixtytwo.

Runnymede, carrying top weight, was an easy winner by two lengths. His victory was loudly cheered, and W. Jarvis, His Majesty's new trainer, was heartily congratulated on his success.

WORLD SHIPPING COMBINE DENIED

At the clos of the hearing, Chairman McMaster declared "that one of the essential parts of this investigation is the establishment by the steamship companies that the rates that they fix in collaboration one with the other and without the concurrence of those persons who pay, are just and reasonable; and I purpose directing the attention of the committee in the first place to this feature of the case, and we will roceed along these lines."

Need for Conference.

The need for conference between the shipping companies had been proven by the fact that those who controlled merchant fleets in Canada Australia and the United States had found it essential, in the interest of their shippers to confer as to rates. Conference would be useless unless all lines adhered to the rates set. The conference system limited to a reasonable figure, expenditure on the middleman, broker, etc.

Mr. Cleminson said that it was surprising to find discrimination in rates against Canada, as compared with the United States, being charged. "Highly placed advocates for the artificial maintenance of the United States Government Mercantile Marine have, without justification, urged that British ships discriminated against the United States," he said. "It is almost tragic, therefore, to find the same charge made in this country."

Would Oust British.

Mr. Cleminson said that W. T. R. Preston in his report on ocean combines, gave no credit to the Canadian lines for maintaining their freight rates between the United Kingdom and Canada on a par with those in United Kingdom and United States Ports, notwithstanding the extra cost of insurance paid by the shipowner. He was at a loss to understand how a Government could succeed in prohibiting rate differentials, when the shipowners themselves failed. He asked what Government was to take charge of controlling rates. Nothing would please the Continental shipowner more than to have the British Government interfere with rates charged by British shipowners. It would mean that the Continental shipowner would gradually oust the British from the trade.

Mr. Cleminson declared that conferences were powerless to exclude a competent and substantial competitor provided there was any demand for his service.

Noah's "Shipping" Corner.

"The only man who made a corner in shipping was Noah" he remarked. The general level of rates depended primarily upon the cost of rendering the service. Neither the commission on shipping rings, the Dominion Royal Commission nor the Imperial Shipping Committee had recommended control of freights Mr. Cleminson said. The strong recommendations of all these bodies was the formation of shippers association and discussion with them from time to time with the power to demand investigation. "I am convinced that control of freights is impracticable and undesirable in the interests of the public" said Mr. Cleminson. International control of freights was impracticable.

Owners Not Making Profit.

The whole assumption upon which the Canadian Government's proposal to take action with a view to controlling rates was based was that rates were unreasonably high. The witness said if ,therefore, an examination proved that the shipowners were getting no return on their capital, the assumption would have been disposed of. The conference could not be blamed. He thought later, witnesses would be able to show that shipowners at present were not making a profit when capital investment, etc., was considered. Perhaps every country had received a lesson on the evil consequence of artificial control.

Dodged Question.

Cross-questioned by Mr. Symington, Mr. Cleminson said that he had been general manager of the Chamber of Commerce since 1916. Before that, he was a solicitor. His paper was not founded on any personal experience of ship operation.

Mr. Symington questioned Mr. Cleminson as to his idea of what constituted a combine.

"If shipowners met in conference and fixed rates without any control, would that be a combine?" Mr. Symington asked.

Mr. Cleminson replied that it would not help much to discuss words. He preferred not to answer the question.

Mr. Symington: "Do you as an economist think that it is a sound economic principle that rates should be fixed by people who charge them, free from all control?"

"Yes, certainly."

"Is it true that there is now a great excess of tonnage?"

"It is true, yes."

"And a lack of cargo?"

"Yes."

"As a result one would expect that rates would decline appreciably?"

"They have relatively declined. Very much indeed."

Mr. Cleminson agreed that rates now were actually very much higher than in 1913, but taking into consideration the higher costs of operation at the present time rates were relatively lower. The margin of profit was less than in 1913.

Questioned further, Mr. Cleminson suggested:

(1) Inquiry by the Imperial Shipping committee.

(2) Preference between the merchants and ship owners.

Mr. Symington: "What is your objection to control?"

"I think it is in the worst interests both of the trader and of the shipowner. Control could not be exercised without a monopoly."

"What is your objection to control?" Mr. Symington repeated.

Harm from Control.

"My first reason is that I have never seen business better conducted by a Government than by a private enterprise. I have seen interference by Government do a great deal of harm. I am sure that if the Government interfered in the control of ocean rates it would do more harm than anything."

Mr. Symington questioned what would be the effect if, by reason of a government subsidy, a certain line of steamers reduced their rates ten per cent.

Mr. Cleminson replied that if the conference lines decided to meet the rates, one effect would be to prevent building of ships and the provision of ships.

There was some discussion as to the procedure in future. G. H. Montgomery, counsel for the steamship companies, voiced an objection to having to make his defence before witnesses for the other side were heard.

However, he expressed perfect willingness to furnish all information in regard to the financial operation of the vessels.

The committee adjourned to Tuesday next.

Mrs. Grace Kitchen, St. George, Ont., writes: "After having a severe attack of pneumonia I was left in a weak and run down condition. THE COASTING NUISANCE.

Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The usual spring nuisance is here—boys with coaster wagons. As my business takes me a great deal on Inverlea street and Smith street, walking is really dangerous in this locality, for boys are racing down those incline streets with two or three wagons after each other. How those people on Inverlea Street put up with the yelling and noisy wagons at times is a mystery. For safety sake I hope the police will put a stop to it soon.

PEDESTRIAN.

Editor of the Examiner

Mr. Editor:

As you have given farmers the privilege of expressing their opinions on daylight saving, I beg to present mine.

Farmers do not find it at all practicable. Certainly we can find a job at 4 a. m, if we get up, but that hour in the morning is very sweet to us, and we are glad of the strength it provides, before the day is over. It is out of the question to finish up our work at 4 p. m. Anyone knows that from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. is a very valuable portion of the day, for haying and harvesting. We cannot start cutting or drawing in till the dew is off, and no sane man would think of quitting at 4, if the weather is good. I suppose the sports would tell us we might have our ball game between milking time and field time say 7 a. m. till 9 a. m., but I am afraid the harvest would come in slowly after that.

As for shopping in town, we have been many times put about by daylight saving. Very often we cannot leave home before noon, the horse may be in use, or work may detain us. One o'clock here means 2 o'clock in town. Just as the women have got started on a shopping tour the key clicks in the lock and the store is closed. Yes, Mr. Editor, it happened, and Eaton's have had a mail order in consequence.

It may be, we sent for a couple of plough points, or a bag of bran, (the women often bring these) but they cannot get them, it is too late so next morning we call up the country store. We leave it to the city merchants to do what they think best, but it is a fact that the last time the city had daylight saving, the country store gained more than one regular customer, who was very irregular before.

Besides all this, do you think farmers can persuade their young people to stay on the farm, trying to make things go, while their city neighbors can spend so much valuable time in leisure, and still get a living. I have heard them say on returning from town, "Everybody was through work when I left, and I have an hour and a half's work to to—Gee! Town for me." We are quite in sympathy with many of the arguments of city "pros" but are only stating some of our own.

Yours,

"CO-OPERATION."

DAYLIGHT SAVING IS NOT FOR COWS.

The Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Regarding daylight saving, may we first state that we, like others, appreciate the opportunity to obtain the opinion of the people in regard to this subject.

It was the intention not to take up any of your space in discussing this question due to the fact that such a great majority of the people of the city have already expressed themselves in favor of daylight saving and no person who is opposed to it has brought up any arguments that are worth-while discussing. However, out of the very few letters that you have had from those opposed to the system there are one or two statements which might be wrongly construed, and if not refuted they might be considered facts. It has been stated that our rural neighbors will deal in Lakefield, Lindsay and the mail order houses in Toronto. To this list is now added Bridgenorth. We would also suggest that they deal at Nassau as it kind of splits the difference between the other towns. Such arguments are not according to the rules of business. The individual opinions of any member of a community cannot control the trade. Trade will always seek its level and it will flow to Peterboro in exactly the same way as heretofore. If Peterboro merchants can manufacture and produce the goods they will get the business, otherwise it will go to the mail order houses or the small adjacent towns. Trade cannot be boosted by any artificial or underhand methods, neither can it be retained by business men trying to straddle the fence. All men are respected for coming out clear on any subject and not trying to agree with 'two sides of an argument. There has never been any permanent success obtained by trying to float with the tide. It gets you nowhere. One part of the day you are floating in one direction, and the other period you are floating the other way.

It has been stated by our friend from Campbellford that "this is not the proverbial prejudice with which farmers and others are inclined to greet every proposed innovation," I do not believe that the majority of farmers or citizens either are as stated in this quotation. There are always a few that are against everything, and they usually make themselves heard via the loud speaker route, amplifying their objections until one would almost think there was a crowd when it is possibly only a very few people.

This gentleman also stated that "daylight saving is a detriment to their calling, and they meet the proposition not with sentimental palaver but with practical argument." He also goes on to state that it causes confusion when they go to town to do their shopping. In answer to this, as far as can be ascertained from the merchants, there is very little shopping from rural communities between four and five o'clock in the afternoon when the stores close, and this is the only hour that will be affected. Throughout the summer months that is asked for daylight saving the stores in Peterboro close on Thursday afternoon. They are all open on Saturdays until nine o'clock at night or later, therefore, there are only four days in which the farmer might be inconvenienced between the hours of four and five in the afternoon, and in these hours they do very little shopping.

With daylight saving the farmers who come in on the standard time trains will find our stores open in the morning instead of closed, as at present, and ready to do business. They will then be able to get home by the noon train instead of wasting a day in Peterboro as at present (though we do not consider it a waste of time to stay in Peterboro for a few extra hours).

Another argument that is used, it interferes with the work in the morning in the rural communities. What the writer does not know about the farm will fill a very large book, but I have spent, in my younger days, a great deal of time on a farm and know something of the routine. There is nothing in daylight saving that will interfere with milking the cows twelve hours apart any different from standard time. That is for the individual farmer to deal with himself. The cows themselves are not being consulted in this case, and they will hardly know the difference if we do change the town whistle, and as it is, the whistles do not blow twelve hours apart, so you cannot settle the time for the cows by the whistle.

With reference to haying and harvesting, "no binder will work well in a field of grain that is damp from either rain or dew." The farmer may delay his binder until the rain or dew is off the grass and daylight saving has nothing whatever to do with this. It is only a statement in regard to the routine of a farm.

If the farmers of this country, as stated in another letter, operate four teen to eighteen hours per day, that is possibly where the trouble with the rural districts lies. It is quite possible that good management will reduce these hours and obtain far better results. I do not think the question of the town changing to daylight saving will interfere half as much as trying to work the hired man eighteen hours per day. We hear of the children on the farms leaving for cities. Possibly this is one of the reasons but the writer does not pretend to know.

I know of a large number of farmers, and successful farmers at that, who do not work fourteen to eighteen hours per day, and get results. I know of some workmen who work eighteen hours per day and they do not obtain the results of the man who works ten hours per day. There are fuss-budgets in the factories and in business life as well as on the farms, there are men who are not satisfied unless they are tearing the life out of themselves, their wives, families and hired men. This class of people very seldom obtain results.

The above three arguments are the only ones that have been put up against daylight saving. The rest are opposition pure and simple, whether from personal reasons or lack of investigation, or what, we cannot say. Against these arguments we submit the results of daylight saving in a large number of communities who are adopting it year after year on a large vote.

Last summer on my way to the lakes I saw a very fine sight, and it was just in the middle of the harvesting season too. In a large field on one of the farms there was a football watch going on, and at this match there were possibly some two hundred cars, and everybody seemed to be having a whale of a time. Now, gentlemen from the country, fall right into line, continue your football matches and have more of them. Come in and enjoy those in town and you will have a more contented people than you will have by working fourteen to eighteen hours per day. Do not have strife and opposition between the urban and rural districts. Neither you nor we will gain by such incidents. You can't get away from Peterboro if you try, and Peterboro can't get away from you. You may deal in Bridgenorth and buy Quaker Oats or C.G.E. wire, or Matthews bacon, or De Laval separators, or Canadian woollens, and so on all down the line. You can't get away from Peterboro, for Peterboro produces what you want and what we hope you will have the money to pay for. There is not a business man or a manufacturer or industrial worker who does not like to see the farmer obtaining decent prices and good results from his labor. We hope you can keep these prices up for your prosperity in our prosperity.

I thank you.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

HERE IS THE SOLUTION

Editor, Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Regarding the daylight saving — a farmer's day is quite long enough. He is up by five or five thirty has a little rest after dinner ,and often is not through his chores, milking and such things, until seven or eight o'clock. In harvest the dew is not off, as it is, by the time he is ready to cut grain, and if he were ready an hour earlier, there would be just that time lost.

It would make getting to market in time much more difficult.

There would be more trailing through wet grass in early morning, and before daylight for cows.

When Daylight Saving was in force many farmers put their clocks on, so as not to make mistakes in business appointments but did their work at the regular time according to the sun, that is an hour later by their clocks.

Yours truly,

S. M. C.

A THREAT TO PETERBORO.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In my judgment, the whole trend of Mr. W. A. Wood's letter is, if he will permit the expression, both narrow and extreme. He and the friends he makes reference to, threaten the Peterboro storekeepers, that they will buy in Toronto at Eatons, etc. Might I ask, is it true they are having daylight saving in Toronto, and is it not also true Eatons at any rate close every Saturday afternoon during the summer? Why then boycott poor Peterboro? Why also endeavor to stir up feeling between city and rural folk, a feeling which exists only in his own imagination?

Doubtless Mr. Wood comes regularly to Peterboro every week and sells his produce to best advantage. Would it not be nicer to leave a small portion of the proceeds behind to help the poor storekeeper rather than spend it in outside cities? If this were done by Mr. Wood, and I fear he is not alone in this respect, by any means, we should have a much more prosperous city than we at the moment have.

J. R.

A FARMER IN FAVOR

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir:

I am in favor of Daylight Saving because I have to go to market on the morning train along with many others and it is so tiresome waiting for hours for business to start. No stores, no banks open until 9 and 10 o'clock and the market usually hangs out till 12 o'clock because the early buyers walk around pricing eggs here and tasting butter there but wait awhile to buy. Some of these ladies have to leave for home at noon, others between noon C. N. R. and 3. 35 C. P. R. and have very little time to look around and do their shopping and often have to go home without things we need and on Monday send off to Toronto for an order. In a few days it is at the gate and usually very satisfactory. Many are going to ship cream and eggs to Toronto and save themselves much work and inconvenience and can do their shopping in villages or by sending to the city and those who drive to market are always there by 9 or 10 o'clock and they need not come earlier as business does not start till 10.

I go to market on the train by standard time and would have one hour longer by daylight saving time.

RATS ATE RECORDS

Class Conducting Tests Found Hungry Subjects Had Chewed Book.

BERKELEY, Cal., April 18.—Some white rats, under observation for the effects of a new discovered vitamine, recently tipped over their cages in search of food and, seeing nothing else handy, started in to devour the record book of their activities made in the household science department of the University of California.

When the class conducting the experiments gathered next day, the record book was found in bad shape. Several valuable pages had been chewed out. The rats were still milling around looking for something more edible.

A Score of New Results Emphasize The Difference

If a year ago the Chrysler Six had been merely another new car, its first-year production of over 32,000 cars—the largest ever recorded—would not have been required.

But the Chrysler Six is an entirely new type of car, built on a new kind of engineering which produces results radically different from any yet registered.

The difference of Chrysler engineering is emphasized by the fact that its 3-inch motor develops 68 horse-power, a speed of more than 70 miles an hour and 24 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

The difference is further emphasized by the fact that you can drive comfortably at 60 miles an hour over cobbled streets, that side-sway is eliminated, that it possesses an oil-filter to cleanse all motor oil as the car runs and an air-cleaner for the carburetor.

Everything that Chrysler advanced design means in the operation, comfort and high quality of a motor car will be made clear in a half-hour's driving. We are eager to prove that Chrysler is the best built car you ever drove.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. Chrysler dealers and superior Chrysler service everywhere.

YOUTH STEALS MOTHER'S WINE

Peterborough Young Man Drunk on Street—Forbidden by Mother.

FINE IMPOSED.

"I stole the wine from my mother" was the plea of a Peterboro young man in court this morning when charged with being intoxicated on George Street. "She doesn't allow me to have it, but I went down in the cellar and drank about a cupful," he continued.

Far from satisfying Magistrate O. A. Langley, this recital awakened in him a spirit of righteous indignation that the youth, not satisfied with being drunk, should brazenly admit having disobeyed his mother and stolen her wine. He fined the young man $10 and costs, gave him some good advice, and warned him not to appear again.

An interesting interlude in the hearing was the evidence that a certain dance always yields its one or two drunks, although Chief Newhall said he believes the managers are endeavoring to keep it clear of objectionable features. It is the belief of the Chief that someone is taking advantage of the gatherings to peddle liquor, and Magistrate Langley remarked that he is just waiting for one of the bootleggers to appear before him for a lesson.

Another twist was given the hearing when the accused young man gave a dissertation on the intoxicating properties of wine compared with the beer of a few years ago. One could, he said, drink "an awful lot" of the "good old beer," but this cup of wine went to his head quickly. He admitted getting into an argument about a pal who had committed suicide, and was in the midst of the heated debate when picked up by a constable.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

AN ALL HUMBUG WAY.

Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir: If G.M. will place his full name to a letter I would be only too pleased to explain more fully my recent letter. It always seems when one writes using other than his usually known name, that he does not wish to be cited as one who cannot understand a clearly written letter, as in this case, or he cannot stand and defend his attitude in his letter. Perhaps he wishes it to appear that there are a great many writing on his side of the question. G. M. might mean's Gump's Mother, so it may be a lady correspondent.

What we want is a proper ballot at an election so the majority will get what they want. No council has in my humble opinion any right to pass on this daylight saving question without a vote, and it will likely be tested. The clock must be left as it is for the present.

As for the postmen, here is their position: They arrive at the Post Office at from 6 to 6.30 a.m., and under daylight saving they will arrive at from 5 to 5.30 a.m., and the mails will be an hour later arriving at our homes, as the railroad time is standard time.

Under present time the delivery starting at 1 o'clock will mean 2 o'clock under daylight saving.

Under present conditions the post men have 1¼ hours at noon, but under daylight saving they will be hanging around the post office 3 hours and be later by one hour or more getting their work finished.

It is an all humbug way to run time. Do not leave it like the old saying, Let Jack do it, but get the ballots in if you mark them against daylight saving; otherwise forget them. Yours truly,

MAURICE E. KETCHESON.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

By BERTRAM REINITZ.

He was, in every way, his community's conception of an exemplary young man. He was a conspicuous and inspiring figure in public-spirited movements. His zeal was not the fitful kind that flames in enthusiastic assemblages and cools before the tedious task of house-to-house canvassing for even the worthiest cause. He did not wink significantly and reach toward the sideboard when company came. The cocktail shaker had no place on his buffet, and jazz was without a haven on his shining parquet floors.

Older men advised their sons to emulate his example. Mothers with maturing daughters regretted that earlier demand had taken him from the marriage market.

He had served as President or Chairman of almost every organization of the younger element in his social world before he was 25. His name was prominently mentioned when there was any vacancy to fill in the senior societies, and his election hinged solely upon his acceptance.

He took his honors gratefully and modestly. It was understood that his time belonged to the community, particularly to that part of the community in need of philanthropic aid.

In the course of his unflagging services he earned the warm regard of many outstanding figures in the city's commercial and social life. He was summoned to their councils when charity campaigns were to be launched. He was usually the youngest man present, by some twenty years.

He had earned his seat with the mighty not merely by reason of his spiritual attainments, but also because of the high valuation placed upon the business acumen through which, it was reputed, he had amassed a fortune in less than a decade.

When he gathered with the patriarchs he was deferential to the point of reticence. He ventured an opinion only when invited to do so. Nods of approval and ripples of assent usually greeted his remarks.

It was not difficult for those sages to understand that such a wise young man might very well have won his way to a competence at an age when most youths were only making ready to start.

His unselfish devotion to his fellowmen was not manifested in social activities alone. It permeated the conduct of his business as well. He had found the baffling recipe for blending his profits and little risk, and he was willing to share his remarkable discovery with his associates in the various humanitarian projects in which he was engaged.

A number of sums of money for investment and been literally thrust upon him. They yielded the unbelievable return of 5 per cent. a week. Men and women began importuning him to multiply their money. Their gratitude for his kindness was touching.

His reputation was his bond. Those who made as if to investigate him before investing with him were reproved by their friends. A fine expression of gratitude! When this splendid young man was sharing his secret with comparative strangers, was his reward to be an intimation of distrust?

It was said that he had an uncanny knack of purchasing great stocks of merchandise at his own figure and turning them over some seconds before the ink of the purchase order had dried. He bought from firms that simply had to have money and he sold to houses that simply had to have goods, according to the encouraging reports reached the investors.

He was also described as a skillful buyer of accounts receivable, purchasing these from concerns that felt that a dollar in cash was worth three in the books.

His intimate friends began to note that he bore unmistakable signs of nervous strain. They were not surprised when he slipped away quietly for a few days and gave neither them nor his wife a forwarding address.

As a matter of fact, they did not hear from or about him until police headquarters telephoned one evening to say that he was held there and would not be home for several days.

The speaker at the other end of the wire was courteous but uncommunicative. He met started questions impassively, then hung up. Dimly the wife comprehended that her home and her hopes had somehow been shattered.

She heard the cold, hard truth the next morning. Her husband's famous speculations had been more in the nature of peculations. The precise character of his enterprises had never been clear to her. She was a houseifed and knew nothing of high finance. She began to learn now, to her sorrow.

And the world heard the truth. The exemplary young man had not earned wealth. He had merely borrowed it.

He had contracted a debt, a comparatively insignificant one, ten years before. It was too much for him to pay out of his modest salary as an accountant. He was the oldest of a fatherless family of five, and when the landlord and the tradesmen were paid out of his meagre income, there was no surplus to be applied to the wiping out of his obligation.

His creditor pressed him. The young debtor was obliged to raise money elsewhere to silence the demand for payment. His credit was poor. The interest rate on the second loan was high. He plunged into greater borrowing. One of the most successful ways in which he borrowed was to promise to "invest" the money of those who hoped to enjoy the rare combination of heavy interest and light hazard.

Faced with staggering debts and impatient creditors, he turned to some of his wealthy associates in welfare work for assistance. He did not make a direct appeal to them. Instead, he signed their names to notes.

For many weeks he collected enough in this way to pay handsome "dividends" to the scores of men and women who had given him all of their confidence and much of their money.

At last came the law and laid a heavy hand on his shoulder. His days of high financial achievement were over.

When the next vacancy occurs in one of the many societies to which he belonged, he will not be a candidate.

"Let's go to California"

EVERY day some tired, prosperous or otherwise travel-inclined man says to his wife, "Let's go to California!" And such is the power of advertising that, although neither of them may ever have been there before, they know just how to go, approximately what it will cost, and where they will want to stay.

The same with anything you may need or want. You already know all about it, by whom it is made, what it costs, and where it is for sale. Advertising is the modern intelligencer. It keeps you informed, advises you of new things, suggests new uses for articles you already own, and prepares you to-day for wise and useful purchases to-morrow.

It does all this for you, almost unconsciously, during the half-hour or so you spend each day with your newspaper. Little by little—the best and surest way to learn—advertising makes you informed of what is going on in the world that is useful to you.

Read the advertisements. Get ready for to-morrow.

W. H. MERRILL FIRST ORDER

Puts Peterborough on Map as an Up to the Minute City.

CONGRATULATIONS.

The Examiner has received the following letter from the Gardner Seed Company of Rochester, N. Y. It will prove interesting to citizens of Peterboro:

"The Peterboro Examiner.

"Gentlemen,—The writer has just had called to his attention the fact that one of your citizens, who has been our local representative for a great many years, has just sent in a very splendid bunch of orders for the spring of 1926 delivery.

"We refer to Mr. W. H. Merrill of 544 Harvey street. This is the very first business that we have received thus far for the season of 1926, and Mr. Merrill again wins the honor of being the first man to bring in new business. We could hardly let this opportunity go by without bringing this little incident to your attention, because we believe that Mr. Merrill's enterprise is nearly characteristic of the aggressiveness shown by the citizens of Peterboro in many other directions. The writer, who has spent several years in Canada, has visited Peterboro at different times, and has always greatly admired your city.

"And as far as Mr. Merrill is concerned, it might interest you to know that our sales force, at the present time numbers over two thousand men, among whom there is considerable competition of the honor of being the first to book new business. Hence, in our little circle Mr. Merrill is regarded very highly, and to the officers of this company Peterboro, Ontario, represents a community of people with whom it is a distinct pleasure to do business.

"Here at home we are working and boosting at all times for a greater Rochester. Let us join hands across our invisible boundary line for a greater Peterboro also.

"Cordially yours,
"Gardner Seed Company."

LABOUR COURT'S POWER SHOWN

U. S. Supreme Court Holds Compulsory Arbitration Is Not Valid.

KANSAS METHOD.

WASHINGTON, April 18—Holding compulsory arbitration of industrial disputes unconstitutional, the Supreme Court on Monday deprived the Industrial Relations Court of Kansas of its last material weapon to force settlement of such controversies with the object of preventing strikes.

In an opinion delivered by Justice Van Devanter, the court recalled that the present case, arising out of a protest by the Charles Wolff Packing Co. against an order of the Industrial Court fixing the hours of labor in its plants, was not the first time the statute had been fixed before its construction, the fixing of wages in the same company's plant by the Industrial Court previously having been held unconstitutional.

The court refused to pass upon the question whether the fixing of the hours of labor would be valid if independent of a compulsory arbitration system, applicable to all business of a particular class, declaring that the case before it did not require it to go that far.

Pointing out that the jurisdiction of the industrial court had been confined by the statute creating it to certain so-called essential industries, and did not extend to fixing of wages or hours of labor generally, Justice Van Devanter asserted it constituted a system of compulsory arbitration. The act, he explained, compelled the parties to a labor controvery, without their consent, to submit to the arbitration, having no voice in the settlement, and there was no escape from the conclusion that it provided compulsory arbitration when reviewed from the standpoint of its purpose rather than its name.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, "In a statement, declared the Supreme Courts' decision was "a clear vindication of the position taken regarding the Kansas court of industrial relations by the American Federation of Labor," and "completely destroys the Kansas Industrial Court Act."

KING'S WHARF NEWS

Maple Syrup and Trapping Seasons Were Short This Year.

KING'S WHARF, April 18.—The maple syrup season is over. It was a very short one and not very good around here as the weather was too cold. The price was not so high as other years, being only $2.50 per gallon.

The trappers have all taken up their traps as the season is over. It was short and the catch not so good, but the quaity of the fur was better. The price is lower than last year. The buyers only offered from $1.75 to $2.00. The Indians gave the trappers considerable trouble along Pigeon Lake this year, as all the trapping ground was leased on both sides.

Mr. Patrick Collin had the misfortune to lose a valuable horse last week, which was a big loss as it was one of his team and he had to buy one to replace her.

Mr. Richard Murtha is moving back to his farm from the factory. He intends to work his farm this year and has already purchased a team of horses.

Mr. Patrick Perdue spent a few days last week as the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Perdue in Peterborough.

Miss Minnie Guiry of Lindsay is at present the guest of her brother John here.

A large number from here attended the sale at the farm of W. English in Verulam Tuesday and report prices good.

Mr. Michael Harrington has purchased the ranch owned by Mr. Thos. Jerman on the 13th concession.

SALES ON SUNDAY.

Refreshments in Victoria, B. C., Not Eaten on Premises.

VICTORIA, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—The City Police Commission has unanimously refused to accede to a demand by the Lord's Day Alliance for prosecution of Sunday purchasers of refreshments not consumed in premises.

Rev. Dr. Rochester headed a deputation of the Alliance and argued that the Act requires no sales of any kind on the Sabbath, save to relieve hunger or thirst.

RADIO LESSONS FOR MEXICANS

Government Station Will Broadcast School Lessons for Rural Districts.

.. POWERFUL PLANT

By A. W. FOLGER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, April 17.—(United Press)—Man's most recent invention will be brought into play very soon as a factor in the education of North America's most ancient race. Mexico's immense broadcasting station, CZE, installed here by the department of education, is to be utilized in the most comprehensive manner feasible for reaching the rural districts ,populated principally by the Indian, with an educational program.

In the most remote sections, where schools are rare or non-existent, radio will serve as "maestro" to thousands of Indian boys and girls, who might otherwise receive only the scantiest instruction, despite the government's broad program for taking education to them.

Under the supervision of Dr. Jose Manuel Puig Casuranc, secretary of education, the radio schedule will be directed so as to augument the work of the rapidly increasing number of rural schools. The distribution of receiving sets and magnifiers for these community centers will be made as speedily as the finances of the department permit.

Station CZE is one of the finest broadcasting plants on the continent, having carried to the most distant parts of both Americas and even reaching London. The equipment consists of 100 foot steel antenna masts, with a spread of 125 feet and a 500-watt transmitter. It operates on a 450-meter wave length.

The schedule at present is as follows: Meteorological bulletin, daily except Sundays, at 6 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, concerts, at 7 p.m.; Wednesday and Saturday, concerts 8 to 9.30 p.m. To these will be gradually added features of a more distinctly educational nature, especially agricultural courses to be given by day.

Dr. Puig Casauranc, one of the most eminent statesmen of Mexico, has undertaken seriously to adapt the educational system to the economic and socialogical needs of the country. Inasmuch as the government's agrarian program, upon the success of which depends ultimately the prosperity of the nation, is aimed essentially to benefit the Indian population, his plans for instructing the aborgine in agricultural methods and the crafts is most significant. While the radio will be of little practical value in schooling the young idea in reading and writing, it should prove of inestimable service in developing the economic capabilities of the youth.

CZE has already been widely utilized in broadcasting folk-songs by groups numbering as many as three hundred, composed both of laborers and of school children. Classical selections, both vocal and instrumental, form a part of the nightly concert program. Lessons in music ar also a part of the regular educational schedule.

Through the medium of CZE the entire republic enjoys the musical programs rendered by the police band of Mexico City, conceded to one of the best military bands in the world.

BENJAMIN WHITE IS EIGHTY YEARS OLD

Social Evening Celebrates His Birthday—Tells of Pioneer Days.

At the home of his daughter, Mrs. Graystock, the eightieth birthday of one of the pioneer settlers of this district, Mr. Benjamin White, was celebrated recently in the form of a social evening and gathering of old friends and neighbors of the octogenarian.

In the days of his youth, Mr. White, living in the log cabin homestead of his parents, with the help of the hired man, cleared 400 acres of land. He has seen ten yoke of oxen logging in one day, and has drawn a thousand bushels of wheat to the city during the same twenty-four hour period. Forty acres of fall wheat in one year was usual in those times, and Mr. White drove a team of horses in the shanties when he was fifteen years old.

In one year, fourteen hundred cords of wood were drawn out for the Grand Trunk Railway Company.

Mr. White, whose mother and twin brother, James, died in the old log cabin, was a volunteer in 1866 in Colonel Poole's battalion, and often drilled on the old Market Square. The record of his family today includes an ownership of twenty-seven hundred acres of good land in Canada, ten first-class brick houses and three lots in city and village. There are four school teachers in the family, a Justice of the Peace, a County Warden, a reeve, two clergymen, a lawyer and a missionary.

Mr. White first settled in business as a dairyman and cattle-buyer. He built an abbatoir and pork packing plant and supplied various shops in the city. He has been a member of city choirs and is author of "The Mission of Life" and "The Log Cabin Books." He also wrote for a leading church paper for many years, and has received numerous letters of appreciation of his work from educational authorities in Canada.

The President of the United States cannot be arrested for any offense. He is amenable only to impeachment.

COMMUNISTS KILLED SAYS REPORT TODAY

The Bulgarian Government Takes Extraordinary Precautions After Outrage in Cathedral.

SOFIA, April 18 (Canadian Press).—The Bulgarian Government is taking extraordinary measures to prevent any further development of the terrorist campaign marked by an attempt against King Boris and the bombing of Sveti Kral Cathedral with a loss of 150 lives. A large number of Communists and Agarian extremists have been arrested. It is reported that a number of Communists were killed during the night, this resulting from feeling against them engendered by the cathedral outrage.

Having proclaimed martial law yesterday, the government now has ordered a house to house search of all Sofia. Street traffic is prohibited and patrols of solders and police pass incessantly.

The city is in mourning and all stores are closed. The question uppermost in the public mind is whether the attempt against the king and the cathedral bombing are precursors of more serious troubles. The possibility of an armed uprising is discounted, but further outrages against persons and property are not unlikely and the authorities are taking all possible precautions.

Two boxes of explosives and automatic pistols are reported to have been found at Kostenetz Station on the Paris-Constantinople route. The explosives, it is believed, were to have been used in destroying a big bridge nearby.

TRINITY CHURCH CHOIR CONCERT

Musical Ability of Regular Members and Assisting Artists Appreciated.

BIG AUDIENCE.

(By Jeannette).

The annual choir concert of Trinity Methodist Church took place last evening with a very good attendance of between four and five hundred people, who applauded with enthusiasm the various numbers by the choir and assisting artists: Miss Aileen Bawden, elocutionist, of Toronto; Mrs. George H. King, soprano soloist; Miss Edwina Palmer, violinist, and Miss Agnes Logan, accompanist. A varied and interesting programme included vocal contributions in choral selections, solos, sextette and octettes, readings and violin numbers.

The choir acquitted itself admirably, the forty members demonstrating once again their own careful attention to every phase of choral work and the excellent training provided by their leader, Mr. Geo. H. King.

Their first selection was the opening chorus, Elgar's "Lullaby" (from the Bavarian Highlands), sung with pleasing effect. Alfred Gaul's "Daybreak" brought forth a volume of clear, fine harmony, with soft shading and full, graceful intervals in the chant of the morning.

The choir did some fine work in their unaccompanied selections, which are always a test of choral ability. Particularly good was their rendition of "Come, O Thou Traveller," sung a capella, a deep-voiced, majestic number. The finale to the programme, sung by request, was an expressive rendition of the beautiful "Goin' Home" chorus from Anton Dvorak's famous "New World" Symphony. This was accompanied by piano and organ.

Mrs. King was in splendid voice last night, and had a charming programme of vocal numbers. Particularly dainty was the trio of light numbers, eminently suited to the timbre of the soloist's voice: "Morning," a matin song in which the rich, sympathetic sweetness and warm depths of Mrs. King's fine soprano were demonstrated to perfection, "You in a Gondola," a brief, dainty love bit, and "The False Prophet," done with charming effectiveness. The applause which followed this group also rewarded the vocalist's other solos: two beautiful sacred numbers, including "The Cross."

Miss Aileen Bawden, of Toronto, delighted her hearers with a number of well-executed readings. Possibly her best numbers were of the talking type, rather than these with dramatic atmosphere. An encore, "The Disgusted Englishman's Views of Life," was especially good, as was "The Deceived Wife," the monologue story of the newly-weds who have a jealous interval in their honeymoon, and the habitant number, "De Leetle Cabane." Miss Bawden has a very pleasing stage presence, a beautifully-modulated voice and excellent powers of mimicry. Her attractive programme, which brought her encores after every selection, included "From Artisan to Artist," the story of the blacksmith painter and his lady love, "Pat and the Spy," an Irish "take off" done in dialect, and several pleasing encores: "The Wish of a very small girl," "The Darky and the Watermelon," and a final reading, "The Blue above the Grey." "De Leetle Cabane" had an organ accompaniment by Mr. King.

A portion of the programme that held the attention of the audience throughout every number was the violin playing of Miss Edwina Palmer. The skilful execution and technical mastery of the violiniste was apparent in each selection, combined with a pleasing tone and sure, delicate fingering. The music of the king of instruments is always demonstrated effectively by Miss Palmer, who excelled herself last evening. Schumann's "Romance" and Mozart's "Rondo" comprised the first double offering, the first a graceful legato number, the second a swift, light piece, done with dancing bow and free wrist, and a very effective unaccompanied passage of double-stopping.

A suite of interpretive numbers included a violin arrangement of the lovely "Pale Moon," odd, shimmering music, with high pitched harmonic finale, "Love Sorrow," a Viennese waltz, with soft-toned, gliding measures, and a second Viennese dance, "Joy," bright, graceful.

A mixed octette gave two selection: German's "In England, Merry England," the deep masculine voices blending beautifully with the light-toned sopranos in the morris dance atmosphere of this jolly number, and "The Dance," a brilliant arrangement of Gounod's "Faust" waltz.

A male chorus gave a brief rendition of the pretty little number, "Keep on Hopin'," and one of the most entertaining selections was the ladies' sextette, singing "Little Pee-Weet," a dainty bird-song number with delicate inflections.

The piano accompaniments by Miss Agnes Logan, who played for the majority of the selections in her usual proficient style, added immeasurably to the attraction of a very fine programme.

The Pied Piper of Hamelin

In Brunswick, near the famous old city of Hanover, the quaint little town of Hamelin, nestling close beside the Weser River, is as peaceful and pleasant a spot as one could wish to see.

Hundreds of years ago the people of this quiet little village were most terribly annoyed by a plague of rats. So bold did they become that they not only ate or destroyed the food in the larders and cellars—fruits, preserves, meats, cheese, everything—but they annoyed the women and often spoiled their chats by their squealing and squeaking. They even bit the noses and ears of babies, right in their cradles. The cooks complained that the rats licked the soup right off their ladles.

The patient people of Hamelin stood it as long as they could; but finally, vexed out of patience, they gathered in the town hall and roundly scolded their Mayor and Council for not ridding the town of the pests.

Now, these fat old men, sitting around the Council table in their costly coats of ermine, had life very easy indeed. They were not so worried by the rats as the housewives and anyway they didn't know what to do about it.

But when the people threatened to get a new Mayor and Council they became very anxious to do something.

So they sat for hours, scratching their heads and racking their brains in the hope of finding a way out of their difficulty. After worrying over the matter until they were tired and nervous there came a gentle tapping at the door.

"What's that! A rat?" cried the Mayor in alarm. "My heart jumps whenever I hear anything that sounds like a rat."

But it was only some one knocking lightly at the door.

"Come in!" called out the Mayor, trying to look more important that he really felt.

In came a very queer-looking old man, with a long coat of red and yellow. He was tall and thin, with bright little eyes and a faint smile played about his lips.

He advanced to the table and said:

"Please, Your Honors, by a secret charm I am able to draw after me all living creatures. Of course, I use this charm chiefly to get rid of those that do people harm—snakes, lizards, hornets and such—and people call me the Pied Piper."

They noticed that hanging to the scarf about his neck was a long pipe, like a flute.

"In Asia last June," continued the Piper, "I freed the Nizam of thousands of vampire bats; and in Tartary I got rid of great swarms of gnats. Now for the thing that is troubling you. If I drive all the rats out of Hamelin, will you give me a thousand guilders?"

"Gladly!" cried the Mayor. "Even fifty thousand."

The Piper stepped out into the street and, placing the pipe to his lips, began playing. Scarcely had he begun when out of the houses the rats came tumbling. Rats big, little, old and young; all kinds, sizes and colors came from every direction in hundreds and thousands and followed the Piper.

He piped his way along High street until they came to the Weser River, where the rats all fell in and were drowned—all except one. One tough old fellow swam the river and escaped to Ratland to tell the tale of what happened.

He told the most wonderful story of how the music called to him an invitation to a great banquet, of all the good things to eat—everything that rats like best—all spread for him in a wondrous big larder, where he could eat at his ease forever with none to bother him; but—just then the music stopped and the river was rolling over him, and he had to swim for dear life.

When the people of Hamelin found that the rats were really gone, there was much rejoicing and dancing and ringing of bells.

Then the Mayor ordered the nests dragged out and the holes stopped up, so that the rats never could come back.

Just then the old Piper spoke up: "First, if you please, my thousand guilders."

The Mayor looked blue. A thousand guilders was a right goodly sum to hand to this wandering fellow, and besides the state dinners the Mayor was so fond of had greatly reduced the treasury. So he said to the Piper:

"Here, fellow, take fifty. We are willing to pay you, of course, but a thousand guilders, that was a joke. Besides, the rats can't come to life again."

The Piper looked very stern and said: "No trifling now, I'm in a hurry. I must be in Bagdad by dinner time to dine with the head cook. I must have my thousand guilders or I'll pipe quite another tune."

"Don't threaten me, fellow," bawled the Mayor, "blow your pipe until you burst."

So the Piper stepped out into the street again and began to play. No one ever before heard such sweet notes. Suddenly all were startled to see children of all ages coming from every house, shouting and laughing, skipping and running after the Piper as he turned again toward the river.

The Mayor and Council stood dumb as blocks of wood and could neither move nor cry out to stop the children; but could only watch them being carried away.

Just before reaching the river the Piper turned his steps toward Koppelberg hill and every one was relieved, for they thought he never could climb its steep side. But when they came to the hill, a huge door opened in its side and the Piper and all the children passed out of sight as the door closed after them.

Not all, for one little lame fellow could not keep up and was left behind. He was very sad and felt that he had been cheated.

He told of the wonderful things that the Piper's music had promised him—a beautiful land of birds and flowers and sweet music, where everything was far more lovely than they had ever known. He was told that his lame foot would quickly be cured—and then the music stopped and he was left alone, limping as before.

It was a sad day for Hamelin when all the children had gone. Of course the Mayor sent word in every direction that he would pay the Piper any price at all if he would bring back the children; but they never heard of the Piper or the children again.

Like so many people, they found out their mistake too late. They changed the name of High street and called it Pied Piper street, and allowed no taverns there to disturb its quiet. They also put up a marble column with the story cut in the stone, and painted the story in pictures in a beautiful church window so that all the world would know how their children had been stolen away.

A decree was made that no public record or legal paper would be considered properly dated that did not say, in addition to the year, month and day, "and so long after what happened here on the Twenty-second of July, 1376."

After all, these things did not bring back their children, who had been taken away because the Mayor broke his promise. To be sure they chose another Mayor and elected another Council; but what good could that do after the children were gone?

Travelers coming to Hamelin were questioned to learn if they had seen or heard of the piper or children. Often the piper was reported in one section of the country or another, but when a messenger would go to find out about it, all trace of him would be lost.

The people of Hamelin grew old, and finally gave up all hope of ever seeing their children again.

Some say that in Transylvania there is a tribe of people very different from their neighbors in looks and dress. There is a story among them that years ago their fathers and mothers came out of the side of a mountain not far from Hamelin in Brunswick; but no one seems to know very much about it.

Whether or not these were the lost children, we can only guess; but we may be very certain, even to this day, that if any one in Hamelin makes a promise, it will be faithfully kept.

MISSION CIRCLE ANNUAL MEETING

Golden Links Elected New Officers for the Coming Year.

MILLBROOK, April 18.—The final annual meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle, before union is consummated in June of this year, was held on Tuesday evening, Mrs. J. Spence extending the hospitality of her home for the gathering.

The honorary president, Mrs. V. C. Lambert, occupied the chair for the opening devotional and business period. Reports for the year were received and proved most encouraging.

The secretary, Wilma Fallis, reported nine regular meetings held in the past twelve months, with a total attendance of 174, an average of about twenty—the largest average which the circle has had in its history. There is a total enrollment of thirty-two, including three life members. A picnic held on the lawn at Mrs. P. Stinson's residence, last summer, a pumpkin social in the fall, and a supper served in February on the day of the Winter Horse Show, were among the public activities of the organization during the year.

The treasurer's report, presented by Miss L. Crocker, showed a total of over $60 raised in the term just closed, this amount constituting a record for the circle from the financial standpoint. The secretary was instructed to write and thank Miss E. C. Hawken, of Wahstao, Alberta, for a donation of two dollars. Miss Hawken, while principal of the public school here, was the efficient superintendent of the mission circle, and has maintained an active interest in its well-being ever since.

Mrs. Howard took charge of the election of officers, the list being: Honorary president, Mrs. V. C. Lambert; president, Mrs. J. McKnight; vice-president, Miss Etta Peel; secretary, Miss Wilma Fallis; corresponding secretary, Miss Elsie Spence; treasurer, Miss L. Crocker; superintendent, systematic giving, Mrs. F. Smith; organist, Miss Hattie Barnard; auditors, Mrs. J. L. Byam and Miss P. Burnham; heralds, China, Margaret Howard, and Japan, Mrs. Cecil Hubbeard; temperance, Miss Edith Sheppard, Austrian and oriental, Miss Marjorie Skitch, Indian work, Miss H. Barnard.

Mrs. Lambert read a letter from Rev. Dr. Struthers, a Presbyterian missionary to China, who is a relative of her family, giving an interesting account of the difficulties experienced by the writer with his wife and three children, in reaching their destination in Honan Province upon their return from furlough last fall.

A programme committee, consisting of the president, Misses Etta Peel and M. Sayles, was appointed for the next meeting.

Mrs. Spence, assisted by her daughters, Misses Elsie and Gertrude, and Mrs. C. Hubbeard, served refreshments at the conclusion of the meeting and a pleasant social hour was spent before the gathering dispersed.

Mrs. J. McKnight was appointed delegate to represent the circle at the branch meeting held in Simcoe street church, Oshawa, June 2, 3 and 4, opening on Tuesday at 2.30 p.m.

COE HILL MAY URGE CLAIM FOR RAILWAY

Said to be Second Largest Shipping Point for Timber.

APSLEY, April 18.—The tremendous amount of lumber and timber that has been handled to Coe Hill this winter, a big proportion of which has been drawn from the country around here seems to warrant the revival of the agitation for a railroad to be extended from Coe Hill to at least the foot of Loon Lake, which would not be a difficult or expensive undertaking, the distance only being nine miles and with no serious grades to overcome. It has been said that Coe Hill is the second largest shipping point in Canada for timber and a lot of this is hauled by teams fifteen and twenty miles. With a shipping railroad at the foot of Loon Lake, settlers could make three and four trips a day where under present conditions they can only make one. A move may be made in the near future to present this district's claim for consideration in this respect if sufficient support from the inhabitants can be obtained.

MADE HER BABY PLUMP AND WELL

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a benefit conferred upon her child. Mothers everywhere who have used Baby's Own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Zepherin Lavoie, Three Rivers, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels, and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple feevrs, expel worms, allay teething pains and promote healthful sleep. They are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Have you a room that is dark?

THE EXPERT SAYS:—
It's a treat for the decorator to turn those dark rooms that no-one wants to call his or her own into bright spots brimming with sunshine and laughter. Let me suggest 10123, 10160, 10262, 10500 or 05, 10812, 10951, 10144 or any of 10110 series.

EVERY house has one! Some times it's tucked away beneath the eaves, with windows that are small and poorly placed. Sometimes its single window faces a brick wall a scant three feet away. These are the rooms which constitute a problem.

Stauntons show many wallpapers designed for just such rooms. Papers which catch each ray of light, hold it, and reflect it into every corner—papers which defy the shadows.

Stauntons Semi-Trimmed feature is a general favourite. Simply rap the end on the table and the selvage falls off, leaving a neatly trimmed roll.

Ask your dealer to show you a Staunton paper for that dark room.

Paperhangers should write for particulars and name of nearest Staunton dealer. It's easy to satisfy customers with Staunton Semi-Trimmed Wallpaper.

YOUR GARDEN

THE PERENNIAL BORDER

Of all the plantings about the home, the perennial border may be made the most attractive and colorful.

In is undoubtedly the best way of displaying these plants and giving them the necessary attention. With perennials to choose from that bloom in the spring, summer or fall, one can have an almost continuous feast of bloom throughout the season. By planting bulbs and annuals to fill in the gaps one can have a delightful blaze of color from the melting of the snow until frosts start again.

By carefully following the suggestions that follow, the home gardener can arrange a satisfactory border that will add charm to the place and be a never-ending source of pleasure.

Making the Perennial Border

Penennial borders should be placed on the boundaries of the lawn or along the walks and drives preferably with a background of trees or shrubs. If on the boundaries the general outline facing the lawn should be irregular but along walks or drives the margin may foow the general derection of the walk or drive. Five to six feet is a desirable width, and anything less will be found more difficult to treat satisfactorily. The length will be limited only by the owner's ability to care for it properly.

Prepare the areas to be planted deeply, digging under a good application of well-rotted manure. Should manure not be available, use a commercial fertilizer.

Arrangement. — We have low, medium and tall plants to work with, all varying within this classification. For a border with a background, the tallest perennials will be planted at the back, the low-growing ones in front and the medium planted all through the middle ground. These medium growing plants should so be placed well towards the front, and the taller ones planted well towards the back, i.e., the planting should be arranged to give variety in height and a strict avoidance of banked effect. No background—the taller perennials are placed down the centre with a varying slope to the sides. Consideration should be given to the fact that certain perennials die down early in the season, and the arrangement should allow for these to be hidden by later varieties. Good-sized clumps are usually preferable, say at least 3 feet by 2 feet, depending upon the size of the area, though a number of scattered single specimens give variety. Distribute each variety the length of the border with the idea of having bloom everywhere the whole season through. This will require a good deal of thought and skill, and in future years a certain amount of re-arranging.

The color scheme should receive a certain amount of consideration, but for the beginning, color will pretty well take care of itself. Unless you are planting with the idea of some very definite color effect or combination in mind, make a beginning, and after seeing and testing a planting through a year's aspect, changes in color may be made another year. White may be used to separate discordant or strong colors, and a strong color contrasted with white appears to be very much more brilliant for the reason that the contrast accentuates the color.

Except for the above purposes, some advocate associating whites only with the paler colors, such as pinks and pale primrose yellow. Pure blues should be kept away from the purplish blues or mauves. Blues are excellent for special individual groups, and in some cases strong contrasts.

Two harmonizing groups of colors are, for example, rose, carmine, scarlet, orange and yellow; or another, lilac, lavender, mauve, purple and violet. These latter could be used equally well with each other or to contrast with a mass of yellow.

Material for planting the border may be obtained from the nurseryman, either field grown or pot grown. Pot grown plants are more compact and stand transplanting much better. A very good way is from well grown seedlings from your own garden seed-bed, which have been transplanted as they needed it and are ready to set out. Plan to start some this summer and order your seed right away.

For success in transplanting, it is best to remove the perennials with a good ball of earth, to avoid any setback in any part of their growing period.

Either water copiously the evening before or choose a day after a rain, so that the earth will not shake loose easily from the roots. A damp soil is really necessary. Starting at the plant's circumference, set the spade down its full depth into the earth all the way around; then gradually work it around the root mass, which will graually loosen if the implement is worked back and forth patiently. Grasp the entire top of the plant close to the ground and life gently, but firmly and continuously as the spade works its way underneath; and when at last the mass yields, tilt it over on the spade. It may be carried thus to its new place or deposited on a barrow to be moved there.

Replace in a hole dug a little larger than the earth ball, and in which the earth has been made soft and fine. Sift earth in at the edges and press down firmly. Fill in to a level with the ground, and after the final pressing stir up the top soil or throw some loose soil in for a mulch.

If you can obtain plants from a neighbor or have a partially filled border, or wish to renovate do not remove the entire plant, but use portions only for planting. The roots may be uncovered on one side of the clump, a portion cut off, say a half or two-thirds, and the earth restored after the reduction is made. This piece removed may be separated into as many new specimens as possible. Divide by pulling it apart with the hands or the use of a knife, depending on the compactness of the root system. Some perennials separate much more readily than others. Do not be afraid to separate into quite small pieces, as these will grow rapidly and will prove better in the end. Discard any very old pieces and use the young growth.

Distances Apart. — Distances are not as they are with trees and shrubs, as perennials can be trimmed or shifted about. For the smaller growing low perennnials, as Phlox hubulata, six inches; medium, Coreopsis, ten to fifteen inches; tall, Delphinium, one and one-half to two feet. The spread of the plant in relation to its height should, of course, be taken into consideration, as for instance, the peony, though medium in height, is very broad and requires to be planted three to four feet apart. Care should be taken to make the various clumps fit into one another irregularly. Do not give each clump a formal rounded outline.

Especially in the early stages of a newly-planted border, annuals may advantageously be used. Certain plants, such as bedding plants and stocks, are too stiff for the purpose. Verbenias, Phlox Drummondi, Salpiglossus, Marigolds and Snapdragons are most suitable. Asters and Zinnias will do, but are a little formal. Verbenas and Phlox Drummondi may be pinned down at intervals, and will form a dense mass of flowers. Bulbs may also be used successfully for early spring effect in the border. Here again, to the writer's mind, hyacinthes are too stiff and formal for clump planting. Narcissi of all kinds, tulips, crocuses and many of the other small flowering blubs are best.

CUPID PUSHES WHEEL CHAIR

When George Mock, 22, of Cincinnati, O., passed the home of Virginia Kingery, 20, he was impressed with the hearty smile of the girl, though she was unable to leave her wheel chair. Virginia has been an invalid since infancy due to infantile paralysis. Mock's visits became frequent. The other day he pushed the wheel chair to the courthouse and he and Virginia were married by Magistrate Harry McGrew.

One Hour to Destroy

Weeks and weeks to repair

The destruction to a road which can be done in one hour at this season of the year by an over-loaded truck or a high-powered passenger car travelling at excessive speed may take weeks of work to repair.

Even hard roads suffer under heavy weights when water lurks in road foundations, as it does during wet spring months. Foundations become "fractured" and road surfaces break. Wheels sink into gravel and macadam roads, which now are soft and porous.

To prevent the needless damage of the highways which must be repaired with the money of the people, The Highways Act provides that during March and April trucks (outside cities and towns)

"shall not be loaded in excess of one-half the carrying capacity of such vehicle as registered with the Department, without obtaining a permit as provided in Section 34."

As the cost of repair and maintenance of roads is falling more and more on the users of the roads, it follows that owners and drivers will consult their own interest by keeping their loads and speeds well within the legal limit at all times. They are here urged to do so.

In view of this public notice of the provisions of The Highways Act, further notice is given that its penalties will be rigorously enforced against those who disobey.

An advertisement issued by the Ontario Department of Highways to secure the co-operation of motorists and truck drivers, Automobile Clubs, Good Roads Associations and all other public spirited bodies, in abating the abuse of the roads of the Province.

The Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister; S. L. Squire, Deputy Minister.

SEEKS TO FORM THEATRE CHAIN

Nathanson Attempts to Establish Monopoly of Theatrical Business.

CONTROLS MANY

A step has been taken that may result in the establishment of a complete theatrical monopoly in Canada, to comprise both legitimate theatres and motion picture houses and to place the control of the theatrical entertainment throughout the Dominion in the hands of Mr. Nathanson, of Toronto, head of the Famous Players - Canadian Corporation, which controls the Capitol chain of movie houses in this country and a good many other theatres as well, including, in Montreal, the Palace and Loew's Theatre, with interests in Canadian Amusements, Ltd., and its chain of Montreal houses — the Strand, Papineau, Regent, Plaza, Rialto, Belmont, Coronar and Mount Royal.

The first step towards this has already been taken by the purchase of some of the ill-fated Trans-Canada property and so-called franchises. The next few days, it is expected, will see the completion of the business, and the discharge of the Trans-Canada Corporation from liquidation custody, with all its business wound up and the prospects of but an infinitesimal dividend to those shareholders who subscribed the two millions of its original capital.

The Grand Opera House in London, Ont., has actually been taken over with its franchise, and negotiations are at present under way to take also the Grand Opera House in Kingston, Ont.

Mr. Nathanson has also taken over from Theatrical Enterprises, Ltd., the houses they had under control in Chatham, Woodstock and St. Catharines, Ont. With this deal consummated, Theatrical Enterprises, Ltd., would also appear to pass out of the picture, as the operation of His Majesty's Theatre in Montreal has already been taken out of its hands by His Majesty's Theatre, Ltd., the present lessees.

Mr. Nathanson has organized a new booking office in Toronto under the title of Trans-Canada Bookings, Ltd. It is understood to be his aim to revive the Trans-Canada idea, which was an essentially sound one in principle, but which in practice and operation turned out to be a very costly experiment for the shareholders, among whom were Sir John Martin-Harvey and Mr. Percy Hutchinson, of London, England.

Some time ago Mr. Nathanson secured the only legitimate theatre at Fort William, Ont., and the terms and conditions were promptly made well-nigh prohibitive to legitimate attractions, in order, it is surmised, to throw all the patronage in that town into the local picture houses which Mr. Nathanson also controls.

With his Ontario chain of houses, however, Mr. Nathanson will be in a position to control the booking of legitimate attractions throughout that province, with the exception of the City of Toronto, where there is a cast-iron working agreement between the Princess Theatre, controlled by B. C. Whitney and playing the Erlanger attractions, and the Royal Alexandra Theatre, controlled jointly by L. A. Solman and the Shuberts and playing the Shubert attractions. In Toronto also Mr. Nathanson has sought to effect certain working agreements that would result in changes beneficial to the houses he controls, but so far without any result in regard to the Erlanger or the Shubert franchises.

C. P. Walker, of Winnipeg, and the Lougheed interests control the bookings in the West with the exception of Victoria, B.C., where Mr. Nathanson enters in. They have not in the past manifested any keen desire to be under the domination of any Toronto or Montreal interests.

There is all the material ready to hand now for a first-class competitive war in the entertainment world. His Majesty's Theatre in Montreal still remains independent, however. The outcome will be watched with the keenest interest by all concerned and by the general public not least.

MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE GREETS PRINCE OF WALES IN NIGERIA

Twenty Thousand Horsemen Manoeuvre in Brilliant Trappings at Durbar.

COMPLETE SILENCE.

Then Rolling of Hundreds of Drums Voice Natives' Welcome.

KAMO, Nigeria, April 18 (Canadian Press).—Crowds of natives poured into Kano all night long to get a view of the Prince of Wales, who arrived yesterday. New comers made such a noise, by blowing horns, that sleep was impossible.

The Emirs have already congregated for the Durbar (the formal reception to native princes). Most of them travelled hundreds of miles accompanied by hosts of retainers.

Despite the long train journey and his exertions at tennis, the Prince attended a dance after dinner last evening.

A striking scene awaited the Prince when he arrived at 8 o'clock this mornin gfor the Durbar. There were 20,000 horsemen, ranging in horse-shoe formation, all flaunting their colors, mounted British officers commanding native troops hurried about, completing their arrangements for the event. Press dispatches were taken from the Durbar to Kano post office by mounted police who galloped across fields to get news of the event to the wires.

Magnificent Spectacle.

As the Prince arrived complete silence fell on the big arena, this being the Nigerians' manner of showing their respect. Then the Nigerian Regimental Band, members of which play by ear, burst into a stirring march, and hundreds of native drums were vigorously beaten.

A parade of Nigerian infantry and artillery men, the latter carrying gun parts on their heads, was executed with beautiful precision.

Troops of the Emir's cavalry charged into the field almost to the Prince's feet, with their lances at point and their swords, many of them dating back to crusaders' times, waving in the air. At the last moment they pulled up spectacularly within a space less than two yards from the Prince, giving a magnificent display of horsemanship.

Great manoeuvres of cavalry followed, wave upon wave of horsemen each headed by a band playing ancient instruments and all clad in the most gorgeous uniforms, carrying out their movements with veteran-like precision.

The Prince viewed the scene with the most intense interest. The whole procession, in which many thousands participated, passed off without the slightest hitch.

ANNIVERSARY OF SCOTTISH POET

"Half a Scot by Birth and by Breed a Whole One."

DEAD 100 YEARS

Lord Byron died at Missolonghi, Greece, from marsh fever, on April 19th, 1824, and the centenary of the event has attracted much notice.

Born in London in 1788, he was descended from Scottish families on both sides, and this and the fact that he spent his youth in Aberdeen justifies his claim to be "half a Scot by birth and bred a whole one." It was when he was two years old that his mother took him to live in the Granite City. The house in which they resided has unfortunately not been treated like the homes of other celebrated persons. It was allowed to become an old clothes shop and tobacconist's combined. Not a thing about it to-day suggests that any special interest gathers round it, although Byron learned there his first lessons, there his mother alternately "hugged him and threw things at him," and there the first news arrived that the boy was a Lord. Had Byron been an Italian the house would certainly have been distinguished by a tablet, as Dante's is at Florence.

Aberdeen, however, has made ample amends by the magnificent statue which has been erected to Byron's memory in the grounds of the Grammar School. It was at this that Byron was educated. The statue is cast in bronze, and is set upon a pedestal of Inver-Braemar granite. It was unveiled on September 14th of last year.

"The world has only three great poets," a Continental writer has said. "Pindar, Milton, and Byron." But Britain has never ranked Byron so high. His body was refused burial in Westminster Abbey. Fifteen of the States of America, however, have towns in them which are called after Byron, and this is a record which even Shakespeare cannot rival.

Byron's Scottish characteristics were very pronounced. His north country accent never left him. In such a song as "Lochnagar" Scots preferences are easily traced. A good deal of his poetry has been forgotten, but his "Hebrew Melodies," and tragic pieces like "The Prisoner of Chillon," "Don Juan," and "Childe Harold," still command a reading public. Byron was only 36 when he died, and, like Robert Burns, he probably never realised the possible greatness which he possessed.

Steel Company Contends 1924 Wage Scale Cannot Be Paid.

HALIFAX, April 18. — (Canadian Press).—The conference called by Premier Armstrong to settle the strike of the Nova Scotia coal miners, went into session again this morning, and it is believed that this will be the final session. The trend of discussion has not been disclosed by any of those taking part, but it is believed that the British Empire Steel Corporation is adhering to its contention that the 1924 wage scale which the men now demand, is economically impossible.

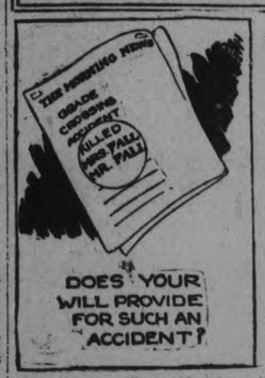
Money AT WORK



Does your will provide for the death of both husband and wife at the same time?

Many a man or woman who has made a will carefully feels entirely secure in the knowledge that he or she has left all of this world's goods to the life partner.

But in this day of frequent accidents the death of both at the same time is tragically common.

In any case a double death will bring a trail of complications. But without a will covering the situation the mix-up is much worse and if there are minor children it is still more complicated.

Consult with some reliable trust company as well as your lawyer and see what you can best do to put your affairs in perfect shape.

An equal division of the property is not always as fair as it sounds. In the case of minor children the younger ones have not as yet had as much money spent on their education as have the older ones. There should be enough taken from the general fund to bring all minors to the same point educationally. Then an equal division becomes fair and just.

If a trust company knows your wishes your plans will be carried out.

RUTH'S HOPES FOR RECORD BLASTED

Others Are Clouting the Ball While the Babe is Ill.

NEW YORK, April 18.—(Canadian Press).—Babe Ruth's promises and hopes for the greatest home run record he ever has compiled appear to have been blasted. Last night, after four days of the season had gone into history, the New York Yankees' outfielder lay upon a hospital cot recovering from an operation.

Ruth's illness, described as an attack of influenza, took on a much more serious aspect with the announcement that the appearance of abscesses on his back made surgical attendance necessary. For twenty minutes the star was stretched upon the operating table yesterday morning under an anaesthetic, but was reported to be resting comfortably last night.

Only a few days ago the great hitter felt that he could gain health in time to participate in the opening game of the American League season against Washington.

TYSON CAPTAIN OF MOTOR TEAM

Four Pitchers, Including Duke Dainty, Make Noise Like Big League.

PLAY OSLERS TO-DAY.

OSHAWA, April 18.—Since the get-together smoker and luncheon of the ball players of the City of Oshawa, which was arranged by the Central Ontario Baseball Club's executive, the summer pastime is day by day, in every way, assuming brighter prospects of landing the pennant of 1925. Al. W. Tyson has been appointed captain of the team and in response to the honor conferred, has come through with one of Dan Howley's prophesies "that the team which beats Oshawa will win the Central Ontario Amateur Bastball League flag this season." Al. expects great pitching from the slab artists, "Duke" Dainty, the fork hand flinger who has been with Oshawa the past two seasons and who will have as an assistant "Moose" Lennox, another left hander, who has taken up his abode in the Baby City of Canada, his former residence being Stouffville. For doing the throwing from the right hand side of the rubber Jimmy Breckenridge, of the old Leaside team of the Centrol Ontario League, has been seen winding up his soup bone in preparation for an early start, while this week a nephew of Billy Dineen—no relation to the big league umpire by that name—but a descendant of one of Oshawa's earliest settlers, whose father has now taken up his permanent residence on Celina Street of this city reported besides these two right handers, there are "Chip" Matthews, a graduate of the Toronto Danforth League, and "Alec" Webster, who last year came to town from Brantford. The latter two have been farmed out to the D. & O. Interrogidates on option.

For holding down first base, "Buck" Wilson of the regulars is being given a merry chase by Eddie Dugan, the old Peterboro Central leaguer, who kicked over the traces in 1922 and was unable to finish the season; "Kip" Rowden is likely to be at second again; Morrison, who has covered short stop the last two years has strong opposition in Lloyd Hall, a graduate of the Church League, while "Toots" Ward, formerly of Peterboro is being groomed to fill "Mickey" Murray's shoes at the red light corner or third base. For the outer garden positions, Manager Reeves has a wealth of material to choose from, and with the opening game only a few days away, the local baseball situation never looked so healthy for a winning team.

The Oshawa Church League is out to throw the monkey wrench into the Durham and Ontario Baseball Association, as far as operating a Junior series, having appealed to the executive of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association to stop the Oshawa Junior team from playing ball, claiming they have exclusive rights to all Junior material.

President C. M. Anderson of the Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League is being deluged with applications for berths on the umpire staff, and is likely to announce the appointments the first of next week. This morning he announced no application has been received from Peterboro. Dell of Oshawa, Collings and Woodley of Belleville, and Benson and Gloster of Toronto, and Allen of Port Hope, have applied.

ISNIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

The golfer who will get the knack of relaxing thoroughly in the address, then starting the club away from the ball slowly and easily will soon discover one of golf's greatest secrets, which is that he can automatically "lock his body" at a certain point in a way to make it almost impossible for anything to go wrong. You have seen shots made by blind-folded players and other such tricks. They "lock the body" in this way— and couldn't miss. To do this, however, the player must start away slowly and easily, letting his right leg absorb his weight. When that has been done the clubhead, say, will be a couple feet back from the ball. Now all the player has to do is simply "hold" himself in this position — "locked" — while he elevates the club with his wrist action, meantime letting his shoulders turn. Then he can start back to the ball with an initial action through the hips, and the clubhead cannot miss it. That's one way of making dead sure of the shot.

DEMPSEY NOT OUT.

GIANTS WELL FIXED IN MANAGERIAL WAY

McGraw Has No Less Than Five Men on Roster Who Have Piloted Teams at Some Time or Other.

IN CENTER, HUGHEY JENNINGS; LEFT, TOP TO BOTTOM, FRANK WALKER AND BILL TERRY; RIGHT, GROVER HARTLEY AND MICKEY DEVINE.

NEW YORK, April 18.—Should anything happen to John McGraw, the New York Giants are well fixed for managerial timber.

On the Giants' roster are not less than five former managers, headed by the redoubtable Hughoy Jennings.

Last season when McGraw was kept away from the team for a number of weeks, Jennings handled the club and it went along smoothly to a fourth pennant.

Comment on the managerial ability of Jennings is unnecessary. He reached his peak with the Detroit Tygers, winning three successive pennants for that city in 1907-08-09.

Two of McGraw's catching staff have done managerial duty. Grover Hartley handled the Columbus team of the American Association and Mickey Devine was in charge of Jersey City in the International.

Bill Terry, George Kelly's understudy at first base, for a time lead the misfit Toledo team of the American Association. The team was a hopeless tailender when Bill took charge. He did well enough with a weak cub.

Then there is Frank Walker who once had a trial with Connie Mack. Last season Walker managed the Rocky Mount club in the Virginia League. His contract made him a free agent at the close of the year.

Immediately he proved that he was a wise guy by selling himself to the Giants for $11,000. He didn't cheat McGraw at that, for he looks the part of a finished ball player.

Thus it is apparent there is no reason for the Giants lacking managerial strategy with McGraw and five assistants in the squad.

SPRING TONIC FOR GOLFERS

As Prescribed by Bert Way

Putting is the easiest part of golf —when you watch somebody else do it. It seems so simple to the average payer until he gets on the green Then, unless he has practiced long and efficiently, he is bound to have trouble.

There is no secret to successful putting. I have had countless golfers ask me if there wasn't some little trick or formula to it. But there isn't. Many of them, no doubt, thought I was holding back something when I told them it was all with stroke, grip and stance.

The body must be held still in putting. Accuracy and a precise stroke are the principal features. If the body moves it means the ball will not be hit in the way the player intended when he lined up his shot.

The swing should be made low along the ground because an even swing, which is essential, can be made easiest that way. The action is mostly with the wrists and, don't forget, don't grip the club too tightly.

YANKEES TURN PAIR BACK TO MINORS.

Two of the Yankees' highly touted rookie outfielders, John Levi and Nick Cullop, have been turned back to the minors for further seasoning. The letting out of Cullop came as more or less of a surprise, as he had been picked by many experts to make the grade.

Luck is the thing that helps you most when you don't trust to it.

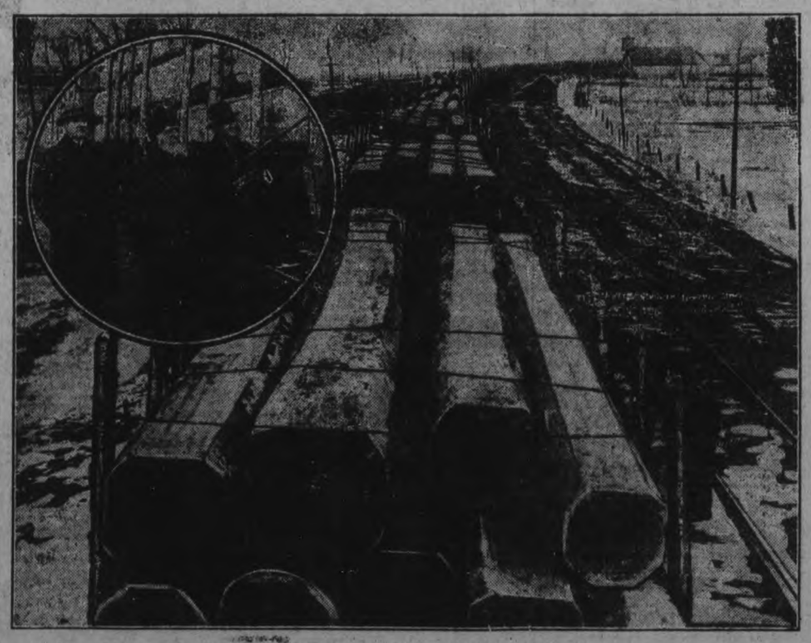
ONTARIO WHITE PINE FOR BRITAIN'S WARSHIPS.



The photograph shows one of four trainloads of virgin white pine logs cut from the Egan limits in Preston and Clancy Townships in the Algonquin Park District, which were sent recently via the Canadian National Railways to Quebec for shipment to England on the order of the British Admiralty. The timber was hand hewn by the J. R. Booth Company of Ottawa and it is the finest shipment sent from Ontario in the memory of lumbermen. In some instances the timber was three feet in diameter and in no case was it less than two feet through. The shipment required 120 flat cars and aggregated 120,000 cubic feet of timber.

COUNTRY STORE NITE AT ROYAL MONDAY.

The popular "Country Store Nite" will be the added attraction again at the Royal on Monday night. It will as usual supply lots of laughs, as well s worth while prizes. "Let Women Alone," is the added feature.

"LET WOMEN ALONE," LIVELY MELODRAMA AT THE ROYAL MONDAY.

Lovers of exciting, fast action photo plays will revel in "Let Women Alone," the attraction at the Royal Monday. Taken from the Saturday Evening Post story "On the Shelf," the story concerns one James Wiley wanted by the Police, who frames up a scheme whereby he is supposed to be dead, his wife, Beth, believing in the imposition, complications arise, filled with thrilling action. Pat O'Mally, Wanda Hawley, Wallace Beery and a better than ordinary cast interpret the story.

MANY RODEO CHAMPS APPEAR WITH GIBSON.

"Let 'Er Buck" Made at Big Pendleton Round-Up.

Fifteen of the Universal Ranch Riders, expert horsemen and rope twirlers, who have been conspicuous in many Universal westerns, are as happy as kids these days.

They've been to Pendleton, Oregon with Hoot Gibson and Edward Sedgwick, where "Eet 'Er Buck," Hoot Gibson's big rodeo special, which comes to the Royal theatre next Thursday, was filmed.

Hoot makes this picture in the town where he first gained fame and which led to his entering pictures. He won the world's championship in the annual Pendleton rodeo several years ago and in several of the events has remained undisputed master. He attended the past year's big round-up of the west with his entire 'gang,' Ed. Sedgwick directed. He made the past twenty Gibson productions.

Some of the riders include Tommy Grimes, steer roping champion of the world; and Benny Corbett, holder of the bull dogging championship. Many of Hoot's company entered the rodeo events of their ability.

Raymond D. Schenck and Director Sedgwick wrote the story, taking it from Charles Wellington Furlong's novel.

FAMOUS CANADIAN ACTRESS JULIA ARTHUR

Coming in Shavian Drama

B. C. Whitney will present George Bernard Shaw's much discussed play "Saint Joan" with Julia Arthur in the title role at the Grand Opera House. One performance only, Monday evening, April 20.

Seldom has the production of a play caused so much diversified opinion. Shaw's idea of the Maid as expressed in his play is that she was "That good Joan". She is honest, limited, rough, and actually too stupid intellectually to understand the questions that were put to her at the trial. Joan's one idea was his Saints, Michael and Catherine God, through the messages sent by that she was the mouthpiece of and Margaret so Shaw tried to explain the story of Joan. Convinced of her divine mission, she proceeds from one important personage to another, convincing them all along the line partly as in the case of the blustering but weak willed De Baudricourt, her father's lord by sheer personality and his willingness to try anything once, partly as in the case of Duneis as the wind changed and made the attack on Orleans possible, when she came, partly as in the case of the army, because she won victories.

Whereas Mark Twain canitulted the Joan legend, unreservedly and became skeptic, though he was as true an admirer of Saint Joan as any Roman Catholic. Bernard Shaw ignores, as much as he can the seemingly supernatural incidents which starred her career. Though Shaw does not actually say so, he seems to believe that Joan had, as a natural gift, the state of self confidence that several firms are trying to produce artificially in their patrons through "Little gray books", courses in "Go getting", and otherwise, Joan was a born "Go-getter".

A distinguished cast of players besides Miss. Arthur includes Edwin Mordant, Lynn Pratt, John McGovern, Albert Barrett, Henry Travers, Lowden Adams, Erskine Sanford, George Fitzgerald, Edward Skinner, House Baker Jameson, Will J. Maloney, and many others will present the play here. Many large theatre parties among literary and Shak espearenan circles have been arranged for during the week. The engagement is causing more than unusual interest.

AT THE CAPITOL

POPULAR CAST IN "THE AIR MAIL."

Warner Baxter, Billie Dove and Others Featured.

The Irvin Wilat-Paramount production, "The Air Mail," adapted for the screen by James Shelley Hamilton from an original story by Byron Morgan, comes to the Capitol Theatre for a 3 days' run Monday. Warner Baxter, Billie Dove, Mary Brian and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are featured in the leading roles of the picture.

Baxter portrays the part of Russ Kane, clever crook and daring aviator, who joins the air service solely for the purpose of robbing the mails and is regenerated by the spirit of the service, the love of a beautiful girl and the companionship of an orphaned boy.

Billie Dove plays the girl, Alice Rendon, who lives in the "deserted city" with her father, played by George Irving. Young Fairbanks is Sandy, crazy about anything and everything connected with aviation. This keeps him hanging around the flying field where he meets Kane (Baxter) and immediately makes an idol of him. Mary Brian plays Minnie Wade, a fine part.

Other big names in the strong supporting cast are Guy Oliver, Richard Tucker, Lee Shumway and Lloyd Whitlock.

In the story are two bands of crooks constantly spying on Baxter. They suspect that he is going to double-cross the mand a hum-dinger of an air battle takes place, with Baxter, Fairbanks, Jr., and Billie Dove fighting off the bandits and seeing the mail through in safety.

LOIS WILSON DEFIES DEATH BEFORE THE CAMERA.

"The bravest girl in the movies" is the title recently bestowed upon Lois Wilson, featured Paramount player and one of filmdom's greatest favorites.

Twice in the past four months Miss Wilson has risked her life before the camera. In Emerson Hough's "North of 36" she displayed her grit in swimming her horse across a river in the midst of four thousand milling longhorn steers.

Recently, during the filming of Zane Grey's "The Thundering Herd," which William K. Howard produced for Paramount, she gave an exhibition of courage and daring that has won her the admiration of all Hollywood.

In one scene in this production, Miss Wilson, in a wagon, is being pursued by a band of Indians. Suddenly she finds herself on the edge of a valley through which a tremendous herd of buffalo is stampeding. She has a choice of two courses. She can either give herself up to the red skins or she can drive her team in front of the herd and try to reach the other side before the animals cut off her escape.

She decides on the latter course. Half-way over the stretch, however, her wagon breaks down and she is thrown in front of the oncoming buffalo. In order to give the scene the necessary thrill it was essential that the action be timed to a second. Had Miss Wilson been injured in the wagon smash-up or had the buffalo travelled faster than anticipated, in all probability the scene would have ended disastrously.

Fortunately no casualties resulted and one of the mightiest episodes in the picture was successfully screened in all its thrilling realism. Besides Miss Wilson, the cast boasts such sterling players as Jack Holt, Noah Beery and Raymond Hatton.

"The Thundering Herd" will close its run at the Capitol tonight.

JANICE MEREDITH MARION DAVIES' FINEST ROLE YET.

Cosmopolitan Star Reaches Acting Heights in New Production.

A ROMANCE OF 1776.

Screen Version of Paul Leicester Ford's Novel Contains Numberless Thrills.

Acclaimed by New York critics as the finest achievement in motion pic ture history, "Janice Meredith," the new Marion Davies photoplay, will come to the Regent Theatre on Monday for a run of 3 days. "Janice Meredith" is the screen version of Paul Leicester Ford's romance of the American Revolution. It is a Cosmopolitan production, distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

Miss Davies, acting in the title role, has been greeted with acclaim, displaying a charm, a versatility, a captivating sense of comedy, and an emotional force that stamp her as one of the most distinguished actresses on the screen.

She plays the role of the charming and spirit daughter of Squire Meredith, a staunch old Tory landowner. Her love for Jack Brereton, a young officer in Washington's army, wins her over to the cause of the American Colonies and carries her through many thrilling adventures during the turbulent days of the Revolution.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR
A small portion of truth mixed with error, makes error more plausible. It is the desire of very human being to live and not die. Hence the heathen and a large portion of christendom cherish the vague hope, that when a man dies he does not die but continues to live on. There are many reasons for the desire of a future life. Those who reject the resurrection truth, openly accept of Satan's contradiction to the word of Jehovah God, and based on these false promises, hope they are immortal on death proof. The Apostle Paul said, if there was no resurrection, those who have fallen asleep (died) have perished. What more positive and emphatic word can be used to express the truth that man is mortal (not death proof)? The fact that Satan and the great majority of mankind (learned and unlearned) claim that man is immortal, does not make it true. If need be let every man be a liar, but God is true. The resurrection and the promised day of restitution is the hope of all mankind. This is the gospel of the Kingdom.

FRENCH CABINET HAS HARD TASK

Must Reconcile Policy of Ministers With That of Chamber of Deputies.

RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS.

PARIS, April 18. — (Canadian Press.)—The new cabinet met this morning for its first real grapple with the details of the formidable tasks before it, the first of which is to reconcile Foreign Minister Briand's advocacy of the maintenance of a French Ambassador at the Vatican with the opposition to this course by the majority of the Chamber of Deputies and second to overcome the eventual opposition of the Socialists to a financial policy that excludes a capital levy.

Both of these important questions must be treated frankly in the ministerial declaration now being prepared by Premier Painleve and which will be read to the Chamber and Senate next Tuesday. The Socialists have already warned the Premier that the government's declaration must be clear and categorical on the financial question and that until it is forthcoming the Socialist group will reserve its attitude towards the new government. Foreign Minister Briand's intention is siad by his friends to be to allow the Senate and the Chamber to pass on all questions of a religious character without proposing a question of confidence.

Discussing his policy after the cabinet meeting, the Finance Minister, M. Caillaux, said: "I must not be expected to produce exceptional or extraordinary solutions. I shall confine myself for the present to consideration of immediate and practical measures which must not be regarded as final solutions."

Boy He Thought His Son Was Adopted By Wife

TORONTO, April 18 (Canadian Press).—After eighteen years to learn that his "son" was adopted secretly by his wife unknown to him, but with the connivance of the parents of the boy and a physician is the allegation conveyed by Philip Faulkner, a stationary engineer with the Toronto Waterworks Department, in a writ issued on his behalf at Osgoode Hall. The defendants are John and Minnie Deacon. The claim in the writ reads:

"The plaintiff claims damages for deceit and for fraud and conspiracy of the defendants with one another and with another person or persons, in introducing a child of the defendants, John Deacon and Minnie Deacon into his home as the plaintiff's child, and the plaintiff was thereby led to believe and he in fact believed that said child was his child, and supported and maintained it accordingly, and suffered damages by so doing. The child referred to is now 18 years of age, so it is said. He is a trade apprentice and living at the Faulkner home.

REPRESENTATIVES OF NOVA SCOTIA MINERS AGAIN REFUSE TO CONSIDER PROPOSAL TO REDUCE WAGES HALIFAX CONFERENCE FAILED TO RESTORE PEACE

Premier Armstrong's Round Table Discussion on Saturday Proved Abortive — Suggested Resumption of Work at 1924 Wages With New Scale to be Negotiated Later.

PRESIDENT WOLVIN'S REPORT OF MEETING

Reiterates That Competition in Coal Marketing Prevents the Company From Continuing the 1924 Wages—Says They Are Double the 1914 Scale.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 20 (Canadian Press).—The conference called by Premier Armstrong in an endeavor to bring about an adjustment of the wage dispute between the British Empire Steel Corporation and the United Mine Workers of America, now in its seventh week, broke up Saturday afternoon with its object unattained.

R. M. Wolvin, president of the British Empire Steel Corporation, issued the following statemen: last night:

"I regret exceedingly that the conference called by the Premier, the Hon. Mr. Armstrong, during the visit of Mr. Lewis to Nova Scotia, has not brought about a settlement of the strike.

"We had previously publicly announced that because of the fact that the United Mine Workers of America had openly broken their contract with us by withdrawal of the maintenance men, and because of the abandonment of the mines, that we would not negotiate further with them until the maintenance men were restored. At the request of the premier, we however receded from this position.

"Premier Armstrong is entitled to much credit for his untiring efforts during the past five days. I am certain that all present have the greatest respect and confidence in him and feel most keenly their disappointment in not being able, with his most fair assistance to come to an agreement.

Wage Scale Proposal.

"At the opening of the conference Premier Armstrong suggested for consideration that an immediate resumption of work at the mines on the 1924 wage scale should be arranged, and that, after the resumption of coal production, negotiations for a new wage scale should be undertaken and that in the event of failure to reach a mutual agreement, the parties might later agree to refer any insurmountable obstacles to some tribunal.

"This suggestion was considered in every detail. The United Mine Workers' officials did not express themselves as willing to later agree to some tribunal whose findings would be binding on both parties. It was impossible to mutually agree that negotiations after resumption of operations would carry any assurance of an actual settlement.

"It was then decided to undertake negotiations in Halifax by those present at the conference in an effort to arrive at an agreement to submit to the men before asking them to go to work.

Rejected Wage Cut.

"A number of controversial points were considered and discussed, and I believe we could have agreed upon them all amicably, with the exception of the wage scale. Mr. McLeod, president of the District 26, United Mine Workers of America, would not recede from his position that there could be no reduction in wages. It was pointed out, on behalf of the company, that the company had not made any profit last year, that last year's output was about 370,000 tons less than the year before, and that the market prospects for this year were exceedingly poor, unless the company could quote substantially lower prices for their product.

"The company has, during the last few months since Mr. McLurg's appointment, made all possible economies to reduce the cost of mining coal, and the only way left is through a reduction of the wage scale paid to their miners, as has been done recently in the case of all salaried employees of the company.

"The plain facts are that the organization known as the United Mine Workers of America, will never sit in at a conference and agree to a reduction in the wage scale, no matter how absolutely convinced they may be that the company cannot afford to pay same.

Competition is Keen.

"I would like to point out that the marketing of coal is a highly competitive business. With large overproduction in Great Britain and the United States, in both of which countries the cost of production is substantially lower than in Nova Scotia, there is great pressure to dispose of coal at almost any price, as an illustration of this situation, I may say that for a number of years we have supplied the Newfoundland Railway with Cape Breton coal.

This year, in an endeavor to hold their contract, we quoted a price substantially lower than the acutal cost of mining and transporting the coal, making no allowance for depletion, depreciation of company overhead costs. While the conference was in session, I received a telegram which I read to the United Mine Workers' representatives, stating that this contract had been captured by British and American operators at a price which would be nearly a dollar a ton less than the actual cost to us of mining and transporting the coal, had we secured the contract. This illustrates the competitive situation which exists today, and the absolute necessity of our obtaining a reduction in the wage scale. This does not necessarily mean that our miners will receive less wages per year; on the contrary, if we can quote prices lower, or even equal, there will be more work per man, and the total annual earning of each of our employees should be increased.

"About one year ago our miners

The Premier stated that he was not aware of any "rush" for licenses to sell the new beer although it did not come within his department.

A Week Earlier.

Col. W. H. Price at noon to-day, stated that he anticipated the tax to be imposed on beer would go into effect on May 15. This is the date provided in the bill for the levying of the tax.

"Does that mean that beer will be on market on that date " he was asked. "Yes, I would assume so," stated Col. Price.

MONTREAL, April 20. — The inquiry into the case of Alex. Kochura, who claims that he was kept in Bordeaux jail for six months, without trial, on a charge of simple assault, was begun this morning before Mr. Justice Bruneau, in the Practice court, as the record of official proceedings leading to the incarceration was not complete when the case was called on Saturday.

Meanwhile, both Kochura and his wife, who walked 50 miles to free her husband, are being cared for by a local charitable association.

HOLD UP PACT OF FIVE POWERS

Foreign Minister Briand, of New Cabinet, is Opposed To Treaty.

SENATE HOSTILE.

PARIS, April 20 (Canadian Press).—The five Power security pact, in the form which was being discussed between British Foreign Secretary Chamberlain and Former Premier Herriot will, it is understood, not advance any further now that Aristide Briand is Foreign Minister.

During the many discussions he had with Senatorial leaders while he was attempting to form a cabinet, it was evident that the Senate was against the five Power pact. The Senate wants France first to make a treaty with Britain and Belgium, perhaps including Italy. Once this treaty is made, mutually guaranteeing security, the Senate is willing to go farther and make a general European pacification treatries. This is said to be Briand's program.

TROOPS CENSORING NEWS OF BULGARIA

All Means of Communication Are in Hands of Military Authority.

ROME, April 20 (Canadian Press) —The only Bulgarian news allowed to leak out comes from neighboring Jugo-Slavia, because Sofia communications are totally controlled by the military authorities, the troops having taken charge of the mails, telegraphs, telephones and cables throughout the entire country. Refugees are the sole source of unofficial news. In those parts of the country where troops are scare, insurgents have seized the municipal building, driven away the government servants and proclaimed a republic.

The contributions of the branches were: Montreal, $500; Winnipeg, $200; Quebec, $100.

H. E. Gates, vice-president of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, states that all contributions are to be forwarded to him at Halifax, from where he will attend to the distribution of relief among the ex-service men in the strike area.

RUNAWAY HORSE IS A NOVELTY

Surprises Himself By Covering Two Blocks in Quick Time.

AYLMER STREET.

Runaway horses are so scarce in Peterboro nowadays that when one did his stuff on Aylmer Street this morning folks had to pull their hair and wrinkle their brows in a tough effort to remember what the word is to stop a horse. That is how sophisticated Peterboro is.

In case such a thing happens again, "Whoa" is the word to holler at the runaway steed. In the event of a runaway automobile there is no polite word to use as you dodge for shelter.

This morning's runaway did no damage. The horse evidently surprised himself by running away, and stopped after hitting a mad pace of ten miles an hour over two blocks. He looked thoroughly ashamed of himself as his owner came up.

NO POISON FOUND IN OLDSON'S BODY

Small Amount of Mercury Due to Medication, Coroner Reports.

CHICAGO, April 20.—Except for a small amount of mercury which Dr. W. D. McNally, coroner's chemist, said he believed due to medication, no poisons were found in the examination of the vital organs of Dr. Oscar Olson, whose body was exhumed in connection with the investigation into the death of William N. McClintock, millionaire orphan, the doctor's report to Coroner Oscar Wolff last night said.

CARDBOARD USED TO FILL CHIMNEY

Use of Inflammable Material May Result in Bad Fire, Says Chief.

Yesterday afternoon at 2.14 the fire brigade was called to 210 Prince Street to extinguish a chimney fire. They found that a piece of cardboard had been used as a stopper over a stovepipe hole, and it had ignited and fallen down. The burning cardboard fell behind a trunk and set fire to the trunk and the wall, causing a loss of about $75.

Chief Gimblett wishes the citizens to take warning from this occurrence and insert proper stoppers of metal in stovepipe holes so as to prevent more serious fires.

Yesterday morning at 9.50 there was a chimney fire at 220 Edinburgh Street, this morning at 7.39 there was one at 462 Bolivar Street, and at 10.55 there was one at 251 Simcoe Street. All of these were extinguished with chemicals and no loss resulted.

I. L. P. TO OUST "REDS"

Avowed Communists in Disfavor in London, Ontario.

LONDON, Ont., April 20.— At a meeting of the Independent Labor Party branch here Sunday afternoon it was decided to call a meeting for next Sunday to consider expulsion from membership of all avowed Communists. This is a reaction of the annual meeting of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Labor Party in Toronto when the Reds gained control.

MACDONALD HAS HOPES OF YOUNG TORY ADHESION

Former Premier Sees Acquisition to Socialism as They Evolve National Policy.

SCORNS LIBERALS.

Their Own Worst Enemy He Declares in Speech at Penzance.

LONDON, April 20.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — A week ago the Canadian Press conveyed the suggestion that Ramsay MacDonald, beset as he is with disgruntled extremists in the Labor party, might, if he is clever enough, secure the adhesion of a number of the younger Conservatives in promoting a moderate programme of social reform. That some such idea is brewing in the mind of the former premier is obvious from a speech which he delivered at Penzance on Saturday.

"I never have and never will refuse to co-operate with opponents when I know them to be honorable men," he declared. "A large section of the Tory party, especially the young Tories, are men of very great promise, and I am sincerely convinced that there are many things wrong which an honest political party can put right. Their colleagues, representatives of massed capital, and the old reactionary machine Tories, have more trouble with the young Tories than even with us. Sooner or later the courageous intelligence of the young Tories and their desire to hammer out a national policy will have to be taken up not as party politicians, but as men with a national outlook. The partition between themselves and us will then be so thin that they may as well break it down and come over to the Socialist camp."

Mr. MacDonald declared that Liberalism was its own greatest enemy and that it committed suicide when it murdered the Labor Government by uniting with the Tories against labor because his ministry was doing so well. Beyond this the former premier failed to go in revealing the real reasons for his bitter hostility towards Liberalism. As has been already intimated the bed-rock of his implacable attitude remains obscure and is probably largely personal.

ACCEPT RESIGNATION.

E. M. Trowern's Retirement Ratified by Merchants.

OTTAWA, April 20.—The resignation of E. M. Trowern, of Ottawa, as secretary and general manager of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, was received and accepted at a meeting of the representative committee and J. A. Danfield, of Winnipeg, president of the association, here on Saturday. Norman B. Douglas was temporarily appointed secretary and general manager.

Mr. Trowern submitted his resignation to the Dominion Board recently when he alleged that the control of the Dominion Board was passing into the hands of the Northwestern Mutual Fire Association, which he claimed was dictating the policy of the Association and contributing towards the payments of some of its employees.

WEATHER

If there are any spring poets in Peterboro we expect to hear some touching sonnets with variations regarding "Winter lingering in the lap of spring," after the display of Winter's tenacity of life, as given on Sunday." To the accompaniment once more of thunder and lightning, a heavy snowstorm set in from the east and when it had finished we had over nine inches of wet, soggy snow. Snow shovels were resurrected, the snow ploughs taken from their supposed summer abode, and sleighs again made their appearance on the streets. Sunday's snowstorm was the heaviest fall we have had so late in the season. It is not likely that it has done any harm; more probably it has been a good thing. In some sections of Canada a heavy fall of snow like Sunday's is considered as good as a covering of fertilizer. Temperature this morning 25 degrees. Highest yesterday 54 degrees. The storm of yesterday was a good example of the snowfalls that sometimes occur in New York, Boston, and other New England cities and towns—heavy, wet snow, that soon disappears.—W.P.

WIDOW ASPHYXIATED.

MONTREAL, April 20. — With her head close to a detached section of piping through which gas flowed, Mrs. Michael Butler, a widow, aged 60, was found dead in her room in the west end on Saturday.

Late Snow Plough Start Is Criticized By Bishop

At. St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, His Lordship Bishop O'Brien expressed his strong disapproval of the manner in which the sidewalks had been neglected. The snow ploughs made a very late start yesterday, and early churchgoers were compelled to wade through knee-deep drifts of snow and slush.

WEST VIRGINIA IS STORM SWEPT

Many Buildings Wrecked and Persons Injured in "The Panhandle" Area.

EASTERN OHIO, TOO

WHEELING, W. Va., April 20.—A severe storm swept Eastern Ohio and the West Virginia Panhandle early Sunday afternoon and wrecked business buildings and residences at Wheeling, Wellsburg, W.Va., Martin's Ferry, Ohio; Woodsfield, Ohio, and a dozen other small Ohio and West Virginia communities.

Ten persons were injured, two of them seriously at Wheeling and unconfirmed reports from Ohio indicate many injured. No fatalities have been reported.

MONROE FACES PARTY RUPTURE

Newfoundland Cabinet is Threatened by Dissension Among Supporters.

DISLIKE BUDGET.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., April 20 (Canadian Press).—The Monroe administration is facing a critical situation as a result of dissensions within its own ranks over the Budget proposals submitted last week. During the sitting of the assembly on Friday, the Government, members demanded a party meeting which Premier Walker Monroe refused. The result was that a round robin letter was handed to him signed by nearly all the rank and file and some departmental members, practically giving him the alternative of a party meeting or rupture.

RUM SHIPMENTS SEIZED BY U. S.

Sir Broderick Hartwell Sends Regrets to Partners in Scheme.

BIG BUSINESS.

LONDON, April 20. — (Canadian Press). — Daily Mail asserts that Sir Broderick Hartwell, left England a month ago to superintend delivery to a U. S. syndicate of his seventh and largest shipment of spirits but that the consignment has met with a series of misadventures and most of it is now in the hands of the United States prohibition authorities.

The paper prints a telegram alleged to have been received from the Baronet by his London office as follows: "Visit discloses appealing situation, over 30,000 yards, seized; balance transferred to three schooners at present safe, but cannot reach or communicate. Few thousand unloaded but resulting funds paid out for chartering vessels. No funds available unless schooners land goods. At present, impossible owing intensive campaign, returning soonest possible Communicate to inquirers with deepest regrets.' The Daily Mail remarks that 800 persons who supplied funds to purchase whiskey are hardly likely to get much return. Sir Broderick is expected to arrive in London today or to-morrow. It is recalled that the Baronet's circulars inviting the public to participate in his ventures promised profit at the rate of 120 per cent.

The gross earnings from January 1 to April 14, 1925, have been $59,469,946.00, being a decrease of $6,129,297.00 as compared with the corresponding week of 1924.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 20. — Fire that called out the entire city apparatus swept a downtown business block Sunday afternoon, destroying four stores and damaging several others. The loss is estimated at $500,000. An explosion in one of the buildings is believed to have started the fire.

The stores destroyed are the Browning-King and Company, clothiers; Robert L. Loud Music Company, the Willi[illegible] Eastwood and Son shoe store. [illegible] in Main street, and the Goellner's furniture store, in Washington street. Four alarms were sounded, calling out practically the city's entire fire fighting apparatus.

THOUSANDS IN PARADE BEFORE VON HINDENBURG

Nationalists of Hanover Pass in Review Before Aged Candidate.

FLY MONARCHIST FLAG

People Goosestep to Tune of "Deutchland Uber Allies" From Bands.

HANOVER, April 20 (Canadian Press).—Field Marshal Paul Von Hindenburg, dressed in full uniform, stood yesterday before his residence here while Nationalist Hanover marched by. For an hour and a half the aged candidate for President stood almost motionless, his left hand on his sword, his right saluting the goose-stepping detachments as they passed. The red, white and black flag of the monarchy was everywhere.

Thousands of spectators crowded the street, while more thousands filed by, men and women of all ranks, cheering as they marched. "Deutchland Uber Alles," sounded from the military bands.

To a gathering of political leaders the aged military leader of the Empire then made his first statement as a presidential candidate. He promised to support the constitution and seek a return to the national unity of pre-war days. His aim, he said, would be to place the Germans in their right place among the peoples of the world, and that this never could be done while the accusation of war guilt was upon them. Not once did he mention the word "republic." He contented himself with reference to the constitution.

TURKS MAY NOT TAKE DECISION

Acceptance of Mosul Award Depends On Disposition of the City.

TROOPS ARE READY.

GENEVA, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—The League of Nations Commission investigating the Mosul question will meet here Wednesday to formulate recommendations on which the Council will base its Mosul arbitration decision June 8. Belief is that the acceptance of the report by the Turks depends on the disposition of the city of Mosul.

While the Turks and British have formally agreed to accept the League's arbitration, the Turks have several alibis ready if it becomes necessary to reject its findings.

There are four divisions of Turks within striking distance of the disputed territory should a fait accompli be attempted.

While much larger and more representative than the city vote of 1921 that killed the daylight saving plan in Peterborough, The Examiner's straw vote last week was not so decisive as had been hoped. The only point shown conclusively is the sharp cleavage of opinion and the close decision necessary if the City Council is to act in the interests of the majority.

To facilitate the collection of votes, The Examiner arranged with several factories to have ballots circulated and completed, being later turned in in bulk. These were checked off alphabetically and double votes thrown out. For statistical purposes the vote thus given in the factories was kept separate from that deposited in The Examiner office. It is really all one vote, those who voted for or against in factories not being allowed another vote.

The result, divided in this manner is:

VOTES PLACED IN EXAMINER BALLOT BOX

For Daylight Saving	545
Against Daylight Saving	1056
Majority Against	511

VOTES TAKEN IN FACTORIES FOR THE EXAMINER

For Daylight Saving	2699
Against Daylight Saving	1343
Majority for	1356

Combined Vote gives Majority for Daylight Saving of 845

It will be noticed that the vote taken in the factories, where the workingmen were said to be opposed, is nearly two to one in favor of the change, while that representing, it is presumed, the leisure or "white collar" class, which was said to be in favor, is approximately two to one against. It is evident that someone got the wrong angle on the situation from the outset, and the workingman seeks an extra hour of daylight, while his "white collar' 'associates are satisfied with things as they are. The farm votes have not yet been counted.

A Big Vote.

Considering that at the last municipal vote on the question there were only 1061 votes cast, The Examiner's straw vote was well received and well taken advantage of. About 6,000 ballots were cast, allowing for the many discards, due to persons voting twice, omitting their addresses, signing the wrong ballot, and otherwise failing to comply with the simple rules governing the vote. One man placed twenty ballots in the box, all signed with different names, but without addresses. The handwriting was the same in every one, and all were thrown out. This mistaken enthusiasm on the part of an anti was balanced by the energy of an ardent pro, who signed all seven ballots— evidently under the impression that he was entitled to a vote a day.

Some Humor.

Many of the ballots bore more emphatic expressions of opinion than was permitted by the mere marking of an "X" opposite a line. This did not disqualify them, but

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

MARBLES MUST GO.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Marbles must go. They are the training-school for gambling. Lost heir, poker, fan-tan, and all gambling games spring from them. Our moral is more important than our physical. Down with marbles. —Sister.

POWER EXPORT.

Hamilton, Ont., April 18, 1925.

To the Editor, The Examiner.

Dear Sir: With no definite information being given out, re Export Power Contracts, the impression that it is from year to year, conditional, upon Canadian requirements or otherwise, seems most probably right.

On this assumption the Licensees' recent declaration, "That the power to be exported is not required for consumption in Canada," on the strength of which their Licenses were granted for the year April, 1925-April, 1926, in the opinion of most Canadians, mis-represented the situation.

In fact in the Hydro Lamp Bulletin, the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, say month after month, "With the ever-increasing demand a power shortage is foreseen in 1926 unless measures are taken now to meet expanding needs."

With 1926 less than a year off, and no proposition in sight for an immediate start on further developments, and a positive famine staring us in the face, should not the Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario, the Hydro Electric Systems of Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, London, Windsor, Brantford, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls and all other centres and rural districts of Ontario, immediately make declarations in triplicate, filing one each with the Ontario Government, Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario and the Dominion Government, to the effect that all power now developed in Ontario was urgently required for immediate use in Canada, and no further Licenses for export should be granted after March 31, 1926, and that Licensees should be so notified immediately so they could have time to make other arrangements.

This would place the situation definitely before the various authorities in good time, so they could better meet future applications and declarations, with a full knowledge of Ontario's wants and wishes in the matter.

Yours truly, —W. O. Sealey.

BLAMES THE BANKS.

Dear Sir:—You are asking for votes on daylight saving; and I am sending mine in before you close or give us an opportunity to protest. As far as we farmers are concerned, we want nothing to do with daylight saving as we get all the daylight we want now. If the city adopts daylight saving it will have a tendency to take a great deal of the trading away from your stores, as it is bad enough now. With your banks closing at twelve o'clock on Saturday (and that is the day most farmers go to the city), instead of three as most other towns have without having to go in one hour earlier, and I think the city would be better advised to cater to the trade of the country instead of trying to stop it.

Yours truly, —J. H. Stark.

NOT FARMERS' BUSINESS.

Dear Sir: I have read several letters in The Examiner against Daylight Saving, but I have yet to read one against it that has any logical reasoning in it. Mr. Maurice Ketcheson wrote lengthy but it was void. Mr. Merrill did his best with the same result, and lastly, Mr. Wood's letter smacks of meanness instead of reasoning. Of course, I blame The Examiner for that question, "Will you trade in Peterboro' if daylight saving is passed?" because this is the hook for the mean man to hang his hat on. Alderman Meyers said Peterboro' was about twenty minutes ahead of the sun, but I think if we look closer we will see Peterboro' is about forty-eight minutes ahead of the sun. That is, when the clocks in Peterboro' say it is twelve o'clock it is really twelve minutes past eleven. So if we have daylight saving we will only be twelve minutes behind the sun. I cannot see how anybody is going to be hurt with it. We have four children at home, ages from five to twelve years. Some say, look at the hot nights when you can't sleep. How many hot nights do we get? I venture to say we won't have a half dozen all summer. Since The Examiner has drawn the farmer into this matter, I think it unfair to try and put the blame on him because he is the greatest daylight saver there is and if the workingmen of Peterboro' want it he should not be asked to vote either for or against. How would he like the people here to vote to settle a local question with him? Well, how does it affect him? I say not in the least, because he will go about his work as usual at the same time and like a sensible man, will let the town people do as they wish. If he wants to come to town he has exactly the same number of hours to trade with. The stores will close one hour sooner, but farmers don't come to town at the last hour of the summer day; in fact, those with cars would rather come one hour earlier in the morning while the dew is on the ground. The farmer needs the afternoon hours to attend to his crops, particularly at this time. Of course, on Saturday most banks close at twelve, if this hurts him. I might say we have not a bank in the town that opens its doors for the workingman. I say, let us have daylight saving, if only for June, July and August. Our children will be away from school most of the time, so that will relieve a lot of people who think it would affect them.

Yours truly, —John Barnes.

Editor's Note: The Examiner did not draw the farmer into the daylight saving argument. This was done by an alderman who declared in council that the farmers would stop trading in the city if daylight saving became effective. In fairness to all The Examiner endeavored to ascertain if this is indeed so. The farmers are answering.

"A SELFISH BUNCH," HE SAYS.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—It seems Daylight Saving has become quite a topic for discussion, so thus my little say. First, I think the farmers around here are a pretty selfish bunch, and I don't think Daylight Saving will inconvenience them half as much as they say it will; another case of "the dog in the manger." And I don't think we need to worry about their trade; they are just trying to scare us; they will deal where they get the best deal, daylight saving or not.

Why do I want it? Well, an extra hour's daylight to work on car, etc., looks good to me; as it is now, I have to break the Sabbath to get a little daylight.

I will admit there are a few disadvantages to some people here in the city, those who work by train schedule, but if Toronto can overcome those little difficulties I think we can, for the sake of thousands of factory, shop workers, etc., whom an hour extra of daylight and fresh air means a lot

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, —For "More Daylight."

DUNSFORD COUPLE RECEIVE CHAIRS

Useful Presentation Made to Newlyweds at Pleasant Social Event.

DUNSFORD, April 20.—A very large number of friends and neighbors met at the new home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Chalmers (formerly Miss Mary English), on Tuesday evening, April 14, to wish them every success in their new path of life together.

Music and dancing were enjoyed by everyone until about 11.30 o'clock when Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers were presented with two beautiful black leather chairs, a rocker and an arm chair, and also a nice little jardiniere stand. The address was read by Mr. Ross McGahey and the presentation was made by Mr. Elmer Evans. Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers both made a very nice reply in which they thanked the people and hoped they would all have an enjoyable evening. Mr. Joe Smith acted as chairman for the event and made a little speech, after which he called on several others to say a few words. Comic readings were given by Miss Chalmers and Miss Pollard.

A dainty luncheon was served, which was heartily partaken of by all. The music and dancing carried on for a while and then everyone left for home after spending a very jolly time together.

Snow Follows Almost Summer Temperature — The Sleighs Out on Streets.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 20. — Some time during Saturday night, the storm started and when the residents woke up Sunday morning, they were surprised to see everything blanketed with snow and a minature blizzard in progress. This sudden change followed the almost summer like temperature of Saturday. Snow fell all morning and until early in the afternoon and a number of sleighs and cutters were seen on the street. Almost a foot of snow feel altogether. Farmers say that the storm will delay operations in the country but that the snow is just what was required to help the wheat and clover.

CHURCHES CLOSED BY A SNOW STORM

Bethany Congregations Were Forced to do Without Service—Roads Bad.

BETHANY, April 20.—A very heavy snowstorm visited this district in the early hours of Sunday morning continuing until noon, when between one and two feet of snow had fallen on the level. Church services in the rural districts had to be cancelled, Rev. Dafoe, pastor of the Methodist Church, being still unable to attend to pastoral duties, and the supply, Rev. G. Rorke, of Peterboro, being unable to motor here. The congregation had to content itself with Sunday school, forty-two persons, mostly adults, braving the storm. The Presbyterian Church service was cancelled also, as Rev. V. Walker, the pastor, was unable to get through from Janetbille. The Anglican Church was the only church in the village where services were held. Mr. Fierheller, the rector, preached on the subject, "The Sabbath was made for Man."

PRESERVATIVES ARE BARRED IN MEAT BUSINESS

Only Certain Specified Materials May be Used, Law Says.

WARNING GIVEN

Strict Regulation of Butter and Cheese Manufacture is Maintained.

During the past few months several merchants selling fresh meats in different parts of the province have been fined for using preservatives that are forbidden by law. These have led to a special "warning" notice being sent out by the department of health from Ottawa.

The regulations made under the Food and Drug Acts of 1920 forbid the use of preservatives in meat and meat products, except the following: Common salt, sugar, saltpetre, wood smoke, vinegar, acetic acid, spices, alcohol, refined sodium nitrate.

Stricter regulation also is being made of the manufacture of butter and cheese and canned foods in legislation to be submitted to Parliament by the Ministry of Agriculture. The legislation will prevent the use of oil as an adulterant in butter and forbid the keeping of foreign fats, which might be used for adulterating purposes, on the premises of any person engaged in the manufacture of butter.

The subject of preservatives and coloring matters in food is a matter of great importance, not only to home producers, but, in view of the great dependence of the United Kingdom on imported supplies, also to overseas manufacturers and shippers from whom such supplies are drawn. For this reason, the recent report of a committee investigating this particular feature is of interest.

The general conclusions reached by this committee resulted in recommendations that preservatives should be prohibited in all articles of food and drink, whether manufactured in this country or imported, except that sulphur dioxide in defined limited quantities should be permitted in sausages, jam, dried and preserved fruits, beer, cider, wines and cordials; and limited quantities of benzoic acid in coffee extract, non-alcoholic wines and cordials (as an alternative to sulphur dioxide) and in mineral waters and ginger beer. The employment of a copper salt to color or preserve the color of peas and other vegetables should also be prohibited, and a schedule drawn up of non-injurious coloring matters which might, where necessary, replace harmful materials.

A matter of special interest to Canada is the recommendation by the committee—after consideration of the evidence offered by representatives of he British Dairy Farmers' Association and of the Dominions—that the use of preservatives in butter should be forbidden after a period of two years' grace to enable the necessary adjustments to be made.

For similar reasons the committee recommends that the employment of preservatives in the preparation, storage, and distribution of bacon and ham, and also in the case of canned or potted meats and fish, should be prohibited.

The report further advocates that improved methods in the storage and transport of food are urgently required, and that an amendment of the existing law is needed to facilitate prosecutions under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act.

Probably implementing these recommendations, a draft copy of proposed regulations to come into effect in England and Wales, prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of articles of food containing added preservatives, with some few exceptions, has been received by the Federal Department of Agriculture, from the British Ministry of Health.

The use of various metallic, vegetable and coal tar coloring matters will also be prohibited.

For the purpose of these regulations, preservatives will not include common salt, salt peter, sugar, vinegar, alcohol, spices, essential oils, or any substance added to food by the process of curing known as smoking. Sausages may contain three grains per pound of sulphur dioxide, jam three-tenths of a grain per pound, undried fruits seven grains per pound. All such foods containing this preservative must be clearly marked to that effect.

In an article entitled, "Hidden Food Poisons," are enumerated some modern methods of "improving" foodstuffs: bread, by the addition of calcium sulphate (plaster of paris) and ammonium chloride, dried fruits, by sulphured anti septics; butter, cream margarine, bacon, sausages, meat pastes, etc., by the addition up to five per cent. of boric acid or borax; soft drinks by admixture of salicylic acid or benzoic acid. Flour is bleached with nitrous gases, and sometimes "improved" with acid phosphates likely to contain arsenic. The tartaric and citric acids and potassium bitartrates in various foods contain traces of lead, while aniline dyes are used for coloring in various foods, catsups, etc. Animals fed on denatured foods are found to be of weaker vitality than others, and roller mill processes in grains includes the removal of pericarp, and the loss of organic phosphorus, iron, calcium and potassium.

OBITUARY.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 20. — William J. Meiklejohn died on Saturday evening in a Toronto hospital, where he was taken some time ago for an operation, from the effects of which he was unable to rally, although for some time hopes were entertained for his complete recovery. When the news of his death was received here R. H. Cole left for Toronto to bring back the remains. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late residence of the deceased to Mount Pleasant cemetery. The obsequies will be held under the auspices of the Orange and Oddfellows fraternities.

The late Mr. Meiklejohn was born near Petherick's Corners and lived in that vicinity until about 28 years ago when he moved to Campbellford. Last fall he was obliged to sell out his business on account of failing health and he lived in retirement all winter.

The deceased served three years in the Town Council, and in 1923, his last term, held the important chairmanship of the Finance committee. He was a member of various fraternal societies and of the curling club, being one of the most successful skips in that organization. In religion he was a Presbyterian. He was of a genial and whole-hearted disposition, a general favorite with all who knew him and his death will occasion universal regret not only in town, but throughout the entire district.

The late Mr. Meiklejohn is survived by his wife and two daughters. Miss Lillian teaches school near Codrington and Miss Ortha resides at home.

Insured Milk Insures Good Baking

Market milk is uncertain at times, isn't it? Many a dish is spoiled by nearly fresh milk.

Good cooking demands known milk values and you make milk a known quantity in your cooking when you use insured milk—Carnation Milk. IT ALL COSTS MONEY.

It is estimated that each day of the debate on the Budget in the Federal House is costing the people of this country nearly $17,000.

That seems a high price to pay for nothing—and that is about all the country will obtain as a result of this apparently endless flow of words.

The debate nearly came to an end last Friday because there were only eighteen members in the House, and twenty are needed as a quorum.

Fortunately, two or three more arrived in time to save the situation or the Government would have been forced to re-introduce its Budget, and the debate would have started all over again.

It would be a joke, this custom of inflicting three-hour speeches on every topic under the sun to an audience of a score of members, were it not for the fact that the people have to pay for it all, and the bill is rapidly piling up.

All the parties must take a share of the blame for the long-drawn-out argument, for apparently they all want to talk.

They are out of touch with public opinion, however, if they do not realize that the people are getting tired of the performance and are looking for action, rather than words.

HE STAYED IN ONTARIO.

There have been so many theories about farming in Ontario, and about what farmers should do and should not do, that it is somewhat of a relief to turn at times to what some of them have done, says the London Advertiser. We refer particularly to a resident west of London, whose grandparents settled near here when the country was all bush. His father stayed on the land, and so did his son, and his sons are doing the same thing. It is a line that has run through four generations, and nearly all of the sons have remained on farms in Ontario, and have done well.

There has been careful planning, hard work, and an intelligent observation of the different changes that were coming over agricultural life in Ontario. Twenty-five years ago, when the rush was toward the free land in Western Canada, the member of the family to whom reference is made here went West because he has sons of his own, and if the West could do all that was claimed for it at that time he wanted to be there and take his sons with him. But there was no haste in the matter. While others took it for granted that the West was the place, and that the day of Onario for the farmer was to be a thing of the past, this particular resident took a trip of inspection to Western Canada. He saw that it was capable of growing wheat, and good wheat, but when he looked into the cost of getting the wheat out and the things in that he would need, he decided that it was so great a problem that it would take years to solve it, and for that reason he came back to Ontario and proceeded to take up more land in this Province.

Today his sons are farmers; they own their land, and are free of debt. A few experiences like that are worth more for the Province than yards of theories about what might be done or what should be done, because it is something that has actually been done.

THE TOURIST TRAFFIC.

In view of the predictions that the tourist traffic into Canada this year is to be the heaviest on record, it is interesting to note how much such traffic contributes to the wealth of the country, as shown by the official figures.

In 1923, according to statistics furnished by the Customs Department, 1,936,600 United States cars entered Canada, 1,956 for a six-month period, 272,444 for from two to thirty days and 1,662,200 for twenty-four hours or less.

This was an increase over 1922 of 95 per cent. for all of Canada, and 99 per cent. so far as Ontario was concerned.

The Commissioner of National Parks estimates that the 5,809,800 people carried in these cars spent $136,000,000 in Canada in 1923, and that 30,000,000 was spent in the Province of Ontario.

The distribution of direct purchases by automobile touring parties is estimated as follows, after tabulating a number of examples:

	Per Cent.
Hotel accomodation and board or camping and food supplies	50.3
Gasoline, oil and repairs, etc.	23.9
Amusement	10.5
Hairdresser, toilet, etc.	6.3
Refreshment	4.4
Stationery	1.4
Miscellaneous, souvenirs, etc.	3.2

This obviously does not take into consideration the additional money spent on articles such as furs, linen, china, robes, pipes, which are purchased to a considerable extent on account of the privilege American tourists have under Para. 1695 of the American Customs Tariff.

Accomodation and shelter represent approximately 15 per cent. and food supplies, which results in additional demand for farm products, 35.3 per cent.

It is good business to go after tourist traffic, and thus the formation of a Provincial-wide association for this purpose should be enthusiastically supported.

RAILWAY CO-OPERATION.

The most interesting news that Canadian taxpayers have had in many a day is the report from Montreal to the effect that Sir Henry Thornton and Mr. Beatty are trying to get together in an effort to cut ou wasteful competition and bring about a closer co-operation between our two great transcontinental railways.

We have never had, nor have we today, any premeditated plan for the development and operation of our railways that could properly be termed a national railway policy. Successive Governments during the last twenty-five years have brazenly granted railway franchises and authorized extensions for which there was no economic justification. Economic justification in the development of our railways has invariably given place to political exigency and private interest.

A few choice specimens for us to reflect upon are: The National Transcontinental between Moncton and Winnipeg; the Canadian Northern lines in Ontario; the triplication of lines through the 600 miles of barren country back of Lake Superior between Sudbury and Port Arthur, and the same thing through the Rocky Mountains to the coast; the Hudson's Bay Railway.

Over a thousand million dollars of interest-bearing debt have been yoked onto the Canadian people by their Parliamentary representatives in connection with these politically-built railways.

In the construction of the National Transcontinental from Moncton to Winnipeg, the Government of the day set at naught the judgment of practically every railway man in the country in order to give some pickings to its supporters in the Provinces of Quebec and New Brunswick. This useless railway was fastened like a millstone about the neck of the good old Grand Trunk, despite the efforts of the late Charles M. Hays, and eventually proved its undoing.

In Ontario the Canadian Northern Railways were authorized, yea encouraged, by the Government to indulge in an orgy of wasteful duplication of lines in competition with the Grand Trunk and C.P.R. The orgy extended in Northern Ontario in the scandalous duplication and reduplication of three lines of railway running from Sudbury to Fort William through six hundred miles of rocky, barren country, where the business originating on all three railways cannot pay the operating costs, not to mention the fixed charges, on any one of them.

In the West we have the celebrated Hudson Bay Railway, which was started thirteen years ago and isn't finished yet, and probably never will be finished, although $20,000,000 have already been spent and pressure is being brought to bear on the Government to vote another $27,000,000 for its completion. The scheme was condemned at the outset by the best engineering and economic opinion in the country, a judgment which has been vindicated in the experience of D. W. McLachlan, the Government engineer, who has lived at Port Nelson and been in charge of the work in recent years and whose report on the project (sessional paper, No. 234, April 24, 1924) contains the following:

"I have no longer any hesitation; the Hudson Bay Railway is doomed to certain failure. There may be fish in Hudson Bay, but there is no fishing season. There may be minerals on the east coast, but they are as accessible from Halifax as from Port Nelson.

"There is nothing for the Hudson Bay north of the Huronian rock outcrops south of Split Lake, so long as the St. Lawrence River route is available, and as for agricultural possibilities north of the same point, there are none."

Farther west there has been a duplication of lines in the Prairie Provinces, and through the Rocky Mountains the same ghastly multiplication of low-revenue-producing lines as on the north shore of Lake Superior, between Sudbury and Fort William.

It is estimated that a sum equal to the total amount of the Federal income tax can be saved annually to the people of Canada if wasteful competition and unnecessary services on low revenue-producing portions of these lines can be eliminated and the fullest possible measure of co-ordination and co-operation established between the railways. This is the task, and it is a tremendous one, which Sir Henry Thornton and Mr. Beatty are willing and anxious to undertake on our behalf if the Government will stand behind them in their efforts.

The proposal made by Sir Herbert Holt, in the last annual report of the Royal Bank, that a non-partisan commission be appointed to assist the railways in this matter, is an excellent one. Such a commission should have the widest powers and should be free from political interference of any kind. The successful consummation of this work calls for statesmanship of the highest order. Never has opportunity more clearly awaited a man.—Hamilton Spectator.

KEEP THEM AT HOME.

This is the big problem before every Government, every agency concerned, says the Montreal Star in discussing the exodus of 159,000 Canadians to the United States last year. We must make our settlers successful, contented and happy. It is not enough to bring them in or even to send them out to the rich prairies. We must watch over them there—see that they are taught how to farm under New World conditions—see that they have the implements, the seed and the materials they need. We should hold ourselves responsible for them for at least five years.

Not a family should be allowed to leave for the United States without our finding out exactly why they want to leave, why they are not satisfied in Canada, what they think the United States can offer that we cannot.

Then we should prepare to meet American competition. We have in many ways a much better country than they have. We can offer an aspiring young family much richer and more promising opportunities. For the hard-working, the ambitious, those who have their "pile" or their place to make, the Canadian West beats the American West all hollow.

The decrepit, the aged and the tired may prefer the softer climate of California. But red-blooded men and vigorous women will find more room to make progress in the bracing climate of Canada.

We are encouraged to believe that many farmers in the Middle West of the United States are attracted by the greater opportunities of the Canadian West and are moving over the border. They are abundantly welcome. They make excellent settlers—for they understand farming under North American conditions.

There is now a rebate of returned Canadians on the figures quoted above. There is a further rebate composed of incoming Americans. Let us do what we can to swell both streams flowing north; and let us seal up the gaps through which our life-blood has been flowing South.

Radio Flashes

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 17 — A new tube that does away with the filament and works directly from the electric light system is being developed in the F. S. McCullough Laboratories at Wilkinsburg, near here.

F. S. McCullough, who is working on this innovation, has invented several other types of tubes for transmission and reception. One of his transmitting tubes is rated at 10,000 watts and is water cooled in an elastic porcelain jacket.

McCullough's new receiving tube uses a heater wire outside in place of the filament. This wire gets its electricity from the ordinary house alternating current.

Thus McCullough says the A-battery can be eliminated. If a B-battery eliminator is also used, the entire receiver can be operated without batteries.

He has been testing this tube under all sorts of conditions for the past year, and says he will continue perfecting it for another year before putting it on the market. Even today, McCullough claims wonderful results from it.

It is a good oscillator and ampifier, he says, and is about four times as powerful as the ordinary tube. Yet it is silent in operation, with not a hint of the alternating current hum.

Another McCullough development is the same tube in connection with radio frequency amplifiers of the tuned and untuned type. This amplification system is built in close contact with the tube, causing extremely short leads to plate and grid and resulting in high efficiency.

McCullough is experimenting further on this combination radio amplifier and tube.

A THOUGHT.

THE SUBTLE POWER OF GOODNESS

There is no force in the world more powerful than goodness nor more surely recognized. An evil person will instantly recognize a good one. We do not have to worry about our good being known, it makes itself known, it cannot be hid. As the light sends its rays far through the darkness, so do kindly deeds and godly lives exert a beneficent influence far beyond our thought or expectation. The world is not to be won by science, theology or wealth, but by simple theiology wooing and warming the hearts of men and drawing all in one great brotherhood to God the Father.

"May every soul that touches mine
Be it the slightest contact, get there from some good,
One bit of courage for the darkening sky
One gleam of faith to brave the ills of life
To make life worth while, and heaven assured."

'TWAS 138 IN SHADE.

ALLAHABAD, India, April 20.—What is the hottest day on record? T. F. Hayes, well known Britisher here, says that during the summer of 1917, at a place called Samarra in Mespotamia, the thermometer in a railway station reached 138 degress. This was in the shade. He says the temperature remained around 138 degrees for a fortnight.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, April 19. — The Dominion bureau of statistics reports that the quantities of eggs in storage on April 1st amounted to 264,328 dozens as compared with a 5 year average on that date of 389,947 dozens. The stocks in Montreal amounted to 69,030 dozens and in Toronto 2,340 dozens. The figures quoted in this report on April 15th were incorrect. Dealers anticipate a drop in buying prices next week when the market will have returned to normal after the holiday season.

Toronto jobbing specials 34, extras 32, firsts 30, seconds 28.

Montreal dealers report paying delivered extras 35, firsts 33. Poultry reported more active. Some western turkeys sold heavy 27, light 24.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, April 18. — Wet weather and prospects of more did good deal to pull buying support out from under the wheat market today, and to bring about a decided drop in the prices. Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 2 3-4 to 4 1-2. Corn finished at 3-8c off to 58c up, oats 1-8 to 1-4 to 1-2 down, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to 45 cents decline.

Prospects of rain over the southwest, together with plentiful moisture already in the west and northwest, gave wheat values a downward slant from the outset. Weather conditions in general were such as to promote wheat growth, and especially to afford a good start to newly seeded acreage. Crop reports, showing an improved outlook in some sections tended further to increase selling pressure and to deter buyers Besides, new export business lacked volume and European markets made only an indifferent response to lively price upturns yesterday on this side of the Atlantic.

MONTERAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, April 20. — The receipts of eggs in Montreal on Saturday were 3,120 cases, as against 3,637 cases for the same day last week, and 2,922 cases for the corresponding day of a year ago, while the arrivals for the week ending April 18, 1925, were 18,280 cases, as compared with 16,080 cases for the previous week, and 17,599 cases for the same week last year. The total receipts from May 1, 1924 to date were 524,074 cases, as against 663,056 cases for the same period in 1923 24. The receipts last week showed an increase of 2,200 cases as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 771 cases with the same week last year, but the total arrivals from May 1, 1924, to date show a decrease of 138,982 cases with the corresponding period a year ago.

The local eggs market ruled fairly steady throughout the week up to Saturday when a weaker feeling developed on account of the large increase in the receipts over the previous week, the accumulation of stock on spot and the lower United States markets with the result that prices closed at a decline of 1c to 2c per dozen. The wholesale jobbing business during the week was fairly active there being a good steady demand for supplies for immediate consumption.

A sale of one car of Saskatchewan eggs was made during the week at 28c per dozen for extras, at 26 1-2 for firsts, and at 24 1-4c for seconds. F.O.B. Regina. The freight cost on this car coming east was 3 3-4c per dozen. With reference to storing operations several meetings have been held of late to arrive at some basis, and a determined effort is being made to get buying prices down at producing centres as some dealers say they will not store an egg at the present levels of cost, while a number of others have already commenced. Early in the week Ontario shippers made sales of extras at 28c to 30c per dozen, firsts at 27c to 28c, and seconds at 25c f.o.b.

BUTTER RECEIPTS.

The receipts of butter in Montreal for the week ending April 18, 1925, were 3,120 packages which show a decrease of 2,492 packages, as compared with the previous week, and a decrease of 2,111 packages with the same week last yar, while the total arrivals from May first to date have been 157,150 packages in excess of the corresponing period for 1923-24.

The feature of the trade for the past week was the stronger feeling that prevailed in the market and prices closed with a net gain of 2c per lb. which was due to the steady demand from local and outside buyers for supplies in the early part of the week, the reduction in stocks on spot and at other Canadian centres and the continued light receipts of fresh made goods for the period of the year. The volume of business was not large but the market on the whole was moderately active.

The receipts of fresh made finest creamery butter from the Comnasville district for the week were setted at 32 1-2c per lb., delivered here. The first carload of fresh made creamery butter from Saskatchwean for the season 1925 will arrive here tomorrow when it will be offered to the trade.

Cheese Receipts Heavy.

The receipt of cheese in Montreal for the week ending April 18, 1925, were 5,003 boxes which show a decrease of 25,503 boxes, as compared with the previous week, and an increase of 3,579 boxes with the same week last year, and the total receipts from May first to date have been 221,290 boxes larger than the same period a year ago.

The weakness that developed in the market for cheese last week has been pronounced since and prices have scored a further decline of 2 1-2c to 3c per lb. owing to the more liberal receipts on account of the steady increase in the make and the absence of any important demand from any source for supplies as even at the lower level exporters state that prices are still above export basis. The volume of business has been small and the market closed quiet with western No. 1 White and colored fodder made goods nominally quoted at 18 1-2c per lb., and No. 2 grade at 17 1-2c per lb.

Beans were steady at 2.79 per bushel.

STERLING RATES.

MONTREAL, April 19. — Sterling rates were quoted here on Saturday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.78 3-8.

Sterling cables $4.78 3-4.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton

Dick laughed good-naturedly.

"Well, what would you do if I committed such a crime?" he asked. "Break a butter dish, or something like that?"

"I'd be off in a flutter of dust, right back to my mother and father! And you could keep bachelor's hall here all by your lonesome," Gloria told him. "I'm not going to be like poor Lola Hough, waiting alone night after night for Bill to stop gambling and stagger home!"

She meant what she said. She'd show him a thing or two!

Lola Hough, with her tired wrinkled face, might have to take such treatment patiently. But she, herself, didn't. Not for a minute! With her looks! . . . Besides she knew she could manage Dick. He was helpless, because of his love for her.

As soon as Dick had left for the office, Gloria put on her kimono and went downstairs. In the kitchen Maggie was singing "Mother Machree" as she washed dishes.

"Maggie," Gloria said politely, "I'd like you to plan all the meals while you're here, and order the food, as well. Will that be too much extra work for you?"

Maggie considered.

"Mrs. Gregory told me I was to come here to teach you to cook and keep house," she answered. "She always does her own marketing. And she can cook the grandest meals!"

"I know," Gloria said, "but I'm different. I don't know a thing about running a house. I couldn't plan a meal if my life depended on it. And I wouldn't know a tender chicken from one as old as the hills."

She laid her manicured hand pleadingly on Maggie's rough one.

She knew that the older woman was flattered by this offer of new dignity and power.

"All right," Maggie said finally, "I'll do it for you."

Gloria breathed a smile of relief. She ran upstairs and started the steaming water for the bath. There was a large bottle of rose bath-salts on the glass shelf beside the tub.

Gloria threw in two big handfuls. The bath-water began to smell like a Persian garden.

Out in her bedroom the French clock on the dressing table chimed.

Twelve o'clock!

A month ago 12 o'clock would have found her on Simcoe street, on her way to lunch with hundreds of other pretty girls who worked for a living.

Now she was Mrs. Richard Gregory, pampered and idle. She hadn't a trouble in the world! Her greatest worry was to decide what kind of earrings to wear with the dress she had chosen for that day.

Ah, this was the life . . . this was what she was born for!

She smiled at her enchanting face in the glass, as she rubbed perfume behind her pink ears.

The telephone rang.

"Hello, sweet thing!" It was May Seymour's light voice that came over the wire. "I heard you were home. How's married life?"

"Wonderful of course! You should just see all the things I bought in Montreal. Come over, can't you? I have the darlingest bottle of perfume for you—Chinese waterlily. Right from Paris it came!" Glory said.

"I'll be right over to get it," May laughed. And by the time Gloria was dressed, May's smart little car was at her door.

Gloria brought treasure after treasure from the unpacked trunk . . . lip sticks that were indelible, geranium rouge, stockings the color of sunburnt skin, a three-strand pearl necklace, and the new fur coat.

She held the coat up for May to admire.

"My dear, you remind me of the Queen of Sheba, and nobody else but!" May exclaimed in her cheerful slangy way. "I've got to trot along now. I have a heavy date with the hairdresser. But first I'm going to open this wonderful perfume you've given me, and douse it all over my coat. Mmm! Isn't that the most heavenly smell? . . . Just think angel, you wouldn't have all this sudden wealth if it hadn't been for me!"

It was true. For Gloria had met Dick through May and her husband.

May and Gloria had gone to business college together. Then May had found a job in Dr. John Seymour's office and had married him. And at one of their parties, Gloria had first seen big, quiet Dick Gregory, and had marked him for her own.

Her eyes were dreamy as she thought of that long-ago night. . . . Dick had driven her home from the party, and had roughly kissed her good-night at the door.

She had known instantly that he meant it . . . that he was not just "petting."

"I can marry that man!" she had told her mirror that night, with the memory of Dick's hard kiss still on her mouth. "I can marry that man and all his money, if I want to!"

Well, she had wanted to . . . and so she had married him.

After May had gone, Gloria put on her hat and the new fur coat to go to see her mother. She hadn't telephoned her since she had come home.

"Don't bother about getting lunch for me," she told Maggie. "I ate a big breakfast, and I'm afraid of getting fat."

"Have just a cup of tea and a bit of salad," Maggie said. She couldn't understand these women who were afraid to eat, lest they gain a few pounds. She thought they'd all look better if they had a little flesh on their bones.

But Gloria shook her head.

As she walked down Charlotte street, she met Lola Hough.

She was wheeling a baby buggy with one hand and carrying a market basket with the other. Behind her trotted the twins, Billy and Betty.

Lola's tired face was wreathed with smiles under her last year's hat.

"How nice to see you!" she kissed Gloria warmly. "Are you all settled in your lovely new house? I walked past it the other day, and I thought how lovely that big back yard will be for your babies—when they come."

Gloria raised her eyebrows.

"I hope you're not going to be one of these foolish women who can't be bothered with having children," Lola said. She had caught the look on Gloria's face at the word "babies."

"Because they're not a bother! They're the greatest fun in the world," Lola went on. "A woman thinks she loves her husband. But she doesn't even guess what love is until she has a baby."

Lola raised the hood of the buggy. Inside, in a little nest of pillows, lay Teddy Hough, who was not quite a year old. His long lashes lay in a dark shadow on his cheeks. Little gold wisps of hair curled from under his bonnet.

"Isn't he a love?" Lola asked.

"Nice baby," was all Glory could find to say. She said good-by then and walked on.

The little house of her girlhood looked shabbier than ever before when she came down the street. The paint was scaling in places, and the snowy lace curtains had been darned in a dozen places. A card tacked up beside the doorbell, read: "Bell out of order. Please knock."

Gloria knocked. Her mother opened the door. The minute she saw her daughter she began to cry.

"Whatever in the world's the matter, mother?" Gloria asked. She pushed the door shut, and patted her mother's gingham shoulder with one hand in its white kid glove.

"Oh, I don't know," her mother sobbed. "I guess I'm so happy at seeing you married off so well to such a good man that I just have to have a good cry."

She wiped her eyes with one corner of her white apron.

"You've always been a worry to your dad and me, Glory," she went on. "All your life. You were too pretty always. And you began to have beaus when you were too young for them . . . Then, last year year we were deadly afraid that you were going to run away with that good-for-nothing actor. . . . What was his name?"

"Stanley Wayburn," Gloria answered promptly. "But you needn't have worried about him. He didn't want to marry anyone who didn't have a million dollars!"

Stanley Wayburn was still a bitter memory in her heart.

He was the one man who had never lost his head over her. He had told her frankly that he would never marry for anything but money. But he was perfectly willing to make love to her, Gloria, in the meantime. Only he wouldn't fall in love with her . . . had finally stopped phoning her or taking her out to supper.

And then, at the end of the season, he had left town without a word. She remembered how she had cried all night. . . . What a fool she had been to care for him!

Mrs. Gordon was enchanted with Gloria's new fur coat.

"Dick's a fine husband," she said. "So don't kill the goose that lays the golden egg. Don't run him into debt! . . . By the way, that good-for-nothing Wayburn is back in town. I see by the papers that he's heading a new stock company."

"Is that so?" Gloria asked innocently. But her heart leaped. Stan Wayburn here, playing! And this was matinee day!

Gloria glanced at her wrist watch. Two o'clock. . . . If she hurried she could get to the theater in 15 minutes.

"Well, I must be going. I just stopped in on my way downtown to see Dick," she fibbed, and kissed her mother goodby. On the way to the theater she bought a bunch of violets and pinned them to her coat.

The house was sold out except for two chairs in an upper box. Gloria bought one of them. Just as she entered the box the curtain went up. The play was a western one.

When Wayburn walked out onto the stage with his spurs clanking, Gloria leaned forward. She wanted to call out to him, "Hello there, Stan! It's Gloria!"

For she felt sure he would never recognize shabby Gloria Gordon in the bejewelled, befurred creature she had become. . . .

Just then Wayburn looked up. He looked straight at her. And he smiled.

A few minutes after the curtain had gone down on the first act an usher came into the box. He gave Gloria a folded sheet of paper.

"You are Miss Gordon, aren't you?" he asked. Gloria nodded.

"Glory dear. It's good to see you again. Can't you run down to my dressing-room for a minute or two? The boy will show you the way," the note read. It was signed "Stan."

Gloria took her gold pencil from her bag.

"I can't come. I'm not Glory Gordon any more. I'm married," she wrote on the back of the note Wayburn had sent up to her.

Then she hesitated. Should she send it? Or should she run down to see him?

CHARGE SOVIET WITH ORDERING SOFIA OUTRAGE

The Bulgarian Government Claims to Have Original Letter of Instructions.

REIGN OF TERROR.

Russia Still Cherishes Plan to Capture City of Constantinople.

BERLIN, April 18 (Canadian Press).—The Bulgarian minister to Germany, Dr. Popoff, yesterday accused the Bolshevik regime in Moscow of direct responsibility for the explosion of the infernal machine which killed more than one hundred people in Sofia and for the recent attempt upon the life of King Boris.

The Bulgarian Government, he said in an interview, is in possession of the original document drawn up by the Soviet Government and containing specific instructions to Bulgarian Communists to institute an insurrection on April 15. The Tzankoff ministry had been fully appraised of the impending outbreak by the document which bears the date of March 12.

A reign of terror was to begin in Western Bulgarian and sweep across the country, while plots against the lives of political leader were planned to spread terror in Sofia," said Dr. Popoff.

Most of the Berlin newspapers seem confident that the present Bulgarian outbreak is the beginning of a far flung Bolshevik plot. "By winning over the Balkans to Communism, Russia incidentally regains Bessarabia and approaches step by step the consummation of her cherished ambition—the conquest of Constantinople and the Bosphorus," says The Vossische Zeitung, which professes to see a peculiar international significance in the Soviets' alleged present offensive in Bulgaria.

BAND CONCERT SUNDAY NIGHT

S. J. Abernethy Presides at Second Appearance Campbellford Musicians.

BIG ATTENDANCE.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 20.—S. J. Abernethy presided at the concert given on Sunday evening in the Regent Theatre, and the Northumberland Regiment Band never had a chairman at one of these entertainments who more gracefully expressed appreciation of the high quality of their work or who more heartily recommended them to the consideration of the public. Mr. Abernethy reached back to the early days of musical societies in Campbellford, and he did not fail to note upon the improvements that have been made in that time. The success of the present band he attributes in no small degree to the co-operation between members and leader.

It was the second public appearance of the band under the leadership of William Pearson, and an entirely new programme was rendered, the high standard of excellency attained by the band being in evidence as usual. One of the most successful features of the entertainment was a cornet solo, "Somewhere a Voice is Calling," by Walter Lowe, one of the most accomplished players, who was accompanied by the other members. Cecil Searles was down on the programme for a violin solo, but, to the regret of the audience, with whom Mr. Searles is a favorite, this number was cancelled, Mr. Searles being unable to reach town owing to the condition of the roads.

In a military band in which the leader and so many of the members saw active service overseas, war songs are likely to be rendered with peculiar spirit, and this was true of the collection that was on the programme last night. To give the numbers an international and fraternal air, included in the medley were the American standard tunes, "Marching Through Georgia," "The Battle Cry of Freedom," "The Kingdom Coming," and "Yankee Doodle."

At the conclusion of the entertainment the large audience expressed their appreciation by a hearty and special round of applause.

CLAIMS DAMAGES FOR PROSECUTION

Says His Uncle Had Him Jailed and Alienated Wife's Affections.

TORONTO, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—R. H. Ball, Montreal, an agent, is suing his uncle, A. E. Weston, Toronto, a bookkeeper, for $50,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution, and is also suing the defendant for $50,000 damages for alleged slander and alienation of his wife's affection, the total amount claimed being $100,000.

In connection with the first suit, the plaintiff states that his uncle had him charged with vagrancy, as a result of which he was confined in jail for two days. In the second action the plaintiff claims that A. E. Weston objected to his marriage to Miss Margaret Duncan, of Vineland, Ontario, and that after he and Miss Duncan were wed the defendant endeavored to alienate the affections of the plaintiff's wife.

The defendant denies the allegations in both cases.

SIR GEORGE E. FOSTER CABLES TO LEAGUE PETITION AGAINST WAR BY BRITISH COLUMBIA CHILDREN

Bears Signature of All School Children in Vancouver and Victoria.

TEACHING PEACE

Sir George Wrapped up in Plans to Enroll 100,000 Canadians.

OTTAWA, April 20.—A request that the petition in favor of peace and condemning war signed by all the school children in the cities of Vancouver and Victoria be permanently lodged at the world court of International justice in the Hague, was cabled to Sir Eric Drummond, permanent secretary of the League of Nations, by Sir George Foster, President of the League of Nations' Society in Canada, Sir George announced on Saturday.

Sir George believes that the moral lesson of the League as it will be absorbed in the schools, colleges and universities, will make the desire for peace a fundamental of the characters of the future men and women.

Boundary Dispute.

The League had been tried and found equal, directly or indirectly, to all International emergencies that had come up since the League was established, in the opinion of Sir George, who is at present deeply immersed in plans to make the coming appeal of the society for 100,000 new members a real success. He referred to the latest accomplishment of the League in the appointment of a disinterested commission to deal with the question of the Mosul boundary line, in dispute between Great Britain and Turkey. He said that the two governments were unable to agree in the matter, and had it been a few years back there might have been recourse to arms to decide the respective rights.

People Favor Peace.

"I do not think," declared Sir George, "that if the peoples of any of the civilized countries of the world were directly asked whether they should go to war with another country over such disputes as boundary lines and status of citizens, that the decision would be anything else but in favor of peace arbitration, such as is now possible through the League of Nations."

Sir George said he was confident that through the League of Nations' Societies in the 55 countries now belonging to the League of Nations, there would arise a great International volume of moral influence which would be too powerful to allow the rushing of countries into war on such pretexts and causes as in the past, and he said he was hopeful that more than 100,000 Canadians would join the Canadian Society, for Canadian influence and opinion was "highly regarded throughout the rest of the world and will undoubtedly have an effect where brought to bear in the future."

Motor Notes

By ISRAEL KLEIN.

The four-wheel brake question has finally quieted down and relapsed into the same old problem of brake improvement.

Just as, before the introduction of four brakes, engineers worked over the individual brake drums and their component parts, so are they still at work now. The same problems trouble them.

Additional problems harass them, as a result of the four-wheel brake innovation. Now they face the intricacies and theories of equalizers and equalization between front and rear, besides left and right, brakes. They are trying to get rid of the cable control of such brakes. They are experimenting on improvements for the hydraulic system.

All these, however, are secondary to the major problems that existed before the advent of the four-wheel-brake system.

The chief question concerns the differences between internal and external types of brakes. There are advocates for each, now as before.

Those advocating the internal expansion type of brake do so for its cleanliness in addition to its effectiveness. But the advocates of the external contraction type of brake argue simplicity and accessibility for it.

Four-wheel brakes have brought another factor into the maze of problems. The brake action must be made light enough for any woman to control it with ease. This means minimum clearance between the brake band and the drum in order to make the slightest tap on the brake pedal effective.

A type of brake is being tested that has a "wrap" of 300 per cent. around the drum. The idea is to afford quicker response to the slightest pressure on the pedal. The minimum "travel" of brake pedal and the ease of depression make stopping of a heavy car, at high speed, a simpler operation.

This, however, is an advancement for four-wheel brakes as well as two. It has been in progress long before four-wheel brakes were intimated.

Sir Alfred Mond Shares Profits With Employees

LONDON, April 20.—(Canadian Press Cable.)— Sir Alfred Mond, M.P., who recently suggested that instead of paying doles to the unemployed the government should subsidize industries to provide work, has instituted in his chemical works a combination of cost-sharing and profit-sharing by which the workers are credited with a proportion of what is saved in costs by more rapid and efficient workmanship.

Sir Alfred says that the competition between the shifts in the works to achieve a better output is already like a football league competition. He is convinced that profit-sharing is the best method of stopping the "Red" danger, but does not indicate how to circumvent the undisguised hostility of the trades union as a whole to such schemes.

LIFE INSURANCE IN CANADA MADE GAIN

Sales in March More Than $7000,000 Above February's.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 20. —(Canadian Press.)—Sales of ordinary life insurance in March showed a distinct improvement in Canada, according to figures just published by the Life Insurance Sales Research Bureau here. The increase over February was very marked, rising from a total of $28,000,000 to over $35,000,000. The latter figure as compared with a total for March 1924, of $34,300,000 indicates a gain of two per cent.

The extreme eastern sections showed the greatest advance in March as compared with a year ago, led by Newfoundland with an 83 per cent. gain and Prince Edward Island with 22 per cent.

Both Ontario and Quebec, which always show the largest amount of business sold, had increases, the former with five per cent. and the latter with one per cent.

In the west, the territory was led by British Columbia with a gain of 12 per cent. followed by Manitoba with three per cent.

Among the cities, the following records were significant: Ottawa 6..1 per cent. gain; Quebec, 27 per cent. gain; Vancouver, 25 per cent. gain, and Winnipeg, five per cent. gain.

went on strike, and forced us to accept a wage increase of seven per cent. This increase was entirely unwarranted, and we urged upon the United Mine Workers' officials that such an increase was dangerous to the welfare of the men and the company. But we were forced to grant this increase at that time, or our miners would have continued on strike, with heavy loss to us. We knew we could not afford to pay the increase, and the results of the year's operations plainly show this to be the fact.

Pay Double 1914 Scale.

"Our miners today are receiving nearly double the wage scale paid in 1914. The highest scale of wages ever paid to Nova Scotia miners was brought about when they received what was the last advance in miners' wages made on this continent. This was after the miners in the United States had reached their highest wage scale, and this peak wage in Nova Scotia was in effect, during the year 1921. During that year and the previous year, the wage scale all over Canada was at its peak. Since that time there has been a very considerable decrease in the scale of wages in Nova Scotia and other parts of Canada in all other industries except the mining industry. Our miners are today receiving ninety per cent. of the wage scale in force in 1921. Canadian industries today are not paying such a high proportion of peak wages to their employees as exist in our mining industries. In all fairness we think our men should not be forced by the paid officers of their organization to refuse absolutely to consider any reduction from this high scale, no matter how much the situation of our coal markets and the demand and prices require adjustment in the miners' wages.

"Navigation is now open on the St. Lawrence River, and this is the period of the year that is harvest time for the Cape Breton miners. The company offered McLeod, during the conference, that if he would accept a small reduction in wages that production would be resumed at the mines and their would be no occasion for distress and unusual employment during the next six months. Mr. McLeod declined to accept the employment offered and apparently preferred to assume the responsibility of providing the food and other requirements of the people. Probably this will be s... from the international chest of the United Mi... of America.

Those exquisite new shades you admire so much

Now—your stockings—sheer and delicate—can be made to last

Silk is an animal fibre, more sensitive than the skin on your face, because it has not the skin's power of renewing itself. Even a soap that is safe for the face, might not be quite fine or mild enough for those gossamer-like weaves with their lovely new colours.

Wash your stockings in Lux after every wearing. Gently press the foamy suds through and through them. This frees them from perspiration—that deadly enemy to silk and to colours.

Lux contains no harmful ingredients of any kind. It is so pure and mild it will safely cleanse anything that water alone won't harm.

How to wash silk stockings:

Skip a spoonful of Lux into foamy lather. Press suds through and through soiled parts. Rinse in three lukewarm waters, then squeeze water out—do not wring. When nearly dry, press with warm iron. Always wash coloured silks quickly, in lukewarm water.

OLD CAT DIES IN PARLIAMENT

Budget Debate All But Dies On Its Feet—No Quorum.

HUGE EXPENSE.

(By W. A. Irwin in The Toronto Globe).

"And the old cat died"—so runs the childish ditty that usually accompanies the coming to rest of that old-fashioned instrument of recreation known as the swing.

Something very like that nearly happened in the House of Commons on Friday during the debate on the budget, now in the moribund stage. For days the pendulum of argument has been swinging backward and forward in that silly, senseless fashion known to pendulums. For days patronage of the swings has fallen off deplorably, but Friday the recurrent beat of that deadly pendulum proved too much for even a somnolent House.

A Near-Catastrophe.

A. Boucher, Liberal member for Yamaska, was declaiming the usual story of confidence in Canada's ability to utilize her unbounded natural resources when T. W. Bird (Progressive, Nelson) called a halt to rhetoric by bobbing up and solemnly informing Mr. Speaker that the House was without a quorum. By a historic fiction of Parliamentary procedure Mr. Speaker is deemed unable to discover the fact for himself, hence the Progressive member's kindly assistance.

Naturally, the report called for investigation, for — no quorum, no Parliament. Slowly the Clerk counted the isolated human oases over the desert of empty seats. He did his best, but could find only 18. The report was too true. A mere 20 in a House of 235 would have saved the day, but of the 20 two were missing.

Obviously, the House had quit, but Mr. Speaker Lemieux, never having encountered such wholesale truancy before, was at a loss to know how to carry out the obsequies decently and according to tradition. In fact, he was noticeably disturbed. He suggested that the incident was disgraceful, and that the quorum should be at least 50. Then followed a hasty consultation of the rules with the Clerk, but before a decision was reached news of disaster had been wafted mysteriously into the lobbies and three Liberal members had rushed into their seats.

Another dilemma. How could the House be without a quorum when there was a quorum? "Count again," finally suggested a voice. Solemnly again the count, and Mr. Speaker was duly informed that there was a quorum — whereat the pendulum started to swing again.

The incident was not without its humorous side, for had the Speaker announced the adjournment of the House, as the rules called for, the debate would have ended automatically, and the Government would have been forced to reintroduce the Budget.

High Cost of Talking.

Comedy aside, however, the upset threw into sharp relief the utter uselessness of this so-called debating. More than that, it is a farce that is too costly to be funny. Reference to this year's public accounts will show that the expenses of running the House of Commons during the 107 days of the session of 1923 totalled in the neighborhood of $1,807,000. That works out at about $16,800 per day. Addition of all the expenses under legislation would run the amount up to about $24,000 per day, but in fairness the Commons could scarcely be charged with more than the smaller amount.

There's a thought for the overburdened taxpayers. Sixteen thousand a day for election propaganda that even members of the House of Commons cannot stomach. At that rate the so-called "debate" will have cost the country something like $320,000 if it runs to the end of next week, as is almost certain. It would be costly even if the amount were expended for the conduct of public business, but when it disappears in the flood of words that follows nothing but a pendulum the honest observer cannot help throwing up his hands in disgust.

To T. L. Church of Toronto falls the honor of having produced one of the day's longest speeches. One of his arguments is worth repeating. Ontario is being discriminated against, he says. For instance, on the one hand there is the increase in the duty on coal. Ontario cannot use Nova Scotia coal economically, and therefore must pay the increased duty on United States steam coal. That will cost the manufacturers of the Province $1,000,000, he estimates. Then, on the other hand, there is the decrease in the duty on well-drilling machinery. This machinery is manufactured in Ontario —discrimination again. "Tommy" therefore is opposed to both increase and decrease.

Other speakers Friday were H. E. Spencer (Progressive, Battle River) and H. Putnam (Liberal, Colchester).

BIG SECTION OF STONE CRUSHER BEING WELDED

John Harnden of Campbellford Has Repair Contract at Havelock Quarry.

FIVE-TON CASTING

Ontario Rock Company Overhauling Plant for Operations This Season.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

HAVELOCK, April 20. — The Ontario Rock Company is overhauling its plant and repairing its machinery in preparation for the opening of its season's work when employment will be given to 40 men or more. This year an experiment is being made in fixing up one of the stone crushing machines which was broken a short time before the plant closed down last fall and Josh Harnden of Campbellford, is the man who has been given the contract, although he is assisted by an expert from Toronto.

The part of the machine in which the break occurred is a solid casting that weighs over five tons. To repair it by the old method it would be necessary to move it out of the building and this process would involve an expense only slightly less than putting in a new machine. For the first time the company is using an electric welder, and it is hoped that the massive machine can be made as good as new. This welder the only one in this part of Ontario, is the property of Mr. Harnden, of Campbellford, who purchased it from a Toronto company. Wm. Thompson of the latter firm, has been in charge of the repair work here but Mr. Harnden has been with him every days, and after this demonstration will be able to operate the welder alone, doing any kind of work.

Expect Good Season.

The Ontario Rock Company expect a busy season and they have on hand a large stock of crushed rock, sufficient to supply the early market while the plant is got under way again. There is a peculiar formation about the rock here which it is claimed, makes it the most valuable for paving purposes of any produced anywhere in Canada. There are different grades of the finished product, each being suitable for a certain class of work.

That Giant Blast.

When the company set off in one blast 31½ tons of dynamite about 3 years ago, that established a new record in quarry work. People came for miles to witness the explosion, but no spectators were allowed to approach nearer than ½ a mile of the quarry. The mass of rock moved by that blast has provided the camp with raw material ever since. They have crushed 176,000 tons of rock loosened by the blast and it is estimated there are at least 50,000 tons still available.

Harry Scott is superintendent of the plant, and when it comes to engaging men always gives the preference to Canadian labor.

Money AT WORK

THE SUCCESSFUL REAL ESTATE SPECULATOR BETS ON THE CROWD

In buying real estate for speculative purposes the speculator who is successful follows the motto, "Mass, not class."

In real estate, mass always drives out class —and usually to the enhancing value of the property. It is not a pleasant thought but it is so. You can see its workings in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Newport, and every other place.

There is a fundamental underlying economic reason for this. A city grows and becomes crowded. A few millionaires have beautiful homes in the path of the expansion of the masses. Soon, this property will have enormously increased taxes and it stands idle— unproductive —while all around it income producing structures rise. After a while such a piece of property becomes too great an economic burden for the rich man to bear or it loses its desirability because of the closeness to the masses.

The result is that the millionaire moves on and the property becomes part of the business property of the rest of the neighborhood.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

By M. B. LEVICK.

And on the thousand and second night Scheherazade told this tale:

There was a Prince who ruled in a land near the River Sind, and he was accounted wonderously rich. Around him there were 700 Princes, and not a handful were so rich or so powerful. He had lands and palaces and forests and hunting grounds, and in a dark and leafy grove was the ruin of a temple built by his fathers a thousand years ago. And they, too, were rich even in their day.

He had many elephants, and the least of the mahouts who drove them wore jewels in his ears, and in the Prince's treasury there were heaped rubies and emeralds and diamonds of great size, and strings of pearls long enough to wind a thousand times around a woman's heart. But neither these nor his gold nor his bronze warriors in their gold and starred tunics did he cherish as dearly as a certain damsel.

She was more beautiful than the young moon and more subtle than the shadow of a lotus on the waters of a green pool. She was truly a young moon when he first beheld her, for she was no more than 9 years old. In the women's quarters there were few younger than she and in that land youth is valued.

As the young moon waxed she grew in beauty so that when the Prince was in the forest his thoughts turned to her even as the tiger leapt at him. Her eyes were larger than the greatest of his fire opals, her skin more delicate than the old ivory in the ruined temple. When one looked on her one beheld not the jewel on her brow but the brow itself and even the wrinkled old women would sometimes find themselves forgetting all else while they watched her walk among the tame monkeys of the sunken garden.

The Prince himself was as beautiful as a young god, but beside her he seemed only a mortal, after all. Alone he was like Krishna, who is a god of that land, but she was like the moon-goddess who walks upon rippling water.

In the garden was a pavilion of cornelian and chrysoprase and marble like yellow roses; around it grew ferns as big as trees and palms with leaves longer than a crocodile; the pavilion had little towers wrought like lace in stone, and colonnades where carvings told many ancient stories. The Prince sat on his cushions in the many-colored light of the dome, and threads of blue smoke rose from the braziers in the shadows, and there the damsel would dance for the Prince. Her saffron kirtle swayed like young blossom trees in a zephyr, and the topaz stones of her bracelets and stomacher were like will-o'-the-wisps. The tinkling of her anklets was sweeter than the dulcimer.

In the colonnades of this pleasure palace they spent many hours feasting on sweets of strange fruits, and she had no wish that was not fulfilled. And the old wrinkled women who peeped at them from behind pillars would marvel, saying:

"Wonderful is the will of the gods, for truly this creature, but for them, would have been no more than a nautch girl dancing for the hire of any chance comer, and now she is become a great lady and we must address her as a begum; she is the third wife, and perhaps the gods have willed that she be the first before it is done."

But in that land there dwelt a merchant named Abdul. He was despised by the Prince, because a merchant is of a lower caste. This man set store by his own wealth, though it was as a candle against the sun compared with the Prince's. Moreover, the merchant swore by the beard of the Prophet and turned his face toward Mecca at evening, while the Prince was no true believer, but followed other gods than the true god (said Scheherazade) and there was that enmity between them.

Nevertheless, the merchant was a masterful man and he vowed to make himself felt by the Prince. Besides, he had seen the damsel. The Prince kept her in the heart of his palace grounds and around her there was first a ring of old women and beyond them a ring of slaves, and then again three rows of soldiers and, still further, a circle of war elephants, swaying on their feet all day and all night.

Yet the merchant, being a masterful man, found means to pass through one ring and another till he came at last to the moon girl, and no hand fell upon him nor upon her as he took her away. She went with him because, although the Prince had the presence of a young god, the merchant was masterful and furthermore he had a thick black beard. And he promised her a magic chariot.

What may have happened in the palace no man knows, but men of high position and low went forth from it, and doorkeepers at the merchant's house received strange money, and there were whisperings, and the damsel was afraid.

Then one day the girl and the merchant rose forth in his magic chariot, which goes without any horses. They rode like the wind on pleasant roads where the breeze carried the scent of jasmine, and they laughed. But suddenly she ceased to laugh and listened, and she heard a soft pad-pad-pad in the dust of the road, and her red lips went white as nine figures came stalking single file from the roadside, all as silent as the dead, and made a circle around the magic chariot. And the girl remembered a dream that the Prince had sent to get her.

Now, most marvelous to tell, in the sunset sea is an island where the men wear short skirts, and they spend all their days in a game, hitting a little ball with clubs. And as the nine circled, there came four sojourners from this island, each carrying the clubs of the game, and with each a lad with a bag of more clubs. The nine fell on merchant and girl with knives, making a great cry as sudden as the poum! of a brass gong, and the four strangers fell on the nine with the clubs, and the boys with the bags proffered more clubs as needed.

They fought, and the nine fled except one who was caught. But the masterful merchant was slain, and as for the damsel, where once she had worn the Prince's diamond on her forehead there was now a great knife slash and her beauty was gone forever.

Scheherazade's story has been told in the form of testimony within the last few weeks in the magistrate's court at Bombay. The defendants were nine men, alleged to have tried to kidnap Mumtaz Begum and return her to the Maharajah of Indore, one of the richest of India's native princes. In the attempt the girl's new protector, Abdul Kadir Baula, was killed in his motor car. The nine were routed with clubs by four British officers returning from the golf links.

CHILDREN NEED OUTDOOR PLAY

Three Hours in the Open Needed for Development Every Day.

TEACH DANCING

(By Ethel Perrin.)

Physical education has long been associated only with the stuffy gymnasium and military commands.

Mothers of growing children are only just beginning to realize that the great outdoors is the best gymnasium their little ones can have.

Exercise in the out of doors connects the child up with all life situations. Pre-school-age children and children up to about the sixth grade should have at least three hours' outdoor play a day.

It is the responsibility of mothers to teach their children how to use all facilities given by the community. More and more playgrounds tennis courts, golf courses and ball fields are being furnished free.

In preparation for encouraging play activities in their children, mothers must understand the physical condition of their boys and girls. The yearly physical examination is a necessity. A child just up from an illness is not able to undertake such strenuous play as one normally healthy.

Girls before they begin to develop physicaly should play the same games in the same way as the boys. When their physical development begins they should be separated, and while they may still undertake the same activities as the boys, they must be a little less strenuous. But it is good for the very little girl to be a tomboy. She should run and jump as actively as her brother.

Children should be taught to dance almost as soon as they are able to walk. Dancing should be to them a form of self expression. They should be given music and allowed to express for themselves what it means to them. Take off their shoes and stockings and let them dance.

The freer the feet are the better. Even the most common sense shoes do not alow entire freedom of the muscles. Normally healthy toes should be able to grip a pencil and lift it from the floor. Little children should wear moccasins as much as possible.

There are of course rules of daily living which must be correlated with physical education. Children should weigh the correct amount for their age and height. They should get plenty of sleep. They should eat nourishing foods. They should sleep long hours with windows open. If these rules are followed and the child is allowed to play hard out of doors a part of every d... there is no reason why health should not be his heritage.

Beauty Secrets of Famous Beauties

By DOROTHY HATHAWAY
In "Sky High."

A woman's eyes are her greatest single point of beauty, I believe.

Naturally, happiness, joy and enthusiasm are the greatest beautifiers, but beautifully shaped brows and long sweeping lashes are very potent, too.

To keep my eyebrows heavy and healthy looking, I massage them with my finger tips dipped in warm olive oil. Then I brush carefully with a tiny camel's hair eyebrow brush. Once every month or so I shape the brows and remove those that grow above or below the line. I do not pluck them, in the sense that we used to trim them down to a fine line, but I keep the line clean and decided.

Always after I apply powder, I brush my brows to remove any particles of powder that may have lingered there. My eyelashes, I bathe frequently, using a lotion composed of one-third of a glass of rose water and one-half of witch hazel.

WHY THE KIWANIS MINSTREL SHOW

Reason Why the Response is So General For This Particular Production.

Because somebody's boy got away to a bad start in life—perhaps he didn't have any mother or father living—perhaps he had what is still worse, a mother or father that were a detriment rather than a help to him. In any event he wasn't to blame for the start he got. Did you ever stop to think that but for the luck of circumstances one of these might have been one of your boys. Did you ever stop and think how fortunate both you and your boys are that such is not the case.

The Government of Ontario is starting a farm at Bowmanville for the special use of delinquent boys, where they can have three square meals a day, which many of them have not had before; where they can work and lead an outdoor life that will build them up mentally and physically; where they can be put back on their feet and made real 100 p.c. Canadian citizens.

The Kiwanis Clubs of Ontario have undertaken to put up the dormitories for the use of these boys. The share of the Peterborough Club is about $700.00; that is why we are giving a show; that is why the members of the Club are putting in their time, money and effort planning and working to put this show over; why they ask your co-operation. It is a clean, bright, humorous show, one that you will enjoy, and one that is given in a good cause. Be thankful that it wasn't your boy that went wrong and help to give a helping hand to the one who did, but didn't mean it.

Police and Soldiers Clash With Revolutionaries All Over Country.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 20. — (Canadian Press).—King Boris yesterday signed a decree substituting military courts for the ordinary substituting military tribunals, and all crimes against public order will be tried by them.

Military courts already have sentenced a number of persons, most of whom are reported to have been summarily executed. Other decrees signed by the King appointing successors to the officials and generals killed in the bomb explosion in Sveti Kral Cathedral last Thursday also have been promulgated.

Police and troops are continuing their efforts to run down persons suspected of complicity in the bomb outrage. There have been several sharp clashes between them and the revolutionaries, both in the capital and in the province. Several persons are said to have been killed or wounded in the encounters. The detachment of troops despatched in pursuit of the band which last week attacked the automobile of the King has succeeded in capturing an accomplice of the band. It is hoped that his arrest will lead to the discovery of all participants in the attack.

A quantity of pyroxylin, a high explosive, was found in the home of a French woman. Another woman was arrested in Kostenez Bania Railway Station while carrying forty pounds of pyroxylin. She was recognized as a Communist agent, and was trying to get out of the country. Many women are said to be involved in the Communist plot.

BEADLE WAS ACCOMPLICE.

PARIS, April 20. — (Canadian Press).—A Sofia despatch to Matin says that Peter Zatgorski, beadle of Svati Kral Cathedral, has been arrested and confessed to complicity in the bomb explosion which caused great loss of life Thursday. He named as the principal authors of the outrage two men, Kosta Yankoff and Ninkoff, the latter a former officer in the engineering corps.

JAPAN HAS 'QUAKES.

Tremors of Last Night Were Most Severe Felt During Year.

TOKIO, April 20. — (Canadian Press). — The most severe earthquake experienced in a year in Japan occurred in the Tokio region at 45 minutes after midnight this morning. The second 'quake was felt at 5.30 o'clock this morning. No damage was done by either tremor.

Bendel Bans Bulky Baggy Sports Things And Insists On Line Rather Than Comfort

By HORTENSE SAUNDERS.

NEW YORK, April 20.—"Line is the first consideration of the spring sport costume," says Henri Bendel, fashion authority.

"The looseness, bulkiness, bagginess and general--comfort-rather-than-style-effect that formerly characterized the outfit for sport has given way to the trim, well-cut, molded appearance that prevails in all this season's clothes.

"The sport dress must be as well cut and as subtly fitted as the evening frock, if it is to be distinctive."

Surveying his models, I understood perfectly how difficult it would be to make one of last year's models pass. The sport outfit has taken on a certain Parisian air and left its old familiar casualness behind. It has suddenly grown up and become very wise.

Skirts Are Short.

"Skirts," Mr. Bendel went on, "are short, and naturally very full, but the fullness is held in by very fine pleats, either all over pleating or by rows of fine pleats alternating with plain sections. Thus they keep their straight line, despite their width.

"Sweaters and coats are much less bulky than ever before. They are so well cut that one has perfect freedom, but there is no extra material anywhere.

The neckline is quite different from last season. Many sport dresses have high collars, and those that do not actually hug the throat are very close to the neckline. If a V-neck is selected, it usually buttons up instead of being allowed to roll."

An example of the smart high collar is shown in the picture of the kasha costume with the embroidered coat. With a knife pleated skirt of kasha is worn a tan silk overblouse with high collar and large silk tie of white crepe de chine. The jacket is embroidered in white silk. This ensemble is quite smart enough for any afternoon function and yet it is essentially a sport costume.

Another outfit that combines comfort and chic is the skirt of brown pleated silk worn with an overblouse of tan kasha trimmed with bands of brown and a monogram in brown.

Newest Sweater.

A striking version of the up-to-the-minute sweater is the one of cream colored silk, worn over a frock of black and white roshanara crepe with an overplaid of scarlet. It too has lost all its looseness and fits neatly over the shoulders and about the hips and keeps the silhouette as flat and narrow as fashion demands.

"Kasha and crepes are the leading sport materials," Bendel said. "Figured silks in high colors are at the height of their popularity, but white and the pastel shades continue to be the choice of the ultra discriminating.

"Brilliant greens, as well as the softer greens are in great demand and so are all combinations of red and white, red and black and red and tan.

"In regard to millinery, you can safely invest your money in the little felt hat, untrimmed or bound with ribbon. Some of the newest models are slightly wider of brim and roll away from the face. Some very large felts are being shown and will undoubtedly reach quite a degree of popularity, but there is no chance that they will take the place of the small model. The little hat gives the correct line for the sport ensemble, and let me impress it upon you—line is everything."

AT THE LEFT IS ONE OF THE SMARTEST SPORT MODELS, MADE OF TAN AND BROWN WOOL KASHA, THE OVERBLOUSE BEING BROWN WITH TRIMMINGS OF TAN AT THE NECK, SLEEVE AND POCKETS. THE PLEATED SKIRT IS BROWN. IN THE CENTRE IS A CLEVER SWEATER AND SKIRT COMBINATION. THE BLACK AND WHITE ROSHANARA CREPE IS CROSSED WITH STRIPES OF SCARLET CREPE. AT THE RIGHT IS A SUIT OF THE FINEST TAN KASHA. THE KNIFE PLEATED SKIRT HAS A TAN SILK OVERBLOUSE. FROM THE THROAT HANGS A LARGE SOFT BOW OF WHITE CREPE. THE JACKET IS OF TAN KASHA WITH ALL-OVER EMBROIDERY DONE IN WHITE.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

"This is the victory that overcometh the world: our faith," was the text of the sermon at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning. "What a wonderful thing is our faith," said His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, speaking at the morning Masses. "We cannot merit it for themselves and no other person can merit it for us. It must come direct from the benevolent hand of Almighty God. And, having received it, let us be true to it, not only in our religious duties, but in our daily lives, in our ideals, our ambitions, our thoughts, words, actions and omissions. "Woe to the world," was the ancient anathema, and St. John speaks of the spirit of the world in him in whom charity reigneth not. With the spirit of the world ruling us we cannot have the spirit of truth and faith.".

In the world of business, in the offices and the homes, the speaker recommended the retention of Catholic ideals. The world is ruled by the "concupiscence of the flesh, the concupiscence of the spirit, and the pride of life." To the Catholic, the touchstone of life should be his Catholic ideals, in his dealings with his neighbor, in his ideas of a square deal between man and man, in the honesty of his business methods.

Even the pagans of old, observing the Catholics in their midst, said: "Behold, how these Christians love one another." The first Christian emperor, Constantine, was a Christian in the midst of pagan surroundings, and the early martyrs were Christions, not only in fair days, but in all sorts of circumstances. So should modern Christians show by their example that their religion was a matter of their every-day life and thought.

REV. P. G. POWELL, ALL SAINTS.

The preacher at All Saints' Church yesteray was the Rev. P .G. Powell of Toronto. In the morning, he preached from the text "He that putteth his hand to the plough and turneth back is not fit for the Kingdom of God.' 'He told of the different types of men who volunteered for His work and turned back, one to bury his dead ,another to say farefell and one who was too emotional and would not last. He traced down through the ages the great missionaries beginning with St. Paul who turned back for nothing and gave their lives in the Masters' service. The ploughing had been hard among the roots of traditionalism and superstition but from the first apostles, who were humble fishermen, the ploughmen had been men of tenacity of purpose and they had stuck to their task.

The speaker closed with an appeal for young women to enter the Deaconness School in Toronto to train for work at home and abroad.

The text for the evening sermon was "No room" from the story of the nativity. These words, said the speaker stand out as a great challenge. People build stately temples of stone and offer them in place of the warm room of the heart and soul. Others offer a beautiful service or ritual in place of the room. When Holman Hunt painted his great picture, "The Light of the World," a friend pointed out that he had forgotten the latch on the outside of the door but Hunt replied that the door had to be opened from within. Mr. Powell said that Christ wishes to enter in all activities, both of business and pleasure but people exclude him by the worries and cares and seem to prefer him to stay in the cold temple they have erected.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST.

"The boys of Canada are on the march," said Gordon Lapp, Premier of the Boys' Parliament of Ontario, speaking on the subject, "The Boy and the Church," at George Street Methodist Church on Sunday evening.

Mr. Lapp pointed out that it was the opportunity of the Church to shape the course of that march into the right channels. The speaker said he believed the Church acted as a haven, not of rest but of endeavour in the right channels in every boy's life.

The Canadian Standard Efficiency Training was minutely explained, as it dealt with the fourfold development of manhood and especially its connection with the Church. The C.S.E.T. was originated in 1913 by Taylor Statten, outstanding boys' work leader in America.

Mr. Lapp said that the boys of Canada have confidence in their country, and they are certain that Canada will soon take its true place in the world, and they hoped that the adults of Canada would regain their confidence. "I have no doubt of the future of Canada," said the boy premier.

Mr. Lapp then told of the connection the C.S.E.T. programme has with the League of Nations and World Brotherhood. He explained that the Assembly of the Ontario Boys' Parliament, numbering 96 members, supported the League because it was the only means yet in sight of fostering peace. The speaker explained that the boys are not Pacifists but see the necessity of peace in order for our country to recuperate and grow. In connection with World Brotherhood, the speaker said that in Hamilton two Tuxis Squares are making brothers of some Italian boys, and out in British Columbia, where the yellow people are such a problem, the Tuxis Boys are setting out to bring Japanese boys into C.S.E.T. work.

Orville Martin, the Peterboro representative to the Boys' Parliament, was also on the platform and read the Scriptures.

The choir for the evening was made up of male voices. Mr. Lapp also spoke at the Sunday School in the afternoon, and pointed out the great need of leadership among boys. He upheld the practice of going to summer boys' camps to study leadership.

KNOX PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

In the morning the message had to do with the necessity of aspiration to the risen life. "Ye are risen with Christ now." His resurrection your everyday lief. How can you your everyday life. How con you make sure of these results? Seek those things which are above where Christ is. Set your affection on things above. This will not hinder your practical life of the present. It is the secret of success in present living.

In the evening the minister dealt with "The Other Side of Religion." Religion is often misunderstood and men forget that it means service as well as salvation. Misunderstood, it may become mean and selfish. "Come with us and we will do thee good," is only one side of the religious appeal. "Thou mayest be to us instead of eyes" is the other side. Here is your chance for service. "I will bless thee" if thou makest this adventure. But that is not all. "And thou shalt be a blessing" follows immediately. Too many people are in the church for what they can get from the church. Sooner or later they feel they are not getting enough from the church or the preacher. Then they knock and criticize and perhaps leave. They forget entirely that religion has a service side to it. They want comfort from religion, and rest and help. Religion has all this to give, and more. But Christ never asks men to come without telling them to go and do something. Fosdick is right when he says: "We are wretched bargain-hunters in religion if we try to keep the comforts of the Gospel and to avoid its sacrifices." A bargain-hunter tries to get all he can for nothing or for as little as he can. Too many bargain-hunters in the churches. Then there are the folk outside, deaf to the appeal of religion because they don't know it means a call to service.

Knox Church was fortunate last night in its music; "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee," an anthem by Sanders, was rendered very acceptably; Mrs. Ross Williamson's true voice being admirably supported by the subdued singing of the choir. The other number in the church service was the Easter aria "Lazarus," from Barnby's "Rebekah," which was sung by Mr. Maurice Park in his usual sympathetic style.

The Bach recital which followed, was opened by the "Fugue in G," which rollocking piece showed composer and organist in nigh spirits and was a general favorite.

Following this were three exquisite preludes from the Little Organ Book—each in most diverse idioms but all in the intimate style characteristic of this collection, which was written in the Duke of Weimar's prison. The three were "In Dulci Jubilo," a mediaeval cradle song set brightly by Bach; "Hail Brightest Day," with the festive joviality of Christmas, and lastly, the inexpressibly tender little piece on the old German hymn, "All Men Must Die."

The closing number was the great Violin Concerto in A Minor, played by Miss Edwina Palmer, who placed the congregation heavily in her debt by her kindness in thus favoring them. The work is in three movements, an Allegro, an Andante, and an Allego in twelve-eight time. The rapidity and brilliance of the first and last movements, which lost nothing in Miss Palmer's capable hands, made them justly popular with all, but for this writer, the exquisite slow movement, played con amore by both players, was the last word. Schweitzer says, "The constantly recurring theme in the accompaniment is Fate," and if so, surely the tender motif of the violin part as its twines around the more sombre theme, is Love. Perhaps old Bach made his chief appeal to the hearts of the listeners, in this violin number, and the organ piece, "All Men Must Die."

SNOW FALL WAS BAD TO WORSE

Early Morning Church Goers Walked in Snow—Later in Slush.

CITIZENS IRATE.

Yesterday morning's fall of snow was not so sticky as the Easter snowfall, so that there was no trouble with broken wires, but a great deal of inconvenience was caused to early church-goers. The beautiful snow started to come down at about 2.30, and soon had a smooth white covering over the sidewalks, and when the first church attendants ventured out about 7.45 they had to dig up the galoshes and rubbers to wade through the snow. The snowploughmen lost no time in getting out, but, like many other hard-working citizens, they were enjoying a little extra sleep and had no idea there had been any snow until called out by the City Engineer or irate citizens who had suffered wet feet.

The telephone girls were kept busy yesterday morning putting through calls for the Mayor and City Engineer from people, who all asked the same question, "What's wrong with the snow ploughs?" The men were out quickly but the snow was very heavy and progress was slow.

"W.P." says there was nine inches of snow, but his word will be disputed by many that waded through the sloppy mass, and they would doubtless recommend that he instal a more accurate ruler.

Even after the plough had made one round of the districts the walking continued bad as the snow kept on falling, and at eleven o'clock many a dignified churchman was to be seen standing on one leg like a stork, in the church porch, hooking snow out of the tops of the new Easter shoes and the cuffs of the new trousers. Judging by the looks of some of them their thoughts were rather unfitted for the time and place.

After the snow had ceased about one o'clock, and "Old Sol" started work, the walking was worse than ever. Where the ploughs had gone along the high sidewalks there was good footing, but in the low spots the water and slush began to collect and at the street crossings in many places the slush was ankle deep. One young lady crossing at the corner of Hunter and George Streets was heard to remark, "I think I'll go home and get my bathing suit," and her thoughts were echoed by many citizens, although such garb would have been a little scanty in yesterday's cool breezes.

DOGS PROVIDE EXERCISE FOR ALL PETERBOPO

Doctors Will Soon Be Prescribing This Class of Cure.

A VINDICATION.

The 614 Pups and Grown-up Dogs Are Not Useless.

Peteroro has 614 dogs, according to the police records of tags issued last year, and of course it must be taken for granted this is correct. No one would try to avoid buying a trinket for his pet onct a year, although there have only been 12? issued this year and the time expires on April 30.

Someone writes to ask what is the use of these 614 dogs. Well, the criticism is often made that dogs are out of place in a city, but it has been proven that the city dog serves a useful purpose. He takes his master out for needed exercising. Down this street or up that you may see him justifying his existence. And he performs his task with zest and thoroughness if he is any kind of dog at all.

The dog is eager, he is strong, he block away and gives a sudden plunge to overtake him. The pull on the leash develops muscular strength in the two arms engaged in pulling back. When one paddles a canoe, muscles are developed, but dog power calls for more than physical development; one must be alert, never off guard or taken by surprise. There is a mental agility in such exercising.

The dog is eager, e is strong, he pulls with such force that unless his master plants his feet firmly on the ground, he is dragged along like the tail behind a kite. This exertion results in the muscular development of the lower limbs, so that two blocks with a dog is etsimated to be equivalent in results to twenty blocks with a cane. Try it on George Street on a busy day.

Better on Windy Day.

The exercise is particularly beneficial on a windy day. When the necessity of holding a hat or a cap leaves only one arm for the leash, thus giving the dog opportunity for putting his master through his paces. Away they go, sometimes on the sidewalk, as often as not darting across the street, giving the master a "kick" in his escape from the wheels of traffic.

The dog sees a bone on a lawn, and the master is dragged over the curb, across the sward and landed, aglow with life, on some one's doorstep. Before he can apologize to the owner for trespassing, the quick eyes of the dog have spotted a cat, and the chase is on. The cat runs for its life, the dog runs for the cat, and the master runs because he can't help himself.

If at such a moment a sportive zephyr blows off the master's hat, the picture, as a demonstration of How to Develop Muscles Though Living in the City, is complete.

Case in Point.

TNS happened today on Brock Street, only with a mistress the victim. She had the leash firmly fastened around her wrist, and did not get free until, having been dragged willy nilly over a terraced lawn, the leash broke near the dog's collar and allowed the young lady to sit suddenly on the still damp grass.

There are, of course, varying degrees in which dogs regard their responsibilities in giving their masters or mistresses proper exercise. No full grown Airedale lets his master lase sight of the duty he owes to himself to live the more abundant life. Police dogs also recognize their responsibilities. The Newfoundland, though more sluggish, is a tyrant when once aroused.

The little toy dogs are interested in the development of grace rather than strength, and potter through life with just enough slack to the leash to enable their mistresses to forget they are there, thus permitting those ladies to adopt the gait pictured in the fashion magazines.

The day is coming when a physician, tapping his fingers on his desk in that nervous fashion which indicates that the physician has more patients than time, will say to the tired business man sitting in front of him: "You need exercise. Take four Airedales for a walk before seven each morning, two at noon and two before retiring at night. Come back in thirty days and report."

Benefit Others.

And the benefit cannot be kept by the owners of the dogs, it seems. Every dog gets away sometime and makes a tour of the garbage cans in his neighborhood. Then the neighbors get their exercise. And the police are called out. And so everyone in Peterboro at some time or other benefits through exercise given by the 614 dogs in the city.

John Duval Dodge of Detroit, son of John F. Dodge, is objecting to the sale of the Dodge Automobile Company. He is seeking court action to restrain Mrs. Mathilde Dodge, his stepmother, from disposing of the property until his interests are protected.

served to alleviate the tedium of counting by causing an occasional chuckle among the scrutineers. One man, for instance, says, "We want God's time — not devil's time," which is certainly a new way of differentiating between standard and daylight saving times. Several humorists stroked out the list of months offered for selection and wrote down the winter months, many expressing a desire for summer time during November and December. Besides the ballots, the scrutineers found a telephone bill and some shopping lists. If any husbands arrived home on Saturday night without the full complement of Sunday groceries they can complete their purchases to-night by calling at The Examiner office for their lists. And if that man forgot the color of silk his wife sent him for, the information will be gladly given from the list found among the ballots. A piece of poetry and a scriptural quotation, equally far removed from the issue, were attached to the ballots.

Result of Vote.

The Examiner straw vote, with its majority of 845 for daylight saving, does not mean that Peterborough will have daylight saving. Nor would it have been a rule against it if the vote had been contrary. But it shows the City Council just what can be expected in the way of a vote if the question went to the polls. In this straw vote every publicity was given the citizens. Men were allowed to vote in their workshops, and encouraged to take the ballots home to obtain the opinions of their wives and families. Ballots were received over a whole week by mail and in person —a period of 174 hours as compared with the municipality's allowance of nine hours. And yet only 6,000 people were interested enough to vote!

Another thing the vote has shown is that there is no class division of opinion. Some workers in factories voted for and some against; George street business men lined both sides of the fence; office employees were divided in opinion, and women were not by any means unanimous.

The Examiner's Part.

During the balloting The Examiner took no part in the campaign for or against, either editorially or in its news columns. Letters on the subject were freely published and more appear to-day.

From now until the question is finally dealt with, it is expected on Monday week, The Examiner will publish brief letters on the subject, if interesting.

ALBERTA COAL FOR PETERBORO'

Part of Shipment of 25,000 Tons Will Be Allotted to City.

GREAT DEMAND.

Peterboro will have some Alberta coal this year. Leon Frazer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has received a letter from J. A. Ellis, Ontario Fuel Controller, stating that 25,000 tons of Alberta coal will be brought east by the Canadian National Railways at a special freight rate of $7.00 per ton. This would permit the sale in Ontario at about $14 a ton. All coal will be passed by the Alberta Fuel Controller, and only coal of the highest quality will be shipped.

Already requests for 75,000 tons of the coal have been received by the Fuel Controller, and the shipment will have to be divided proportionately among the various dealers who wish to handle it, but several Peterboro dealers have asked for some and a certain amount should be allotted to the city. Previous shipments of Alberta coal sold in Peterboro were highly satisfactory, and those who used it have been asking for more.

The Canadian National Railways, it is understood, will make a special survey of the cost of handling this coal to see if the present regular rate of $12.70 per ton can be reduced.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

HOW MOTOR CAR HAS WIDENED THE AGRICULTURAL COMMUNITY IN PROVIDING NEW ACTIVITIES

Truck is a Big Factor in the Handling of Farm Produce.

MARKETING EASIER

Passenger Car is the Means for New Social Connections.

By PROF. W. T. JACKMAN, M.A.
Department of Political Science,
University of Toronto.

The position of agriculture has been changed markedly in recent years in several respects. The telephone, in many places the electric current for light and power, the phonograph, the rural mail delivery, and more recently the radio and the motor vehicle, have transformed rural conditions and have brought the country into such close relations with the city and with the entire world that life in the country has been largely revolutionized. In all this change, probably no single factor has exercised a more potent influence than the motor vehicle.

The day when the farmer was content to live almost in rural seclusion and upon a lower standard than the man in the city is rapidly passing, if indeed it has not already passed. He is just as keen as the city dweller that his children should have as good an education as those who live in the city, and the automobile or the motor-bus is being called into use in a variety of ways to assist in securing this desirable object. In addition to carrying country children to and from the advanced schools in the towns, the motor vehicle is making it possible to bring children many miles every day to and from rural consolidated schools where good public as well as high school education may be obtained. Such journeys may now be made in comfort and cleanliness, protected from inclement weather.

This ease and comfort in travel is a leaven which is causing fundamental changes in many directions in country life. The farm family may now have some real relaxation after a hard day's work; they can go to the neighboring town and, while enjoying the ride to and fro, can also have the privilege of hearing good concerts, good public speakers discussing important subjects of public interest, or can secure advantages of other kinds, which will make for a better, broader and fuller life. If, on the other hand, they desire purely social and recreational advantages these also may be enjoyed. The opportunities for education and social life, as well as for pleasure, have been multiplied many-fold by the automobile; and these contribute to a more wholesome community. Those on the farms are no longer confined to the associations of those who are their neighbours, but can meet those of other communities many miles away. A wider social contact is obtained, thus opening the door to new friendships and all the enrichment of life which may accrue therefrom. In addition to these results, the greater comfort and expedition of travel is being reflected in the life of the family, in the church, in the farmers' club and in other community institutions.

But the influence of the automobile is plainly seen also in the methods of farming. Before the advent of this latest and greatest facility for travel, one community frequently differed from an adjoining community a few miles distant in the way it employed and cultivated the land and in the character of and attention given to stock. But under the present conditions the enterprising farmers are anxious to see the methods pursued by good farmers who live a considerable distance from them. The methods of the best farmers thus become more generally applied and the result is to raise farming to a higher plane, based upon scientific principles and the most approved practice.

One of the great problems of the present is the scarcity of farm labor and under these conditions the amount of time spent unproductively by the farmer upon the road is a vital matter. With the use of horses, a farmer living ten or twelve miles from the town formerly considered that it would take most of a day to go and return and attend to a reasonable amount of business while there. Not infrequently he had to go for a single purpose, and that sometimes an insignificant one, such as to secure a part of some machine or agricultural implement. Such journeys were common at times when the farmer was needed and could do his best work at home, that is, when his work could be most productive on the farm.

Labor in earlier days was abundant and the loss of one man's time on the road was not so serious as it is now when there is a dearth of farm labor. Under existing conditions, the use of the automobile reduces to a minimum the amount of such unproductive time on the roads and leaves that much more time for productive work upon the farm. An investigation made but a short time ago among the farmers of Ontario shows that this object is paramount as a reason for the purchase of automobiles and motor trucks; and to this time-saving feature ninety per cent. of the farmers of the United States who replied to a questionnaire of the United States Department of Agriculture relative thereto, attributed the chief value of the motor vehicle.

The motor truck among farmers has its greatest usefulness in the marketing of farm products and for this purpose its use is becoming more general. It is not necessary that he should have an expensive truck for a large share of this work; he may find ample satisfaction with a vehicle which, without a box, can be an automobile at one time and, with a simple box frame, may be a truck at another time, or he may attach a light trailer or semi-trailer behind his automobile. The benefits from the use of the motor vehicle in marketing the products of the farm may be grouped under several headings:

Motor Truck Advantages.

1. Saving of time. The farmer can take his produce to market early in the morning to a place, say, 10 miles away and be back in time for a good day's work upon the farm; or, if the prices are favorable, he may return for additional loads before the prices break.

2. His products, if perishable, can be taken to market in the shortest time and in the best condition, and, consequently, can command the best prices.

3. The motor truck has frequently widened the marketing area, so that instead of being compelled to sell, as formerly, in one market without regard to the price at that market, the farmer can sell in any one of two, three or four markets, according as the highest price may determine his choice. The telephone will enable him to learn the prices at the different points and the motor truck will enable him to reach the best market at the most favorable time.

Wider Market Range.

A study made by the United States Department of Agriculture first in 1919, when the prices of farm products were high, and again in 1922, when they were low, shows the effect of the motor truck upon the farmer's market. The second report shows that 33 per cent. of those who answered the department's questionnaire had changed from a poorer to a better market as a result of the use of the truck, and the average distance to market had changed from 8 miles before purchasing [illegible] miles afterwards, [illegible] per cent. were [illegible] cent. of those who have turned to the use of trucks have widened their markets thereby to an amount ranging in mileage from 50 per cent. to 110 per cent., and averaging close to 70 per cent.

In 1918 the Bureau of Crop Estimates, Washington, D.C., showing that the estimated cost of hauling in wagons from farms to shipping points averaged about 30 cents per ton mile for wheat, 33 cents for corn and 48 cents for cotton; but for hauling in motor trucks or by tractors the averabes were 15 cents for wheat and corn and 18 cents for cotton. Most of the hauling was done by the farmers themselves, and the costs were based largely upon the usual charge in the various counties for hiring vehicles by the day. There was room, therefore, for wide deviations in cost from place to place, and the average results must be accepted with caution.

A Factor in Dairying.

Probably in no single farm operation is the truck used so extensively as in the hauling of milk. This is because the trucks operate every day over definite routes and because a regular amount of traffic furnishes the opportunity for dependable service. It is a service which does not change seasonably and a traffic which requires the greatest care and expedition in handling. In these respects the motor truck is well adapted to the business. While it is well known that an increasing proportion of the milk supply of our large cities comes in by motor truck, and that by means of the truck the area upon which these cities are able to draw has been much enlarged, there are no accurate statistics. But in the United States some information of a more definite character is available to show the extent of the milk movement by motor truck. For example, milk is delivered to receiving stations or to distributors by truck for the following cities in the percentages noted: Philadelphia 20 per cent.; Baltimore 45 per cent. (having grown from 18 per cent. in 1919 and 36 per cent. in 1922); Milwaukee 87 per cent.; Detroit 88 per cent.; St. Paul, Minneapolis and Indiannapolis each 94 per cent.; and Cincinnati 97 per cent. The routes commonly run 20 to 45 miles, but many extend a greater distance; and on the larger routes large-capacity trucks are used, so that loads of 100 10-gallon cans are common. A more recent improvement in the handling of milk has but lately come into use in the form of a glass-lined tank mounted on a 3- to 6-ton chassis.

These are used for transporting the milk between the receiving station and the distributing centre, but are not yet being used for collection from farm to farm. The speed of transportation and the construction of the tank in such a way as to insulate it from heat by a 3-inch covering of cork protected by metal outside makes it possible to bring the milk to the city in the best condition. Notwithstanding the higher rates charged for haulage by the tank method, several economies are effected which effectually reduce the cost below that of shipping by cans; for instance, the labor cost of handling cans between the railway and the dairy and at the dairy is avoided; the large amount of floor space required for cans—one tank will contain as much as 450 cans—will be saved; there will be a saving in the replacement of cans, which have an average life of only about 30 months, at a cost of $4 to $5 each; the loss milk during hot weather by souring would be overcome and also the loss due to spilling and adhesion to cans. From cost records it appears that there is a saving of 35 per cent. to 50 per cent. in shipping by these thermos-equipped tanks. Such results point to great changes which may be effected in handling milk, through the use of motor trucks with scientific equipment.

Hauling Live Stock.

Animals can be transported for short distances and even at times for distances up to 50 to 60 miles more economically and in better condition than by rail. In cases where railway cars are not to be had and yet shipment of live stock must be made in order to realize the highest prices for them, the motor truck may be employed with good results. Household goods may be carried long distances by truck and the service may be economical by reason of the fact that it avoids a large amount of expense of crating and packing and saves in the time required for the carriage of the goods. It is not possible to generalize and say that certain goods should be carried by truck and other goods should be sent by rail, nor to say that up to a certain distance the motor truck is economical and beyond that it is not. Each case must be considered by itself. But, generally speaking, the motor truck should not undertake the conveyance of carload traffic and should not carry for long distances.

Motor Truck Service.

The organization of the motor truck service in the country is a subject which requires careful consideration. There are three ways in which this may be effected; first, each farmer who has enough business to make a truck pay for itself may own one. Such farmers may do occasional work in carrying for others in their own locality and thus keep their trucks more fully engaged. There are some difficulties in the way of this arrangement, especially because of the fact that just when the neighbors might want work done the farmer would want his truck employed upon his own work. Second, a man in the community who has only a small plot of ground may see an opportunity to render a valuable service in acting as a commercial carrier for the people of the community. One of the difficulties in the way of this plan is that [illegible] country the traffic is usually [illegible] truck cannot operate in [illegible] the country during the [illegible] volume of traffic av[illegible]

Percy Society To Hold Field Crop Competition

WARKWORTH, April 20.—The Percy Agricultural Society will hold another field crop competition this year, the crops to be entered being oats and corn. Twelve entries in each class are required, and George Poole, president of the Society, has already secured ten competitors for both crops. Last year, Mr. Poole won first prize for oats, and C. H. Curtis produced the banner field of corn.

POINTS FOR THE LAMBING SEASON

Keep an Attendant on Hand Frequently Both Day and Night.

Just at this season of the year it may not be out of place to mention some important considerations which must be given at the lambing season, because, after all, the success or failure of the lamb crop determines largely the profit for the year.

It is absolutely necessary for the attendant to be on hand frequently both day and night. The loss of not a few lambs, and in some cases both mother and lambs, can be avoided by prompt action on the part of the one in charge. A week or two before the ewes are due to lamb all the dung locks and dirty, straggling wool on the hindquarters of the sheep should be cut away with the ordinary sheep shears. It will be necessary to handle them carefully at this time, otherwise considerable injury might result to the heavy in-lamb ewe. The removal of this superfluous wool will mean that the young lamb will be able to nurse with less difficulty, it will lessen the danger of wool balls in the stomach of the nursing lamb, and the ewe will be much cleaner at lambing time. The ewe about to lamb can be properly cared for to much better advantage when separated from the main flock. Provision should be made for a few small pens on the warmest side of the sheep house for this purpose.

Poor Sugar Year Means Good Crops, Say Old-Timers

BURNBRAE, April 20.—The old-timers say that a poor sugar year means good wheat and clover. Their prophecy is being fulfilled this year. Up to date, the sugar weather has been rather poor, and, indeed, some have already gathered in their buckets. The heavy rains of last month settled the ground and prevented the heaving of the clover and wheat roots, so that these crops look very well in spite of the fact that the snow left early.

FARM WORK IS WELL ADVANCED NEAR BURNBRAE

Recent Snowfall Was of Inestimable Value to the Fall Crops.

EARLY PASTURE

Many Farmers Are Turning Cattle Out Too Soon, Spoiling Grass.

BURBNRAE, April 20.—The snowfall of recent date will be of inestimable value to the wheat and clover crops, as the weather continued quite warm and favorable for fairly rapid growth. Many farmers are hoping for early grass, so that the cows can be turned on pasture to save chores during spring seeding. However, an extra hour or two each day at chores will be well repaid if the cows are kept off the pasture until near the first of June. Too many make the mistake of turning cattle on the grass before the land has had a chance to become firm and so a good deal of the pasture is tramped out of sight. Then, again, there is not much food value in the first rapid growth of grass, and dairy cattle especially will do much better to be stable-fed for some time yet.

Seeding Well Advanced.

Seeding operations were temporarily halted by the snowfall, but on some farms they were well under way. The soil appears to be in good shape and is drying out rapidly. Much of the land in the Burnbrae district is low and though it can often be worked at an early date is liable to drown should heavy rains come later in the spring, and the seed and labor is lost. This circumstance brings to mind the problem of tile drainage.

Value of Drainage.

A practical demonstration of the value of tile drainage can be seen on the farms of Charles Watson and Wm. Miller in the 8th concession of Seymour. These two farmers in 1923 installed about four carloads of tile. The tile was unloaded at Hoard's station and hauled to the farms, and the ditches were dug by a traction ditcher. The operation cost of this machinery is high, so that the total cost of installing the tile looked pretty large. However, the tile has done its work well and these gentlemen feel confident that the proceeds from the crops grown on the extra land will soon return their outlay. Some of their land which was formerly under water until late in the spring is now dry and almost ready to work. In fact, Mr. Miller has a fair stand of fall wheat on a field that before drain ing could not be worked until late in May. It is to be hoped that times will look a little brighter for the farmer in the near future, so that he can afford to do some tile draining and get some use of what is now practically waste land.

Cheese Factories Open.

Cheese factories are getting under way this week. Prince of Wales commenced operations on Tuesday of last week with Dave Wallace as maker. Menie factory started Monday in charge of Frank Little, and Brae also on Monday with Leslie Shillinglaw as maker. With the opening up of their main source of revenue the dairy farmers of the district are feeling somewhat more cheerful. The price of cheese looks extremely good for a start and as a consequence fewer veal calves are being fed than for some years previous, in spite of the fact that veal has been selling well, dealers paying from 7 to 10 cents per pound, according to quality.

Farmers in this district are interested in the sale of Trent Valley Creameries by Mr. Southworth as a large number ship their cream to this creamery when the cheese factories are not running.

The land is rapidly drying under the sun and wind, and, should no severe frost or heavy rain come, cultivators will be out soon. Plowing has already been under way for more than a week. Mr. Allan Hutcheon, Menie, reports the soil to be quite loose and damp, and alfalfa roots just as tough as ever.

in a rural community during the spring and summer would not usually prove sufficient to justify the ownership and operation of such a truck. Third, the representative men of the locality may form a co-operative association, and, as such, own and operate a truck, charging for the service according as the owners may decide. The troubles usually associated with a co-operative enterprise would be manifested here. We have had in Ontario two examples of co-operative ownership of motor trucks, but neither of them has proved successful. If the volume of business available were abundant, there is no doubt that the other difficulties might be surmounted by skilful direction and management; but hitherto the success of such associations in this field wherever they have been successful has not been long-lived. On the whole, therefore, it would seem that the first system is likely to prove the most satisfactory, at least for some time to come.

Return Load Problem.

One of the great difficulties in the operation of any of these plans is the lack of return loads. Unless the truck has a paying load in each direction it is not operating most economically, and it is practically impossible for an individual operating upon a single route to have a return load for his truck every time it has been unloaded. It would seem that the best way in which to meet this difficulty is to have the trucking business in a particular locality organized by a large concern, with trucks operating from that centre in all directions. With adequate working capital it could maintain a central office in the town or city, by means of which it would be in touch with all the patrons of the service throughout the country and could arrange by telephone for return loads wherever it was possible to secure them. This organization—or a close federation of two or more organizations—at each centre; in this business, as in any [illegible] competition [illegible] monopoly [illegible] organi-

BLEMISHES ON CANADIAN HIDES REDUCE PRICES

Poor Skinning and Attacks of Insects Spoil Quality of Leather.

BRAND MARKS SHOW

Hides of Canadian Cattle Are Wanted by Many Tanners.

By A STAFF REPORTER.

HASTINGS, April 20.—When a farmer member of the Board of Directors of the Peterboro Agricultural Society recently asked J. A. McDonald, manager of the tannery here, the reason why farmers receive so low a price for any hides which they have to sell, while so many hides are imported from South America, he received an answer which appears to cover the case completely.

"The government sends out lecturers," Mr. McDonald said, "to speak to the farmers on almost every subject under the sun, but I have never known one of these lecturers to take up the question you have asked me, and I have never seen it dealt with in any of the agricultural journals.

"The hides taken from the carcasses of animals raised in Canada are of superior quality, so far as texture is concerned, and should command the top price in the market. There are three reasons why they don't. Farmers are too often careless or clumsy in removing a hide, and a slight cut in it means that the finished leather must be sold at a reduction of four or five cents a pound.

"Western cattle are branded; the letters or figures burned into the hide being both large and deep. This, too, causes a defect in the leather, in which the brand still shows, and that portion can only be used for the inside soles of boots and shoes.

"The flies that sting Canadian cattle in the summer months, depositing eggs from which grubs are hatched, is another reason why hides in this country take second place to the imported article. The grubs injure the hide, and the result is seen in the leather. These are facts that should be called to the attention of the farmers in this country, and I have often wondered why the papers and lecturers do not deal with them."

Hides from Argentine.

There is in the Hastings tannery a large stock of hides that have been imported from the Argentine. Mr. McDonald explained that in that country cattle are seldom branded, and when they are, the mark is a light and small one. Most important of all, however, from the tanner's standpoint, is the fact that in the Argentine grubs are not permitted to bore holes in the hides of the cattle. The government has taken steps to prevent that, and cattle are rendered immune from the attack of flies by being driven through a tank of specially prepared chemical, just as sheep are dipped to preserve them from the ravages of ticks. Some years ago the stock raiser in the Argentine was a loser from this source, just as the Canadian farmer is, but the government came to the rescue of the farmer and discovered a remedy.

Money Tied Up.

Beside the fact that the texture of Canadian hides is superior, there is another reason why the tanners would prefer to handle them if other conditions were equal. When the raw hide reaches the tanner it requires about 60 days to put it through the various processes and convert it into leather.

It takes two months to bring a shipment of hides from the Argentine to Hastings. The tanner waits just that much longer for a return on his outlay. There is no duty on the imported raw material, and the tanner has another advantage, as the market of the United States is free to the leather which he turns out.

A Thriving Industry.

The tannery here is Hastings' industrial bulwark, as it gives steady and well-paid employment to about 70 men. Labourers and skilled workmen are on the pay-roll, and such a thing as a dispute between the firm and the men is never heard of.

There is no waste in the tannery. Every scrap is utilized. The flesh that is scraped so carefully from the raw hides by machinery is allowed to accumulate in a tank until there is enough for a carload, when it is sent to the glue factory. Every hair is saved as it is removed, and this forms an important part of the raw material required by the factories where felt is manufactured.

Hemlock Bark Still Used.

Chemicals are used to a greater extent than ever to convert hides into leather, and some of these chemicals are brought all the way from China and Australia. Hemlock bark, however, is still required, Hastings using six cords daily of this material. Some of the bark is purchased from farmers in the surrounding country, but the local supply is rapidly diminishing, and the bulk of it now comes from Burk Falls and the North Bay district. The price of hemlock bark to-day is $15.50 a cord, delivered at the tannery, a rich source of income for the settler who is fortunate enough to locate on a piece of land that produces hemlock trees, as, after the bark is removed, the tree is still valuable for lumber.

It is not so many years ago since hemlock bark sold at $4 a cord, and then it was more extensively used than it is now. The men who wonders why the price of boots and shoes has nearly trebled within the past few years can here find at least one reason for the increase.

Tannery to be Enlarged.

Mr. McDonald has been over 26 years in the tannery business—12 years in Bracebridge and 14 years in Acton—coming to Hastings from the latter place a little over a year ago. CONTEMPT FOR BOOK FARMER

Some Farmers Are Still Prejudiced Against Agricultural Colleges.

FEELING DYING OUT

CAMPBELLFORD, April 20.—How is it that so many farmers in Ontario are prejudiced against the agricultural colleges and object to sending their sons to the many excellent institutions that are maintained at so heavy an expense by the Provincial Government for the benefit of the residents of the farming community? The popular contempt for the so-called book farmer, the man who consults printed authorities when in doubt, still prevails, but it must be admitted that it is dying out. Some farmers, however, will tell you that one sure way to spoil a boy is to send him to an agricultural college, that while he is a student there everything like practical knowledge is rilled out of him, that he is converted into a mere theorist, with expensive ideals, that he is inclined to turn his back on the land and look for a white collar job, an appointment as district representative preferred.

The Case of Ernie McCook.

Ernest A. McCook is the only resident of Seymour Township who has put in two full years at the Guelph or any other agricultural coll ge, leaving that institution with a diploma. He also took the three months' special dairying course and now he is back on the land, more enthusiastic then ever, and in his own person demonstrating the fallacy of the arguments above quoted. He is a farmer who has already made good and one who is sure to achieve still greater results in the future.

Mr. McCook resides a short distance from town in West Seymour, on the farm upon which his father, John McCook, settled 34 years ago. The father still resides on the farm, but the son is the active manager. Two years at college has not bred in him a distaste for manual labor and the dull route of toil is lightened for him by the scientific interest which he takes in his calling. What he learned at Guelph is being manifested in his methods of cultivation, in the care of his stock, and in the arrangement and upkeep of his farm buildings.

His Herd of Pure-Breds

Mr. McCook has 11 pure-bred Ayrshire cows in his farm and these animals have now been out of the stable, with one exception, since last December, and will not be turned loose until the grass is ready. The stable is well lighted, the walls are whitewashed and the entire place is kept perfectly clean. Feeding arrangements are convenient and the entire herd is watered from a trough in front of them and which is filled by a power pump which draws the supply from a spring some distance from the buildings. The cows are tied with chains that work up and down on posts, Mr. McCook preferring this system to the modern stanchions, especially when cattle are kept tied up all winter. He sells cream as a rule instead of sending the milk to a cheese factory, the separator which he uses being operated by power.

An Aristocratic Sire.

The herd sire on the McCook farm is a handsome yearling, of aristocratic lineage, with the elongated title, "Kemptville Agricultural School Pride," the name denoting the institution from which Mr. McCook purchased the animal. The dam of this sire has a record of 16,612 pounds of milk in one year with an average test of 4.76. She holds the four-year-old record for Canada with 13,000 pounds of milk testing 4.6. This dam in 1923 was awarded the silver cup given by the Ayrshire Association for the best producer of that breed in the Dominion. Mr. McCook's herd sire won the first prize for Ayrshires when exhibited as a calf at the Ottawa Fair last year.

All Mixed Grain.

Wheat, oats and barley, mixed, are the only grains sown by Mr. McCook in the spring as everything he raises is fed on the farm. He raises some sweet clover for pasture but has never yet tried it in the silo. This building is a huge cement affair, but five acres of well cultivated corn is sufficient to fill it. Mr. McCook says that he is becoming more and more a champion of alfalfa as one of the most profitable crops the dairy farmer can raise.

Science in Warfare.

This young graduate of Guelph College is prepared by reason of the training which he received there to wage a scientific warfare on weeds and insects to every year run away with a large percentage of the profits of Ontario farmers. His orchard, showing as it does, intelligent care, is one of the best kept in the township, and though still young gives promise of substantial returns on the work that has been expended upon it. Mr. McCook is not what is generally understood as a book farmer. He toils just as his neighbors do, but it is safe to say that he gets more joy out of life by means of his scholastic training in the science of agriculture. Every year he enters the field crop competition held under the auspices of the Seymour Agricultural Society, of which he is a director. He has won first prize for corn on several occasions and even if he does not capture that honor every season, he always manages to finish in the money.

ARTIFICIAL MANURE CAN BE MADE ON ANY FARM BY MIXING STRAW AND AMMONIA SULPHATE

The Fertilizer is Equal in Crop Production to Barn-yard Product.

TAKES SIX MONTHS

Experiments Being Conducted in England and the United States.

The term "artificial manure" has been applied to a product resulting from the treatment of straw by certain chemicals. The outstanding feature of the methods is the conversion of straw into manure without being first used as a feed or litter for stock—the rotting down of the straw being brought about, as in the case of ordinary manure, by bacteria, which, in this process, are nourished and encouraged by the chemicals added to the straw. These bacteria are ever present in the air, and therefore there is no necessity to purchase or otherwise procure a special culture. In order to accomplish their useful work on the straw, it is merely necessary that they should have a certain amount of soluble nitrogenous food (supplied by the chemical, sulphate of ammonia), moisture and air. The investigatory work which led to the devising of a practical process for making this artificial manure was carried out at the Rothamsted Experiment Station (England) during the latter years of the World War, when the general principles involved and more or less of the details of the process were discussed in the agricultural press by the authorities of that station.

More recently the Rothamsted Experiment Station has patented the process, with a view of building up a fund to be devoted to further research work. This action renders it impossible for us to give the details or directions as issued by Rothamsted. However, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, following up with experimental work the earlier published accounts of this method, has informed the public that the addition of 100 pounds of ammonium sulphate and 100 pounds of lime to each ton of straw, will give satisfactory results—a manure-like substance of distinct fertilizer value. The materials—sulphate of ammonia and lime—may be scattered on the straw as it comes from the thresher, the straw being kept moist by a stream of water. If the straw is already piled or stacked the "manure" can be made by spreading on the ground a layer of straw—say, of two feet or thereabouts in thickness—and broadcasting over it the requisite amount of sulphate and lime, thoroughly moistening the mass and repeating the procedure until the heap has reached a height of, say, eight to ten feet, above which it is not convenient to work. If there are no ready means to renew the moisture from time to time, and there is reason to think that the rainfall will not be sufficient to supply the water lost by evaporation, the heap should be covered with soil.

It is stated that the conversion of the straw into the resultant manure-like material will take from three to six months, that the loss of plant food during this period is less than that which takes place in the rotting of manure, and that this "straw and sulphate" manure is practically equal in crop production to ordinary barn-yard manure. But the evidence to date is necessarily limited, and the whole matter cannot be said to have passed the experimental stage.

Essentially, this is a method for making humus—or a humus-like material—the nitrogen of which has been supplied by added sulphate of ammonia. It is a process which might have a practical value for the utilization of straw in districts in which it can be used neither as a feed nor a litter for live stock, and in which climatic conditions are favorable to the rotting of straw.

AT LAMBING TIME CARE IS NEEDED

Cleanliness and Gentle Treatment Are Essential for Success.

Cleanliness and gentle treatment are two important things to keep in mind at this particular time. The hand and arm of the attendant should be first washed, adding a little disinfectant such as carbolic acid or one of the coal tar dips to the water, then smeared with vaseline or linseed oil, and the hand gently inserted into the vagina. The object should be to ascertain whether or not the lamb is coming in the proper position, that is head and front feet first. If the presentations appear normal then it is a question of aiding delivery by gently pulling on the front feet of the lamb. At such times the inside passage of the ewe should be well lubricated with linseed oil which tends to soften the vagina and allow it to stretch. Unless the case is a very severe one it will usually yield to the treatment. Under conditions where the lamb is not coming in the proper position, then the case is a much more difficult one to handle. The lamb may be coming front feet first with the head turned back, or again the hind end may come first, in any case it will be necessary to correct the position of the lamb; it requires considerable patience and very gentle handling to do this in order to prevent injury to both lamb and mother. When the lamb has been put in the right position, the ewe may be able to deliver it herself, but if weak and unable to do so help may be given. A lump of pure hog's lard inserted into the womb of the ewe after difficult parturition will be very beneficial in healing it in case it has been injured in any way. If she is weak and exhausted give a stimulant to revive her. If the case has been a severe one it might be advisable to flush the ewe for two or three days by means of a rubber tube attached to a funnel using some coal tar disinfectant or boracic acid in warm water.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK FOR CATTLE TRADE

Bank Finds Demand Will Soon Overtake Supply of Meat.

World conditions are working out in favor of the Canaidan cattle industry, according to an article which appears in the current letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, part of which follows:

Owing to the higher prices now being obtained for beef cattle, the outlook for the cattle industry shows marked improvement and a note of optimism is evident among cattle men. Exports to Great Britain are increasing; from January 1 to February 20, 1925, the number of head shipped was 9,704, as compared with 6,672 head in the same period of the previous year. Shipments of beef cattle are also being made from Alberta to Japan, and of dairy stock to China. Estimates and information reaching the United States Department of Agriculture show that "stocks of meat animals as well as of feeds are by no means so plentiful as they were a year ago, while on the other hand, the population of the United States will doubtless make the usual increase of about 1,500,000 each year. The indications, therefore, point to a shorter supply of meat during the next year or two at least."

According to an eminent authority the world's demand for beef has overtaken the supply and prices may be expected to go higher. In support of this view he points out that Great Britain no longer stands practically alone as a meat importing country, no fewer than eight other countries now competing with the United Kingdom for available export supplies of the world. In 1924 the European market absorbed 450,000 tons of beef from overseas, a quantity equal to 70 per cent. of the beef imports into Great Britain. These supplies were drawn from Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, and, having regard to the leaner quality of meat called for by the Continental taste, prices were fully equal to values in London. It is significant that Britishers now regard the United States as having ceased to be a source of supply of meat. The exports from that country to Great Britain in 1924 were only 4,021 tons of boxed meat, 37 tons of chilled meat, and 1,859 haed of live cattle. The latter, it is surmised, probably originated in Canada. If the system of marketing in Canada was as effective as those of other meat exporting countries, a larger export meat trade could, doubtless, be developed.

PETES LOOK AS STRONG AT THIS STAGE AS ANY OTHER IN LEAGUE

Battery Recruits from C. G. E. and Lakeviews Should be Big Help—Legon Expected in Spite of Ponies' Claim —Several Broad Gaps in Kingston Squad.

OSHAWA CREW YET TO BE TESTED

The Oshawa Central Ontario League crew, tackling the Oslers in an exhibition game on Saturday afternoon, were completely smothered by the Ontario Senior champions, who beat Captain Al Tyson's crew 18 to 0. Beyond convincing some of the Oshawa fans who have had the Central League title won for some time, that the motor town crew may not be as formidable as they imagined they were, the result means nothing. Games in the middle of April do not afford much of a line on the strength of the competing teams and Oslers had the advantage of more training than Oshawa, who went into the fixture after holding but one practice.

The Oshawa roster includes a long list of players, but again that means nothing.

As a matter of fact a look around the Central Ontario League circuit makes the Petes look on paper at least the most improved team in the outfit.

Plethora Of Petes.

Providing "Red" Legon returns to Peterboro, and despite Kingston claims the local club say that the little left fielder will be here, the Petes will have lost nobody off last year's team except Serth—and his loss can be regarded as an asset. On the other hand they are strengthened by the availability of a dozen or more players who were not with the 1924 crew. The pitching department receives a notable addition in Frank Whitehouse, the sterling left-hander of the Lakeviews, who has pitched Lew Lebarr's team to two successive junior Ontario titles, and who has the control, courage and stuff to make him a winner in senior company. With Heckman and Whitehouse to divide the twirling duties the Petes are better fortified in this department than ever before. And the receiving end of the battery broadcasts the same story, for in addition to Max Swanston, Bob Ross and Gardner, two experienced backstops will wear the local uniform.

Have Reserve Strength.

For the infield positions Hap Harrison, Ray Rose, Tommy Holyman, Jiddy Helson, Frank Collins, Scotty McPherson, Fred Batten, Manager Johnston and others are available.

There is no lack of talent for the outfield either with Jimmy Hall, Herb Wolfe, Shaughnessy Fred Ash, likely Legon and other players who may make the grade.

At this stage the Petes appear to have more reserve strength than the rest of the Central crew. They have lost nothing from last year but on the contrary have been notably strengthened in nearly all departments.

Kingston's Losses.

Kingston, on the other hand, have lost the best shortstop in the league in Compeau and it is safe to say the Ponies will be weaker there no matter who may be selected to try to fill his shoes. Compeau was a fielding fool and he hit up among the leaders all season. The Ponies too have lost their two good catchers of last year, Rickman and Rice. Quinn, who caught for Deloro last season, and Arniel, who was the backstop of the Hussars, will do the receiving and neither can hit like Rice nor does either possess the base ball brains of Rickman. On top of these losses the mysterious Mr. Kelly, southpaw heaver, is no longer in Kingston. To help out Gallagher they have secured Cairns of the Toronto Y Judeans and another pitcher named Young. One of these may turn out to be as good as Kelly but even if he does the Ponies are still weaker than last year, because of the loss of Compeau, Rickman and Rice.

Glimpse At Belleville.

Down in Belleville the situation is somewhat obscure. It is said that Jack Oulette will not be with the Canadian Nationals, and if the Fenelon Falls iron man is not on the job there is apparently no one to take his place. Belleville has stood pat on its lineup longer than any other team in the circuit and the machine is beginning to get rustly in parts with no young players being developed to fit in. The Trunks can however, count on last year's squad and there is plenty of kick left in the outfit. It is safe to say that Belleville will be stronger than last season and if Oulette is not there—well use your own judgment.

Minus Murray.

Oshawa, since last season have lost one of the best third basemen in the League in Micky Murray. His place will be taken by another Peterborough boy, "Toots" Warde, who is a comer, but not as valuable either offensively or defensively, as his predecessor. If Eddie Dugan of last year's C.G.E. team beats "Buck" Wilson out of his first base berth there will be two Peterborough boys in the infield, otherwise the motor town crew will field about the same teams as usual. They have added Breckenbridge, formerly of Leaside, and Somerville, formerly of Orono and Bowmanville, to their pitching staff, but the veteran 'Duke' Dainty will likely be found doing most of the heaving when the season gets under way. ?

BALL SQUAD OUT

Second Practice of Season on Saturday Was Well Attended.

Taking advantage of the bright sunshine Saturday afternoon the Peterborough Central League team had their second workout of the season at the James Stevenson Park with Manager "Shiner" Johnston in charge. Pichers Al. Heckman and Frank Whitehouse put in a useful hour, loosening up their flinging arms with Max Swanston, Bob Ross and Gardner doing the catching. The squad had considerable fielding and batting practice and the afternoon was a profitable one as a conditioner. Among those out were Manager Johnston, Ray Rose, Frank Collins, Al Heckman, Frank Whitehouse, Bob Ross, Gardner, Herb. Wolfe, Fred Batten, Max Swanston, Cecil Shaughnessy, "Biffer" Ranger, Fred Ash, Lew Lebarr, Johnny Marchen and Doug. Moore.

Evening practices will begin as soon as the weather conditions permit and every advantage will be taken of opportunities to get into shape.

TENNIS SEASON ALREADY BEGUN

Quaker Oats Players in Action Saturday—More Local Interest Shown.

MANY TURNING OUT

Tennis is getting under way. Saturday afternoon games were played on the clay courts of the Quaker Oats Company across the river from the plant.

The Y.M.C.A. have had their courts levelled and rolled, and are just about in readiness for the season.

The Peterboro Tennis Club have been working on their four courts in the West End, and if the weather holds out games will likely be played there this week.

Mr. Kitney, caretaker at the Oval, has also been preparing for the season. He expects that he will be able to have the courts ready for the respective clubs in a week or so.

More tennis courts are being made about the city each year as the enthusiasts of the game steadily grow in number. The Peterboro Tennis Club has a full membership and are refusing any more members until they can increase the number of courts.

TORONTO, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—Dave Coulter, late of Winnipeg, and now of the Classic Club, defeated Firpo Williams of St. Catharines for the only championship decided at the Ontario boxing tournament Friday night. Coulter outclassed Williams for the heavy title in the lone bout in the tonweight class. Coulter had both height and reach on the big St. Catharines cop, but the pair provided about the best bout so far in the meet. OSHAWA GIRLS ARE CHAMPIONS IN BASKETBALL Defeat Hamilton 24 to 18 in Intermediate Finals on Saturday.

GREAT GAME.

Ontario Championship Goes to Baby City After Brilliant Effort.

OSHAWA, April 20.—(Special to The Examiner).—By defeating Hamilton Saturday evening by 24 to 18, the local girls' basketball team won the Intermediate championship of the Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association by a total of 34 to 28 points, the first game in the ambitious city resulting in a 10 to 10 tie score. The local girls in their victory have accomplished something that no other local sport organization has been able to do since the year 1878, when Oshawa captured the lacrosse honors, that of bringing a Provincial Ontario championship to Oshawa, and civic recognition will be given the girls on the honor brought to the baby city of Ontario. The game was all that could be desired for a final from a spectator's standpoint, being one of the hardest checking affairs ever seen locally, both teams giving all they had throughout. Over five hundred people witnessed the battle, and were not lax in acclaiming the title-holders for their brilliant efforts. A week ago Oshawa held their opponents to a tie game in that city, but the ambitious city team were minus two of their regulars. The visitors were at full strength for the return game, and gave Oshawa real battle until the last half, when the winners pulled steadily away and opened up a commanding lead.

From a scoring point of view, Agnes Alger and Dot Kennedy were the heroines, getting seventeen points between them for the champions, while T. McKelvey of Hamilton scored seven, leading her team in this respect. Defensively, Miss I. Hall of Oshawa was the star of the game, playing a strenuous checking exhibition during the forty minutes. Marion Lick, her assistant and Oshawa captain, also scintillated, and the fine shooting of the local forwards was a bright feature.

The work of the Hamilton forwards was offset by the loose playing of the defence at stages, and Oshawa took advantage of this and ran up a score.

The champions led throughout, the score by quarters being: 2-2, 6-2, 16-10, 24-18.

Hec Creighton of Toronto handled the game in fine style.

The line-up:

Hamilton: T. McKelvey, r.f. (7); E. McArthur, l.f. (5); Smith, sub.; E. Gorman, c. (3); V. Springstead, r.d. (3); Groves, sub.; D. Emery, l.d.

Oshawa: M. Germond, r.f.; H. Ford, sub. (6); D. Kennedy, l.f. (8); V. Fulton, sub.; A. Alger, c. (9); J. Hall, r.d.; M. Lick, l.d.; M. Bowens, sub. (1).

In a preliminary match Knox College Junior Boys defeated Oshawa Juniors 28 to 24.

CHICAGO TEAMS HIT BY INJURY JINX

The two Chicago clubs, White Sox and Cubs, have been hit tough wallops thus far. The Cubs have lost Maranville and Grigsby for the time being, while the Sox will be minus the services of Hollis Thurston, star pitcher, for the early part of the season. Maranville and Grigsby suffered fractures, while Thurston is toting around a badly sprained ankle.

ISNIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

It is not an uncommon thing to see a golfer abandon wood clubs and take to irons throughout the bag. It is a mistake to do that, for the iron can never yield the distance that can be taken with the wood and, after all, the long drive is perhaps the most advantageous shot in golf as well as the most satisfying one. Take it away and half the charm of the sport is lost. The wood club swing is the easiest swing of all. The iron swings easier for many players because it feels, in the first stage, more natural in the hands. This is because of the weight in the head. The player who has so much trouble with the woods has only to train his fingers and hands to feel the weight of the wood clubs and he will get along better with them.

OSHAWA OPENS BASEBALL YEAR WITH BIG LOSS

Defeated in Exhibition Game 18 to 0—Oslers Won Handily.

EARLY START.

Filled Up the Score Book With Everything Provided For.

OSHAWA, April 20. —(Special)— Establishing a new record for the earliest opening in the history of sport in the Baby City of Ontario, the baseball season was ushered in at Alexandra Park, Oshawa, on Saturday afternoon, in an exhibition game between the Osler's of Hampden Park senior league, Toronto, amateur champions of Ontario in 1924 and Oshawa's Central League entry. With "Old Sol" working over time to warm up the atmosphere, despite the cold wind, making it comfortable for the local fans who turned out in mid-season numbers to get a line on what was to represent the City in the senior league of the East the afternoon's programme consisted of seven innings of good and bad baseball, good on the part of the visitors, but just the reverse on the local's part, with everything that could be recorded in a score book and a wee bit more and a score of 18 to 0 being hung up against Oshawa.

Thirteen Uulucky.

"Chuck" Reeves, the new Oshawa pilot, late of Philadelphia and Windsor, made an unlucky debut, having thirteen players in uniform and using all, while the Osler's put twelve into action and after cracking out a home run, a triple, three two base drives pulling the hit and run, and squeese plays and in fact everything that shewed what a real ball team could do, "Chuck" and his players decided to call it an afternoon at the end of the seventh. On the defensive the Osler's went the route with only one error behind Noble and Spring who did rubber duty. In the four innings, Noble worked he let Oshaw" down with one hit and made eight batters whiff the air, then Spring took up the firing, with the result Oshawa got their second hit of the game, while five more willow wielders hit at the air three times.

Osler's scored two runs in the first frame after two men were out on a fumble by Wilson at first base on Lennox's fielding of a slow roller by Eagen, then Broon hit out a circuit clout; they chalked up nine more in the third on two walks, a double steal, three errors and five hits; in the fourth they chased five more over the pan on two errors, a walk and two hits ,one of which was a two station clout and added another two in the seventh on four hits.

Lennox, the new left hander who came to Oshawa from Stouffville, worked four innings on the slab for Oshawa and was touched for eight safe clouts and a total of sixteen runs, but in his first start made a favorable impression; Dainty did the flinging for the last three innings, allowing six hits which were good for two runs.

Oshawa only had three men left on bases in seven innings and only one reached third base; both Noble and Spring had the upper hand on the batters all the way, Lennox and Reddick getting the only hits of the game. Oshawa's infield committed every misdeamour that could be marked on a score sheet, but a double play in the first innings was the bright spot in their work

The teams were: — Oler's: — Fleming 2nd; Hughes 1st; Eagen ss; Breen ss; Elwood rf; Critter cf; Buchanan c; Jones lf; Nobel p; Hoose c; Spring p; Doods lf.

CARDIFF'S WEAK TEAM SURPRISE HUDDERSFIELD

Welsh Team's Stars in International Match—W. Bromwich Tied With Leaders.

NUMEROUS UPSETS

Manchester United Pass Derby County in Second Division Places.

LONDON, April 20 (Canadian Press Cable).—The crop of surprises yielded on Saturday throughout the entire English League was one that would have satisfied the most ardent doubter and the net result of the games was to leave the question of championships and promotions further in the air than ever. The fans did not foresee a draw between Huddersfield Town and Cardiff on the Yorkshiremen's ground, particularly when the Welshmen were playing with a scratch team, an eleven that was notable for the absence of Keenor, Willie Davis and Len Davis, who were engaged in the Wales-Ireland International game, and also Beadles and Evans. Beadles was injured a week ago and did not turn out Saturday. From the start the game looked a cinch for Huddersfield. But as it resulted, the Town were lucky to emerge with a division of the points. It has to be said, however, that Huddersfild were not at full strength, either, also that they played badly. They side them again and once more the they missed.

The question whether they will lead the league for a second season in succession remained very doubtful after the contest. For their rivals, West Bromwich, pulled up beside thm aegain, and once more the two are running neck and neck, the Town's chances are somewhat brighter than those of the Albion, however, for they still have a game in hand.

Derby Trimmed.

A great deal more confused is the second division battle. Derby County failed miserably on their own ground against Stoke, serving up one of the greatest disappointments of the year. Stoke are on the list of possible relegations, yet they travelled to Derby and administered a solid trimming to the County, and made the latter's hopes for league leadership look very sick indeed. At the same time, Manchester United obtained a one-goal victory over Bradford City and this enabled them to pull ahead of Derby County into second place and to make them threaten even the position of Leicester City themselves. Manchester United, who were almost counted out of the leadership a few weeks ago, have played wonderful football of late, and to such advantage have their games been contested that they now have a game in hand over Leicester City and are running a couple of points behind them.

It seems to have been left to South Shields to serve up the battles that were to upset all dope with regard to the leaders, for in a series of games played with all three they have totally somersaulted the league Saturday they forced Leicester City to accept a draw, and although this gave the City one precious point, it nevertheless put them in a position where they will have to put forward everything they have in order to stay where they are, at the head of the table, with the honor of promotion.

Darlington Secure.

The air clears somewhat in the northern section, for Darlington have already acquired so great a lead over the others that they can not now be disturbed and they will go up. Had Nelson defeated Wrexham —as they ought to have done—Saturday, there might still have been a contest for the honor. But that issue was settled when Wrexham handed out a four to two defeat to their opponents.

At the other end of the tables there are few doubts. In the first division, both Preston North End and Notts Forest must go down to junior company, but in the second division, while Coventry City will be certain for "election" to the third, the question as to who will accompany them, remains to be assured. At the moment Oldham Athletic, Barnsley, Crystal Palace, Stoke, Blackpool and The Wednesday in the above order of "preference" are in danger, and it is possible that the decision may not be made until the last game of the season has been played.

Rotherham in the northern section of the third division, and Merthyr in the southrn will have to quit and apr1yl for re-admission to the league, taking their chances with the innumerable body of clubs that is besieging the gates of the Football Association.

Arsenal Beat Burnley.

With regard to the games Saturday, Arsenal gave a thorough whitewashing to Burnley when they took the latter into camp at Highbury by a quintet of goals. Arsenal, being safe from relegation, wished to play Rutherford's son, giving him a chance to lead the forwards against Burnley, but the Football Association objected. The policy that no player transferred after the middle of March could play in a game that was vital to the promotion or relegation of a club was carried out, the stand of the Association being that the introduction of any new player by Arsenal would have been unfair to Preston North End. Brain played centre for the winners, and did the hat-trick. Burnley's eleven was the weakest that has been seen at Highbury this year.

WOOLLENS WON FIRST LEAGUE FIXTURE 6 TO 0

Quakers Had to Admit a Three-goal Lead in First Period.

DEFENSE FAILED

Woollens Added Three More in Second Half—Quakers Unlucky.

The opening senior soccer game took place on Saturday afternoon at Nicholls Oval before a very large attendance of spectators when the Woollens scored their first success in the league schedule at the Quakers expense by six goals to nil. According to play the score should have been two goals in favour of the conquerors of the day. The Quakers put up a sterling brand of soccer in spite of the tally against them.

Goals Come Easy.

The Woollens won the toss to compel the Quaker Oats to face the sun. No sooner had Geo. Logan kicked off then Mann retaliated with a clearance to his left wing that ended in a scrimmage in front of the goal from Burgess' cross for the first counter. They added to their total a few minutes later through Gaskill with an unsavable shot. After this sudden reverse, the Quaker boys made the Woollens defense come into prominence through accurate clearances from the opponents desperate raids that were worthy of success but fate was against them. Geo. Logan as a provider of openings around the goal had no equal and the inside men accepted chances that were nullified by timely defense tactics. Although the Quakers outside had plenty of time to score about twenty yards out, he kicked it with his wrong foot to go past.

A Surprise Goal.

After doing all the pressure around the Canadian Woollens goa and their half-back line working like trojans, a throw-in for the Quakers proved fatal. W. Logan threw the ball to Scott who misjudged the sphere, Wilson tapped it forward while the defense—centre-half lacked pep— as the snappy centre-forward of the Woollens rushed forward in between the two defense backs that resulted in a shot penetrating the desired area. Exchanges were very even, thereafter, until the left wing combination of Wilson and Burgess worked inside the defense with beautiful football but were held in check by W. Logan as they closed in near goal. Just before half-time, the Quakers forwards bombarded their opponents goals without success. Hillman was unbeatable with the high shots but the inside men of the defeated team tested him with ground efforts that caused the goalkeeper anxiety which was relieved as half-time was announced. Woollens 3, Quakers 0.

HALF TIME.

After the customary respite, both teams set a fast pace that soon deteriorated in tactics of interest, although the long drives from Woollens half-backs demonstrated the Quakers goalie ability as he punched and fisted clear. Maher, the left half back, sent his forwards up into the attack, with the whole front line bewildering the Woollens defense into a flurry as Hillman failed to make a clearance. Both inside men of the attack along with the centre-forward manoeuvred against the goal-keeper, to cause great excitement as the ball rolled on the goal-line awaiting the necessary tap of a foot to get a goal that never came their way.

Added Three More Goals.

At this period of the latter forty-five minutes, the Quakers were far superior on the field but lack of the essential punch was very evident. A free-kick taken by Blowers, against Quakers for handling, was landed amidst a sea of players in front of Quakers goal, for Woollens inside left to make another tally. This was disastrious for them, because the full back fell away competely as Burgess baffled them when he carried the ball into the touch line to lift across over their heads ,to Mitchell's waiting foot for the fifth goal. Quick as a flash this was added too when the Quakers' right back made a poor clearance that left Wilson in possession, to give Metcaafe no chance with the sixth tally. But luck was against the Quakers as they endeavoured to reduce the score against them, no matter what they tried, success did not come to their aid as the Woollens half-backs never let up a moment. During the last few minutes, the play fell away to a dilatory mood of touch and go. There was a splendid chance to score before the end when Green shot across the ball in front of goal that looked for a foot to connect.

Referee Was Excellent.

The debut of J. Rickards as a "Knight of the Whistle" was a decided success and it was gratifying to listen to the fans complimentary remarks on his decisions that were accepted as final with out any questioning from any person.

The Teams:

Canadian Woollens: Hillman, goal; Cridland and Read, backs; Sawyers, Mann and Blowers, half-backs; Clark, Gaskill, Mitchell, Wilson and Burgess, forwards.

Quaker Oats: Metcalfe, goal; N. Maher and S. Maher, back; W. Logan, Scott and Walker, half-backs; A. Maher, G. Smith, G. Logan, T. Craig and J .Green, forwards.

Referee: J. Rickards. Linesmen: D. Ross and H. Burorws.

ou've Got to Come Back—

a motion picture theatre is to continue n this or any community, its patrons have got to come back for more after every visit.

If a motion picture exhibitor is to make his theatre continue in business he has to make the patrons want to come back.

If a patron gets what he wants, his money's worth, possibly more, but certainly no less, he comes back.

Under these circumstances, one and only theatre policy is practicable—a good show for a fair price.

RELAY RECORDS ARE LOWERED

Three New Marks Established at Track Carnival in Lawrence, Kan.

COLLEGE TEAMS.

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 20. — Three world's records were smashed one was tied and two American intercollegiate marks were shattered in an avalanche of remarkable performances in the third annual University of Kansas relay carnival in the Kansas Memorial stadium on Saturday.

The new world's records established were in the 440 yard University relay, the 880 yard University relay, and the University medley event.

The University of Kansas quartette smashed all existing records for the 440 yard relay by completing the distance in the remarkable time of 42 seconds ,clipping one and three tenths seconds off the mark hung up by the University of Illinois in the Drake relay carnival in 1923.

The crack University of Illinois relay team, coached by the veteran Harry Gill ,smashed the world's mark for the 880 yard event, established by a team representing the New York A. C., in 1921. The Illinois flyers clipped four tenths of a second off the mark ,covering the distance in 1:27.

The University of Texas team cracked the third world's mark of the day by stepping the medley relay in 7:35 6-10, beating its own mark of 7:38 2-10, hung up in the Kansas meet a year ago.

NEW LEAGUE PLANNED

Kingston People Want Intermediate League Along St. Lawrence.

KINGSTON, April 20.—Plans are under way to give Kingston an intermediate baseball team in addition to the team in the Cenral Ontario League. It is proposed to have teams in this new league entered from Kingston, Gananoque, Brockville and Wolfe Island.

CRICKET PRACTICE.

Members of Royal Oak C. C. Asked to Turn Out Wednesday Evening.

The practice which was called for this evening is postponed until Wednesday at 6.30 p.m., at the Exhibition grounds, and if the weather is still unsuitable, will be held on Thursday at the same time and place. All members of the Royal Oak C. C. and others desirous of playing are requested to turn out, as the first match is expected to be played on May 9, and to put up a good game, practice is necessary.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY!

Poor old Oshawa! They brought Oslers down from Toronto for a practice game. It was a practice— a batting practice—for Oslers. And Oshawa played like the kids who chase flies when batting practice is on. They made 8 errors and these helped Oslers pile up 18 runs. Oshawa managed to get 1 lonesome hit and a row of goose-eggs on the score-board.

The Petes had better stop practicin. Every time they practice it turns cold and there's about a foot of snow a couple of days later.

The managers who plan to enter teams in the various city league series are out lining up the talent. The annual meeting is tonight, so those who want to enter teams had better be on hand. The first man who has certificates and gets the players' "John Henry"s" on the dotted line has the best chance.

The success of the City League depend on the officers who are elected to-night. If there is a large attendance the officers will feel they have good support and will do good work Make your nominations tonight, not to-morrow when someone else has been elected. It"s easy to say. "So-and-So should have been elected," whn the meeting is over but it's better for the league to be there and see that he is elected.

These crack Toronto teams seem to be able to wipe up the bbll parks with the outside senior teams in exhibition games before the season opens but rarely win the O. B. A. A. championship along in September. The team they wallop in the spring have sweet revenge in the fall.

The Public School Baseball League will soon be under way. This is where our star players make their debut in organized ball. This league produces many hard fought games and some real good players are to be found on the teams.

LEGON TO PLAY FOR PETERBORO' SAYS KINGSTON

Hopes of Limestone City For Assistance of Outfield Dashed.

OTHER SETBACKS.

Compeau Definitely Lost and Things Look Black on Lake Shore.

KINGSTON, April 20. — It was announced this afternoon by a prominent official of the Central Ontario League team of this city that "Red" Legon, the Peterboro outfield star, who, it was understood, was to remain in Kingston this year, and play for the Kingston team, would not be here this summer, but would be back in Peterboro.

Legon's parents object to him staying here during the summer to work or play ball and Legon will be found with "Shiner" Johnston's crew again.

The news was greeted with genuine regret by the fans to-day. It was hoped that Legon would be able to jack up the Kingston outfield this summer, but the executive will have to look around for another man now. Legon is a student at Queens' University and is a very popular boy here. He played hockey with the Queen's Seniors.

Milton "Mosey" Compeau, who early in the spring signed a contract with Knotty Lee to play with his team, left for Kitchener on the midnight train on Sunday and was to report to Lee to-day. It was hoped to have an arrangement made whereby Compeau would be found with the Kingston Central Ontario League team, but all efforts failed and the shortstop position will now require attention.

Things look bad at the present moment for the Kingston C.O.B.L. team here but the executive believe that they will strike on something very soon.

BOSTON MARATHON RUN IN SNOW STORM

Ninety-five Started in 29th Annual Race From Hopkinton.

..Flash Boston—Mellor won Marathon.

BOSTON, April 20. —(Canadian Press).— In a flurry of snow and with a bleak wind blowing in their faces 95 runners started from Hopkinton at noon to-day in the 29th Boston A. A. Marathon road race. The course which is of the standard marathon distance of 26 miles, 385 yards ends at the B. A. A. club house in Boston. Of 121 men entered in the race 26 failed to start because of inclement weather.

At Natick, the leaders had cut down the time of last years record run by 56 seconds. Christensen was still ahead but bunched immediately behind him were six other runners, Victor Macaulay, one of the two Canadian entrants, DeMar, Wendling, Michelsen, Kyronen and George Duncan of the Dorchester club. A turn her gave the men a slight relief from the adverse wind.

On the three mile run from Natick to Wellesey, Macaulay worked up to front. Wellesley, 13 miles from the start is almost half way of the course. The time of the leader to this mark was 1.11, 20; Macaulay, one of Canada's star distance men, hails from Windsor, N. B. He finished sixth in last years race. De Mar, Mellor and James J. Reynolds of Malden were almost even with Macaulay, Nicholson, Wendelling and Kyronen were bunched running neck and neck, 20 seconds behind the leaders. Zuna, Henigan and Cohill were strung out in order all well back of first division.

RECORD ENTRY LIST FOR PENN RELAYS

The greatest entry list in the history of the Penn relay games is expected in this year's carnival which will be held at Philadelphia on April 24-25. Exactly 509 schools have entered star athletes and four different countries will have representatives on the field. With such a galaxy of celebrities several new marks are looked for.

"JANICE MEREDITH" PROVES A PICTURE NOT TO BE MISSED.

Marion Davies Shows Wonderful Acting Powers in New Film.

FINE HISTORICAL PAGEANT.

Paul Leicester Ford's' Novel of Revolution Perfect Screen Material.

"No more brilliant achievement in ambitious motion pictures dealing with historical romances has ever been exhibited than Marion Davies's latest production' Janice Meredith,' wrote F. W. M. Hall, reviewer for The New York Times, when that the Cosmopolitan Theatre in New photoplay had its world premiere in York.

And now that Janice, as vitalized by the lovely Miss Davies amid thrilling historical backgrounds and storied characters of American Independence, has come to the Regent for 3 days it doesnt seem to this reviewer that it is necessary to say any more or any less than did Mr. Hall, after that first night in New York—a first night, which it may be recalled, filled to overflowing with notables of screen, stage, arts and drawing room ,the newly redecorated theatre at Columbus Circle, which has become the cradle in which the lavishly beautiful productions that one has come to associate with Miss Davies, are first offered to public gaze.

Last Shall Be First.

One might consider it fortunate that photodramas do not change from first nights to last nights, and that audiences, no matter how distinguished, lend nothing to, or take nothing away from that rather new form of entertainment which began with a black box, a blob or two of scientifically treated glass and a strip of celluliod, and that now has reached out and taken for its own the articulate genius of the world, along with all its beauty in face form and thought and tossed the results into thousands of circles of illuminated whiteness everywhere, so that any one who wishes may travel through realms of gold for a few cents.

"Janice Meredith" is a picture that no one can afford to miss seeing, at least once.

The adaptation was prepared by Lillie Hayward, while the photography was by Ira H .Morgan and George Barnes. The settinngs were by Joseph Urban. It is a Cosmopolitan picture released through Metro-Goldwyn.

"LET WOMEN ALONE."

Commencing to-night, the Royal is presenting the picture version of the Saturday Evening Post story, "Let Women Alone."

A lively melodrama, punctuated with thrills with three prominent stars. Pat O'Malley, Wanda Hawley, and Wallace Beery.

A new comedy, "The Iron Mule," a travesty on pioneer days and the building of the first railroad, is filled with laughs.

The weekly sport review, newspaper fun and novelty reels makes up one of the usual attractive programmes of Royal quality.

FAMOUS RODEO GAMES BACKGROUND FOR FILM.

"Let 'Er Buck" Used as Vehicle for Hoot.

"Let 'Er Buck," Universal-Gibson production coming to the Royal Theatre Thursday is said to have set an entirely new precedent in establishing motion picture story atmosphere. The title of the picture is the slogan of the famous Annual Round-Up held at Pendleton, Oregon, and this famous Round-Up was used as the background for the action of the story, originally written by Charles Wellington Furlong, and adapted for the screen by Director Ed. Sedgwick and Raymond D. Schrock.

In effect "Let 'Er Buck" is two pictures in one, for there is the main story and also many feet showing various events of each day's program of the big carnival of cattle country sports. Consequently the spectator will be entertained as is usual in a regular picture of Western life, the story enacted by Hoot Gibson and a strong supporting company, and also by watching men, famous throughout the lang doing their best to tame some of the world's vicious "outlaw" horses.

The supporting company includes Marian Nixon, Josie Sedgwick, G. Raymond Lye, Charles K. French, Fred Humes and William Steele, as well as some fifteen Universal Ranch Riders, who in other years had been prize-winners at Pendleton. But best remembered of all is Hoot Gibson, who won the world's championship as an 'all round' cowboy, a number of years ago.

AT THE CAPITOL

"Nor Wind, nor Snow,
Nor Rain, nor Night,
Can Stay the Pilot in his flight".
—"Air Mail" Theme."

All the romance—all the thrills of the U.S. Government Air Mail Service, has been caught for the screen in Paramount's "The Air Mail," an Irvin Willat production, which comes to the Capitol Theatre to-day, Warner Baxter, Bille Dove, Mary Brias, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are featured in the leading roles of the production, written especially for the screen by Byron Morgan, author of "Code of the Sea," and others.

Baxter plays the role of a clever crook, who becomes an air postman solely for the purpose of robbing the mails. Living up to the code of the service, "Nor wind, nor snow, nor rain nor night, can stay the pilot in his flight," results in the death of one of the services' most capable men. On his death bed he asks Baxter to "carry on," and it is the beginning of the regeneration of the thief.

"The Air-Mail" is a thrill-filled romantic drama that should prove one of the most entertaining pictures that you have seen in months.

THE PROBLEMS OF CANADA ARE ABLY REVIEWED

Anglo - Saxon Immigration Policy Urged By Rev. Dr. Cochrane.

ADDRESSES ROTARY.

Eloquent Speech From Well Known Toronto Pastor.

An immigration policy, confined as much as possible to Anglo-Saxons, with British farmers preferred, was one of the things laid down as necessary for this country by Rev. Dr. Cochrane, pastor of the College Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, in an eloquent address upon "Canadian Problems," at the weekly luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club to-day.

Dev. Dr. Cochrane, who was introduced by Rotarian Rev. W. Harold Young, delivered a most inspiring address. In dealing with the problems of Canada, he pointed out that this country suffered somewhat from the fact of its youth; it lacked the poise of older countries whose wealth of history gave them steadiness. It was just now at the growing-pains age and what it needed was more people to develop its prairies, to mine its resources, to make the railways profitable and provide more work for its industries. The mistake, however, must not be made of thinking almost anybody would do, and Rev. Dr. Cochrane declared that Canada's immigration policy should seek first to bring British farmers to Canada. His experience with the unemployment situation in Toronto during the winter had taught him that it was possible to bring out too many untrained British workers.

Another problem for Canada was to develop a natural consciousness and to learn to think nationally, and the speaker lamented the fewness of the men in our public life who were able to take a world wide view of things. Canada must overcome the natural and artificial barriers that separated its people with different sections—this was one of the greatest problems she had to face.

Still another task was that brought about by Canada's geographical position of interpreting the United States to Great Britain and Great Britain to the United States.

In conclusion, Rev. Dr. Cochrane referred to the wealth of Canada as carrying the danger of causing too much stress being paid to material things, and not enough to the unseen things that were worth while, honor, character and soul.

Rev. Jas. W. Gordon of St. Andrew's Church, in a brief speech declared that the conferring of the degree of doctor upon the speaker had been richly merited.

Adjutant Wallace Buntin, formerly of the local Rotary Club and now in Windsor, also addressed the club on his Salvation Army and Rotary work in Windsor.

President J. H. Seels called the attention of the members to the Kiwanis Club Minstrels and the Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium exhibition, both of which events will be enthusiastically supported by Rotary.

BERLIN, April 20. — (Canadian Press).—The Supreme Court, completing its investigation of the alleged war crimes by the former Crown Prince, finds that Frederick William never gave orders to burn or plunder villages or towns and was not responsible for executions ordered by the military tribunals of his Army Corps. The court has therefore quashed further proceedings.

The annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, Mark St. Church, was held at the home of the president, Mrs. W. H. Morton. A substantial increase for the year's work was reported.

CITY YOUNGSTERS ARE WELL BEHAVED

Utilities Commission Not Worried By Many Broken Lamps.

In some of the larger cities considerable trouble has been experienced by youth destroying street lights by means of sling shots, and other missiles.

Peterborough has been singularly and fortunately free from this pernicious offence.

In Ottawa three boys were haled before the juvenile court and were asked to explain their desire of perfecting their marksmanship in this way. They were unable to give any satisfactory reasons and their parents were forced to pay for the damages sustained.

It may well be pointed out that property of this nature is very expensive and when wilfully destroyed adds greatly to the maintenance cost of the Utilities, and ultimately results in increases of taxation.

While Peterboro should be proud of its immunity in this respect care should be taken that the younger generation be taught to properly regard public property.

MOTORISTS ARE SHOWING CARE

Less Speeding in Peterborough—Parking in Wrong Place Continues.

SOME HINTS.

Only two infractions of the speed regulations have resulted in Court cases in Peterborough this year, and according to the records, this class of case is getting more rare every year.

There has been considerable trouble caused by unwise parking of cars on the main thoroughfares such as George and Charlotte street. Motorists who are in no immediate hurry on their shopping tours should find parking places on the less busy side streets. There are still some who occasionally park beside a fire hydrant which is a serious blunder and liable to result in court proceedings.

A warning is also being issued to the yonger people that no one under the age of sixteen is permitted to drive a motor vehicle and those between the ages of sixteen and eighteen must possess drivers' permits. A great part of the trouble in vehicles traffic to-day is caused by the reckless speeding of irresponsible youth driving cars which they do not own and have no license to operate. The police department intends checking up on this offence.

Clean Them Off .

Many of the number plates are scarcely descernable and care should be taken that these numbers be visible at all times and under all conditions, the police hint.

There is also one offence on record wherein a person borrowed his nieghbour's license plates that he might come to the city.

Many have phoned into the police department requesting permission to drive cars under the old 1924 licence on the plea that they wish the use of the car for Sunday driving and were unable to obtain a license on Saturday afternoon. The Chief of Police states that such permission cannot be granted and that persons operating cars under the old licence number will be dealt with in court.

MARMORA 'VETS' RETAIN PEARCE IN PRESIDENCY

Has Been Chairman of the Branch Since Its Inauguration.

ANNUAL MEETING

Veterans' Council and Booster Club Guests at Banquet —Progress Reported.

MARMORA, April 20.—The sixth annual meeting of Marmora and Deloro Branch, G.W.V.A., was held in the club rooms on Thursday evening, April 16. Comrade H. R. Pearce, president of the branch since its inauguration, occupied the chair. Comrade C. A. Bleecker presented the audited financial statement, which was passed by the members. Several interesting items of general business were transacted. The branch decided to send a donation to distressed comrades of Cape Breton in response to the appeal made by the Dominion Command.

Election of officers was next proceeded with. The following were elected: President, H. R. Pearce; 1st Vice-President, J. W. Hickey; 2nd Vice-President, H. Naylor, Executive Committee—W. J. Cottrell, L. Rundle, W. Regan. Trustees—C. A. Bleecker, F. Wells, J. Laird. Secretary-Treasurer, P. Gray.

Luncheon Guests.

At the conclusion of the meeting, all adjourned to the St. James hotel where Host T. E. Potts had invited members of the council, school board and Booster club to partake with the veterans of a sumptuous repast. Comrade W. J. Cottrell was here accorded the chair, and after "The King" had been submitted with musical honors, Mr. J. P. Marrin proposed the toast to the G.W.V.A. This he described as the choice toast of the evening. He recalled to the mind of his hearers the activities of the Soldiers' Welcome League which perhaps was the only organization of its sort in the country. When there was no further need of its existence the G.W.V.A. splendidly carried on. He noted the enthusiasm of the men as a body. This would never diminish, though the membership most naturally would decrease. Obedience and conception of duty stood out as characteristics of the members of the organization.

More Enthusiastic.

Comrade H. R. Pearce, in response, said, "The older we get, the more enthusiastic we become." The G.W.V.A. has weathered the storm better than any other vertan association. The Marmora and Deloro branch were behind the Booster club in its endeavors to get the militia to camp here. Should they succeed, there would be the probability of a great decoration service during the week they would be in camp. The branch was taking up the matter or purchasing a plot in the two cemeteries, wherein could be interred, returned men who, far from home, might chance to die in the district. The G.W.V.A. also, as all were aware, had adopted the policy of kelping other organizations by means of the special benefit pictures which it assisted to put on.

The Booster Club.

Councillor F. Johnston next rose to propose "Marmora Booster Club." He remarked that the work of this organization had been very good for the time it had existed and greater service to the community he felt would be rendered in the future.

Dr. Crawford, replying, spoke on two of its accomplishments—the purchase of five acres at Crowe Lake as a park, to be open to the general public, and the game preserve, of 25 square miles, which is being established in North Marmora. He thought that by all uniting their efforts, a war memorial could be erected at length.

Host T. E. Potts, in proposing "Marmora's Municipal Bodies," congratulated Marmora on the men which it had picked for the various offices this year.

Though limitations had been placed on the council through the past war, he thought that in the near future they would be able to go ahead with mor town improvements.

Mr. E. C. Prentice, village clerk, made a suitable reply, testifying to the goodwill and harmony existing between the members of the organizations incinded in the toast.

Imperial Forces.

Reeve G. B. Airhart was called upon to propose the toast of "The Imperial Forces of Land, Sea and Air," which he did very creditably.

The speech of the evening was forthcoming in the reply to this toast by Major D. Green, who eulogized the part which the British navy and army had played in history and chiefly in the Great War. His frankness of manner and earnestness of speech won great attention and merited applause. He concluded by saying how much he hoped that the militia over which he had assumed command two weeks since, would be able to camp this year at Marmora. This matter would have to wait till the annual meeting a few weeks hence, however, for settlement.

The concluding toast, "Host and Hostess," was submitted by the branch secretary, Comrade Percy Gray. Mr. T. E. Potts made a suitable reply.

OLD WORLD WARS ARE RAGING IN DOZEN DIFFERENT PLACES

Apri.. to Finish in Midst of the Most Unsettled Period.

BATHS OF BLOOD.

Italy Suppresses Senussi, Spain Fights Riffs, Turkey Mops Up Kurds.

(By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, April 20. — Europe, with the adjacent festering in Northern Africa and the Near East is finishing April in the midst of the most unsettled period the Old World has known since the war.

In addition to the blood baths of Bulgaria and Portugal, France and Belgium are in the throes of Governmental changes, while Germany has revived the issues of Republicanism versus Monarchy.

Italy is engaged in suppressing the Senussi, while Spain is fighting the Riffs, and Turkey is doing its upmost to mop up the Kurds.

While the Bulgarian Government has its hands full rounding up Communists and repressing a White counter-terror that followed the outrage at the Sofia Cathedral in which more than 150, including many women and children were killed, it is fairly well established that there is no organized revolution in that country. Reports from such unfriendly sources as Trieste and Athens told of the progress of a revolt, but the latest word from official sources was that an incipient revolt was checked —due principally to the failure of the attempt to assassinate King Boris.

A revolution that broke out in Portugal on Saturday morning was put down after a day of fighting.

For the moment, the armies of Spain, Italy and Turkey appear to have the upper hand in fighting with their dependents. General Primo de Rivera, head of the Spanish directorate, reported yesterday that the situation in Morocco was satisfactory—Spanish troops having withdrawn to a line which they were able to defend against the Riffs.

Italian troops scored victories last week against the Senussi tribesmen in Northern Africa, while the Turks have practically put an end to the active revolt of the Kurds.

RAIN WELCOMED BY ONTARIO FARMERS

TORONTO, April 20.—(Canadian Press).—The week-end rain which, according to the Department of Agriculture at the Parliament Buildings, was fairly general, was exceedingly acceptable to the farmers of the Province, who during the spring so far have been a little worried over the dry weather. Several reports have been received by the Department from farmers who feel uneasy over the lack of moisture.

Late Comers at "Saint Joan" Will Not Be Seated Until Prologue is Over.

Around The City.

A Peterboro young man went to the garage to buy a few parts for his car. He came away with a whole car for $50. By trading parts it was hoped to have one car that would run. Nothing is moving yet.

Talking of exercise, a prominent man says he has moved a chair in his bedroom from the side wall to the end wall so there'll be plenty of room to work in, any morning he feels the urge.

Further developments are expected about July.

A George street clothier tells us a young man buying his spring suit remarked he liked the new wide pants, because he could change his clothes without taking his shoes off.

Shades of the Peterboro pioneers! Look what the world has come to.

Owing to the bad weather conditions prevailing yesterday, the parade of the Great War Veterans to St. Luke's church was postponed. This commemoration of the Ypres battle may be held next Sunday.

Mayor Expresses Regret That Snow Ploughs Not Out

To the citizens of Peterborough:

I very much rgret the discomfort occasioned those who found it necessary to be out early Sunday morning, caused by an unexpected fall of snow, which was deep and wet and the fact the snow plows were not around to break a path until late in the morning.

There was no indication of snow late Saturday night, and very many citizens do not rise as early Sunday mornings as during week days, with the result the city officials and the snow plow men did not realize a heavy fall of snow had occurred during the early hours of the morning.

Possibly this experience can be avoided by asking those whose business keeps them out all night, particularly the police, to advise myself or the City Engineer, when an unexpected fall of snow occurs during the night and in this way the snow plow men could be advised and the pathway made early in the morning for those who have occasion to use it.

As stated above, I very much regret the discomfort and inconvenience occasioned many citizens by having to tramp through the deep wet snow and trust the experience of yesterday will not occur again.

Rt. Hon. Sir Arthur Meighen Says Sales Tax Indicates Trend.

INDUSTRY RUINED.

PORT CREDIT, Ont., April 20. —(Canadian Press). — Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons, addressed a crowd of 700 people in Clark's Memorial Hall, on Saturday night.

The King budget came under Mr. Meighen's fire. Hon. J. A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance, had admitted this session in the house that there was really a $38,000,000 deficit in the last budget. He declared it was to be expected, for despite an increase in sales tax, the revenue from this source had dropped $50,000,000. Much of this decrease he accounted to the exodus to United States which he maintained, was now in progress. Another factor was hundreds of factories which within King's Government's tenure of office. There was more to be learned about business conditions through a study of the sales tax figures than from anything else, the speaker declared.

The country's only hope lay in the Conservative party whose high tariff policy was one means of return to prosperity, said Mr. Meighen.

Joseph Archambault Says Strictures On Economy Ill —Become the Opposition.

ELECTION SPEECH

Con. in Reply Regards Archambault's Speech Designed for Quebec Consumption.

OTTAWA, April 21—The debate on the budget was continued Monday afternoon by Joseph Archambault (Liberal, Chambly Vercheres)

The interest of the war debt, said Mr. Archambault, was $135,000,000 annually in 1921, and $130,000,000 now. Had it not been for the blindness and mal-administration of the previous government, Canada would be paying $29,000,000 less interest on the war debt.

As first witness to "extravagance of the war time Government," Mr. Archambault quoted Sir Arthur Currie in a speech made in September before the Citizen's Research Institute of Canada. The speech, declared Mr. Archambault, had startled the country." Sir Arthur Currie had said that the war cost hundreds of millions of dollars more than it would have if expert advice had been secured and the expert advice available accepted. One hundred thousand, according to Sir Arthur Currie's statement, had been enlisted in the Canadian Expeditionary Force who never saw service in France and who made no contribution to Canada's effort in the war. The average cost of each to Canada was $1,500. Had these men not been enlisted, $1,500,000 would have been saved to this country.

"Is the Hon. Member aware that Sir Arthur Currie has since denied those statements?" asked Right Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Mr. Archambault replied that Sir Arthur Currie had never denied the proceedings of the Citizen's Research Institute as reported by a stenographer. He had denied, however, newspaper reports which claimed that he had reflected on the conduct of the men at the front.

Mr. Meighen said that if Mr. Archambault would move for an investigation, he would be glad to support him.

Use of Ross Rifle

Mr. Archambault proceded to read the statement of Sir Arthur Currie respecting the Ross rifle.

Mr. Meighen said the Ross rifle had been abandoned the very first hour that another rifle was available Mr. Archambault then read a statement made in Parliament in 1917 by Sir Wilfrid Laurier giving an account of the unsatisfactory service

NAVIGATION AT MIDLAND OPENS

First Vessel of Season Reports With Barge and Coal Cargo.

BUSY UP THE LAKE.

MIDLAND, April 21.—The S.S. Glenclova arrived here Sunday with a cargo of coal from Lorain and was the first vessel to report this season and had in tow the barge Maitland. It is reported this barge will be towed by the S.S. Glenrig during the season and next winter will have boilers and engine installed and converted into a freighter. She is the latest addition to the Great Lakes Transportation fleet. The following boats cleared for Fort William today: A. E. McKinstry, Canadian, Emperor, Clensannox, Glenclova. The tug Audrey C. also cleared for Parry Sound and the Glenbrae for Manitowoc.

Wheat Fleet Clears.

FORT WILLIAM, April 21.—Eleven boats cleared over the weekend from the ports of Fort William and Port Arthur, carrying 2,423,000 bushels of grain, principally wheat. Among those clearing was the H. H. Porter, which wintered here. Four others which had winter storage are still awaiting their crews. Sixteen boats were under the spouts Monday, which will clear up the loading of the first fleet, which was not nearly so numerous as that of last year, when twenty-eight boats arrived the first day of the opening of navigation. Two coal boats are unloading and one is en route.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

It is expected that the farm vote on daylight saving will be counted and ready for publication to-morrow.

Scots Pass Up Whiskey Since Price Increased

LONDON, April 21 (Canadian Press Cable).—"There is not the least doubt that less whiskey is being drunk in Scotland," declared Dr. Cumrie, of Edinburgh Infirmary, to the Royal Commission on Lunacy Monday. Mental cases due to drink, he said, had fallen from sixty per cent. in 188 to twenty-six per cent, at present.

Dr Cumrie added that he was "afraid" the increased price of whiskey and the military discipline exercised during the war were partly responsible for the abstinence.

DR. M'NAIR IS LEAVING CITY

In Charge of Provincial Laboratory Here Since Established.

NEW POSITION

Dr. Alan McNair, who has been in charge of the Provincial Labratory in Peterborough since the local office was established, has severed his connection with the Provincial Board of Health and leaves next month for Vancouver, where he will be associated with one of the hospitals there. It is not known yet who will be Dr. McNair's successor in charge of the Peterborough labratory. Since coming to this city Dr. and Mrs. McNair have made many friends, who will regret their departure. Dr. McNair has been a member of the Rotary Club and will be missed by that body.

MIMICS ARE READY FOR THE BIG SHOW

Kiwanians Faithful to the Cause and Learn Their Parts.

The committee in charge of the annual Kiwanis Frolic "Minstrel Mimics" are now ready to advance the guarantee that all who buy tickets for the show for either Friday or Saturday nights of this week at the Grand Opera House would be more than satisfied for already the production is ready for the stage.

Director H. J. Perkins of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., expresses himself as most pleased with the gratifying results already obtained with the cast of seventy people. All those who are taking part have been most faithful to the cause, and are now enjoying short and snappy rehearsals wherein they are vieing for honors for professionalism.

The men taking part in the minstrel first part are fairly eating up the snappy foot and hand work of the Circle as well as the catchy tunes to to be sung. On the whole things are going on like clock work and a most enjoyable entertainment is assured.

Those taking part in the Minstel first part are: Interlocutor Jack McNabb, and his songbird chorus of 22 warblers; Mark Bredin, Walter Byers, Art Blade, Jack Dewart, Harry Dickin, Charlie Elliott, Wilfred Huycke, Lloyd Hamilton, Geo. Henderson, Harry Huffman, Walter Kidd, Walter Oke, Harold Perry, Jim Skinner, Joe Wearing, Jim Johnson, Percy Naish, Fran' Pratt, V. E. White, F. Gibbons, J. C. McCarney and E. Jackson.

These men are just a part of those who are doing their best for the sake of the underprivileged children of this community. The Kiwanis Club asks you to help them in this work, and remember the above dates. Be among those present, and laugh heartily.

The reserved seat sale will start Wednesday, April the 22nd.

LIFE CHEAPENED JUDGE OBSERVES

Two Ottawa Youths Sentenced for Assaulting Camp Cook.

OTTAWA, April 21.—"The war has cheapened the value of human life.. If there was any way of establishing a comparison, I would say that human life today is not regarded as being twenty-five per cent. as valuable as before the war. Consequently when the value of human life decreases, property cheapens. People are bound to get pleasure, and if they cannot get it by lawful means, will get it through unlawful ways."

So declared Judge Constantineau in County Court Monday, in lecturing two young men previous to sentencing them each to one year in jail at hard labor. The two men, Alexander Prudhomme and Howard McDonald were found guilty of assaulting Auguste Perrier, a lumber camp cook, here early February 15 and robbing him of $18.

Judge Constantineau commented on what he termed "a pleasure-loving world." This, he said, could be seen in the large crowds at baseball games, in rinks, and other pleaces of amusement.

WILL GET ONE THIRD OF COAL

Orders Received For 90,000 Tons of Alberta Coal For Ontario.

25,000 TONS COMING.

TORONTO, April 21. — The Ontario Government, through the Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, announced yesterday that no further orders could be received for Alberta coal, 25,000 tons of which are being secured for distribution under an arrangement with the National Railways.

Since the government published some days ago the conditions under which the public might participate in the shipments, orders have been received from all parts of the province, a total of 90,000 tons having been subscribed for.

All points ordering therefore will get less than a third of the quantity subscribed for.

EAST CITY TANK CAUSING FURORE

Sir Henry Thornton Took Up Question From G. N. Gordon.

As a result of the complaint made by G. N. Gordon, M.P., to the Railway Board, over the erection of the oil tanks in East City, Sir Henry Thornton has had a Board of Inquiry sitting on the matter. Inspection has been made and the report will be given out shortly as to the findings of the Board.

Citizens in East Peterboro are very much interested, and are awaiting with considerable evidences of anxiety for this report. They cannot reconcile themselves to the fact in this particular section of the city the tanks should be allowed to locate.

TOO MANY DOCTORS.

LONDON, April 21.—So many doctors are qualifying in England each year that medical officials estimate that 5,000 cannot get sufficient employment.

HINDENBURG IF ELECTED PRESIDENT WILL NOT HELP RESTORATION OF MONARCHY

Karl Von Viegand Sees No Danger of Recrudescence of Militarism in Germany if Nationalist Candidate is Returned in Voting Next Sunday.

NEW YORK, April 21. — Should it transpire that Field Marshal von Hindenburg is elected President of Germany next Sunday, Germany will neither return to militarism nor restore the monarchy, in the judgment of Karl von Wiegrand, journalist, who arrived from Berlin on the Mauretania, en route to his home in San Francisco.

He is a close student of European affairs and an authority on Germany. He believes that Hindenburg will be beaten.

No Danger of Monarchy.

He said:

"There's no more danger of a restoration of monarchy in Germany or a return to militarism in that country if Hindenburg should be elected President than there is of a Red Soviet Germany if former Chancellor Wilhelm Marx be elected.

"The nomination of Hirden by the Nationalist conservative bloc was largely a move of desperation to name a man who would have the best chance against Marx. Because of his high personal standing and the fact that he has kept aloof from all politics, Hinderburg was considered the only man.

"The French after the defeat of 1871 elected Marshal McMahon, the commander of the defeated army of Napoleon III., second president of the French Republic. McMahon did not bring back Napoleon, nor would Hindenburg bring back William II.

Marx Chances Good.

"In nominating Marx and Hindenburg, Germany has named two men of the highest integrity and unimpeachable character. Marx, because of his outspoken Republicanism, commands the greater sympathy abroad, and when I left Germany had then the best chances of success in the election.

"But should Hindenburg be elected the politicians who nominated him will find that he will no be their tool and that he will not be easy to manage. He is a man who puts country and people above everything else."

Mr. Von Wiegand says both coalitions in Germany are seeking to utilize the foreign press in their political maneuvering.

SOUTH AFRICA NATIVES RIOT

May Boycott the Prince of Wales—Four Killed in Outbreak.

AGITATORS BUSY.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, April 21 Canadian Press) — Native riots at Bloemfontein with a loss of four lives are declared by special despatches to be part of the wider movement fomented by native leaders bent on attaining a higher status for blacks. It is known that meetings have been held here at which speeches of an extremist nature were delivered and enthusiastically received. It is uncertain however whether there is any communist influence behind the agitations.

Boycott Prince

LONDON, April 20 — (Canadian Press) — Special despatches from Cape Town represent the outbreak at Bloemfontein where four natives were killed and a number wounded yesterday by the police during the riot as symtomatic of "an alarming and incrasing restlessness among South African natives." Inflamed by Kaffir agitators and by Bolshevik and Communist influences. One feature of the present unrest is said to be a movement to boycott the Prince of Wales when he arrives.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION HAD CHOIR NIGHT

Busy Organization of St. Andrew's Church Held Festive Gathering.

Last night was choir night with St. Andrew's Men's Association and a bumper attendance was on hand to enjoy the occasion. The welcome and good wishes of the association were tendered the choir by George Gillespie, to which John Crane made cordial and humorous reply. It turned out that Mr. Crane had the tickets for the annual choir concert of St. Andrew's church with him and the association gladly undertook the duty of disposing of them. The Ladies' Aid provided dainty supper for all.

Rev. R. B. Cochrane, D.D., of College street Presbyterian church, Toronto—the largest Presbyterian congregation in Canada—was the speaker of the evening and thrilled his hearers by his many gripping words. Appreciation of his address was voiced by a vote of thanks, moved and seconded by D. Moir and Mr. R. W. Cormack.

Mr. T. H. Gillespie, vice-president of the Men's Association, filled the office of chairman in his usual capable manner.

GERMANY'S REVENUE UP.

Big Increase of Returns Over Estimates of Federal Government.

BERLIN, April 2 — (Canadian Press)—Revenue returns of the Federal Government for the year ending March 31, show an excess over the estimates of more than 2,000,000,000 marks. The total revenue was 7,311,000,000 marks against an estimated total of 5,243,000,000.

Alarm Clock Signalled Alleged Store Theft

WINNIPEG, April 21. — Fred Pytiswany had an "alarming" time in a local department store. Fred, it is alleged, stole an alarm clock, salted it in his hip pocket, but when he attempted to escape, the alarm "went off." He pleaded not guilty to a theft charge in court Monday, and was remanded.

HEAVY FIGHTING IS REPORTED IN BULGAR REVOLT

Government Would Arm Militia But Powers Refuse Permission.

NEWS CENSORED.

Belgrade Reports 4,000 Dead and 16,000 Arrests Made During Rising.

LONDON, April 21. — (Canadian Press).—Fighting is proceeding in Eastern Bulgaria between armed Communists and the Government troops. The tightest of censorships prevents any despatches leaving Sofia or crossing the Bulgar frontiers, dealing with the revolt that began last week, but the revolt is in progress. These facts were conveyed yesterday in a diplomatic despatch reaching one of the great powers from Sofia. Its contents were at once communicated to the British Government, and it is learned that, according to the message, the situation is regarded as "serious."

The only doubt as to the accuracy of this information arises from the fact that Bulgaria has asked the Allies to sanction the immediate arming of 10,000 militia and that Great Britain has as yet declined to accede until other Balkan Powers have been communicated with.

FOUR THOUSAND DEAD.

NEW YORK, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—According to a special cable to the New York Herald-Tribune from London, citing reports from the Bulgarian frontier via Belgrade, four thousand persons have been claughtered and 16,000 arrests made as a sequel to the Svati Kral Cathedral bomb outrage in Sofia. The London despatch goes on to say that while this sensational report lacks confirmation, sufficient information has leaked out to indicate that the country has been plunged into a reign of terror.

RELEASE CONVICTS TO HONOR PRINCE

Prisoners in South Africa Serving Short Sentences to be Let Out.

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, April 21 —(Canadian Press). —The Prince of Wales is expected to arrive here on April 30. In honor of his visit, the Minister of Justice has ordered that on that date convicts serving sentences up to six months shall be released. There will be remissions also on longer sentences except in the case of those serving life terms or indeterminate periods.

JAPANESE SHIP SANK WITH ALL CREW ON BOARD

Vessels Rushed to Assistance When S.O.S. Flashed This Morning.

FRANTIC EFFORTS.

Homeric, Only Few Miles Away, Speeding to the Utmost.

HALIFAX, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—"The Rai Fuku has gone down with all on board."

These few words, flashed late this afternoon, tell the end of a tragedy that was in the making all forenoon.

Forty-eight men lost their lives to-day, when the Japanese freighter, Raifuku Maru, sank off ova Scotia, a wireless from the Steamship Homeric informed the White Star Line officials this afternoon. "Regret unable to save life," was the brief report of Captain John Roberts of the Homeric to the line officials.

Earlier despatches said:

CARGO SHIFTED.

HALIFAX, April 21. — (Canadian Press).—Her wheat cargo shifted in a gale, the Japanese steamer Rai Fuku Maru from Philadelphia for a European port, is listing to an alarming degree and her captain has sent out S.O.S. calls which have been picked up by the wireless station Camperdown. The ship's position is given as 180 miles south-east of Halifax. The latest message received at nine o'clock this morning said: "Now very dangerous, come quick." Nearby steamers are hurrying to the scene. The steamer Homeric, the one nearest, reported that she was 70 miles from the crippled vessel, and expected to reach her in about four hours.

Vessels are heading toward the distressed vessel from a distance of 180 miles. Soon after they had got under way, the Rai Fuku again signalled "Helpless, please assist quickly." The Homeric replied, "Coming as fast as possible, 20 knots. Can you take to your lifeboats? Maintain wireless for bearing."

The King Alexander of the National Greek line is one of the boats heading toward the Rai Fuku, and several tugs have started from Halifax.

NO STATEMENT ON DISCLOSURE

Government Won't Add Information to Globe's Los Angeles Despatch.

WILL RECOVER BONDS.

TORONTO, April 21. — Neither Premier Ferguson nor Attorney General Nickel, had any information to add to the Globes' Los Angeles despatch of yesterday morning naming a Mr. Pinkney of Stratford, as the man who had handled bonds for former Provincial Treasurer Smith, now in the Portsmouth Penitentiary.

Intimating, however, that there might possibly be other persons yet to be named, Premier Ferguson said: "You will remember that I told them in the Legislature that if they let me alone on this I would get some of these bonds back, and I still have hopes in that direction."

Hungarians For Baron's Ranch Coming This Year

CALGARY, April 21.—Baron Josef Csavossy, who with his brother Andre, recently purchased the Bow River Ranch, is returning to Hungary on May 20 and expects to return to Calgary in September with several families, whom he intends to settle on the farm. Andre will remain here, and will devote his time to buying what is necessary to establish the families when they arrive.

It addition to bringing out some of the best of the peasantry, the Baron is also hopeful of bringout some of his own personal family and friends. A great deal depends on how he can dispose of his holdings in Hungary.

PREMIER MAKES FOREST APPEAL

Annual Fire Loss of $15,000,000 Must Be Avoided to Conserve Resources.

SPEECH BY RADIO.

OTTAWA, April 21.—Reasons, sentimental and practical, for forest conservation in Canada were cited by Premier Mackenzie King in an address broadcast last night from Ottawa at the opening of "Save the Forest Week."

"A few years ago," said the Premeir, "we were wont to refer to our forest resources as inexhaustible. I am thoroughly convinced that they are far from inexhaustible. We know too well that they have been already very seriously depleted. Official estimates place our soft-wood supplies at only two-fifths of our great neighbor and great competitor, the United States. We may well be proud of our magnificent trade in timber products with the United States, but this trade renders all the more serious the drain which our forest resources must withstand."

Protection from fire, reforestation and the application to cutting operations of the true principles of forestry would however guarantee to Canada, "the great soft-wood storehouse of the Empire" an annual cut even greater than that of the present time. Canada must apply to the forest business the sound principles which every business applies to his everyday life. The annual fire bill of fifteen million dollars must be avoided, the Premier said.

The forest, he said, was by far the greatest single factor in assisting Canada to a favorable trade balance. Forest products constituted over one-half of Canada's export to the United States. He touched on the scenic value of Canada's trees and their part in the attainment of mental and physical health for the community. The battle with the fire demon should be waged by all Canadians with the same energy and sincerity as Canadians showed in the great war.

COMMUNISTS IN LONDON SUNDAY

British, French and Belgian Delegates Held Big Meeting.

PURPOSE UNKNOWN.

LONDON, April 21. — A secret meeting was held Sunday in London of British, French and Belgian Communists in which Russian agents are understood to have taken part. This conference was unknown to Scotland Yard until yesterday, when the French and Belgian delegates already had left the country.

When the news that the meeting was being held become public the police are likely to be criticised for letting "undesirable" agents of the Third Internationale" into the country and out again, without knowing what was going on.

What the conference was about nothing can be learned but in view of the general nervousness caused by the outbreak of communists in Bulgaria, demands probably will be made for more anti-Bolshevik measures here.

The correspondent learns that one of the principal officials of the Soviet embassy in Vienna, which has been blamed for the Bulgarian outbreak is in London and presumably took part in the conference here.

EIGHT HOUR DAY BILL DEFEATED IN NOVA SCOTIA

Adverse Vote of 13 to 6 on Second Reading in the Legislature.

WAIT ON OTTAWA.

Decision as to Federal or Provincial Responsibility to be Determined.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 21.—The eight-hour day bill introduced in the Legislative Assembly last week by Joseph Steele, Labor, Cape Breton, was defeated Monday by a vote of 13 to 6, when it came up for second reading.

Mr. Steele said the bill, while applying to all steel and building labor in the incorporated towns and cities in Nova Scotia, had particular reference to the steel plant in Sydney where he declared the men worked eleven and fourteen hours a day with twnty-four hour shifts once every two weeks.

He bespoke for the measure the privilege of having it considered in committee, and said he would welcome any amendments to make it more workable.

Premier Armstrong wondered why the bill excluded the rural districts from its scope, and was advised by Mr. Steele that an amendment would remedy that fault if it were desired. Apart from that phase of the question, Mr. Armstrong pointed out that at the present times the whole question of limiting the daily hours of labor was being studied by the Department of Labor at Ottawa and the Supreme Court of Canada would decide upon whether regulations of working hours were a responsibility of the provincial governments or the federal. Until that point was decided, he thought it unwise and out-of-place for the local government to take any action.

PETERBORO BOY WAS DEPORTED

Arrested in Buffalo, N.Y., for Carrying Concealed Weapons.

ROOM MATE JAILED.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 21. — George Rutherford, 19 years old, of Peterboro, Ont., who has been rooming here at No. 271 Franklin Street, was ordered deported to Canada when arraigned for sentence before Judge Frank Standart here in city court Saturday for carrying a revolver without a permit. Rutherford was turned over to the immigration authorities. John Weber, 18 years old, room-mate of Rutherford's, pleaded guilty to the same offence, and was turned over to the custody of his parents in Erie, Pa. Suspended sentence to Randall's Island were imposed on both, and they were warned if they returned to Buffalo the sentence would be carried out. Rutherford, Weber and Joseph G. Gallien, 23 years old, of Manchester, N.H., the latter also having resided here at the Franklin Street address, with the other two youths, were arrested a week ago by Lieutenant George Uhl of the Pearl Street Station here. The revolver was found in Gallien's possession. He told the police that the weapon was given to him by Rutherford and that he and Weber had planned a hold-up. Gallien pleaded guilty several days ago, and was sentenced to the Erie County Penitentiary here for thirty days.

WEATHER

The temperature went down to 17 degrees last night. This is 15 degrees below the freezing point, and much the lowest for several weeks. If it had not been for the heavy covering of snow that overspread the country on Sunday, and still largely remains, it would have been serious for the farmers' fall wheat, and other crops, particularly as the sun later in the day shone forth brightly. So our agricultural friends, at least, will consider Sunday's belated snowstorm a blessing in disguise.—W. P.

THURSTON TAKES ROLE OF PROPHET

Says Conservatives Will Be Extinct as Party in 25 Years.

OTTAWA, April 21 (Canadian Press)—Assuming the role of prophet in the budget debate in the House of Commons tonight J. J. Thurston (Progressive, Victoria and Haliburton) predicted that in twenty-five years there would be no Conservative party. The Liberals, he said, were winning the protectionists of the country to their side, while the Progressives would have with them all the advocates of low tariff. The Conservatives were only the weaker of wo protectionist parties.

The Conservative amendment to the budget was nothing but "a mumble of words." Mr. Thurston said that Canada was rapidly getting to a point where the people were losing confidence not only in the present government but in any government. Canadians, he said, had been schooled to think that if they could get the government to spend any money they were getting something for nothing.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PETERBORO'S READING.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Are Peterborough people mostly novel readers? The returns of the Public Library show that this big library and its excellent management and staff is kept up at big expense to the ratepayers for a lot of lazy novel readers. In England when the oldish women flocked to a library to dream away their last years in novel gossip and love stories they used to say, "Oh! Gladstone says he finds great relaxation in a good novel or even a bad one." Many eminent men find relaxation in ping-pong and marbles, but that is no reason why a big library should be kept up at big expense for people who want to know what John said to Mary and what Mary said to Basil and then what John said to Basil. Humanity is the same old duty grind, with here and there bright spots, but bright spots in novels do not pay. We must have the black ones for preference. Anyhow, instead of the library being a self-serve school where inquiring minds with some brains at back of them can teach themselves something that will stick and bear good fruit, we have people going home with big bundles of trash in their arms. It is easily understood and requires no brain power and is all right for old people, but why go to all this useless expense. Let people buy their own novels. When after years show what novels are classic then put them in, but why put in a thousand authors who won't last a twelve-month, for the purpose of preserving one Scott, one Dickens and one Thackeray. The expenses of the library might be cut down half if the lazy young and middle-aged would try and learn from the reference and give up reading flummicking stuff at the great public expense and pretend they're learning something. It would be far better to put in a movie for the children, young and old, who can best understand by pictures. But we want no trashy novels on the screens.

MARBLES

Dear Sir.—I do not wish to be personal, but I think Sister's letter on Marbles is the most ridiculous and absurd article I have ever read. It has Daylight Saving beat a mile. If Sister wants to be doing any good in the world, she should get out and help the children to enjoy life, not try to deprive them of what little pleasure they have. Sister may just as well say "Down with all the Dolls, they make children immoral."

Well, Sister, I would hate to be your—BROTHER.

AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: I understand t[illegible] statement I made at a recent meeting of the Children's Aid Society h[illegible] been misinterpreted. What I said is that in my opinion any boy who intended being a farmer would be better employed spending his time on the farm, after having passed the Entrance Examination, at the age of 15 or 16, than in continuing his education further. I know this is a contentious question, and I am not making the statement to start controversy, but to explain what I said and to allay misunderstanding.

R. C. BLAGRAVE.

OFF WITH THEIR HEADS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—A new edition of the old Blue Laws of Connecticut, passed in 1650, is interesting reading. There were no less than twelve offences for which the offender must be put to death. One offence and the section setting in out contrasts strangely with our present day moralst.

"If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son . . . who will not obey the voice of his father or the voice of his mother. . . such a son shall be put to death."

It was a common thing to cut off the ears of offenders for minor offences.

Now these people are those to whom we love to refer as possessing the famous New England conscience. We put people in gaol, and strip them of their possession for taking a drink of good beer. Why not execute them?

DRYS ARE GATHERING.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The drys are gathering for the coming great struggle in the political field. The editors of the dry newspapers of Ontario met in Toronto on Thursday and Friday in secret session to determine upon the line of attack. It has been known ever since the plebiscite, when the dry majority fell to 33,000 that local O.T.A. organizations everywhere were arranging to fight to the last ditch. There will be no more plebiscites. The aim henceforth is to put in a dry government, one that will put the shackles on Ontario so that they cannot be broken even to the extent of 4.4 beer. Native wines, that standing disgrace to prohibitionists, and home-brew also, will have to go, too. The coming struggle is to be between the wets and the drys. There will be no politics in it, not if the drys are organizing it will be found that the wets will throw away party restraints and respond to the challenge of the drys. A good sane act allowing light wines and beers and making the getting of hard liquors possible but difficult,would mean that Americans who now enter at Windsor and leave Ontario at Port Huron and Sarnia, will come in hundreds of thousands to the fishing grounds and playgrounds of Ontario, the leaving here of at least 200 million dollars a year, which would beat all the tariffs ever heard of in making us rich. It would abolish the bootlegger. It would abolish the secret revival of the ceremonies of Bachhus, which are threatening the very moral and physical life-blood of our young people. It would make us free once more. The condition of Ontario in all ways is worse now than ever before, and unless we can re-establish a sense of personal responsibilty and decency again, we are done.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads; that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Because they were rare and valuable, glass bottles frequently were mentioned in the wills of the American pioneers.

THURSTON TAKES ROLE OF PROPHET

Says Conservatives Will Be Extinct as Party in 25 Years.

OTTAWA, April 21 (Canadian Press)—Assuming the role of prophet in the budget debate in the House of Commons tonight J. J. Thurston (Progressive, Victoria and Haliburton) predicted that in twenty-five years there would be no Conservative party. The Liberals, he said, were winning the protectionists of the country to their side, while the Progressives would have with them all the advocates of low tariff. The Conservatives were only the weaker of wo protectionist parties.

The Conservative amendment to the budget was nothing but "a mumble of words." Mr. Thurston said that Canada was rapidly getting to a point where the people were losing confidence not only in the present government but in any government. Canadians, he said, had been schooled to think that if they could get the government to spend any money they were getting something for nothing.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

PETERBORO'S READING.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Are Peterborough people mostly novel readers? The returns of the Public Library show that this big library and its excellent management and staff is kept up at big expense to the ratepayers for a lot of lazy novel readers. In England when the oldish women flocked to a library to dream away their last years in novel gossip and love stories they used to say, "Oh! Gladstone says he finds great relaxation in a good novel or even a bad one." Many eminent men find relaxation in ping-pong and marbles, but that is no reason why a big library should be kept up at big expense for people who want to know what John said to Mary and what Mary said to Basil and then what John said to Basil. Humanity is the same old duty grind, with here and there bright spots, but bright spots in novels do not pay. We must have the black ones for preference. Anyhow, instead of the library being a self-serve school where inquiring minds with some brains at back of them can teach themselves something that will stick and bear good fruit, we have people going home with big bundles of trash in their arms. It is easily understood and requires no brain power and is all right for old people, but why go to all this useless expense. Let people buy their own novels. When after years show what novels are classic then put them in, but why put in a thousand authors who won't last a twelve-month, for the purpose of preserving one Scott, one Dickens and one Thackeray. The expenses of the library might be cut down half if the lazy young and middle-aged would try and learn from the reference and give up reading flummicking stuff at the great public expense and pretend they're learning something. It would be far better to put in a movie for the children, young and old, who can best understand by pictures. But we want no trashy novels on the screens.

MARBLES

Dear Sir.—I do not wish to be personal, but I think Sister's letter on Marbles is the most ridiculous and absurd article I have ever read. It has Daylight Saving beat a mile. If Sister wants to be doing any good in the world, she should get out and help the children to enjoy life, not try to deprive them of what little pleasure they have. Sister may just as well say "Down with all the Dolls, they make children immoral."

Well, Sister, I would hate to be your—BROTHER.

AN EXPLANATION.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: I understand t[illegible] statement I made at a recent meeting of the Children's Aid Society h[illegible] been misinterpreted. What I said is that in my opinion any boy who intended being a farmer would be better employed spending his time on the farm, after having passed the Entrance Examination, at the age of 15 or 16, than in continuing his education further. I know this is a contentious question, and I am not making the statement to start controversy, but to explain what I said and to allay misunderstanding.

R. C. BLAGRAVE.

OFF WITH THEIR HEADS

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir.—A new edition of the old Blue Laws of Connecticut, passed in 1650, is interesting reading. There were no less than twelve offences for which the offender must be put to death. One offence and the section setting in out contrasts strangely with our present day moralst.

"If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son . . . who will not obey the voice of his father or the voice of his mother. . . such a son shall be put to death."

It was a common thing to cut off the ears of offenders for minor offences.

Now these people are those to whom we love to refer as possessing the famous New England conscience. We put people in gaol, and strip them of their possession for taking a drink of good beer. Why not execute them?

DRYS ARE GATHERING.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The drys are gathering for the coming great struggle in the political field. The editors of the dry newspapers of Ontario met in Toronto on Thursday and Friday in secret session to determine upon the line of attack. It has been known ever since the plebiscite, when the dry majority fell to 33,000 that local O.T.A. organizations everywhere were arranging to fight to the last ditch. There will be no more plebiscites. The aim henceforth is to put in a dry government, one that will put the shackles on Ontario so that they cannot be broken even to the extent of 4.4 beer. Native wines, that standing disgrace to prohibitionists, and home-brew also, will have to go, too. The coming struggle is to be between the wets and the drys. There will be no politics in it, not if the drys are organizing it will be found that the wets will throw away party restraints and respond to the challenge of the drys. A good sane act allowing light wines and beers and making the getting of hard liquors possible but difficult, would mean that Americans who now enter at Windsor and leave Ontario at Port Huron and Sarnia, will come in hundreds of thousands to the fishing grounds and playgrounds of Ontario, the leaving here of at least 200 million dollars a year, which would beat all the tariffs ever heard of in making us rich. It would abolish the bootlegger. It would abolish the secret revival of the ceremonies of Bachhus, which are threatening the very moral and physical life-blood of our young people. It would make us free once more. The condition of Ontario in all ways is worse now than ever before, and unless we can re-establish a sense of personal responsibilty and decency again, we are done.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads; that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Because they were rare and valuable, glass bottles frequently were mentioned in the wills of the American pioneers.

NEARLY HALF A BILLION WASTED

of the Ross rifle in the early days of the war.

"Is the Hon. Member aware that we had to use that rifle, and did not use it another hour after any other rifle was available?" asked Mr. Meighen.

Mr. Archambault said he "thought that would get under the skin of the Hon. Member."

Gen. J. A. Clark (Conservative-Burrard) stated that the Ross rifle had been maintained to the end of the war for the use of scouts and snipers.

Mr. Archambault asked how the statement of the leader of the opposition who said the rifle had been abandoned and the statement of General Clark, who said the rifle had been kept until the end of the war, could be parallel.

Used by Snipers

Mr. Meighen explained that the rifle was kept for scouts and snipers.

"Oh, for Boy Scouts," suggested Mr. Archambault.

General Clark explained the work of scouts and snipers ,and the particular value they found in the Ross rifle.

"I am not an export on rifles, and I am glad I am not," said Mr. Archambault, but he preferred General Currie's word in these matters. General Currie had said that experts advised against the rifle early in the war, yet it was claimed now that other units had been armed with it.

Mr. Meighen asked what else could have been done under the circumstances,

"Ask Sir Arthur Currie," suggested Mr. Archambault.

General Clark said that it was at Sir Arthur Currie's own authority that the Ross rifle was maintained throughout the war for the use of scouts and snipers.

Mr. Archambault stated that the Conservative administration had expended the amount of eighty million dollars on the "useless Canadian Government Merchant Marine." Adding interest at 5.25 per cent on this amount, totalling $28,758,858. The full cost to the country of this extravagance was $108,758,858.

Loss On War Bonds

Canada had also lost a total amount of $123,686,225 on account of tax free bonds issued by the former government. This computation was categorized by Right. Hon. Arthur Meighen in the course of an interruption as "obvious nonsense." Mr. Archambault, however, maintained that these figures were prepared by officers of the Finance Department alhough he did not know the exact means by which they had arrived at the amount.

Mr. Archambault further declared that the last Conservative Government had paid ten million dollars for worthless C.N.R. stock, adding interest on this sum at 5.25 per cent the total loss to the country, he stated, was $13,808,167.

"Through the blunder and mal administration of the late Government," stated Mr. Archambault, the total amount uselessly expended by the previous government with the interest added was $493,566,664. "It ill behooves a party," he declared, "a party responsible for these expenditures, to talk about economy."

During the late administration, from 1911 to 1921, declared Mr. Archambault, especially in 1917, Tory members and the Tory press had made attacks of a sectional, racial and religious nature. The present Prime Minister and Liberals, with the co-operation of the Progressives, have succeeded in stopping talk of this nature. He was "convinced that the Canadian people who have suffered so much by these attacks of the past which have hampered and retarded the growth of this country, would not entrust very readily the future into the hands of those who had been responsible for those conditions.

A Campaign Speech

R. B. Hanson (Conservative, York Sunbury) declared that after listening to Mr. Archambault's speech, he felt that there must be something true in the news reports given currency recently to the effect that Mr. Archambault was a candidate for cabinet honors.

The speech was made with a design and with a very deep design," to provide campaibn literature for Quebec province . He stated that the late minister of national defence, Sir Fredrick Borden, had been responsible with the Liberal Government, in making it possible that no other rifle but the Ross rifle could reach the hands of Canadian soldiers early in the war.

It was not on record that Sir Eugene Fiset, former deputy minister, had ever raised his voice against the Ross rifle. "Never," called out Sir Eugene Fiset.

Mr. Hanson agreed with Mr. Archambault in regard to the need for an amendment to the Special War Revenue Act. He pointed out that Mr. Archambault had voted for the budget which had provided for the very clause he now wished to have removed.

Wembley Trip A Joyride

The trip to Wembley of the party whips last year had been nothing more than a joy ride, whereas the trips of the former Postmaster General and the former Minister of National Defence, which had been referred to in the speech of Mr. Kyte a few days ago, were on official business. It would not be fitting for the opposition to enquire into the expense of the Prime Minister at the last Imperial conference.

"I wish the Hon. Member would do it," interrupted Premier King.

There was no desire to do anything of the kind. The Prime Minister when he went abroad should "do it right," but the Government would go down on record as having spent $4,200 on a joy ride. There was no record of any newspaper in Canada having defended the expenditure.

Mr. Hanson described the financial statement for this year as a juggler's budget. The party from the first to the last had sought juggler's tactics. Last year there had been a gesture towards free trade, and this year a gesture towards a stand-pat policy. But it appeared that there would be enough Progressives this year who would vote when called upon to save the skin of the Government.

To Tax Relief

The most disconcerting thing in the budget was that it provided no relief for the tax driven people of this country, Mr. Hanson answred Unless some relief was provided, especially with reference to the income tax, there would be an emigration of capital from this country to the United States. A country located as Canada was could not afford to have a markedly higher tax than the neighboring country. The government should begin at once to put income taxation in this country on a level with that of the United States. The sales tax was also too high. The people were demanding further decrease in this tax.

"We'll give it to them in time," interjected Hon. J. A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance.

"I am not sure that the Hon. Minister will be here to give it to them," retorted Mr. Hanson.

He did not mind a reasonable sales tax, the speaker said. He appreciated the fact that the government must obtain revenue. There were two ways of balancing a budget , One was by increasing taxation. The other was by decreasing expenditure. The Government had not done much along the line of the latter.

Mr. Robb, "Oh, yes."

C. N. R. Expenditures

Mr. Hanson doubted this. Governmental expenditure should be "pared to the bone," he said. "Such a thing as the Scribe Hotel purchase should not be tolerated in this country," he declared. He condemned the "building of a quarter million dollar golf course," and asked what justification there was for the construction by the Canadian National Railway of an eighty thousand dollar radio plant in the city of Moncton, when people at small branch line stations in New Brunswick shivered in unheated shelters. The people of Canada were begining to realize that they were not getting the railway service which they should receive. Men in the humblir positions in the Canadian National were being reduced in rank while the higher officials were being paid increased salaries, he charged. "The general manager at Moncton receives more money than was ever paid to that official in the days of the Intercolonial Railway, and he has to report to Montreal," Mr. Hanson said. While the people of Canada had been perfectly willing to give Sir Henry a free hand in the operation of the railway system, the country was now "getting about fed up" with the way the railway was being operated.

Mr. Hanson said that, having regard to the geographical position of the Maritime Provinces, involving a long haul, it was essential that in the matter of railway rates, the Maritime Provinces should receive preferential treatment.

"There will be no satisfaction, no content, no revival of business or interprovincial trade, unless the freight rate structure is so adjusted that there will be preferencial treatment for the Maritime Provinces," stated Mr. Hanson.

Industries Lagging

Since the advent of the Liberal party into power, a leading boot and shoe plant in Fredericton was running on three quarters or half time ,and a cotton mill in his constituency was oeprating on about two-thirds, or possibly three quarters time.

"Will the Hon. Minister of National Defence go back to the people of Pictou county," said Mr. Hanson, "and show them the increase on slack coal, and say this is what I give you in place of what I promised you previous to the last election." He also would like to know if the Secretary of State, Hon. Mr. Copp would go back to Moncton and repeat the speech on Government railways made in the fall of 1921. He classified with the term "pork barrel," the main and supplementary estimates of 1923; and criticized "constituency bribery," such as attempted by the Liberal party in the bye-election in Yale in offering to build a post office in return for a majority at Penticton.

Abolish Portfolio

Mr. Hanson advocated abolishing the portfolio of Labor, since the Lemieux Act had been declared ultra vires of the Dominion Parliament, the chief function for which this department existed, had been done away with. He knew that there were other branches of work now controlled by the Labor department but they could be transferred to one of the other departments. Secondly, he proposed to abolish the department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment. This was a war department ,the work of which must be decreasing and it could very well be taken over by one of the other departments. H declared that seventy one per cent of the cost of this deparment was eaten up in administration, and only the balance reached the soldiers. "That is a state of affairs which is little short of scandalous," Mr. Hanson said.

The speaker advocated abolishing the portfolio of Solicitor General. He asked if anyone could tell him what was the use of a Solicitor General. Finally, he proposed abolition of the Secretray of State, not because of its present incumbent, (Hon. A. B. Copp) but because he thought it was a portfolio which was "neither useful nor ornamental." He advocated cutting down the number of members of the House and declarred that he was willing to support a one thousand dollar cut in the members' indemnity if there was a guarantee given that the sessions would not be too long.

Mr. Hanson said he did no understand why the Federal Government had felt called upon to guarantee bonds for the construction of a bridge across the St. Lawrence river at Montreal. He failed to see why this was a matter of Federal responsibility. He did no say this, he added, because the bridge was constructed in the Province of Quebec. He would say the same thing about elevator consruction at Prince Rupert, and other public works.

Another Hanson

C. W. Hanson said he would like to know how many motor cars were owned and operated by the Government in Ottawa. "It seems to me that you can" cross a public street without stumbling in front of a car owned by the government," he declared.

"Are you afraid of them?" called out a Liberal member.

"You can side step pretty well," said Joseph Archambaut, (Liberal, Chambly Vercheres).

Mr. Hanson proceeded to a discussion of the tariff Board which, he said would delegate to a non-elected body, certain functions which would otherwise be performed by parliament. It would also enable the government to throw responsibility to this appointed commission.

"Just so long as the United States maintains a system of high protection Canada will by sheer force of necessity, be obliged to meet her with the same weapon," stated Mr. Hanson. An increase in the tariff on cotton goods would, in his opinion, be advisable.

During the last campaign, Mr. Hanson went on, the Prime Minister when speaking to an agricultural audience had supported the platform in 1919 calling for the free entry of agricultural implements, while when addressing a meeting in industrial centres—

"If the Hon. gentleman can produce one word which the prime minister preached in one district and not in another, I would like to hear it," interupted Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor.

"So far as my recollection goes, in every single speech the prime minister made during that campaign, he preached a doctrine tending to suit local conditions," replied Mr. Hanson. The prime minister had let it be known to manufacturers that they need have very little to fear from his fiscal policy. "Let the issue be honestly raised."

"Cut out your flimflamming, and we will take a chance," said Mr. Murdock.

"My Hon. Friend is brave with a large group behind him,," commtnted Mr. Hanson.

"Now as always," retorted Mr. Murdock.

"I am glad to know from the Hon. gentlemans' own lips that he is brave. We would not have known it had he not told it himself." Mr. Hanson urged that the freight rates on coal from the Maritime Provinces to the central ppovinces be reduced.

IT MAY BE A BOOMERANG.

Temperance bodies which adopt a policy of boycotting grocers who may decide to handle 4.4 beer for home consumption should stop for a moment and consider the effect of their action upon the cause for which they are fighting.

No legislation can be effective unless it is supported by a strong pressure of public opinion.

That being self-evident, then it should be equally clear that those who believe in prohibition should be chary about promulgating policies that may have the effect of alienating support.

With many people there is nothing that arouses antagonism so quickly as a demonstration of intolerance.

Thus when leaders of a temperance organization suggested during the war that the sending of cigarettes to Canadian soldiers overseas should be stopped there was an immediate storm of indignant protest—and the prestige lost by that stand has never been recovered.

Curiously enough, it is the same organization that now proposes to boycott grocers who may embark in a business that the law of the land now pronounces legal.

There are many people who will characterize such a policy not only as unwise, but as unfair and intolerant, and the reaction is likely to be marked.

It was that sort of thing that caused many voters who are total abstainers to vote against the Ontario Temperance Act last October.

The boycott weapon may turn out to be a boomerang.

READING A NEWSPAPER.

A surprising feature of the straw vote on daylight saving was the large number of spoiled ballots, once more drawing attention to the fact that many people have not the faculty of reading a newspaper carefully.

Although the ballots were printed for a week and instructions were daily given, the number of people who failed to do as they were asked to was remarkably large.

Many failed to give their address, some even to write their initials.

It is obvious that a vote from "Mrs. Smith," etc., no address given, could not be counted.

Farmers voted on city ballots, urban residents on the ballots published for the use of farmers; some people tried to vote half a dozen times—the rules printed so carefully and so frequently were violated in every possible way, with the result that a large number of ballots had to be discarded.

The modern newspaper contains each day a wealth of interesting news and information gathered, with no thought of the expense involved, from the ends of the earth.

The question often suggests itself—and incidents like the failure to follow the simple rules laid down in the Examiner vote adds emphasis to it—whether or not the readers get anything like the full benefit they should from their daily paper.

Do they merely skim through, making a hasty attempt to digest its contents at a glance and thus miss a great part of what is prepared for them—or do they try to get full value for what they pay by a thorough reading?

Evidently there were many Peterboro people who last week at least would have necessarily been listed in the first category.

THE EXAMINER VOTE.

In conducting, in co-operation with a number of local industries, a straw vote on daylight saving the Examiner's endeavour was to secure an expression of opinion on this vexed question that might be taken by the City Council as a guide, in the absence of a chance to appeal to the citizens in the usual way by the submission of a bylaw.

The interest taken was a surprise, inasmuch as it was possible to record the view of 6,000 citizens of Peterboro, whereas a plebiscite several years ago secured a little over 1,000 votes.

The Examiner's vote shows a majority of 845 in favour of summer time, with 6,000 people voting—although this number includes the spoiled ballots.

Those who refrained from expressing their opinion evidently need not be considered very seriously; apparently they have no pronounced view one way or another on the subject, because the vote was given plenty of publicity and ample time was allowed for voting.

The matter is now up to the City Council if that body wants to reconsider the question.

The Examiner has secured the data that out of 5,643 people 3,244 want daylight saving and that the farming community is almost unanimously opposed to its adoption, and with the compilation of that information our connection with the matter ends—except that the columns of this paper are still open for brief letters discussing daylight saving.

WHAT IS NEWS?

A friend of ours whom we met in the street—a gentleman who invariably swears by and only occasionally at us—asked us why the devil the Journal was printing so much trash? He ought to have put the question to a psychologist. For only a psychologist can tell why people, different people, demand so many different things in a newspaper. All the poor journalist knows is that they do demand them. It would puzzle even an expert psychologist to define just what is and what is not "trash."

There seem to be as many reasons for reading newspapers as there are newspaper readers. For this writer's part, he can never understand the other people's reason—he means the other people in the same street car going home at six o'clock. They seem to read such odd things and invariably to miss the really important or outstanding news of the day. One man will first turn to the sporting, a prosperous looking gentleman will take the financial page, a flapper will bury herself into Dorothy Dix; somebody else will scan the advertisements. But though the object may vary, the manner of reading is always the same. It is a sort of ungrateful manner; and when a poor journalist sits there thinking of the vast output of intellectual (to mention no other) energy that has gone into those pages, he becomes indignant. The callousness of seeing his handiwork perhaps doomed to wrap a sandwich!

The really dreadful thing is to sit in a street car behind a reader who has turned to a page on which, you know, something of your own is printed. You regard this man with sympathetic curiosity, though, to be sure, he doesn't look the sort of man to read your article intelligently. Certainly you hadn't him in your eye when you wrote it. Still, you never can tell, and genuine merit, however modest, will sometimes produce the right effect in the most unlikely quarters. Will his eye suddenly become fixed, his attention rapt? Will he break into the occasional smile that denotes the true connoisseur, the man of taste who knows English prose when he sees it? With heroic attempt at nonchalance you assure yourself that you don't care; you will look once more at those nice advertisements that help make street cars less pleasant. As you look at them, the reader turns to his neighbor (he couldn't have finished it so soon) and says: "This 'Bringing up Father is a scream'." You have made a little mistake about the page. The man was a base fellow, after all.

What is news? What do people read in newspapers?

Jack Dempsey is news. An unbobbed movie actress is news. King Tut's tomb is news. The Prince of Wales is news. The weather is news. Yet people don't always read even news. You sit there in the street car and watch a man take a peep at the editorial page. "Ah," you say to yourself, "there is a man who keeps up with the times." But the next instant he flips over the page and you find he is "keeping up with the Joneses."

What is news?

News should combine the element of intrinsic importance with the element of surprise, to wit, outbreaks of war, revolutions, assassinations of the great, earthquakes, discoveries, inventions. These offer the "dramatic" side of the world spectacle. But they are not all the news, not the least intriguing news. There is the kind of news that can be made continuous from day to day—what reporters call a "story"—and which keeps the reader's mind—once it has been prepared—on the tenter-hooks of curiosity as to what is going to happen next. It is in this category that "news" competes with fiction—the criminal hunt, the cause celebre, the antics of Parliament, the O.T.A., 4.4 beer. The discovery of King Tut's tomb belonged to the first category we have mentioned; the day by day record of further "finds" to the second.

What is news?

What is human psychology?

If our critic thinks we're crazy, let him start a newspaper and discover we're quite sane. — Ottawa Journal.

NEARLY SIX MILLION FOR MEDICINE.

The annual report of the Board of License Commissioners for Ontario on the operation of the Ontario Temperance Act during 1924 is striking in the figures it presents as to the operation of the Government dispensaries and the increase in the number of doctors' prescriptions.

During last year there were no fewer than 739-855 "scripts" issued in Ontario, as compared with 703,-584 in 1923 and 623,314 in 1922.

In addition to these prescriptions, there were other orders, including orders of physicians for office use, druggists, veterinarians, hospitals, churches, etc., totalling 90,252, making a grand total of 830,107.

It is evident that, although the Commissioners acknowledge the continued co-operation of the great majority of doctors in their efforts to confine the number of liquor prescriptions to cases of actual medicinal need, there are some physicians who have not been so careful.

18.23 per cent. of the doctors in the Province do not issue a prescription at all, but from the total piled up during the year it is apparent that some of the others more than make up for the non-issuers.

Nineteen twenty-four was another year marked by a curious epidemic around Christmas that could not be checked by any other treatment than alcohol applied internally.

Thus the number of prescriptions jumped from 62,937 in November to 97,590 in December.

Fortunately, after the holiday season was over the health of the Province improved, for the prescriptions dropped to 59,648 in January.

The treatment most desired seems to be Scotch whiskey, forming 38 per cent. of the total, and Canadian whiskey second with 22 per cent.

Out of the sale of these and kindred beverages the Government dispensaries in this prohibition Province of Ontario succeeded in doing a gross business last year of $5,028,747.03, the people of Ontario paying $16,541.93 every day of the year for "medicine."

The figures should cause some quiet thought in many circles.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A Federal election may not be coming for some time—but you will notice that candidates are being nominated in many ridings.

The failure of the conference to settle the Nova Scotia coal strike is most disappointing. Apparently the struggle is now to be a war to a finish, and there will be much suffering before there is peace.

It is everybody's duty to do what can be done to preserve Canada's forest resources from destruction. That is the chief message that Forest Fire Week is intended to convey.

Despite all the complaints of unemployment, there were seven strikes started in Canada last month.

"VOICES" OF INSECT.

NEW YORK, April 20. — Dr. Frank Lutz, curator of the American Museum of Natural History, says that the cricket doesn't know when it is singing a love song or "shouting" its battle cry. Sounds of insects mean nothing to them, he says. They creak, hum or buzz, because they cannot help making a noise when they move.

AUCTION BY CANDLE.

WARTON, Eng., April 21.—The ancient custom of "selling by candle" is still practiced in England. A candle is lighted with a pin one inch below the top. The bidding starts and the man who bids as the pin drops out, because of the flame burning down to it, gets the article on sale.

Wise and Otherwise.

Bakers struck in New York, 10,000 of them. They wanted more dough of one kind or less of another.

People are so impatient. In New Jersey a bank was robbed by a paying teller who couldn't wait until he became cashier.

Perhaps a baby born in the Grand Central Station in New York will grow up and become a hobo or a railroad president.

Man got arrested for beating up a movie usher in Seattle, proving we must suppress some desires.

The world gets better. We know a man who is so honest he pays his doctor bills.

If these flivver airplanes become popular there will be a fortune for someone in digging storm cellars.

Don't be too hasty in slapping mosquitos this summer. Look first. It may be a flivver airplane.

Some girls are so old-fashioned they wear clothes and play mah jongg.

Women will not be men's equals until there is a bride shortage instead of a bridegroom shortage.

April showers bring new cuss words.

THIS Your BIRTHDAY

TUESDAY, APRIL 21—If today is your birthday, you will be an exceptionally good story teller. You will be witty, caustic and clever and possess a very keen insight into human nature. You are a good mimic and probably would do well on the stage. You lack a certain push and certain self-assertiveness, which is necessary for your success. You will be very happy in a little home of your own, whether you be a man or woman, and a gay social life will not appeal to you, despite your popularity in any gathering.

GOOD MANNERS

It is very rude for a hostess to be out when her house party guests arrive. Even someone who comes so often as to be entirely at home is apt to feel dispirited upon being shown into an empty house.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, April 20.—Strong, active, steady market for all classes of killing cattle, firm at last week's prices. As expected, there was practically no export demand outside of about 70 steers, and a few bulls and heifers, about 200 in all, taken to complete a shipment east for Rogers and Maybee. There will be no further demand for export trade this week. Next Monday the regular export buying will be resumed for the season, navigation from Montreal expecting to open about May 1st or 2nd, if boats can go down the St. Lawrence by that time.

For to-day several loads of heavy cattle were shipped in. The packers took care of a few suitable for killing. The balance will probably have to be carried over.

All classes of killers were in active demand, and with the moderate run, the market held strong and steady at recent prices.

The calf trade was draggy, with a heavy offering. Very few tops, the bulk going around $6.50 to $8.50.

Light offering of sheep and lambs and market steady.

Hogs steady, but packers bidding 25 cents lower for to-morrow.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 20 — There was a fairly good enquiry from foreign buyers for coarse grains here today, but owing to the strength that prevailed in the Winnipeg market for oats and barley and the fact that cable bids were lower than Saturday in many instances, exporters were not in a position to accept any of the orders and the market was quiet. There was an inquiry in the market from New York for 100,000 bushels of No. 2 feed oats at four cents per bushel under the Winnipeg May option, C. I. F. bay ports and a bid of four cents per bushel over the same option was made for 73,000 bushels of No. 1 feed oats, C.I.F. Montreal for last-half May shipment with holders asking 4½ cents per bushel over.

In sympathy with the further strength at Winnipeg for oats, a stronger feeling prevailed in the local market for the cash grain at the close of the day and prices were advanced 1½ cents per bushel, but as buyers had ample supplies on hand for the time being the demand during the day was limited and business was quiet.

Egg Demand Heavier

A feature of the egg trade was the demand from wholesale jobbers for car lots of eggs and several sales were made including one at 29¼c per dozen for extras, and at 27½c for firsts in new cases or at 24½c in used cases, f.o.b. Brandon, and one car of second eggs in used cases, at 25c per dozen, f.o.b. Winnipeg. There was no further change in the condition of the local wholesale jobbing market, prices being about steady at the recent decline noted. There was a fairly good demand for small lots and the market was moderately active. The receipts were 2,529 cases, as compared with nil for the same day last week, and the corresponding day a year ago.

The receipts of butter were 1,083 packages, as compared with nil for the same day last week, and the corresponding day a year ago. The market was without any new feature to note, prices being fully maintained, but the volume of business did show much improvement and in consequence the movement was small. In a wholesale jobbing way a fair trade was done, there being a steady demand from grocers and other dealers for small lots to meet actual wants and sale of finest creamery were made at 35c per lb. in solid packages, and at 36c per lb. in 1 lb. blocks.

Cheese Market Quiet

The receipts of cheese were 473 boxes, as against nil for the same day last week and the corresponding day a year ago. There was no improvement in the volume of business in any direction and the market was quiet with an easy undertone, but values showed no further change, Western No. 1 White and Colored Fodder Cheese being quoted at 18½c per lb. and No. 2 grades at 17½c per lb.

The demand for potatoes showed no improvement and the market was quiet with an easy undertone on account of the fact that the offerings were in excess of the requirements, car lots of No. 1 Green Mountain were quoted at 70c to 75c per bag, and Quebec varieties at 60c to 65c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, ex-track.

Beans were unchanged at $2.70 per bushel.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 20 — Unfavorable reports about the condition of domestic winter wheat, together with 6,768,000 bushels falling off in world shipments and a decrease of 2,141,000 bushels in the United States visible supply total led to a sharp advance in wheat prices today after an early downturn. The wheat market closed strong, 1¾ to 3¼c net higher, May $1.50¾ to $1.50¾ and July $1.40¼ to $1.40½. Corn finished 1¾ to 3¼c up, oats ¼ to 1c gain and provisions showing 17 to 60 cents decline.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, April 20 — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:
Sterling demand—$4.78½.
Sterling Cables—$4.78¾.

An Electric Fan Thrown Through Window—Plates Tossed From Tables.

IBADAN, Southern Nigeria, Apr. 21.—(Canadian Press).—Prince of Wales arrived here after a long and tiring journey from Kano.

At the prince's request the speed of the train was accelerated during the trip yesterday afternoon with the result that it rocked considerably. Plates were thrown from the tables and the Prince's electric fan was flung out of the window.

The royal visitor is to attend a brief function here after which he will continue his journey to Lagos, 120 miles distant.

The FLAPPER WIFE

By Beatrice Burton

After all, would it be so very wrong to see Stanley Wayburn in his dressing room for five minutes?

Well, and what if it was wrong? Dick would probably never hear of it anyhow.

And Gloria longed to see Wayburn . . . if only to dazzle him with her new splendor. To show him that even if he hadn't wanted to marry her, another man had . . . a man who could afford to give her fur coats and diamonds and Parma violets in the middle of winter.

She rose to her feet.

"Take me to Mr. Wayburn," she said to the waiting usher.

* * *

The actor was waiting for her inside his room that had a tin star tacked on the door.

"Stan!" she breathed.

Before she knew what was happening she was in his arms. The smell of the Turkish cigarets that he always smoked struck her nostrils as he kissed her again and again.

At last Gloria pushed him away. Her cheeks were scarlet.

"You shouldn't have done that!" she cried, "I'm married."

"So that's it!" Wayburn said. His eyes swept her from her $50 hat to her shoes with their silver buckles. "When I saw you up in the box I wondered what you were using for money this year. . . . Who is the bloated millionaire you've married?"

"Richard Gregory, the lawyer," Gloria answered. "Ever hear of him?"

Wayburn nodded.

"I didn't know he was so darned rich," he said.

"Oh, we're not rich . . . just comfortably well off, "Gloria told him. "We've a darling little house out on Victoria heights, and an automobile and a maid. I have everything I want, really."

"I'll just jot that address down. I'll be out some day soon to see you, to have a quiet talk over old times," Stan told her.

He wrote Gloria's address in a small leather book on his dressing table.

"If you should come, make it Thursday," Gloria said.

Thursday was Maggie's afternoon out. She did not want Maggie to be there when Stanley Wayburn came to call. She would take no chances on having Dick or Dick's mother find out that she was having a handsome man calling on her . . . less than three weeks after her wedding, at that!

. . . Not that there was anything wrong in seeing Wayburn. She would make him behave himself when he came. But people would be sure to misunderstand . . . if they found out.

Early Thursday afternoon Gloria was all dressed.

She stood before the long mirror in her bedroom, trying to see herself with Stan Wayburn's eyes.

Under the crown of her holden-red hair her face was very pale. And the Cupid's bow of her mouth was rouged to the soft red of a geranium.

Gloria had put on an afternoon dress she had bought on her honeymoon. It was a clinging thing, the color of new green leaves.

Dick had told her that she looked like a wood-nymph in it.

The doorbell rang loudly.

As she ran downstairs Gloria laughed maliciously.

She would give Stan Wayburn this glimpse of her in her beautiful house. She would let him see how her husband cherished her . . . like a jewel in its casket . . . And then she would send him away. She would be cold and distant.

She would make him suffer as she had suffered when he had cast her aside like an old glove, more than a year ago!

Stanley Wayburn looked all around him as he came into the living room.

His ice-blue eyes took in the long room with its cream walls, its Chinese rugs, its gay cushions and lamps. There was a tea table drawn up beside the fire.

"So this is what little Russet has sold herself for!" Stanley said. "For a saucer of cream and a cushion by the fire . . . like a kitten!"

"Sold myself? What do you mean?" Gloria asked. She was stirred by the word "Russet" on Wayburn's lips. It was what he had called her long ago when he had made love to her.

"I mean that you don't love this husband of yours," Wayburn said.

"You love me. You always have."

Glory dropped her eyes.

"If you knew that," she said. "If you knew I loved you a year ago, why did you treat me as you did? You didn't even say goodby when you went."

As soon as she had said it she wished she hadn't . . . This was not the way to keep Wayburn in his place . . .

His voice went on.

"Because I knew the sort of woman you were. I knew that this was the kind of life you wanted. I knew I couldn't afford to give you the things you wanted. . . . Oh, the world is full of your sort of women, Gloria. They want everything. They take everything. And they give nothing . . . nothing at all!"

Gloria laughed scornfully.

"It seems to me I have a faint recollection of your saying you wouldn't marry anyone who didn't have a mint of money, yourself!" she cried. "That was where I learned my lesson of 'take all, give nothing.' From you! . . . And now you'd better go!"

Her voice was choked with fury. Tears of anger stood in her topaz eyes. To Wayburn she had never seemed so lovely.

"All right, I'll go," he said coming across the yellow rug toward her chair, "but first I'll take this . . . and this . . . and this!"

He kissed her violently, brutally.

Gloria leaned back in his arms and hit him full in the face.

. . . Then he was gone.

She rose from her chair and went into the sunroom to watch him go down the street.

And the first thing she saw was Dick's gray roadster swinging into the drive!

Gloria rushed upstairs. She tore off the green dress as she went. She slipped into a linen house frock. She was back in the living room by the time Dick had put his car in the garage.

"Hello, there!" he said when he came in. "Who was the sheik I saw leaving the house as I came up the street?"

Gloria didn't answer at once.

Suddenly Dick seemed very dear. He was no love-pirate, spending his time trying to win the forbidden love of every woman he saw . . . but a good man who loved her with all his soul. Could she tell him a lie?

Gloria rushed to him and hid her head against his breast. She kissed his necktie . . .

"Who was the man I saw?" Dick asked again. His deep gray eyes were very serious. Gloria drew a long breath.

"Oh, that was Mr. What's-His-Name . . . the man I bought my lamp shades from, that's who it was," she said. "He put the wrong kind of silk in them. . . . I wanted them to be georgette crepe. He's used taffeta. . . . What brings you home so early?"

"You," Dick said. "I knew it was Maggie's day out and I thought we'd go somewhere for supper . . . How would that suit you?"

His eyes were thoughtful. Gloria wondered if he had believed the lie she had just told him about Wayburn.

The lie lay heavily on her mind.

Long after Dick had gone to sleep that night she lay awake thinking about it.

She had told thousands of little fibs in her 20 years . . . "white lies." But this one had been different. She had told it because she was afraid, and ashamed, of the thing she had done . . . of letting Stan Wayburn make love to her in Dick's house. It had been a despicable lie . . .

Oh, well, perhaps all married women told them. That is, if they were going to have any fun or excitement. For toeing the mark was very dull.

There was May Seymour, for instance. A fine time May would have if she stayed home waiting for Dr. John to take her out! He was never home, day or night . . . the busiest doctor in town. . . . What was wrong, under the circumstances, for May to go out driving or lunching with other men . . . with Jim Carewe, in particular? And suppose the gossips did talk about her? . . . They were probably jealous of the good times she had!

With this comforting thought, Gloria laid her bright head on the pillow and was asleep.

At 10 the next morning May telephoned.

"If you aren't doing anything special today, let's go downtown and bat around," she said. "I've got to buy some new cream for the dear old face. I'm getting crow's feet. Fancy that, sweet cookie! At my age! . . . Can you go with me?"

Gloria said she could. An hour later she and May were rolling downtown in May's little car.

"Aren't you ever going to drive Dick's car?" May asked.

"I guess not. He takes it every morning, himself," Gloria answered.

"Well, don't let him get away with that stuff. Just let him learn to use the street car, right from the start . . . or walk," May advised her.

An hour later they were sitting in the Green Parrot restaurant.

"I love to eat down here," May said. "When I'm at home for lunch I never can eat a bite. . . It gives me the blues to be there, alone."

Gloria wasn't listening. She was wondering if she could make Dick buy her a car. She was pretty sure she could . . . she felt sure that she could manage him, make him do anything she wanted to do . . . so long as she paid him in the coin of her kisses, kept his senses enthralled.

She looked at May critically. May was coarsening. She wore too much rouge. . . . May was smilining with narrowed eyes at someone across the restaurant.

And in a minute or two, Gloria saw Jim Carewe leave his table near the wall and cross the room toward them.

Jim Carewe was one of May's old flames. The town gossips said he was still in love with her.

"Don't you girls want to go for a nice long drive this afternoon?" Jim asked, looking down at May.

"Oh, Jim, don't ask the bride to go joy-riding!" May said in pretended horror. "Wait a year or so till she's bored to tears with home and husband. Confine your fascinations to an old married vamp like me. . . ."

She broke off, following Gloria's terrified gaze across the room. A few tables away Dick's mother was sitting, in all her glory of black silk and sables! On her broad florid face was a look of disgust as she surveyed them!

FISHERMEN MAY HAVE GOOD YEAR

Peterboro Waters Have Receded to Summer Level Early.

GOOD PROSPECTS

Devotees of the rod and reel may well prepare for a great season in the neighbouring waters. All the indications point to the fact that the catches will be larger than for many previous seasons. In addition to that the prospects for the following year are also exceptionally bright.

Due to the speedy outflow of the flood water summer levels have now been reached, though they will be affected somewhat by the recent storm. The attaining of the constant level at this time means that the fish roe will not be left on the shores by receding waters and as a consequence the number of fish will be mutiplied to a great degree.

Many inquiries have been received by local distributors of tackle regarding new ideas in flies and spoons, which all go to show that spring is undoubtedly here and that the blood of Isaac Walton has not yet ceased to flow.

Prospective fishermen would do well to examine their stocks of equipment that they may be prepared for all exigencies when the season opens.

GRAIN GROWERS' AGENTS IN WEST FOR HOME BANK

Amount of Stock Sold Not Disclosed — Ontario Commission Moves to Dauphin.

DIRECTORS HEARD

Shareholder Neglected to Read Terms Including Double Liability Clause.

WINNIPEG, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—Evidence of three shareholders and three former directors of the defunct Home Bank concluded the investigation by the Ontario Commission in Winnipeg Monday. Hon. T. A. Crerar, John Persse and John Kennedy were the directors and H. C. Scott of Eden, R. E. Foster of Melita, and Mrs. Dickie of Craig, Man., were the shareholders.

The directors were questioned generally upon their attendance at the executive meetings in Toronto with special reference to what they knew of the relations with C. A. Bernard, K.C., a large shareholder, who conducted negotiations for the purchase of the Banque Internationale, taken over by the Home Bank. Messrs. Crerar and Kennedy had no recollection of attending a meeting where Barnard made a statement or where his relations were discussed. Persse was very positive, however, that he heard Barnard at a meeting explaining his relations and especially did he recall Col. Cooper Mason taking Barnard's part. Barnard had claimed, as Persse recalled it, that he had a "get off" against the amount he owed the bank which was due for his services in acquiring the Banque Internationale for the Home Bank. He was not present at the meeting at which the Barnard account was settled.

Agents of the Bank.

The agreement of the United Grain Growers with the Home Bank by which they were made sole agents in Western Canada for the sale of stock was introduced and identified, but the amount of stock the U.G.G. disposed of, the amount they paid or the amount they sold it for, was not disclosed. Scott, a pioneer farmer, had paid in full for five shares. He had received several small dividends, but when he bought his stock from W. J. Powell, the agent of the U. G. G., he swore he was assured he would not be responsible for double liability, and that Powell also said the Government was behind the bank and he could not lose. The application he signed was placed as an exhibit and showed the usual terms of the double liability.

Didn't Read Terms.

He swore that he had not read the terms, but relied upon what the agent told him. Foster had but one share on which he had paid but thirty dollars and received several small dividend checks. He had written the bank in 1912 surrendering his share, and since then had heard nothing more from them until the liquidator notified him that he must pay for his share and his double liability.

Mrs. Dickie said she had not signed the application for her two shares. Her husband had signed her name but cancelled checks for dividends she had cashed. All three swore they had never received notice of shareholders' meetings. Some dozen witnesses are to be examined at Dauphin to-day and Moose Jaw Thursday. This will conclude the probe in the West.

SUCCESSFUL PLAY IN BRIGHTON HALL

"Aaron Slick From Punkin Crick" Was Very Much Enjoyed.

BRIGHTON, April 21.—On Friday evening the Younneedus Club presented a play entitled "Aaron Slick from Pumpkin Crick," at the Union schoolhouse. There was not standing room left in the schoolhouse, the proceeds being approximately thirty-five dollars. Everyone enjoyed the entertainment and fully appreciated the difficulties under which the young people had to work.

Act one was staged in Mrs. Berry's kitchen on an Oklahoma farm. Act two is in the same place, but later in the afternoon. Act three takes place one year later in a Chicago cabaret.

Mrs. Rosa Berry, an Oklahoma widow, was well impersonated by Miss Florence Linson. The humorous side was well taken care of by Miss Jean Adsit as Sis Riggs. Miss Pearl Adsit as Gladys May Merridrew, and Miss Pauline Linson as the Girl in Red. Earl Morden represented Aaron Slick and proved to be not as green as he looked, Charlie Edwards was Wilbul Merridrew, the city slicker, and William Edwards was Clarence Green, the mystreious young man. Between acts Harry B. Walker kept the audience in laughter by his very clever readings and impersonations. The sword dance given by little Dorothy Blythe was very much appreciated.

A very unfortuntae accident occurred at the close of the play, when Mrs. Elmore Craig, with her small son, tripped over a seat and fell. Her thoughts were all for her baby. It proved, however, that the baby was not hurt, but Mrs. Craig herself was badly injured. She was removed to her home and the doctor states there are no bones broken and he hopes in a few days to have her around again.

Mrs. Macoun also spoke a few words about this Girls' Conference and thought it would be a good thing if some of the members could go. A reading was given by Mrs. Thos. DOURO TOWNSHIP HISTORY SINCE EARLIEST SETTLEMENT

The Township of Douro is located east of the City of Peterborough, and cornering the city at that point where Concession Street meets the Warsaw Road. The township is triangular in shape, extending east with Otonabee for a southern boundary to the Township of Dummer which forms the eastern boundary, and the west base boundary is formed by the Otonabee River.

In the year 1822 Honorable Alexander Stewart and Robert Reid arrived with their families in Canada. Leaving Ireland they were furnished with letters of introduction which they presented to the Governor of the province. The former received a grant of 1200 acres and the latter 2000 acres of land close to where the City of Peterborough now standsIt was covered with dense forest growth. This section later became part of the Township of Douro. They engaged some help from some of the settlers of Smith and Otonabee and made two small clearings somewhere near the neighborhood of where the Auburn mill now stands. Here they built a good log house and two shanties. Besides these large grants of land they received control of the whole of the Township of Douro for the term of five years, that they might encourage its settlement and induce their relatives, friends and others to locate near them. They cheerfully gave up their right on the arrival of Peter Robinson.

The first real settlers of Douro came out from Ireland in the immigration under Hon. Peter Robinson in 1825. These brave men and women embarked from Cork in the month of May in that year, and after many vicissitudes, and many encounters with tempests and storms, they arrived on Canadian soil, and partly by boat, partly by help of oxen and partly on foot, they reached their destination in this district. Many of them settled in Douro where they undertook to clear the land, though they had no experience as axmen. Each cut a small clearing, and undertook to build a small shanty on the parcel of land that was granted to him by the Crown. The following are the names of the first settlers who located in different parts of the township:

John Maloney, aged 50, his wife and seven children; west half lot 10, con. 1. The east half of this lot was given to his son Thomas, aged 24;

Michael Condon, aged 24, his mother and six brothers and sisters, east half of lot 10, con. 2;

John Tobin, aged 28, his wife and three children, west half of lot 10, con. 2;

John Tobin, Sr., aged 49, his wife, Johanna Tobin, location not given.

John Sheehan, his wife and six children, east half of lot 1, con. 4, his sons, Cornelius, aged 22, and Timothy, aged 20, being allowed the east half of lot 2, con. 4 and the west half of lot 3 in con. 3;

Michael Elligott, aged 33, his wife and three children, east half of lot 9, con. 3.

Michael Keane, aged 35, his wife and five children, west half of lot 9, con. 3;

Richard Meade, aged 38, his wife and three children, west half of lot 7, con. 3;

Charles Crowley, aged 36, and five children, west half of lot 10, con. 3;

Thomas Tobin, aged 30, his mother, his wife, one child and two sisters, east half of lot 10, con. 3.

Maurice Clancey, aged 26, east half of lot 5, con. 4;

George Brynes, aged 25, his wife and child, west half of lot 5, con. 4;

After arriving in Canada the settlers came by boat up the St. Lawrence River from Lachine and, landing in Toronto, each settler received a grant of 100 acres of land in what is now known as the prosperous Township of Douro, in the County of Peterborough. Each also received a hoe, an axe, a reaping hook, a hammer, a saw, and a skillet or pot, which proved a very indispensable utensil for the early settlers. The skillet was used to boil potatoes, make porridge, boil pea soup, and wild berries, and was also used as a stew kettle to make soup from rabbits and the partridge, which were plentiful, and proved a dainty dish for them and their families. They also used the skillet as a frying pan and to bake bread. Pastry and iced cakes were unknown to the first settlers, but they received plain provisions to do them for a certain space of time. One cow was assigned to a certain number of persons. Rejoicing at their good fortune and with sanguine hopes of their future in this new home they embarked for Port Hope and landing there started out with the aid of guides to locate their home in the land of promise. After walking no small share of the distance they were carried across Rice Lake on a large scow or flat-bottomed boat, came up the Otonabee, and landed at a point of land on the east side of the Little Lake near where Ashburnham or East City, Peterborough, as it is now called. As they sailed up the river and tall forests on each side cast their shadows on the rippling waters, and here and there a speckled trout or bass would throw himself in play above the surface as though to welcome the newcomers to the land of full and plenty. Here and there the water lilies appeared in clusters and pretty wild flowers cheered their hopes and vision. The busy humming bird would glide across from cluster to cluster of blossoms, sucking the sweet nectarine, then soar away above the forests and finally disappear. Evening came, with twilight. Then the moon and stars reflected like gems upon the waters. Then came the owl, the cry of the lynx or wild cat, the shrill and sharp echo of the fox from the neighboring hillside, and the howl of the wolves re-echoed from the distance. These strange surroundings changed the feeling of rejoicing to a feeling of fear. It brought to their minds the land of their birth, the thought of their fathers or mothers, sisters or brother, or perhaps a sweetheart, all left across the sea.

The immigrants arrived at the landing place and the women and children were left in a rude building, which was built for them while the men went to locate their future homes. The township was surveyed by Richard Birdsall in 1823. The first part of their work was to clear a small space to erect a shanty built of logs and thatched with wild grass and boughs of the balsam trees, which served for shelter until they could get something better. Later they put in a fireplace which consisted of a very large stove chimney with an arch at the bottom on which was a crane on which they hung a pot to do their cooking. Those who were fortunate to have a shanty large enough, erected a bed by boring three holes in the wall, then driving stakes in them and propping them up on the outside, then covering them with home-made plank. On top of this they placed grasses and cedar boughs for a mattress and made pillows from down of bullrushes gathered from the neighboring marshes. This being done they brought their wives and families. Cooking stoves were something that could not be procured at this time.

Ague prevailed from 1825 to 1832, owing to bad water, and many of the settlers died in the surrounding townships, but luckily no deaths were reported in Douro Township. At the time of the immigration there was no doctor in Peterborough. Dr. Hutchison, of Cavan, was the nearest. Settlers were hale and hearty and were able to overcome all difficulties. Their next difficulty was to get a clearance to get some land under cultivation. This was a very embarrassing task as the settlers had no experience with axes. They first cut down the timber, and with the assistance of their neighbors, they had logging bees. They would have a logging bee at one farm one day and at another the next day. All the neighbors turned out to help at these bees. Needless to say the women turned out as well as the men and helped to pile up the logs and get them ready to burn. In many cases the women had to bring their children as if they were left at home the bears would eat them. The settlers at night, when going home, would use a burning piece of pine root as a protection against assaults of bruin. They knew the bear had a dread of fire. In the year 1825 there was no store at Scott's Plains, now Peterborough, and the settlers had to get provisions from Port Hope and Cobourg. The principal diet of these first settlers was pea soup and pork, rye flour bread, and butter. This was all right at times, but the rye was often frozen, which did not make the bread very appetizing. Good wheat flour might be considered a treat or rather a luxury to the first settlers of Douro during the first few years as most of the settlers were very poor. In case of not being able to get flour or meal, they boiled whole wheat and corn. Some of the poorer settlers were content with potatoes, porridge and sour milk, and sometimes bran cakes. The crops of 1826 in Douro turned out as follows:

No. of farms, 60; No. of acres cleared, 243½; bushels of potatoes grown, 8,251; bushels of turnips grown, 4,175; bushels of wheat sown, 80¾; pounds of maple sugar made, 1,159; oxen in the township, 11; cows in the township, 18; hogs in the township, 22.

In the year 1832 two steamers, the "Pomedash" and the "Northumberland" were placed on Rice Lake, proving a great advantage and help to the new settlers.

In the same year the census of Douro showed: Population, 571; No. of persons assessed, 126; No. of acres under cultivation, 990; No. of oxen, 82; No. of cows, 105; other cattle, 44. Total taxes amounted to $102; total assessment, $21,312.

The township was surveyed in 1831 by John Stewart and James Hogan, who afterwards served the township as magistrate, being appointed in 1834. In 1837 Mr. Hogan was appointed captain to enlist soldiers to fight in the Papineau, MacKenzie Rebellion, and he took them to Quebec. The following are the names of some of the recruits: Sergeant John Condon, William Sheehan, John Crowley, John W. Crowley, John Kennedy, Michael Kenedy, Michael O'Donnel, William O'Donnel, James Moher, Thos. Torpey and John Torpey.

About this time Edward Kenedy, known better by the settlers as "Cooper" Kenedy, started a cooper shop on the Warsaw Road, just near what is now known as McCliggott's Corner. He came from Ireland in 1831, and proved a great convenience to the settlers as he made them washtubs, butter firkins, butter tubs, and pails. These were all of wood, as the timber was plentiful and he had no difficulty in getting material for his products. All of his manufactures were made with wooden hoops and he readily disposed of his wares to the settlers.

To show the obstacles and disadvantages under which these people worked and the toils and labors to which the first settlers were subjected it is well to state a few instances of the many experiences which nothing but unconquerable character of will and duty could overcome, which may be a stimulant to many of the weak and discouraged mortals of the present day to wake or rekindle the fire of energy which God has placed in man to weather the difficulties of life.

In the year 1832 Miss Emma Kenedy walked and carried 14 pounds of wheat and 14 pounds of potatoes from Port Hope to a point in Douro, 14 miles from Peterborough. She carried this burden on her back. This wheat and potatoes were to sow in a little clearance which her father had made on his homestead. This young lady had been working at Port Hope for $3 a month.

There are many such instances. Mrs. Catharine Sheehan went to market in Peterborough carrying on her head a pail of butter, with a basket of butter in one hand and a basket of eggs in the other, and walked back carrying the supply of provisions that she received in exchange for her produce, cash being almost impossible to get. This was all done cheerfully, and women sang and chatted as they went their way. It was no uncommon feat for a woman to perform in those days.

There was, at that time, only a trail through the woods to Peterborough, and even later on women carried large bundles of wool on their heads to Peterborough. Their clothing was home spun, home woven and home made. The good housewife and daughter took the wool, the raw material when taken off the sheep's back, carded it into rolls with the old-fashioned hand cards, and spun it into yarn with the old spinning wheel, and carried the yarn to the weaver. Part of this was woven into grey freize, which made comfortable suits for the male members of the families, and the balance was made into flannel which served to make dresses and other clothing for the female members of the families. There was also a certain amount of yarn reserved for knitting stockings. In the winter nights the women members of the family sat around the fireplace and worked their knitting needles by the light of the fire, while the men ground their axes and finished their axe handles or made sleighs for drawing in their year's crop. Their only light was what they called a peddogue, which was a rag soaked with grease sitting in a saucer and lighted by a live sliver taken from the fireplace. There were no matches then, but fire was lit by flint and punk, which was a very slow operation, and if the fire should go out at night it might be necessary to go to the next door neighbour for a coal of fire the next morning.

The early settlers of Douro could never have existed but for their unselfish dispositions and their co-operation. In cases of sickness, women and men took turn in sitting up with the sick. They could always depend on their neighbours to help them out of difficulties. When one settler killed a pig he would send his nearest neighbours a choice piece of it, and when his neighbours killed one they shared up with him. This was the custom.

Michael Maloney, an old resident of Douro, whose son, John Maloney, still resides in the Township, has been known to carry a plow on his back a mile through the woods. He also carried an ox-cart along the same trail. In those days grain was sowed by hand and covered by dragging a bush over the ground. It was cut with a reaping hook, bound and drawn in on a sort of a flat sleigh, as it was only the best off of the settlers who had an ox-cart. The first grain cradle was brought into Douro from United States by John Crowley about the year 1850, and it was looked upon as a marvellous invention. In these days grain was threshed with flails.

In the early days bears were very plentiful, and would rob the farmers of pigs, sheep and calves, and were a terror to the neighbourhood. In the year 1837, while two of the first settlers were in Montreal helping to suppress the McKenzie rebellion, their wives were living on the homestead near Buckley's Lake. A child belonging to one of the women died and a bear came to the house and was tearing to get in, having scented the corpse. The women, with the ready thought that came to those who braved the wilderness, set free a pig that was sheltered in part of the house with a cow.

The bear devoured the pig and departed. Next morning one of the women went out and blew a horn and two neighbours came and made a box and carried the body of the child to Peterborough for burial.

On another occasion, a John McCue, son of a widow, went through the woods to John Dezno, a shoemaker, who was located in Douro, near Long Lake. The boy had gone to order a pair of shoes. He never returned, and it is supposed he was killed by bears. During those early days many fell prey to the animals.

In those days the younger classes of women wore print bonnets, while the older ones wore black bonnets with a white border. There were no silks, and many brides were married in homespun flannel suits with small shawls over the head. There was not much music in those days, but nature can never be robbed of its Divine gifts. There were many good singers, men and women, who helped to cheer the spirit of the community. The willing youth would whistle a tune and the modest maid would lilt a song, and the youthful hearts would beat to the melody and their feet would keep time to the music. The principal dances were "Eight hand reel," "Six nations" "French four," and "Pat and Nelly." The first musicians in Douro were Jimmy McManus and "Big Mick" (Michael) Sullivan, grandfather of M. D. Sullivan and Lewis Sullivan, who are the happy inheritors of their grandfather's talent. This man, with Thomas Wibbs the piper, did much to cheer the weary settler on his way. The Irish bagpiper could be heard for a mile, and as he visited very much among the settlers, his calls were always received with kindest gratitude.

The first mail carrier who drew mail to Warsaw was Hamilton Marshall.

The first blacksmith in Douro was Maurice Clancey, who came out in the Robinson immigration in 1825. Besides doing the work for the farmers, he made fish spears and traps for the Indians.

Every settler in those days was his own carpenter, but there were some men did particular jobs, such as Barney Burns and Edward Smith, who were local handy men.

Though the settlers were poor they were ever happy. Husband and wife faced all difficulties linked hand in hand, and heart in heart they cleared their homesteads, fenced and improved them. Then they were called to their reward, and left behind them a home and county which their posterity may take pleasure and enjoy.

It might be mentioned that furniture used by the early settlers was a rude table with roughly made benches. In many of the shanties, babies were rocked in a trough hollowed out with an exe. In some cases, the baby was brought to the harvest field by the mother and left in this rude resting-place, while the mother bound the crop after the father cut it with the sickle. Those good people were their own sugar refiners also. In the early spring the husband tapped the maple trees with what they called a gouge, which was an iron chisel with a half-moon edge on it. They hammered this into the tree, and in the opening made they drove a cedar spike to run the sap into sap troughs, which were about three feet long and were made by splitting a baswood or ash log in two then scooping it into the shape of a trough with an axe. Here the women with a yoke over the back of their neck and shoulders worked in the capacity of gathering sap. This yoke projected about 15 inches from the neck on each side and from the ends of it were attached pieces of rope at the lower end of which were suspended large pails which hung just low enough that the hands would catch hold of them when the yoke was on the shoulders. With this divice they carried the sap to the cabin and boiled it down to syrup over the fire. The children also played their part in gathering sap and keeping the fire burning while the men were cutting down the trees to clear the forest. Much care had to be exercised to keep the sap from burning.

It was an everyday occurrence in the early Thirty's to meet a man with a bag of grain on his back carrying it to Scott's mills to grind into flour to feed his family in the morning and to meet him again bringing back his grist in the evening. These are only a few of the varied scenes of the trials and labors of the early settlers of Douro. It is expected that every man woman and child in the township will turn out to do their best to make the celebration of the hundredth anniversaiy of the settlement of the township an unparallelled success and prove that they are "Chips of the old Blocks." It is also expected that hundreds of the old boys and girls of Douro will come back to the event which also includes an Old Boys' ands Girls' Re-union to take place at Douro during the week from June 21 to June 27 this year.

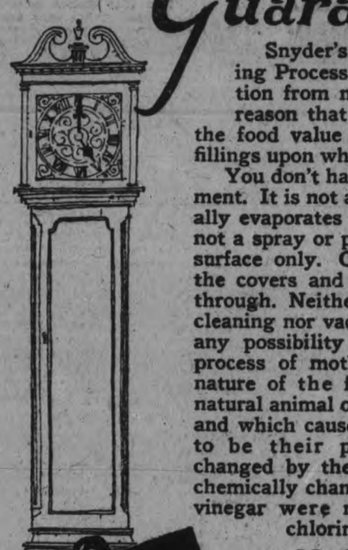
Look for this trade-mark label sewed to the furniture under the cushion. Furniture is not genuine Snyder's "Sani-bilt" without this trade-mark.



Guaranteed for all Time

Snyder's Sani-Bilt Mothproofing Process is permanent protection from moths, for the simple reason that the process removes the food value from all fabrics and fillings upon which moth worms feed.

You don't have to renew the treatment. It is not a poison which gradually evaporates or dusts away. It is not a spray or powder applied to the surface only. Our process saturates the covers and fillings through and through. Neither dry cleaning, steam cleaning nor vacuum cleaning can by any possibility affect the Sani-Bilt process of mothproofing. The very nature of the fabrics treated—the natural animal oil which moths crave, and which causes fabrics and fillings to be their particular prey—is changed by the Sani-Bilt process—chemically changed. It is as though vinegar were mixed with milk or chlorine with water.

Moth Worms Won't Touch the Fabrics

Moth worms placed in such fabrics can't live there. They wither away and die, leaving the fabrics absolutely unharmed. Over and over again has this test been made in the effort to satisfy the inventors of the process that their discovery was perfected. Seven years of experiment and research had gone before. There was no longer any doubt.

Our guarantee is the proof of our own conviction. Moths will never hurt Sani-Bilt. It is protected from the ravages of moths. Snyder's Sani-Bilt Upholstered Furniture is therefore mothproof absolutely.

Be Warned in Time

When you ask to see Snyder's Sani-Bilt Living Room Furniture do not be turned aside. Upholstered Chesterfield Suites of other makes are often described as "mothproof". Snyder's Sani-Bilt process of mothproofing is the permanent process. It is the original discovery of a world-famous group of chemists who devoted seven years to the problem. It is the only process known which is an absolute assurance against moths. There is only one manufacturer of upholstered furniture in Canada using the Sani-Bilt process—Snyder's, Limited, of Waterloo, Ontario. All others are imitations. Beware of them. Insist on Snyder's Sani-Bilt. Look for the guarantee tag and make sure it is the Snyder Sani-Bilt guarantee. Lift the Cushions and look for the Snyder's Sani-Bilt trade mark sewed to the seat. If it isn't there, it is not Sani-Bilt.

EX-VICAR'S LIFE OF GREAT LUXURY

Many Accusations Levelled at Devon Clergyman, Bankrupt

BETS AS "INSURANCE"

Sums Owing to Moneylenders and £3,000 to Wife

Accusations of conduct unbecoming to a clergyman, of drunkenness and gambling, were made against the Rev. T. S. Kendall, of Plymouth, vicar of Holsworthy, Devon, for 31 years, at his public examination in bankruptcy in Plymouth.

The living of Holsworthy is one of the richest in Devon, being worth over £1,000 a year when Mr. Kendall retired.

Mr. Kendall told the Official Receiver that the living was bought for him when he was 28 with money obtained through his wife's trustees. He believed the price was about £5,500. He resigned because of ill-health, and it was untrue that he was told that if he did not resign he would be turned out.

The Official Receiver: I suggest that one of the causes of your present condition has been continued and habitual drunkenness the whole time you were there?—No.

The Official Receiver referred to accounts for 12 bottles of whisky in 14 days and also purchase of other liquor, and Mr. Kendall admitted buying it, but submitted that he did not consume it all. He entertained friends, but, he added, "I admit I took my share."

"Is it not a pitiable fact," asked the Official Receiver, "that ever since you have been in Plymouth you have been seen regularly and habitually going back to your house with your pockets bulging with bottles?"—No, I do not think so.

The Official Receiver referred to an account from a Turf Co-Operative Society for over £21 for betting losses, and Mr. Kendall admitted he had been betting for ten years.

The Official Receiver: Do you think that a desirable attribute of a Churchman and a clergyman?—If you ask me my view, I look upon it in the same vein as fire and life assurance.

Mr. Kendall stated that he was awarded £1,000 damages in a slander action, but forgave the debt at the request of the man's wife. He admitted living in a great state of luxury and that he owed over £3,000 to his wife's estate. He had not paid income tax and the Income Tax Commissioners sad obtained judgment against him for £363.

Sums amounting to about £300 were owing to money-lenders, but Mr. Kendall would not admit that he had been sued for £120 12s. 6d. in connection with money collected for an organ fund at Holsworthy. He paid the money into his own account, paid the church council £200 and owed them £100.

The Official Receiver: What right had you to spend a penny of this money?—It was a fund I started entirely on my own initiative. Mr. Kendall denied that he had received a letter from the Charity Commissioners suggesting that he was using the income of one charity for personal purposes.

The examination was adjourned.

IRISH VENDETTA ENDS IN DEATH

Farmer Who Rebuilt Home in County Clare, Shot

A local vendetta, said to have originated in an agrarian dispute, ended in the death at Ennis of Thomas Clune, aged 72, who, a fortnight ago, was fired at from behind a wall while on his way to market, the pellets lodging in his legs and lungs.

Clune had long been the centre of trouble in connection with his occupation of a farm at Gurteen.

Some years ago his house was raided in his absence. Candles were lighted round a table, on which a red herring was stretched, as an indication that he could prepare for death if he did not leave the district. Graves were also dug on his land.

In a dispute in 1923 Clune shot a man, and was sentenced to eighteen months imprisonment for manslaughter. Since then local feeling grew in intensity.

Clune's house was wrecked, but as soon as he was released from prison he started to re-build it, and expressed his intention of remaining, despite all opposition.

A neighboring farmer, Frank Hassett, of Moynlisk, has been arrested in connection with the tragedy, and is now on remand.

Record Scots Rugby Crowd See Thistle Triumph Over Rose

More than 70,000 spectators, forming the largest crowd that has ever assembled at a Rugby match in Scotland, saw the Thistle triumph over the Rose at Edinburgh, when Scotland defeated England by 14 points to 11.

This not only gained for the victors the coveted International Championship, but gave them the historic Calcutta Cup, which has remained south of the Tweed since 1913.

It was an encouraging inaugural event for the new and magnificent ground at Murrayfield, which, in the opinion of patriotic Scots, is the finest Rugby ground in the three kingdoms, and which looked at its best under floods of bright, bleak winter sunshine, with grave, snow-capped hills in the background.

The snow was in danger of melting from the warmth of enthusiasm engendered by the game. All statistical anticipations had been exceeded by the crowds which from an early hour began to pour into the capital from Highlands and Lowlands, from the subject kingdom south of Cheviot range.

An effort is being made to acquire Headstone Manor Farm, which was occupied by Thomas a Becket, together with 60 acres of land, as an open space for Pinner.

AGED RECLUSE HAD HOARD OF MONEY

Bundles of Bank Notes in Odd Corners of House

LOVE TRAGEDY

Luton Man Shut Himself Up After Wife's Death

Robbed of all interest in life by the death of his wife 11 years ago, William Pope, aged 77, a retired straw hat manufacturer of Luton, shut himself up in his house, in Crawley Road, and died wealthy amid every sign of abject poverty.

Bundles of money and securities of various kinds, totalling over £3,000, were found in the house.

Some of the money was wrapped up in paper and placed in out-of-the-way corners. A paper bag full of florins was found in a chest of drawers.

In another part of the same chest of drawers were several Bank of England notes, very old, and of high denominations. The contents of the safe revealed that Mr. Pope was owner of a number of houses.

RELATIVES SURPRISED.

None of the relatives who attended the funeral had any idea of the wealth of the old man, and the discovery was made in consequence of the examination of his effects after the funeral.

A will Mr. Pope left has been described as an exceedingly curious document, and by no means easy to understand.

During the past 11 years Mr. Pope had as his sole companion a distant relative, who acted as housekeeper for a very small wage.

In 11 years he left the house scarcely half a dozen times, and at no time spoke unless it was absolutely necessary.

His wife died as they were about to move to a beautiful house he had acquired in the best part of Luton. In the middle of the night she asked her husband to get her a glass of water, and when he returned with it she was dead.

Mr. Pope stayed in the old house and refused to spend any money on its upkeep. One of the results has been that not a gas burner can now be lit.

"For years we have been using candles," Mrs. Simms, the housekeeper, said. "In the winter, to save money, we went to bed by daylight, just as we did in the summer.

"I was not even allowed to buy cooking utensils, and sometimes we had very little to eat. Our meals were at unusual hours. We had dinner at 12, tea at 2.30 and supper at 6.

"The only time Mr. Pope would speak voluntarily was when he complained about the rates.

"Latterly he became very nervous, and seemed to be afraid all the time that he was going to lose his money, although I did not know how much he had. He was very secretive about his wealth.

"A fortnight before he died a cheque came for him from the Luton Water Company. He was the too ill to endorse it, and for that reason it could not cash it. This worried him considerably. He badly wanted the money in cash to put with the rest."

Mr. Pope was bedridden with rheumatism during the last three years of his life, and from time to time he was attended by a Mr. Blower, who told me that Mr. Pope always insisted upon being laid on his bed in such a way that he could watch the chest of drawers.

"CAN THEY DO IT?" NEW LONDON SONG

Lupino Composition, Heard at the London Hippodrome Catchy

Stanley Lupino has one of the best comic songs heard for many a long day—a delicious piece of nonsense—in the new London Hippodrome revue "Better Days."

The song is called "Can They Do It?" and it is a real old fashioned comic ditty of a type seldom heard nowadays. Written by Mr. Lupino himself, it concerns the inability of various celebrated people to do certain simple things. The first verse and chorus are as follows:

There are lots of clever men,
But the ordinary hen
Can take them down a peg.
Whilst they're laying down the law,
The old chicken in the straw
Sits her down and lays an egg.
That's all.
She lays us a large new-laid egg.

Chorus:

But
Could Lloyd George do it?
Could Winston do it?
Could Baldwin do it?
Why, no.
Could Ramsay Mac and other clever men
Do the same as the poor old hen?
A hen lays an egg and nobody has ever
Said that its wonderful or marvellous or clever."
But
Could Lloyd George do it?
Could Winston do it?
Could Baldwin do it?
Why ..... NO.

MORE ORDERS MAY GO TO GERMANY

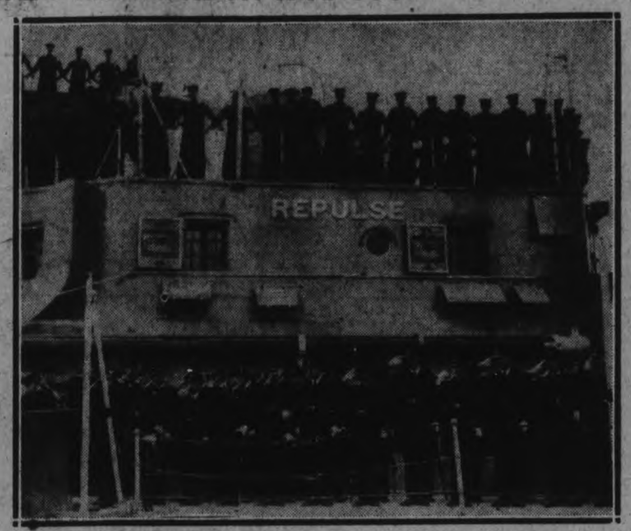
Sir Alfred Yarrow, the 80-year-old Clyde shipbuilder, referred to the German shipbuilding contracts before leaving for Canada.

"I am afraid we shall continue to see orders from Britain for new ships going to German and other Continental yards unless we can compete with them on the same terms," he said in an interview.

"In Germany longer hours are worked in the shipyards, and there are fewer restrictions on the workmen.

"I do not suggest there should be reduction of wages in this country, but I do think our men should work harder. It will be by longer hours and more freedom of action amongst the workers that any improvements will take place in the shipbuilding industry."

THE EMPIRE'S AMBASSADOR SETS OUT



H.R.H. The Prince of Wales going on board the battle cruiser "Repulse" at Portsmouth to commence his twenty-five thousand miles journey to visit various parts of the Empire and South America. The officers of the "Repulse" are shown saluting the Prince as he steps from the gangway (lower left-hand corner of picture) on to the battleship's deck.

ANIMALS VICTIMS OF GAS RESEARCH

Death Roll Totals 1,001, Says Secretary of State

One thousand and one animals were killed—or destroyed afterwards — in War Office research experiments last year relating to defence against gas.

The death-roll included four goats, four monkeys, sixty-eight cats, 445 rabbits, 250 guinea-pigs, 166 rats, and sixty-four mice.

These figures are given by Sir L. Worthington-Evans, British Secretary of State for War, in a written reply to a parliamentary question on the subject.

He adds: "It is essential, for the purpose of protection against gas, to investigate the possibility of new gases and other forms of warfare which might be illicitly employed against this country."

He also explained that only 337 animals were actually killed in the course of the experiments. "The remainder were destroyed, not necessarily as the result of the effects of the experiments, but because it is the rule to destroy animals after they have been used for this purpose."

DUNLOP TIRES HAD GOOD YEAR IN 1924

Report Shows Earnings Were Increased Fifty Per Cent

The world-famed Dunlop tyres earned their manufacturers, the Dunlop Rubber Company, a profit of over 1¾ millions pounds during the year 1924.

This is disclosed in the annual report of the company, which also points out that the earnings for the previous period of 18 months were £1,451,792. The proportionate increase is therefore 50 per cent.

The company might have paid a big dividend on its ordinary capital (written down to one-third of the original figure by the reorganization carried through last year), but the directors prefer to hold large funds in hand. They transfer £600,000 to the reserve fund and carry forward £525,152.

There was a deficit in the accounts of the American company of £414,646, but this is not regarded as a disturbing factor in view of the satisfactory progress being made.

DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH NOW INCORPORATED

Another Big Estate in England Under Company Law

The formation of the Blenheim Estate Company, with the Duke of Marlborough as permanent governing director, to acquire and carry on the duke's estate, again draws attention to a growing practice.

A year ago the Sutherland Estates Private Company was formed, with a capital of £100,000, thus adding the Duke of Sutherland to landlord proprietors who have formed companies.

In the autumn of 1924 was formed a limited liability company, the Belvoir Estates, Ltd., to take over the estates of the Duke of Rutland.

Other companies formed have been:—Grafton Estates Co. (directors, Duke and Duchess of Grafton).

Guest Consolidated Estates (Viscount Wimborne).

Ullswater Estates Co. (Viscount Ullswater).

Berkeley Estates Co. (the Earl of Berkeley).

Portsmouth Estates Improvement Co., Ltd. (Countess of Portsmouth).

Buccleuch Estates, Ltd. (Duke of Buccleuch and Earl of Dalkeith).

One of the most important of these conversions was that of the Howard de Walden estates.

The heavy burden of taxation, not least death duties and super-tax, often results in an estate paying away very much more than it brings in. The change from private ownership to companies brings relief by the burden of taxation being shifted, or adjusted.

STEEL TEETH.

Teeth made from enamelled steel have been added to the products of the Krupp plants at Essen. The metal is from the mixture formerly used in making German cannon. Eight dentists are already employed in the department, and Kruppe hope to expand it later.

WOMAN LOST FOR QUARTER CENTURY

The strange tale of how a woman's relatives have lost touch with her for almost a quarter of a century, and are now trying to find her, is revealed by an advertisement in the Daily Express, which runs as follows:

7 Chester Place, Regent's Park.—Wanted, present address or information of the young lady governess at above about twenty-four years ago; state name; relatives anxious.—King, 71 Clifton road, Kingston Hill, Surrey.

The name of the missing woman is (or was) Miss Izie Stuart, and she was twenty-two years of age when she disappeared.

She apparently moved from her situation in Regent's Park without leaving any address. Her relatives have made many attempts to trace her, but have been unsuccessful. The advertisement has brought many replies from people who claim to know the missing woman's whereabouts.

WIVES ADVISED TO BUY GLORIOUSLY

Lady Astor made an amusing speech when she opened a bazaar at Hove Town Hall in aid of the New Sussex Hospital for Women and Children.

"Husbands," she said, "have got more money than they say, and my advice to women with husbands is to buy gloriously.

"If people only bought the things they needed—well, that would be the end of commerce. It is the things that we do not need, but want, that keep the trade and commerce of the world going.

"Now that women have come into the affairs of life they are going to make the world go a little quicker and a little surer. It is astonishing that the world has gone so long on two legs when it really had four."

TRAMP'S HOARD OF GOLD SOVEREIGNS

A pile of sovereigns provided a rare sight for the people at Ayr Police Court.

The gold—together with some £5 notes and Treasury notes — belonged to John Logie, a tramp, who was charged with sleeping without permission in a railway carriage on a siding at Ayr Station. About two o'clock in the morning a watchman found him lying in the compartment with his boots off.

The magistrate imposed a fine of 5s.

When Logie's money was returned to him, he carefully wrapped up the sovereigns in a handkerchief, and, after checking the £5 notes, put them away in his pocket.

TRAWLER TAKES MONTH TO THAW

For more than a month the Grimsby trawler Night Rider, which has reached port from the White Sea, was coated with ice like a ship of snow.

The catch was frozen to the deck, and for 16 days the crew were unable to deal with it.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION AT ADVANCED AGE

Thomas Carey, of Maryport, Cumberland, aged 91, is a candidate in the local board of guardians election.

Despite his age, he is actively carrying out a personal canvass of the ratepayers. He regularly sits as a magistrate on the local bench.

His record of public service extends over 50 years, and he has been a member of every public body in Maryport district.

CUNARD LINE HAS PROFIT FOR 1924

In their report for 1924 the directors of the Cunard Steamship Co., Limited, show a profit for the year of £393,968.

Dividends amounting to £135,000 have been paid on preference stocks, and the directors now recommend a dividend on ordinary shares of 5 per cent. per annum, absorbing £222,810.

ROMNEY PICTURE BRINGS BIG SUM

Romney's portrait of Miss Mellon, the popular actress who was afterwards Duchess of St. Albans and the mother of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, was sold at Christie's to Mr. Leggatt for £1,732 10s.

This is one of the highest prices obtained this year for a picture.

The girl is depicted in a white muslin dress, cut V-shape at the neck, with short sleeves.

Josef Israll's "The Anxious Family" brought £451 10s.

JELLICOE HOME.

Lord Jellicoe, the retiring Governor of New Zealand, with Lady Jellicoe and his family, arrived at Plymouth in the Mooltan.

His youngest daughter, Miss Prudence Jellicoe, who is aged twelve, fell out of bed during the voyage and broke her collar-bone.

RADIUM TUBE THROWN IN FIRE

A tube containing £400 worth of radium has been accidently thrown into the fire at Swansea General Hospital.

Members of the staff had been working in the Pathology Department, and a tube of radium was taken from a shelf and placed on an ash box. It was overlooked, and later its loss was noticed.

A thorough search was made, but the ash-box had been carried to an incinerator and the contents consigned to the flames.

Hopes are entertained that the precious metal will be recovered.

By accident a tiny tube of radium was lost at a hospital in the North of England several months ago, but the radium was afterwards recovered.

RETURNS MONEY AFTER 20 YEARS

Twenty years ago John Sheriff, a schoolboy, while on an errand to the Bathgate, Linlithgowshire, Co-operative Society, lost a purse containing £1 0s. 9d. He has now received from America a money order for £1 4s. 8d. and the following note:

Dear Friend,—Enclosed money order and confession from a former resident of Bathgate. I picked up the lost purse in the street, and I later found it to be yours, but I failed to return it. It is twenty years ago, when I was a boy of 12 years. I make restitution, with interest, and ask your forgiveness, and hoping in God's mercy to receive His.—D. S. R.

NEW CARNATION IS SHOWN IN LONDON

A beautiful new flesh pink carnation, named Marchioness of Salisbury, exhibited by the Marquis, gained an award of merit at the British Carnation Society's show in the Royal Horticultural Hall, London.

An exceptional novelty, which, if the weather had allowed its stems to grow a little stronger, would have dominated the show, was Beauty of Durham. More will be heard of this carnation. It is the result of blending yellow with a shade of salmon pink, and its hue closely resembles the Daily Mail rose, whose color is officially described as "vivid terra-cotta shading to clear strawberry rose."

NOT WORRIED BY DEAD MAN IN ROOM

At a Rochdale, Lancashire, inquest on John Gazey, aged 77, George Melbourne, who slept in the same room, said that about midnight he saw that Gazey appeared to be dead.

The Coroner: Did you get up and fetch anybody?—No.

Why?—I thought he was dead.

What did you do?—I went to sleep again.

Didn't it upset you to go to sleep with a dead man in the room?—No.

It was very callous of you.—Well, we all have to pass that way some day.

The coroner returned a verdict of Death from Natural Causes.

JACOBEAN RELICS SHOWN TO PUBLIC

A love-letter from Charles II. to the Duchess of Portsmouth and a big engraved emerald and diamond ring he presented to her, are included in a fine collection of Jacobean relics shown at the exhibition of the Royal Amateur Art Society.

Among several beautiful relics of Mary Queen of Scots is the gold rosary she is said to have worn at her execution.

Three sets of buckles lent by the Queen, one set being a wedding present to the King and her, are conspicuous among the other objects shown.

ONE MAN LIFTS THE BIGGEST SHIP

In a few hours the world's largest ship, the White Star liner Majestic, 56,551 tons, was lifted clear above the surface of the water at Southampton by the Southern Railway Company's 960 feet long floating dock—the largest in the world.

Actually one man, G. P. Reah, who is in charge of the floating dock, raised the mammoth liner, which corresponds in bulk to a row of modern five-storey office buildings more than one-fifth of a mile in length.

Mr. Reah, who has only one arm—he lost the other in the war on trawler service—stood in a control house reared like a signal cabin on one side of the dock. There he controlled fourteen electrically driven pumps which emptied the water from the pontoon forming the bottom of the dock.

Constantly scrutinizing a spirit-level fitted in the cabin, Mr. Reah moved here and there among the switches and wheels, altering the speed of the motors so that the dock rose evenly with the Majestic between its walls. When the keel of the liner was more than five feet above the level of the water the ship's upper works towered above Southampton.

MAGISTRATE DRAWS DOLE IN ENGLAND

Chairman of District Council in Lancashire—Former Miner

Chairman of the Swinton and Pendlebury, Lancashire, District Council, and a county magistrate while holding that office, J. Davies, of 34 Westminster Road, Swinton, has drawn the "dole" every week for three years.

Mr. Davies worked as a collier for 41 years, but three years ago, after an illness, was forbidden by his doctor to work again in a mine.

To a reporter Mr. Davies said:

I have contributed towards it. I should not like to do without it, and I am not in the least ashamed of it, but anything more degrading it is hard to imagine.

In every system there are black sheep, and undoubtedly it is the slackers who make it so degarding for those driven to it by hard necessity.

I have met very few men who preferred the dole to work, although in some cases it is a marvel they don't. I know a man with a wife and several children who had been drawing 35s. a week from the Labor Exchange. He obtained a laboring job, and for his first week's work he drew 37s. 1d. That was a case where the man could live just as well by doing nothing as by working.

Mr. Albert Law, the former Socialist M.P. for Bolton, is still on the dole.

DO DULL GIRLS MAKE BEST WIVES?

Interesting View Expressed by Headmistress of London School

Some educationalists wanted girls to be trained like boys with an eye to their future careers, said Miss C. J. H. Cowdroy, headmistress of Crouch End High School and College, Crouch End, N., at a physical culture display given by pupils. Since 10 out of every 11 women could marry and about that proportion of their girls did marry, that fact ought surely to be considered when talking of careers?

Miss Cowdroy added:

I deprecate the view some educationalists hold, and directly or indirectly express, that a woman can possess far higher qualities than those which go to make a wise wife and mother. Some think the clever girls too good for that, the dullards being good enough to continue the race. I understand that in some schools for girls the pupils are divided into two sections, the clever half studying sciences and the dead languages, while the duller girls give the time to cookery and housewifery. I also understand the second set refer to the first as the "brainy old maids," so perhaps they are not so dull after all.

A girl should be proud she can cook and sew and wash and that she can lay out money wisely and well. I hold that a girl who cannot do these things is not well educated, even though she hold the degrees of all the universities under the sun.

ANGLER'S STRUGGLE WITH HUMAN FISH

Lands Expert Swimmer in Eight Minutes at Bath

An exciting contest between a "human fish" on the end of a line and an angler, armed with a light 10-foot rod, was witnessed at Bath Municipal Baths.

The "fish," Professor Bob Canning, a well-known swimmer, had challenged Dr. Charles Begg, a noted West Country angler, declaring that he would resist the doctor's efforts to "land" him for 15 minutes.

In full fishing rig, including waders and heavy boots, Dr. Begg commenced to play Canning, who was attached to the angler's line by a special headgear, designed by the doctor.

At times the rod was bent almost double by the efforts of the "fish," but the angler always appeared to have the game well in hand, and after skilfully playing his catch for 7 min. 35 sec., drew the exhausted "fish" to the side of the bath, thus winning the contest with over seven minutes to spare.

Eighteen years ago the two had a similar contest. On that occasion the doctor landed Canning in 8 min. 35 sec.

PSYCHO-ANALYST SENT TO PRISON

Got £1,600 from Girl of Abnormal Mentality

BISHOP'S FRIEND

Prominent People Took Course of Lectures from Accused

Homer Tyrell Lane, 49, an American citizen, of Maybury Mansions, New Cavendish street, W., and Rackham Farm, Pulborough, appeared on remand at Bow street, charged with contravening the Aliens' Act. The Home Office also asked for his deportation.

Mr. Muskett, prosecuting, said in 1913 Lane became superintendent of the Little Commonwealth, an industrial school in Dorset. In 1918 complaints were received with regard to Lane's conduct towards the girls, and after an inquiry the institution was closed. In April, 1920, Lane took rooms in Gordon Square, Holborn, W.C., at a rental of £375.

Last July he owed £958 for income tax and a woman patient, aged 24, gave him sums of £500 and £1,000 and £100. She also drew a cheque for £1,104 for a motor-car for him, but she had not enough money to meet the cheque. Gross and vulgar prints were found at the rooms.

Detective-Inspector Collins, of Scotland Yard, said that one long letter written by the woman referred to was signed "The Devil," and another signed in her own name, "otherwise God."

BISHOP AND HIS FRIEND.

The Bishop of Liverpool, Dr. David, formerly headmaster at Clifton and Rugby, called for the defence, said he met Lane in 1913 at a conference on religious education. He had sent pupils to Lane that he might help them recover their own strength and happiness, and the pupils manifestly improved.

Mr. Muskett: What do you say he is—I should call him a consultant psychologist.

You have known him intimately?—He is a friend of mine.

LADY ELIZABETH BALFOUR.

Lady Elizabeth Balfour, of Fisher's Hill, Woking, stated that she first knew Lane through visiting the Little Commonwealth with her brother, Lord Lytton, in 1914. She attended a course of his lectures in 1919.

Lane, giving evidence, said that his failure to register was due to a misunderstanding. All the letters which had been produced in court were from persons of abnormal mentality and were kept for a text book on borderline insanity.

Cross-examined, Lane said his income for a few years past had been about £2,500 a year. The young woman who paid him the money went to him in September. She was a border-line case of abnormal mentality, but had improved under his care.

The magistrate sentenced Lane to one month's imprisonment and recommended him for deportation. Notice of appeal was given.

AUSTRALIA LEADS IN IMMIGRATION

Establishes "Big Brother" Scheme for New Boy Settlers

An endeavor to infuse more of the "human touch" into immigration is being made with the establishment in Melbourne of "The Big Brother Movement."

The purpose of the movement is to encourage British boys to emigrate to Australia by providing each young arrival with a "Big Brother sponsor," who will undertake—

To be morally responsible for the boy's welfare;

To see that he has suitable accommodation;

To satisfy himself that the boy is going to desirable people, and that he is properly housed and fed;

To see him off at the station by the train to his place of employment, and arrange for him to be met;

To write to him at least once a month .....to give him advice..... to visit him and to see that he is being properly treated.

The Big Brother's little brother undertakes, on his part, to follow the advice of the Big Brother till he reaches 21, not to drink, or gamble, and to open an account in the Commonwealth Savings Bank and save a fixed sum every week.

The movement is under the auspices of the New Settlers League of Australia.

QUARTER MILLION BEQUEST REVOKED

Manchester to Lose Vases Worth £20,000

Manchester is to lose a collection of Chinese treasures valued at £250,000, owing to what the owner, John Hilditch, F.R.G.S., of Manchester, considers the indifference of members of the Art Gallery committee.

He had bequeathed the collection to Manchester, but he has now decided to leave it to the South Kensington Museum and the District Council of Stretford, Manchester. It includes vases worth £20,000 and Chinese pottery claimed to be 2,000 years older than any other known pieces.

Mr. Hilditch says that an offer made by him some time ago to allow some of the articles to be exhibited was refused, and adds: "If my collection is not worthy to be exhibited in Manchester during my lifetime I will take good care that Manchester does not have it after my death."

JUDGE SARCASTIC ON NOEL NEWTON

Accomplice in Mr. "A" Case Got £43,000 in Cash

GOT TESTIMONIAL, TOO

Jury Perfectly Entitled to Reject His Evidence in Case

The good fortune of Montagu Noel Newton formed the subject of a little homily by Lord Justice Atkin in the Court of Appeal in London.

With the Master of the Rolls (Sir E. M. Pollock) and Lord Justice Sargant, the judge had decided against C. E. Robinson in his appeal from the judgment in the Midland Bank action.

He said that Newton had been the most successful party to the conspiracy to defraud Sir Hari Singh.

He had received about £40,000 in cash; he had had the advantage of the patronage of a great bank and payment of £3,000 by them; he had also received a testimonial from Lord Darling, who suggested that the jury should view his frailties with the compassion accorded to the woman taken in adultery. That interesting analogy offered a temptation to comment, but Lord Justice Atkin said he would refrain.

In addition to other advantages Newton appeared to have received from the authorities an immunity from criminal proceedings. The result was distinctly encouraging for Mr. Newton's second infraction of the criminal laws of the country. If there were a third it was to be hoped that the result would not be quite the same.

The Master of the Rolls said it was clear that the conspirators never intended to open the account nor to pay the money to Mr. Robinson. They used the name of Charles Robinson for convenience, but the name was neither exclusive nor distinctive. It was used as a mere cypher and title for the account.

Lord Justice Atkin said the only evidence connecting Mr. Robinson with the conspiracy was that of Newton, a convicted forger, a self-confessed blackmailer, and an accomplice.

"Under these circumstances the jury were perfectly entitled to reject the evidence of Newton," he added.

HALF-MILLION GIFTS BY HULL MAGNATE

Hon. T. R. Ferens Started Life With Fifty Cents

A further munificent gift of £40,000 by the Right Hon. T. R. Ferens, who recently gave £250,000 for the establishment of a University college at Hull, was made known.

At a recent meeting of the Governors of Farrinton's, the well-known Wesleyan Methodist schools for girls at Chislehurst, Kent, the chairman, Sir George Hayter Chubb, said the Queen had consented to open the new Assembly Hall and other buildings of the school, the cost of which, nearly £60,000, had been provided chiefly by the generosity of Mr. Ferens, who is vice-chairman of the schools.

Sir George told a reporter that—

Mr. Ferens was providing roughly two-thirds, or £40,000, of the amount mentioned.

"Mr. Ferens has been one of the governors of Farrintons' since it was founded about 13 years ago," said Sir George.

When Mr. Feren's gift of a university to Hull was announced it was described as "the noblest gift of a man whose self-made fortune has now been devoted to the extent of half a million to the needs of others." Last year Mr. Feren's gifts included £25,000 to Leys School, Cambridge, and £25,000 to Kingswood School, a Wesleyan Methodist institution. Another outstanding act of generosity on his part was the provision of the site of an art gallery and pictures for Hull, at a cost of £80,000.

The son of a small flour millers at New Shildon, Durham, Mr. Ferens started his business career as a clerk in the local offices. Subsequently he came to Hull with only two shillings that his mother had given him, and became clerk to James Reckitt, of the famous starch firm. This started his career of fortune.

SHIPWRECKED IN WORST BLIZZARD

Men Marooned on Rocky Islet in Scilly Isles

Marooned on the rocky islet of Rosener, in the Scilly Islands, a shipwrecked crew of 26 men and five boys making their first voyage spent the night exposed to a snowstorm.

Their craft, the Cite de Verdun, a new French trawler of 100 tons, lost her bearings among the maze of islands and in the heaviest blizzard known there for 30 years.

After losing her propeller the trawler crashed on to Rosener. Two flares were sent up, but in the blinding storm these appeared to the coastguard at St. Mary's as pale reflections that might have been the lights seen nightly on fishing vessels packing their catches.

Taking with them a mast and flag, the crew climbed on to the rock, where they waited till dawn, when inhabitants of St. Agnes saw their signal.

From St. Agnes Osbert Hicks, a former Trinity pilot, with six volunteers, rowed four miles to Rosener in a 70-years-old eight-oared gig.

St. Mary's lifeboat followed and took the numbed crew ashore. The trawler, with 60,000 mackerel on board, was lost.

All the crew attended St. Mary's Church to offer prayers of thanks for their escape from death.

Station Sergeant E. Daniel, chief warrant officer, Thames Police Court, who has retired after 26 years' service, had had over 110,000 summonses through his hands.

TAKE A LAUGH.

Everyone Can Be a Millionaire of Good Cheer.

But few persons, comparatively speaking, can become millionaires of money.

Every person, however, can be a millionaire of good cheer.

A hearty laugh often is more stimulating to the entire system than the contents of a doctor's prescription.

Start every day with a hearty laugh. A hard job is this, hard at first, but with a little practice that before-breakfast grouchy feeling will become only a memory.

Here's the way John Harvey Kellogg, Battle Creek, Mich., advises to start the habit:

"Stand up before the looking glass. Pull the mouth corners toward the ears as far as you can. Squint the eyes a little and take a good breath.

"Now let it go—Ha! ha! ha! first on a low key, then all the way up and down the scale.

"If you have the blues, laugh and forget them," he says.

A cheerful disposition can be cultivated, and it will pay big dividends in friendship, health and money.

LOVERS DIE TOGETHER.

PARIS, April 21.—Gilberte Allionard, a pretty girl, fell in love with Pierre Prunier. Their parents objected to their marriage until they were 20. When they reached this age they again objected. The couple was found dead in each other's arms in a gas-filled room.

JAPANESE MAKE SACRIFICES IN CHANGING FAITH

Miss Rourke, Returned Missionary, Relates Experiences in Japan at Lakefield.

W.M.S. SERVICE.

Converts Cut Off By Their Relatives For Accepting Christianity.

LAKEFIELD, April 21. — The annual service under the auspices of the W. M. S. of the Methodist Church was held on Sunday evening, postponed from Easter evening (the usual date) owing to the fact that Miss Rourke was not available on that date.

Miss Rourke, who was the speaker spent five years in Japan as a missionary, and is now on furlough in Canada.

Miss Rourke gave several instances of the Japanese Christians and the sacrifices they made for their religion. A young man, the eldest son of a wealthy family in Kobe, came into contact with an English Bible class, which he attended, not to become a Christian but to learn English. However, his heart was touched by Christ and he resolved to become a Christian as many do in this manner. His father was very angry and disinherited him, but he took up his cross and went to America for post-graduate work prior to entering a theological college. The indoor life and close application to study broke his health down, and he became a victim of tuberculosis and the doctors told him he had only a few years to live. Undismayed, he resolved to give his remaining years to the service of the dwellers in the slums, so he went into the unspeakable slums of Kobe, where the average house is 9 ft. by 6 ft., and the average family from 6 to 7, and where sometimes boarders are taken. One could not imagine a worse place for a victim of tuberculosis, but in spite of that the disease has been checked and he is apparently in good health. In his social service work he saw a new side of life and began to write books of Christian fiction, which have an immense sale in Japan, and now he is again a rich man, devoting his life and money to the work of saving humanity. He was sent to Tokio after the earthquake to assist in the reconstruction work. He is recognized as a leading social service worker and labor leader, and is an earnest Christian exerting a powerful influence ober his people.

Another instance of personal sacrifice was that of a young girl, an orphan, who lived with her grandmother. This girl was the heir, as there was no son to carry on the family traditions. An heir is very important in Japan, as it is his duty to carry on the work of his ancestors, keep the holy days, etc. This girl was sent to a Christian school so that she might learn English, with no thought that she might become affected by the Christian teachings. She became a Christian and took up the work of training as a Christian kindergarten teacher. Her grandmother was very angry indeed she must leave home, so the girl she must leave hom, so the girl went back to Tokio, and the W.M.S. are helping her to finish her education so that she may support herself as a Christian teacher. She forsook all and followed Christ.

A third incident was told which had a slightly different ending. Two missionaries, who were preparing to take a holiday at a seaside town in Japan, heard that a room might be rented in the home of a Buddhist priest, who had in youth learned English at an English school. These ladies and the priest and his wife spent many hours each day in the garden, reading and discussing the Bible. One day one of the missionaries died suddenly, and Miss Blackmore, the superintendent, went down to the funeral, which was held from the priest's house, and after a talk with him about Christianity, sent him books and commentaries, and before a year was up he admitted that he had become a convert to Christianity, but his was a heriditary priesthood which had been in the family for hundreds of years, and the office carried with it a beautiful home which he and his children loved very dearly. He had not yet been able to decide to give it all up by a public confession of Christian faith, for he cannot keep it and be openly a Christian. However, he is giving his children a Christian education, and one girl who has just graduated from High School is taking up kindergarten training. We may say he should make the sacrifice, but how much self-sacrifice in houses and lands have we made during the year to help on this work?

A church in Toronto is aiming to give as much to foreign missions as they do to their home church and the work in Canada, and last year they almost succeeded. People sometimes say how can we be successful in foreign missions till we have built up the kingdom of God in Canada. We do not treat these foreign people well when they come to our shores even as Christians, and our doctrine of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man is not practiced as it should be.

Formerly these people took the lives of the missionaries as examples of how Christians live, now they have the press which blazons abroad our social and industrial sins, and which are read and commented on in China, Japan and India.

It is useless to clean our own back yards to protect our health when our neighbors have disease-breeding filth in their yards. China and Japan are our neighbors, and what are we going to do about them?

Mesdames G. H. Spence, E. H. Northey, J. R. Northey and G. McConkey took up the offering, after which the pastor, Rev. C. S. Reddick pronounced the benediction. The members of the W. M. S. occupied the front pews of the church.

LIQUOR TEST CASE.

Regina Man Arrested With Seal on Bottle Broken.

REGINA, Sask., April 21.— The question whether a man found intoxicated on the street and in possession of a bottle of legally purchased liquor but with the official seal broken can be charged with illegally having possession of the same, is undecided still. Judgment was reserved by Magistrtae Hefferman in the city police court Monday when Thomas Thirde, a resident of Craven, Sask., was before him for a test case. In reserving judgment for a week Magistrate Hefferman said it was not fair to himself or to Thirde to ask him to make a judgment off hand. The issue was important and many were interested.

Mrs. C. Martin, R.R. No. 2, Orillia, Ont., writes: "I have been troubled with my heart for a long time and very often had bad spells with it. He got me everything he could think of to see if they would do me any good, but nothing seemed to help me. One day a friend was in to see me and advised me to try

ASSAULTED REPORTERS.

Three Saskatoon Men Fined —Made Settlement.

SASKATOON, April 21.—Three men were fined $3.00 and costs each Monday in City Police Court on charges of assaulting two Saskatoon newspapermen after a successful liquor raid by city police on the Empire Hotel bar last Thursday night. They were Wilf. Loughlin, hockey player; J. J. Wagner, operator of the Empire Hotel, and Dan McClellan, a baseball umpire. After a recess of ten minutes had been allowed for them to reach a settlement with one of the reporters, whose clothing was torn and who were badly beaten in the fracas, the men were arraigned and pleaded guilty. No evidence was asked for and Magistrate Brown imposed the minimum fine.

IN GOOD HEALTH IN 90TH YEAR

Mrs. Thomas Gillott is Oldest Inhabitant of Millbrook.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

MILLBROOK, April 21 —Enjoying health, with eyesight and hearing comparatively unimpaired, and with hosts of friends to extend hearty congratulations and good wishes. Millbrook's oldest resident Mrs. Thomas Gillott, on Friday April 17, celebrated her ninetieth birthday.

"At Home" from three to five o'clock, the steady stream of callers gave evidence of the place Mrs. Gillott holds in the affection and esteem of the community.

Born at Zion, in Hope Township, on April 17, 1835, on the farm where her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John Edwards, cleared the land and hewed out a homestead from the virgin forest, Elizabeth Edwards spent her girlhood years, and at eighteen years of age was married to the late Thomas Gillott. Rev. Mr. Baird, a Baptist minister of Port Hope, performed the quiet ceremony which took place at the parsonage.

Living for a brief period at Welcome, and for about two years at Port Hope, Mr. and Mrs. Gillott moved to Millbrook to reside, and have always been regarded as among the most highly esteemed citizens. Mr. Gillott, for more than fifty years, carried on a successful furniture and undertaking business. Retiring about three years before his death, which took place on August 1, 1904, he handed the business over to his son, W. J. E. Gillott, who still maintains the firm name, and continues the use of the premises which his father built in the early days of Millbrook's history, enlarging and improving them as modern circumstances made demand.

Forty years ago Mrs. Gillott, accompanied her husband on one of his trips to visit relatives at Louth, Linconshire, England, and still retains vivid impressions, and can relate many interesting incidents in connection with the voyage, and their stay in the Old Land.

Reaching the ninetieth milestone on life's journey is an event few are privileged to enjoy, and living here for over seventy years Mrs. Gillott has seen many changes, from the days of a two-plank board walk on the "main" street, to pavements; from homemade tallow dips to electric lights for homes and streets; from a few stores on Tupper street to the gradual building up of King street as the business section; and the replacing of frame houses and churches by subtantial brick building. She has seen the population grow to about fifteen hundred, and lessen again until half that number was recorded at the last census.

Interesting reminiscences of the "great fire" of 1875, when almost the entire business section was wiped out, are related by Mrs. Gillott, who also tells of her efforts to save their own business premises which had been burned in 1871, and rebuilt within the following two years.

On November 14, 1903, Mr. and Mrs. Gillott celebrated the golden anniversary of their wedding day, shortly after moving into their new home on the corner of Centre and Union streets.

Mrs. Gillott is still quite able to go about her household and look after its various tasks, though her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. J. E. Gillott, planned the celebration, and with the help of relatives and friends carried it through to a successful conclusion.

Mrs. L. S. Clarry, another resident who has spent many years in Millbrook, and Mrs. J. A. Vance, a close neighbor, assisted Mrs. Gillott in receiving her guests. Mrs. A. Ferguson, who reaches her ninetieth birthday in June, and who has spent her entire life in this community, was among those who enjoyed an hour or two on Friday afternoon chatting, and recalling incidents of earlier years.

In the dining-room Mrs. W. Thorne and Mrs. J. N. McGill poured tea, Miss Agnes Brackenridge serving the guests. The beautiful boquets of fowers, which created a spring-like atmosphere in both drawing-room and dining-room, were gifts from friends here and outside points.

A handsome, three-story birthday cake, with eighteen candles, (one for each five years), centred the dining-table. Miss Marian T. Brackenridge and Mrs. J. E. Thompson, of Westwood, sisters of Mrs. Gillott, Jr., had the honor of making the cake and whether the recipients of many warm words of praise as the guests tasted the delicious confection. An extra layer had been made in order to serve the afternoon callers and leave the cake itself uncut until the formal dinner-party at 6 p.m., when the following guests sat down:

Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. W. Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brackenbridge, of Balicboro, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. McGill, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vance, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Clarry; Mr. John Allen (Mrs. Allen was prevented by illness from being present), Mr. and Mrs. W. J. E. Gillott, Mrs. J. E. Thompson, Miss Marian T. Brackenridge.

Messrs. Johnston and Thorne lighted the candles on the cake, and Mrs. Gillott inserted the knife before it was cut for serving.

Although Mr. W. J. E. Gillott is her only son, Mrs. Gillott has given a mother's care to two other children—a nephew, Charles Reid, who at nine years of age accompanied her husband home from England, and whose death occurred in Winnipeg ten years ago; and Mrs. Charles Byers, of Moose Jaw, Sask., who was also in her ninth year when she was received into Mrs. Gillott's home, remaining there until her marriage eighteen years of age.

Mrs. Gillott evidently comes of a long-lived family since two brothers, Messrs. Thomas and John Edwards, living in Huron county, are aged respectively 88 and 86 years, and with one sister, Mrs. W. Sheardown, also of Mitchell, were unable to be present for the birthday occasion.

A life-long member of the Presbyterian church, one of Mrs. Gillott's loving ministries has been for years the providing of flowers for the altar for the Sunday services.

Mingled with congratulations and good wishes, the entire community joins in extending the hope that Gillott may be spared to enjoy the "evening of life" for some years yet to come.

MARRIED HIS AUNT.

SNOW PILED UP IN OMEMEE BEDROOM

Winter Stole in Through the Window Opened to Spring.

OMEMEE, April 20. —To wake up at possibly 4 a.m. and find snow about six or eight inches deep on the bedroom floor, was one of the unexpected surprises that came to a local resident of Omemee on Sunday morning, caused by the strong east wind. Needless to say, the broom and shovel was soon brought into practice. While the thunder rolled and lightning flashed, the snow came pelting down, and by Sunday noon almost a foot of snow covered the ground on the level. Cars were tied up on country roads. On Monday the mail men and others who were forced to travel by vehicle of some sort, report that not before this winter have they had to encounter such snow drifts, many hills being impassable and a road by the fence had to be broken.

Congratulations are in order to Principal A. E. Bryson, of Silverthorne avenue school, Toronto, formerly of Omemee, on his recent re-election as general secretary of the Ontario Educational Association.

DOTING FATHERS OF PETERBORO WORRY DOCTOR

Demand Instant Attention if Junior Snuffles at 2 in Morning.

CALL HIM "BRUTE"

Telephone is Not Unmixed Blessing, Says This Baby Doctor.

Ticket and bond brokers are certain that Dr. Bell had a happy thought when he conceived the telephone, but there's a doctor in Peterboro' who insists that its benefits are over-rated. He maintains that a telephone in the hands of the father of a first-born is a menace to the sanity and the sleep of a medical man who looks after little ones.

This doctor, known, it might be said, to all of Peterboro', prefers that his name be not made public for reasons that will appear later. He has an extensive practice and has had the privilege of ushering into the world many of Peterboro's children.

He says that he has heard more ringing in his time than the oldest xylophone player in the business. He declares that on some nights, his telephone bell sounds like a short circuit on one of those insistent protective alarms that is set off by the tramping of a policeman on his beat outside.

"It's nothing to me to be cajoled, threatened, and defied twenty times in a single evening," he said. "If I got three hours of uninterrupted slumber, I'd think I had been stricken with sleeping sickness. It's been said that the human infant is the most helpless thing in the world. That's wrong. He is not nearly so helpless as his parents. They not only want a doctor to treat their progeny, but they want him to share their anxiety as well. If they call me up at 2 in the morning to tell me that little Bertie's nose is running, they are angry if I fail to see precarious possibilities in this connection, and they rave if I tell them to dry little Bertie's nose and go to sleep.

Call Him Brute!

I decided to go to the Grand to see Zeebrugge, figuring the junior spuffling season had about come to a close. Just as I was leaving the house the telephone rang, as it usually does. An excited male voice ordered me to come at once to an address in the West end. My informant said that he had detected pronounced hoarseness when his baby cried. I advised him to give the infant a spoonful of syrup of ipecac every two hours and said I'd be around in the morning. I told him I couldn't come at once because I was going to the theatre.

"He made the receiver almost too hot to hold. 'You brute!' he shrieked at me. 'How dare you go to the theatre, when my poor baby is in agony! His temperature is almost 100, and I demand, in the name of humanity, that you be here in half an hour.'

Must Be Prophet.

"Many babies are brought to me for examination and change of diet periodically," he continued. "The parents seem to think I am a clairvoyant as well as a baby specialist. If the child is taken ill two or three weeks after I've looked him over, they call me up and air unfavorable opinions of my professional attainments. They want to know why I didn't see imminent measles or potential whooping cough, and I carefully explain that I am a physician and not a phophet. The defence has never appeased them."

And then, taking the sting out of his story of the frailties of parenthood, the doctor said, with a reminiscent smile, "And whey they aren't calling me up to complain of me, they are phoning to apologize for what they said in a moment of stress a few days earlier."

CAVAN MAN HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Moses Sutton Was Thrown From Roller When Horses Ran Away.

CAVAN, April 20.—Mr. Moses Sutton onWednesday was assisting his son Lloyd with the spring work, driving a team of horses attached to a roller. The tongue of the roller broke and the horses ran away. Mr. Sutton was thrown from the seat of the roller onto the platform. He tried to hold on with one hand and drive with the other, but was thrown off. He was working on the south end of the farm. Mr. Lane saw him lying in the field, and had him taken to W. Elson's house and phoned to his son. His two sons and daughter, with Dr. Turner, were not long in getting there. No bones were broken, but he was badly shaken up and suffering from the shock. He was able to be taken to his home in Millbrook. On Thursday he was still in bed, and feeling the effects of the accident a great deal. Mr. Sutton did not know whether the roller had gone over him or not.

ORGAN RECITAL IN METHODIST CHURCH

Mrs. Thomas Cruikshank of Peterboro Delighted Norwood Music Lovers.

NORWOOD, April 20.—The organ recital given Thursday evening in the Methodist (United) Church by Mrs. Thomas Cruikshank of Peterborough proved all that might be expected.

Naturally, the organ numbers were the particular feature and Mrs. Cruikshank gave Norwood people all the pleasure they had anticipated from this evening. She had played here soon after this organ was installed and the programme showed that her fine command of the organ has waxed and not waned in the meantime. Recent study in Toronto under Dalton McLaughlin, A.A.G.O., has evidently proved an inspiration to Mrs. Cruikshank, and her audience certainly reaped the benefit last evening.

Perhaps the numbers of most general appeal, we would judge, were "Romance in D Flat," by Lemare, "Magic Harp," by Meale, "Finale," by Lemmens, and "Curfew," by Horsemann.

Mrs. Cruikshank will be assured of a welcome when she comes to Norwood again.

The Norwood Choral Society under their efficient leader, Mr. G. M. Wright, gave assistance in two numbers from last season's programme. "Babylon's Waves," was given with all the appeal of the outcast and downtrodden people and grew into the strong and dramatic climax with which the fervor of their unbroken spirit is so vividly pictured in this classic choral number by Gounod. Their second selection, was Pinsuti's "Silent Tide," given with the tenderness and beauty of shading which the conductor has the power to win from his singers. Mrs. Garlick ably accompanied the choral club.

Miss Gladys Haig, A.T.C.M., organist of the church, gave variety to the evening in her piano number, the beautiful Russian tone-picture by Rubenstein. This was charmingly played by Miss Haig.

Miss Blanche E. Pearce, L.T.C.M., was unable to take her solo work owing to a severe bronchial cold, but was most worthily represented by two of her vocal pupils.

Miss Evelyn Scott, a young soprano of much promise, sang "There is a Land of Pure Delight," by John Prindle Scott, with much sweetness and with fine appreciation of the spirit of this setting.

J. Stanley Weir has a splendid baritone voice and sings with assurance. He sang "The Plains of Peace," by Barnard, to the very evident pleasure of his hearers.

Miss Pearce's accompaniments to her pupils' songs were, as always, an added beauty.

After the organ recital a delightfully informal social hour was spent at "Ousemore Place," the home of Mrs. J. B. Pearce, at which were present the pastor of the church, and Mrs. Rogers, the associate pastor and Mrs. Wesley, the members of the choral society and of the Methodist (United) choir, of which Miss Pearce is the director, and under whose auspices the recital was held.

VOCAL RECITAL.

The hall at the Conservatory of Music was filled almost to capacity last night for the recital given by vocal pupils of Mrs. W. A. Greenslade, held under the auspices of the Conservatory Teachers' Association. The audience was very appreciative of the fine programme presented by the various pupils taking part, all of whom made a splendid impression in their songs, showing especially good training by their teacher.

The assisting artist, Mrs. Maye Rodwell Ford, of Toronto, elocutionist and graduate of the Chicago School of Dramatic Art and Elocution, also made a distinct hit with her hearers. Her rendition of several fine readings was very cleverly done, and brought repeated encores. Mrs. Ford gives an artistic presentation of her work, her voice is well modulated and her powers of mimicry and expression excellent. Her bits of dialect were especially enjoyed. Readings by Mrs. Ford included a monologue, "The Idyll of the Period," with some clever impersonation work, a brief character sketch, "I Ain't Goin' to Cry No More," a society monologue, and an entertaining negro love story, in dialect.

The vocal programme by the pupils included various solos and also two duetts, sung by Miss Greta LeBarr and Mr. Harold Snelgrove, with splendid effect. Every number was vigorously encored, Miss Greta LeBarr's lovely soprano and Mr. Hubert Lowes' fine bass voice getting an added quota of applause.

The programme was as follows:

Vocal solos: "Roses of June," Miss Josephine O'Keefe, soprano; "A Winter Lullaby," Miss Lillian Farthing, contralto; "Love's in my Heart," Miss Irene Howarth, soprano; "The Call," Robert Moore, tenor; "Last Night," Miss Annie Burns, soprano; "Break o' Day," Mrs. E. Frost, soprano; 'A Dream,' Hubert Lowes, bass; 'The Answer,' Miss Greta LeBarr, soprano; "Spring is Here," Miss Florence Saunders, soprano; "At Dawning," Harold Snelgrove, tenor; "I Hear a Thrush at Eve," Miss Mary Wood, contralto.

ADVANCE GUARD OF VEGETABLES

Peterboro Stores Have Latest Arrivals—New Potatoes Here.

BEANS AND PEAS

The advance guard of summer vegetables form the latest arrivals in retail stores. New potatoes make their bow to Peterborough tables, at 25 cents a measure, just the same price that a bag of old spuds is bringing in neighboring districts. Green peas are a tasty but expensive comestible at 30 cents a quart, and string beans come at 40 cents a pound. Florida cucumbers are priced at 15 and 20 cents apiece, the hothouse variety costing 35 cents each. Eggplant, the big purple, hard vegetables, have, for some unexplained reason, gone up in price. A week ago, you could buy one of these, if you happened to hanker for one, for 40 or 50 cents. Now they come at 50 and 60 cents. Big bunches of asparagus are 75 cents, the little bunches selling at 15 cents.

Strawberries are 30 and 35 cents per pint box, and are not being handed as extensively as in past seasons, it is reported.

In wholesale fruit lines, Canadian hothouse cucumbers are coming in. An eleven-quart basket costs in the neighborhood of $4.00. Potatoes are cheap, in a slow market with little demand even for seed potatoes. This may be traced, possibly, to the fact that the Irishman's favorite was cheap and very plentiful last fall. Therefore planting is slowing up this spring, with the probable consequence later on of dearer potatoes.

Navel oranges are nearly done. The California Late Valencias are expected about the middle of the month.

Conditions Uncertain.

According to Mr. J. E. Adams, wholesale grocer, conditions in certain of the markets, notably sugar and cereals, are uncertain. Some time ago, flour was bought by Old Country millers at a low rate and held by them. When prices broke, they were enabled to sell lower than the man who bought at the peak and tried to unload immediately, when home markets are not supported by cable advices, they weaken and fall. People buying boost the price. Lack of purchasing power causes a drop.

Flour went up by 20 cents on the barrel last Friday, but retail quotations have not yet changed. Sugar declined 10 cents on the bag.

Canned goods are active and prices firm. The house cleaning season brings its demands for soaps and cleaning powders, and the soap men take advantage of the demand to put forth all sorts of tempting little baits in the way of special offers.

In the dairy lines, butter is up slightly above last week's prices, with one store making an effort to grade its lines for public information, naming them "choice", "number 1" and "number 2." Eggs, at 25 cents a dozen, have abandoned grading pretenses, ande are lumped under that price in one classification.

Egg Grading.

Egg grading, in a recent issue of "The Canadian Grocer," is described as being like a cross-word puzzle. The article goes on to describe the visit of a Government egg inspector and his courteous demeanor, also refers to the card left behind him. An old country native, happening in later, pointed out the error in this card.

"If you take a really fresh egg", he said, "and hold it to the light, the aircell will appear as a little dark spot, about the size of a dime, at one end of the egg. But in this picture, Mr. Grocer, the printer has made the little spot appear light instead of dark. Lend me an egg, please!" An egg was provided.

"Now, Sir," pursued he, "if you have a rather old storage egg, and look at it in the candler, you will find it very like what the printer puts in the picture for the fresh egg. The aircell will be light, almost luminous, and the body of the egg somewhat darker, in fact very like the picture."

The writer goes on: "I had no eggs of the latter description on hand just then, but on another occasion put his statement to the test with a well matured, ripe specimen. It looked even as Mr. Smith had foretold. The stale egg had the appearance that the government chart pictures for fresh eggs!"

Another attribute of the regulations that comes in for a good deal of criticism is the fact that "firsts" which anyone would naturally suppose would mean 'first quality,' are in reality "thirds", as "specials" and "extras" come before this classification. This method is compared to the finish of a race where Billy Smith comes in "Special," Johnny Doe "Extra", Harry Sprinter "First" and Alec Small (who also ran) is "Second."

HUMAN NATURE.

If I make a date with a girl,
And she lets me kiss and pet her,
I think, "She lets 'em all do this."
And then I go home and forget her.

If I make a date with a girl,
And she will not let me pet her,
I think, "My gosh, this jane is dumb,"
And then I go home and forget her.

NO EPIDEMICS MARK SPRING'S DEBUT IN CITY

Winter Collection of Communicable Diseases Has Passed Into Memory.

FEW CASES NOW

Dr. T. W. H. Young Says Co-operation of Citizens Would Stifle Outbreaks.

The epidemics of mumps and measles, which have been causing so much inconvenience in the city of late, are rapidly being checked. Dr. T. W. H. Young, Medical Health Officer said today that no new cases have been reported recently and in the isolation hospital only three cases of scarlet fever are being treated.

The wide spread of contagious diseases could readily be held in leash if the people were to co-operate more with the health board and report such cases when their existence is first suspected, said Dr. Young. Proper observance of quarantine regulations would also assist greatly.

Dr. Young finds that some do not fully understand why there should be a difference in the duration of quarantine for different families and he explains that where there is more than one child in a family the length of quarantine must be greater.

Even though one child may not take the disease he is still liable to it within the period of germ incubation.

TOURIST TRAFFIC WILL BE BETTER

Communications Received by Leon Frazer Show Increasing Interest.

It is anticipated that the tourist traffic of the coming season will be greatly augmented. Leon Frazer, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, says that according to communications received so far, Peterboro and the surrounding districts are due to be visited by a great number of beauty and diversion seekers.

Peterborough's lakes and waterways are becoming famed for their scenery and citizens should encourage such appreciation by cultivation and improvement of their natural beauty resources.

Last year a tour was made of the waterways from Georgian Bay to New York in a 14-foot outboard motor boat, and this year Mr. John Edwin Hoag of California contemplates a transcontinental tour by motor boat. The only part of Canada which he will touch will be in passing through the Trent Canal from Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario, from which he will proceed to New York. This type of advertising is the best possible for a community as it gives a reputation which is to say the least enviable. Not all districts are so blessed by a great wealth of beauty and Peterboro citizens should be anxious to have others enjoy for a brief space the privileges which they have constantly.

PLANTING FORCED BULBS OUT DOORS

When the glory of the bulbs, which you have planted and forced yourself or purchased at Easter, is over, do not throw them away, if you have even a small plot where they may be planted. Rather water them for two or three weeks until they have nearly matured (the foliage has yellowed and dried somewhat). Just apply sufficient water to keep the earth from completely drying out. As soon as the ground may be dug, plant the bulbs without removing the tops, in groups in the border. The tops will eventually completely dry out and may be removed. The bulbs will become established, will increase and bloom very often for several years. Do not be disappointed however if they do not bloom the first year as being forced they sometimes take a while to recover.

Narcissi and tulips lend themselves particularly well to this treatment. Plant the narcissus bulbs at a depth of 5 in. and 8-12 in. apart and the tulips 4 in. deep and 6 in. apart. Plant at least a dozen in a group to get the best effects.

CAILLAUX HOOTED BY DEPUTIES ON APPEARANCE WITH PAINLEVE

Reference Made to Bolo Pasha, Executed War Traitor.

NO MAJORITY.

Division Makes it Obvious New Government May Soon Fail.

By A. L. Bradford
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

PARIS, April 21.—The Chamber of Deputies hooted the appearance of Joseph Caillaux on the Ministerial bench to-day, when Paul Painleve presented his Cabinet and read the Government's declaration of policy. It was obvious from the way the deputies were divided that the new Government was no longer assured of a majority in the Chamber.

Tumult in the Chamber of Deputies and absolute silence in the Senate greeted the Ministerial declaration. Finance Minister Caillaux was greeted with cries of "Bolo Bolo"—a reference to the executed war time traitor, Bolo Pasha, with whom Caillaux was at one time accused of association.

Painleve Statement.

France has had a "bitter dissillusionment," the statement declared, but was "determined to look the facts in the face. "When we have succeeded finally and definitely in balancing the budget, so it cannot be questioned, we will take the state out of the role of banker which it has been made to fill. Then we will be obliged to ask big sacrifices of the nation. We shall appeal to all citizens in an atmosphere of national concord," says the statement.

The declaration makes a reduction and reorganization of the army contingent upon the success of negotiations for a complete tranquilization of Europe and security for frontiers.

The Government said it would go slowly and carefully in applying French laws to Alsace and Lorraine.

ISOLATION HOSPITAL SHOULD BE FREE SAYS MAYOR TURNER

Board of Health Will Consider Proposal Made To-day.

PREVENT DISEASE.

The Medical Health Officer Thinks Accommodation Not Large Enough.

The question of making the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital entirely free to residents of the city was brought up at the regular meeting of the Board of Health to-day by the Mayor.

He said that only about $2,000 of a budget of $11,000 was collected from patients.

Dr. Young said this would be a great step towards the prevention of disease, but that the hospital was hardly large enough.

Alderman McIntyre, looking at his appropriation, was very doubtful of the plan. It was left to the members to give it serious thought for the balance of the year.

Dr. Young said that the Isolation Hospital rate allowed for a discount of 40 per cent. in the bill when more than two children of one family were in hospital at once. He thought the reduction should be only 25 per cent., the same as for only two, and the Board decided that the change should be made.

Many Sewer Connections.

The principal business of the Board, other than the question of hospital charges, was the installation and payment for sanitary conveniences.

The Plumbing Inspector brought in a list of houses for which he recommended the order of sewer connections. The Medical Officer of Health was instructed to order the owners to instal sanitary conveniences.

Mr. Bishop appeared in connection with sewer connections to 219 King Street. He said that it was his intention to tear down the building and put up a new house, and it would not pay to instal conveniences. He thought that a chemical closet would be satisfactory. In view of the fact that he was going to remove the house in 1926, he was given permission to instal the chemical.

Frank Schiarrizza applied for the city to put in sewer connections at 582 Bethune Street. He brought in tenders from two plumbers who would do it for $140. Granting of this request will be recommended to Council.

A. Patterson, owner of 218 Stewart Street, said that there wasn't any need to instal sanitary conveniences as there were only two people living there, and he didn't get sufficient revenue from the house to pay for the plumbing.

Members of the Board will inspect the house.

A house on Hunter Street which cannot be connected to the sewer was reported by the Plumbing Inspector. The owner will be permitted to instal a septic tank.

The Mayor reported certain houses as being without sewer connections and the Plumbing Inspector will investigate.

Several complaints about unsanitary conditions were referred to the Plumbing Inspector and several requests for installation on yearly payments were referred to the City Solicitor.

Payments made to the City Solicitor by the Treasurer for court fees were authorized.

CHEQUE ARTIST COOLLY CAUGHT

Tried to Cash Cheque on Peterborough Bank—Trapped by Teller.

PLANS UPSET.

TORONTO, April 21. — Commendable caution on the part of R. M. Bolton, teller and accountant at the Eglinton branch of the Union Bank, resulted in the apprehension yesterday of William George Hemwood, Church street, a suspected "cheque artist."

Over the telephone last night Bolton related the details of the capture. Hemwood, he stated, walked into the bank and, saying that he wanted to transfer to that branch $2,500 from the Earlscourt branch of the Dominion Bank, produced a bank book showing $5,500 on deposit in the latter bank. Having heard of previous similar cases, Bolton was suspicious, and said he would bring the manager of the branch, G. C. Temple, to deal with the matter.

He prevailed upon the manager to allow him to communicate with the Dominion Bank, while Mr. Temple held the suspect in conversation. Telephone inquiry confirmed Mr. Bolton's suspicions, and he at once called the police. In the meantime, Mr. Bolton said, Hemwood had asked the manager to cash two cheques, for $75 and $40, one drawn on a Peterboro bank and the other on a Toronto bank, on the strength of the account he was opening. Mr. Temple put off the prospective "customer" by declaring that he would not care to enter the teller's cage while the latter was absent on a business call.

Very soon after, Constable Holden arrived on the scene and placed Hemwood under arrest. The prisoner is suspected of having passed numerous worthless cheques in Toronto, Brantford and Oshawa, and is held on charges of fraud.

Mr. Temple last night had very little to say about the matter beyond stressing the good work of Mr. Bolton. His part in the affair, he said, had been only to engage Hemwood in conversation, and so detain him until the accountant had made the necessary inquiries.

BUILDING STILL ACTIVE IN CITY

Boom of Early in Month Continues, According to Permits.

According to figures obtained from the City Engineer the building boom continues ahead of that of last year for the same period. Up to the present over fifty permits have been granted which include dwellings hen houses, garages and verandahs.

Numerous repairs are also under way on roofs and siding.

Up to the fifteenth of the month permits for dwellings and garages totalling over $40,000 have been granted. Since that ate applications have been filed as follows: Mr. W. H. Snowden is having a garage built at 608 Gilmour at a cost of $150; on 278 John St. a garage for Mr. Neil Tobin at $70.00 and Willima Ferguson is having alterations on a store at 380 George St. to the extent of $4,500.

This volume of building would appear to indicate that the citizens looked forward to the future of the city hopefully, and considering the recent slackness it is a very cheering sign of better times.

CONSERVATIVE MEMBERS WILL ISSUE PERMITS

Government Feels That the Representatives Know Their Own Ridings Best.

CONSULTED PREMIER.

Most of Government Supporters Have Visited Ferguson This Week.

TORONTO, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—The issuance of beer selling permits in various ridings of the province will be left, almost entirely, to Conservative members and defeated candidates, it was learned this morning. The decision of the Government to adopt this means of distribution is said to have followed lengthy consideration. It is felt that the members of the ridings know the constituencies better than anyone else, and the feeling of the people as to the number of licenses that should be issued.

During the latter part of the past week, and the beginning of this, practically all of the Conservative members of the Legislature have visited Premier Ferguson and laid their views before him. About twenty members were at the Parliament buildings this morning in response to a letter sent to them by the Premier, asking them to come and state their views regarding the issuance of licenses and framing of regulations.

LOCAL MEMBER HAS NO DESIRE FOR POSITION

W. H. Bradburn Does Not Wish to Issue 4.4 Sale Permits.

TORONTO REPORT.

Would See That Those Who Sell Beer Had the Facilities.

In speaking of the report that the individual members were to be permitted to say who should have licenses for the sale of the 4.4 beer, W .H. Bradburn, M.L.A., today told The Examiner, that he hoped it was not right, as it would put the members in a very difficult position between the importunities of friends who wished to sell without having proper facilities and those who wished the sale curtailed. If it were left to him, he would see that no permits were issued except to people who had proper premises and under very strict control. There would be, he said, no wholesale issuance of permits, but he would prefer to have nothing to do with it.

KINGSTON, April 21. — A collie dog belonging to David Olmstead, of Mississippi, in a bitter encounter the other night killed a beaver weighing 50 lbs. after a combat lasting fully half an hour. Beavers are exceedingly rare in that district and the incident has created much interest.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—Ninkoff, said by Bulgarian police to have placed the infernal machine which killed more than 160 persons in the Sveti Kral Cathedral Thursday, was cornered by the police yesterday and when he resisted was shot and killed. Ninkoff, a former officer in the engineering corps was sub-chief of the Sofia communist executive central committee.

SPOTTED EGGS TO ORDER.

LONDON, April 20. — Spotted eggs were selling at a premium here recently, until someone discovered that the hen didn't do the spotting. Some dealers had dipped them in coffee. CATHEDRAL OUTRAGE BELIEVED SIGNAL WORLD-WIDE OFFENSIVE

Soviet Disclaims Complicity in Any Phase of Bulgar Riots.

WARNING GIVEN.

Emissaries of Red Rule Filter Into Great European Capitals.

CATHEDRAL OUTRAGE
(By Webb Miller, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, April 21.—A new Bolshevist world-wide offensive has been inaugurated by the Cathedral tragedy in Sofia, the Conservative press of England warns its readers today.

The newspapers warn every country to do its utmost to guard against and to oust agitators affiliated with Moscow.

Despite official denials from the Soviet Government, which disclaimed complicity in any phase of the Bulgarian outrages, the Conservative press insists upon fastening many of the present troubles upon Moscow.

It is emphasized that Europe and the world in general have reached another critical turning point, punctuated with murders, armed uprising and Labor strikes.

The Daily Telegraph ridicules the idea that Bulgarians alone were responsible for the Sofia outrages and warns that "numerous dangerous Bolshevist visitors have arrived in England recently, attached to Soviet sanctums in one way or another," while there has been a similar influx into Vienna. Athens and Constantinople, says The Telegraph, and Greece was astounded to see a personnel of 51 arrive as the staff for the Soviet Legation when diplomatic relations were resumed with Russia. The Vienna Legation and annexes "include a bureau of military espionage."

The Morning Post says: "We are again in times when Christianity is threatened by an Eastern invasion of Barbarians, who in this case are assisted by secret agents and allies in our midst.

The Post charges that the influence of Moscow is behind the outrages in Germany, France, Italy, Ireland, Egypt and India.

In this connection, it will be recalled that General Primo Rivera, head of the Spanish directorate, alleges that the Soviet Government is aiding Spain's enemies in Morocco.

Another Plotter Shot.

SOFIA, April 21 (Canadian Press).—Captain Yankoff, who is alleged to have been head of the conspiracy for the bombing of the Cathedral last Thursday, was killed by the police early this morning. When officers discovered his hiding place and called upon him to surrender, he replied by opening fire upon them and throwing several bombs. He was dropped by their return fusilades.

Captain Ninkoff, sub-chief of Sofia Communist Central Executive Committee, who was also in the Cathedral plot which took a toll of 160 lives, was shot and killed yesterday when he resisted arrest.

LIVE SOCIETY PLANS SEASON

St. James' Young People Have Done Good Work in Past.

MANY ACTIVITIES.

A special meeting of the newly-elected executive of St. James' Young People's Society was held at the home of the President, Mr. Elmer R. Frost, 512 Lock street, on Saturday evening.

The first part of the meeting was a business meeting when the work of the society for the coming conference year was discussed and new ideas for making the year a successful one, were brought forward.

Committees were struck to look after the various departments, and general routine business concluded. The society has been very active during the past year and according to the enthusiasm displayed at this meeting the year which is about to be entered upon will eclipse past records.

Among some of the things discussed for this year were a music committee, the starting of a league orchestra, and the question of having an athletic programme for the summer months. The league has a membership of over 60 young folk and it's the intention of the members to increase this to one hundred or more this year. The following officers take charge on May 1:

President: Elmer R. Frost.
1st Vice-Pres.: Mrs. E. Kitney.
2nd Vice-Pres.: Miss Edith Wright
3rd Vice-Pres.: Mr. Hershel Welbourne.
4th Vice-Pres.: Miss Marion Grose
Secretary: Miss Ruth Robertson
Treasured: Mr. Gordon Richardson
Pianist: Mrs. E. Hotson.
Asst.-Pianist: Miss Josephine Arthur.

After the business meeting dainty refreshments were served, and the remainder of the evening was spent very pleasantly in games and songs.

AT THE ROYAL, THURSDAY.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

"SAINT JOAN."

An epoch was marked in the local history of the stage by the presentation at the Grand last night of George Bernard Shaw's wonderful "Saint Joan," one of the most remarkable plays of this generation and pronounced by many critics as fitting to rank with the best of Shakespeare's efforts.

Indeed that was the impression carried away by many of last night's audience. Here they felt was a play that would live hundreds of years after "Turn to the Right," "The Ladies of the Night" and "Abe's Irish Rose" and other box office successes of the present era had been forgotten. Here was a play that would be studied in the literature classes of many decades hence, a play over the interpretation of which the great student of the future would quarrel, a play which the eminent actors that are to come would be glad to present, perhaps even a play that would be disdained by the "flappers" and the "shieks" of to-morrow as their prototypes of to-day disdain Shakespeare.

"Saint Joan" in Shaw at the height of his genius. It is a combination of tragedy, comedy, travesty, history with its character speaking the English of to-day even to its accent and slang. His 'Joan' is not the usual conception, not the romantic heroine usually pictured when one thinks of the Maid of Orleans, but a shrewd and courageous lass with a ready tongue and the ability to get the better of her enemies with woman's favorite weapon.

He himself calls his work a chronicle play and he has not been unfaithful to history in the action, albeit he uses the modernity of speech referred to and does not hesitate to employ his characters to jibe as usual at his pet aversions, with his customary audacity.

Thus when the English whom Joan and her compatriots call "goddams," because of their manner of speech, have been beaten by the French, the chaplain of the English invaders says to Warwick, "I cannot bear to see my countrymen defeated by a parcel of foreigners." "Oh," said His Lordship, "you are an Englishman, are you not?" "Certainly not, my Lord," shouts the Chaplain, "I am a gentleman." Here the cynic and satirist raps with a single blow the alien, the spirit of nationalism and the English.

"Saint Joan" teems with typical flashes of Shavian wit and satire and abounds in dramatic situations, the trial scenes being as impressive as the court scene in the Merchant of Venice. And the wonderful epilogue with its sermon in its last line and its expression of Shaw's opinion that we don't want our saints down here among us, and are quite satisfied to have them remain in Heaven or anywhere else as long as they are not here is a masterpiece.

It was admicably staged and acted. Miss Julia Arthur won a personal triumph as "The Maid." If there was any fear that this mature actress could not convey the illusion of youth it was speedily dissipated. Her slim figure, her vibrant, sonorous, musical voice were youth itself. The role is a long and exacting one—the performance requires three hours and a half—but Miss Arthur was equal to every demand made upon her.

Associated with this eminent Canadian actress was a large cast of splendid capabilities. Nowhere did a weakness manifest itself. Outstanding was the effective portrayal of the part of the Bishop of Beavais by Edwin Mordant, the striking picture of the Dauphin given by John McGovern, the work of Lowdon Adams as the inquisitor, and of Erskin Sanford as the tender-hearted Brother Martin, the clever acting of Lynn Pratt as the Earl of Warwick and of Henry Buckler as De Stogumber. In fact almost every member of the cast could be singled out for praise were the space available.

A large and representative audience saw "Saint Joan," and it is safe to say that it has been inscribed on their memories as one of the greatest performances the stage has yet presented.

AT THE CAPITOL

"THE AIR MAIL"

The big feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the first three days of this week is quite out of the ordinary. Although airmen and air ships have been things of common usage for some years now, they are not very frequently included in moving picture productions. "The Air Mail" shows one of the most interesting phases of air travel, in a story woven about the air mail of Uncle Sam. The monstrous birds that flutter down out of the sky, discharging their loads of men and mail, give an odd impression to the picture, an atmosphere of airiness and out-door life that is lacking in the majority of pictures. Even the men who engage in this mode of travel seem to be different and above the run of ordinary mortals.

Duke Kane, however, was not an extraordinary man. He was a plain thief, starting out to use the air force as a means to achieve a fortune in robbing the mails. The ideals of the air and of his mate, Scotty, who died in the performance of his duty, combined with the influence of the girl, worked his regeneration. This type of regenerated human, also, oddly enough, is not too common in the movies of the present day, and yet it is a theme that holds extraordinary interest.

The motif of "The Air Mail" is the law of the force: "Nor wind, nor snow, nor rain, nor night, can stay the pilot in his flight." It was the devotion of the pilot to his aerial route that led Scotty to the chilly cemetery on the hillside, and brought his chum to drop a wreath on his grave from the gliding plane, and it was the code of the air that drove Duke Kane from thieving ways to a new life.

The moral is not tiresomely accentuated. There is a pretty romantic element in the story and a series of thrills in the fight between the air men, guardians of the mail, the gang of smooth air bandits seeking for registered mail, and the trio of plug-uglies who dwell constantly on the ground, harrassing the girl and engaging in a running brawl with the bandits, mistakin them for the sheriff's force. The seeting is unique, with most of the scenes filmed in the neighborhood of the abandoned and ruined quarters in the desert where the girl and her invalid father live.

A good comedy and the usual run of excellent short reels finish an entertaining programme, which has an added attraction in an up and coming amateur jazz orchestra of youthful players, the Peterboro Juvenile Symphony orchestra. This is a snappy outfit, playing jazz music in interesting fashion. Last night, they were greeted with applause, following their rendition of a series of selections that included "Honest and Truly," "San," "Where's My Sweetie Hiding," and "My Best Girl." Robert Dixon plays the piano, Cliff Hayes the jazz trumpet, Harold Whaley the traps, Paul Koster the banjo and saxaphone, Darcy Carter the saxaphone, and Jerry Collins the violin.

"THE RIGHT WORD"

Have you ever been stuck for the proper word when you were working a crossword puzzle? If you have, you will like "The Right Word," the one-act comedy that will form an added attraction for the regular Capitol Theatre programme, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and Wednesday matinee, April 27, 28 and 29.

Written by Miss Kathleen L. McCarthy ("Jeanette" of The Examiner staff), who wrote "Melange" and "Dumb Dora" one-act plays presented at the Capitol during the past two seasons, and produced under direction of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, it has an exceptionally interesting cast. Those taking part are Mrs. Bingham, as Norah; Miss Mathilde Masson, as Louise; Miss Almo Goselin, as Sue; Mr. James Dixon, as the Professor; Mr. W. E. McWilliams, as Bert; Mr. Gordon Cornish, as Commisioner of Detectives, and Mr. Lionel Chapman, as Jack.

Miss Masson will sing, and Mr. Chapman will play the Hawaiian guitar. Grand piano from Heintzman and Company; furniture from H. G. Rummarys antique shop.

AT THE REGENT

"JANICE MEREDITH" FILM OF ROMANCE.

Marion Davies Superb in Love Story of the Revolution.

"Janice Meredith," which came to the Regent Theatre yesterday for 3 days, has so much beauty and romance in it, and so much glory and amazing land-that-never-was charm in it, that even a hardened reviewer is overcome by the sheer magnificence of this picture.

No one who, secretly, would like to take a trip to the moon, or who, much more to the point, would like to have the Revolutionary War done over again for his own delectation—the war being just a multi-colored background for a heart-stirring love affair between the most beautiful girl in the world and a man whom she, at least, didn't think was the homeliest of his gender—can afford not to see "Janice Meredith," and Marion Davies, who is the astonishingly beautiful star of it.

There's the Boston Tea Party, the Ride of Paul Revere, the Battle of Lexington, the Battle of Trenton, Washington crossing the Delaware, Benjamin Franklin at the Court of Versailles, and spectacular scene after spectacular scene, until one begins to wonder whether all the spectacular scenes available hadn't been roped and tied, and put into this one film.

But historical events, no matter how faithfully and lavishly and brilliantly done, probably never can vie on the screen with the charmingly delineated love affair of a dashing debonair lad, and a beautiful, capricious and, utterly desirable maid.

It's the love between Janice, who is Marion Davies, and Charles Fownes, who is Harrison Ford, that hits you right where most persons live and breathe.

Miss Davies, who has been recognized as one of the reigning beauties of the world since she first swam into public ken, is as irresistible in her acting as she always has been in her charm. Mr. Ford might be the beau ideal of any girl. Holbrook Blinn might be the special scented villain of any one for all time.

"Janice Meredith" is a great picture—if it isn't the greatest.

It is a Cosmopolitan picture released through Metro - Goldwyn, and directed by E. Mason Hopper. Lillie Hayward made the film adaptation of Paul Leicester Ford's novel. The settings were by Joseph Urban.

AT THE ROYAL

"LET WOMEN ALONE" THROBS WITH THRILLS.

Lively Melodrama Good Attraction.

"Let Women Alone" ought to give satisfaction to patrons who like action and romance. The incidents keep one on the keen edge of expectation.

The big thrill, a chase on the ocean, in which two motor boats figure and a battle of gorgeous proportions when the partners catch the abductors on the high seas. This scene is a peach, fairly vibrating with dynamic action, skilfully filmed and sure to "get across" with any audience.

Pat O'Malley, Wanda Hawley, Wallace Beery are all popular stars and do their usual good work. "Let Women Alone" should please.

The comedy, "The Iron Mule," is the cleverest travesty we have seen, and last night's large audience at the Royal roared with laughter.

Hoot Gibson in the Pendleton Round-Up pictures is being advertised for Thursday.

"COUNTRY STORE NITE" AT ROYAL.

Last night "Country Store Nite" rolled around again at the Royal, and was received with the same enthusiasm and applause given many a vaudeville attraction. Over forty prizes were given away, and some genuine hearty laughs handed over the footlights by Mr. Harris as Si Perkins. This novelty will be continued every Monday evening and amateur night every Thursday.

PENDLETON ROUND-UP CAPTURED BY CAMERA.

Hoot Gibson Unit Makes Big Rodeo Picture There.

The Pendleton Round-Up, biggest and most colorful of the numerous carnivals of cattle country sports held in this country each year, "Let 'Er Buck," is the background for Hoot Gibson's rodeo special coming to the Royal Theatre next Thursday. Many of the daily events, with championship riders endeavoring to conquer horses possessing nation-wide reputations for bucking viciousness, others roping steers and others in thrilling bull-dogging stunts.

Gibson, who won the all around championship in Pendleton in 1912, rode a Roman race and drove a chariot race, both of which events were incorporated in the picture story. Several of the bunch of Universal Ranch Riders assigned to the Gibson unit took part in the programmed events, and are holders of championships won in former years.

In "Let 'Er Buck," Gibson has the part of a young cowboy forced by a scheme of a rival in love to flee the big Texas ranch on which he was employed. As a brake-beam tourist he reaches Pendleton a few days before the Annual Round-Up, and is given a job on a ranch nearby. The owner of the ranch is a woman, and, discovering that there is a plot to prevent her horse winning the two racing events, gets the promise of Hoot to ride and drive for her. Marian Nixon and Josie Sedgwick are in the cast, directed by Ed. Sedgwick.

LEAFS LEAP TO LEAD OF LEAGUE; HOWLEY AND UMPIRE IN BATTLE; SEVEN TORONTO PLAYERS CHASED Double-Header From Reading Carries Toronto to First Place After Hectic Day.

POLICE STOP FIGHT

Rally in Ninth of First Game Decided Pitching Duel for Stewart.

READING, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—The Toronto Leafs twice defeated Reading yesterday, the first score being 2 to 1 and the second 12 to 8. A rally in the ninth inning of the first game decided a pitchers' duel between Stewart and Schroeder. Toronto took the lead in the first inning of the second game, chased Hyman to the showers and kept ahead in spite of the battering given Erickson and Satterfield. Thomas stopped the Keys in the final innings.

An argument over a decision in the ninth inning of the first contest resulted in a fist fight between Manager Dan Howley, of Toronto, and Umpire McBride. Policemen stopped the battle, and escorted Howley to the club-house. Seven Toronto players had been banished by McBride in the second inning of the same game. Scores:

First game:

Toronto	000000002	2	7 1
Reading	010000000	1	9 1

Winning Run Forced in by Johnson's Lapse of Control in 15th.

STILL UNDEFEATED

Sisler's Hitting Wasted in St. Louis' Loss to Collins' Sox.

DETROIT, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—Cleveland won a 15-inning baseball game here yesterday, 5 to 4, largely through a home run by Burns in the third inning, driving in Stephenson ahead of him, and the good pitching of Karr, who relieved Uhle in the seventh. Detroit failed to hit effectively, although Manager Cobb rushed all his reserve forces into the game, making his own first appearance of the season in the seventh inning when he batted for Holloway.

Johnson also pitched great ball, but lost control in the fifteenth when he walked Speaker to start the inning. J. Sewell sacrificed and Myatt struck out. Stephenson was walked purposely to bring un Knode, Johnson failed to get the ball over to either Knode or Fewster, forcing the winning run across the plate. Karr forced Knode. Score:

Cleveland	112000000000001	5	16 1

LOUIS, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—The St. Louis Browns fell back into their losing ways yesterday, dropping the third game of the series with the Chicago White Sox, 11 to 10, in a slugging match. INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

A midiron feels more natural in the grip of the average golfer because its weight is more like the weight of a hammer. Because of this weight the player will have a tendency to start the midiron away from the ball more slowly. That slow start will in turn have a tendency to make the first half of the entire back swing in a slower action. This slower action will, in turn, promote more rhythm in the back swing, and thus we have the reason why many average golfers do better with an iron than with the woods. All of which gets around to the rule that the back swing should be started slowly. It is a mistake to make the whole back swing in slow order. Just start it slowly.

CHURCH LEAGUE FINALS. Y.M.C.A.

Murray street established their right to the Church League Bowling League trophy for a year by eliminating All Saints in the finals. All Saints' allowed Murray street to get ahead of them in the first series of the play off when Murray street obtained a lead of several hundred pins but in the second series played on Tuesday, they held them closely, and Murray street only won out in total pinnage for that evening of 14 pins. The second series of games were very much higher than the first and Murray street were likely to hold their lead on All Saints, who fought hard to overcome Murray street's big lead. This is the second year that All Saints have been in the finals and if their first series of games had been up to their last they would in all probability have captured the cup this year. Murray street however set a pace that was hard for any team to follow and well deserved their win. They bowled some very good games in both series, especially in the second one, when they rolled 1019 for one game, 261, 216 and 195, being some of the singles in this game.

M. McNeeley rolled high for the series, rolling three nice singles of 243, 222 and 198 for a good total of 663. The high single of the series was rolled by Gimblett with a great single of 263. Fitzgerald had good singles of 261, 204 and 196 for a good total of 660. Some other nice singles of the series were Lewis' 252, 203, 183 and 194; Fitzgerald's 230 and 194, Foster's 198; Nicholl's 261 and 207; Loomis' 216, Baptie's 195, Gimblett's 220 and 199.

"CHUCK" MELLOR WINS MARATHON IN FOURTH ATTEMPT AT BOSTON AND FINAL TRIUMPH OVER DEMAR

Chicago Mechanic Achieved His Ambition After Failing in 1917, 1921 and 1924—Bitter Wind With Snow Flurries Numbed Field of 95.

TWO CANADIANS IN FIRST TWELVE

Victor McAulay of Nova Scotia Finished Seventh—Mellor's Time Three Minutes Slower Than Demar's Record for Route.

BOSTON April 21.—Charles L. "Chuck" Mellor, 31-year-old Chicago mechanic, fulfilled a long-cherished ambition yesterday when he won the American marathon, annual feature of the Boston Athletic Association. Running again a bitter northeast wind that blew diagonally across the course, in a temperature that hovered only a few degrees above the freezing point, Mellor covered the long Olympic distance, 26 miles, 85 yards, from Hopkinton to Boston, in 2 hous, 33 minutes and 3-5 seconds. His time was only 3 minutes and 20 2-5 seconds slower than the record set for the distance last year by Clarence H. Demar. The victory carried with it the National amateur athletic union marathon championship.

Demar, 37-year-old Melrose, Mass., typesetter and marathon veteran, who four times has captured the Boston marathon, finished second, just 36 2-5 seconds behind Mellor, who wore the colors of the Illinois A. C. Third was Frank Zuna, Newark plumber and former winner. Fourth was Albert Michelson, East Portchester, N.Y., veteran runner.

Canadians Ran Well.

Canadian runners showed well in the final result, two Nova Scotians Victor McAuley of Shubenacadie, finishing seventh, and Silas McLellan of Noel, Hants County, coming in in eleventh place. There was only a difference of 15 minutes and some seconds between the time of the winner and that of McLellan.

During the early part of the race strong hope was held out to supporters of Victor McAuley, veteran of Bluenose distance races. Keeping slightly behind the leaders for the first 13 miles, the crafty Canadian gradually drew up and passed Christensen of Chicago who failed to finish. At this stage six men were bunched with McAuley first, Demar second, Michelson third, Mellor fourth, Wendling fifth, and Kyronen sixth. Only twenty-two separated the Nova Scotian from Wendling.

McAuley held the lead for a few miles, and then dropped back to fourth position.

The First Flight.

The first dozen to finish, with their times, were:

1. Charles F. Mellor, Illinois A. C., Chicago, 2 hours 33 minutes 3-5 second.
2. Clarence H. Demar, Melrose, 2 hours, 33 minutes, 37 seconds.
3. Frank Zuna, Newark, N.J., 2 hours, 35 seconds.
4. Whitey Michelsen, Cygnet A. C., Portchester, N.Y., 2 hours, 37 minutes, 22 seconds.
5. Carl Koski, Finnish - American A. C., New York, 2 hours, 39 minutes, 26 seconds.
6. Willie Oyronen, Finnish-American A. C., N. Y., 2 hours, 40 minutes, 36 seconds.
7. Victor McAulay, Shubenacadie, Hants County, N.S., 2 hours, 42 minutes, 14 seconds.
8. Nester Erickson, Finnish - American A.C., N.Y., 2 hours, 43 minutes, 8 seconds.
9. Bill Kennedy, Cygnet A.C., Portchester, N.Y., 2 hours, 43 minutes, 46 seconds.
10. Frank E. Wendling, Buffalo, N.Y., 2 hours, 48 minutes, 49 seconds.
11. Silas McClellan, Noel, Hants County, N.S., 2 hours, 49 minutes, 57 seconds.
12. Carl Linder, Boston A.A., 2 hours, 50 minutes, 33 seconds.

Reward of Long Effort

For Mellor the victory came as a reward for long continued effort. The Chicagoan raced in the marathon in 1917—and came in fifth. He tried again in 1921, and finished second, behind Frank Zuna. He raced one more in 1924 and again finished second, following Demar to the tape.

His triumph this year was the climax of an unusual race. Although 121 were entered, cold weather forced many out before the start. The field of 95 who started with the gun from Tebeau's Farm in Hopkinton, faced a bitter, blek wind that whipped snow flurries into the faces of the runners.

In the first four miles, Schou Christensen, Chicago "dark horse," who failed to finish, had passed out to the front, Demar, McAulay and Mellor pressed him closely. Then came Michelsen, Wendling, Thomas P. Hengian (who also failed to finish), and Kyronen.

At nine miles the leaders were ahead of the record by six seconds.

Then came Victor McAulay's exciting bid for a good lead which failed, as the runners started the long climb over the Newton hills, and Mellor went ahead.

Demar Falls Back.

Mellor clung to his lead as the crest was passed with Demar close behind, and following were Michelsen, Zuna, Kyronen and Koski. Just past the twentieth mile Christensen dropped out. Within three miles of the finish Demar attempted to challenge Mellor for the lead but, unable to take it, was content to drop back and finish second rather than risk the chance of not finishing at all.

All of the runners finished in strong condition. But nearly all complained of the numbing cold which, they said, half paralyzed their limbs. Mellor said that the cold did not affect him seriously except to numb his arms and hands.

"I just ran the best race I could," he said afterwards, "and when Demar didn't pass me near the end I was encouraged."

Mellor took no nourishment during the race. He allowed a breakfast of cereal, two eggs, toast and tea, to carry him the twenty-six-odd miles.

Giants and Yanks Led Off In 1923

In 1923 both the Giants and Yankees got away to flying starts. Fact is, the former jumped right into the lead and held top position all the way.

The Yankees did almost as well, being out of first place only once, that being for a few days in the early portion of the campaign. Cleveland was responsible for the temporary ousting.

The Yankees finished 16 full games in front and the Giants 4½ to the good.

SOCCER SCORES

On Saturday, the Quakers, and the Thistles, will play in a league fixture at the Nicholls' Oval. Kick-off

In future the football nets will be used in all games at the Nicholls Oval, so as to help the official referee during the game to keep back the spectators from the goal

Three referees are on the list of P. and D. F. A., J. Rickards, A. McKinley and J. C. Russell.

In the Gordon Cup, all home teams play in first and second round but the semi-final and finals must be played in the city.

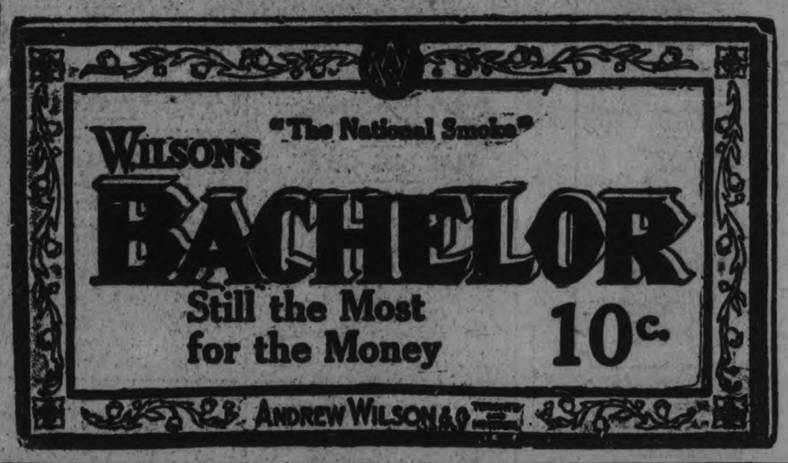
The Thistle players are requested to attend the practice game to-night at King Edward park, at 6 oclock prompt.

Dummer and Warsaw were given permission to amalgamate in the Gordon Cup competition, as they requested, provided that they give a list of their players to the executive.

A special practice game of all Massey players will take place on Thursday evening, at the King Edward Park, at 6 oclock. All prospective players are invited to attend.

J. C. Russell made application to P. and D.F.A., as an official referee, but was accepted after the usual custom of being satisfactory to the board.

All soccer referees must pay, in future, the sum of one dollar, as registered officials.



GAME WON IN NINTH INNINGS

One of the greatest ninth-inning rallies ever staged in the majors took place in the opening game of the 1901 season between Detroit and Milwaukee.

For eight sessions that day the Brewers hit the offerings of the Tyger pitchers to all corners of the lot and apparently had the tilt sewed up with the score standing 13 to 4 when Detroit went to bat in the last half of the ninth.

But a hectic rally, during which Frank Dillon, Tyger first baseman, made two doubles, enabled the Detroiters to count 10 runs and win the old ball game, 14 to 13.

Groves came up last fall from Jack Dunn's' exclusive and high-toned baseball school, of Baltimore, wearing a price tag of $100,600 and is the gaudiest object d' art on display in the spring camps this year.

HAVING TRIED ALL THE QUICK CURES KNOWN TO MEDICAL QUACKERY, THE THIN CONNIE HAS RESOLVED TO GO BACK TO THE OLD FAMILY FORMULA AND TRY TO WIN WITH BALL PLAYERS.

Into this clasification fits "Lefty" Groves, who couldn't possibly be as good as he is pre-agented but who is at least acquainted with the playing rules . . . Which is something that could not be said of a number of Mr. McGillicuddy's experiments in the past

CAUGHT ON THE FLY!

It would seem as if the people who attend the Central League games prefer to go to the show or sit at home with the radio, instead of coming out to City League meetings and trying to develop some new players. It may be that they think that the present team is good for a few years yet and there is no need to worry about it. The Belleville folks thought that when their team was at its peak and now when the fellows are getting old they have no one to take their places.

* * *

There will be a Junior City League at least this year. Lew LeBarr will be back with the Lakeviews, Alex. Kay and his Curlers are moying up from the Juvenile ranks, Bill Bennett is entering a team from the C.G.E., and the Holy Name Society of the Immaculate Conception Church are backing the Junior talent of East City, with Frank McMahon at the helm.

* * *

So far the only people to consider juvenile baseball have been the Knights of Columbus who are getting a team together under the leadership of Bill Prindible. So far no others have come forward for this series.

* * *

Two years ago Peterborough had four teams in each of the four minor series of the O.B.A.A. and the winners of three of them won Ontario championships. This year there are just as many players but there are no managers. The managers of former years are looking for a little relaxation and wish to retire and new ones are not coming forward.

* * *

In Oshawa the case is different to Peterborough. They haven't enough players for the teams and there is a hot argument between the Junior Church League, whose winners have been eliminated by the Lakeviews two years in a row, and the junior entry in the Durham and Ontario League as to who has the first call on the players. The Oshawa Church League is also running Senior Juvenile and Midget series. If we don't watch out Oshawa will take our place as the best baseball town in Eastern Ontario.

"Shiner" Johnston, the new manager of the Peterborough C.O.B.L. team, called a practice for his team this afternoon, and expected at least twenty men on hand. Johnston believes that the Petes will walk away with the title this year.—Kingston Standard.

It is whispered about that the local squad will be out in full force the first of next week for the initial practice and that the fans will be perfectly satisfied with the line up that the Trunks will offer—Belleville Ontario.

In the list of umpires sent out yesterday from headquarters of the C.O.B.L. it is seen that the Toronto umpires got the cream by having the most dates while the local ones around the circuit were handed just about half of the games that are to be played. Paring the expense account has been the chief aim of all the clubs so why bring them all the way from Toronto under big contract. Gloster did not make good when he was in this league before and Benson who worked in this circuit last year made some funny decisions. Probably the best three of those remaining are Colling of Belleville, Dell of Oshawa and Allan of Port Hope.—Belleville Ontario.

SPRING TONIC FOR GOLFERS

As Prescribed by Leo Diegel

Putting is sometimes a lot easier if one keeps one eye on the ball instead of two. This is especially true of putts of about a yard's length.

The reason I says this is because when both eyes are kept on the ball, the hole is in the line of vision. That makes a tendency for players to take their eyes off the ball and watch the hole instead, a division of attention.

But when the left eye is centered on the ball, there is no distraction and it has been known, in my experience, to make an important difference in a player's game.

I do not recommend this in putting alone, either. It seems to me it is more important on the green, but perhaps it isn't. But certainly that is where the distraction is greatest. I regard using one eye to watch the ball as the practical thing to do on all shots unless your eyes have also such a step necessary.

Billy Evans Says

TWO UPSETS

While one ball game doesn't make a season, two theories were rudely jolted in the opening day games.

During my tour of the spring training camps every manager predicted that the pitching would be much improved.

Incidentally, all of them were of the opinion that home run hitting would be greatly curtailed. They scoffed at the idea that Babe Ruth had a chance to make 60 home runs.

Not a single manager offered a better reason than the fact that curve ball pitching was due for a revival.

I am inclined to string along with the managers in the belief that the pitching will be better, but the opening day happenings certainly upset the dope, momentarily at least.

Fifteen home runs were made in the two major leagues—13 in the American, and two in the National. Looks as if the ball is still quite lively.

HOME RUNS

It is a rather singular fact that the two home runs made in the National League were contributed by the Chicago Cubs' battery, Alexander and Hartnett.

Equally unusual was a home run by Pinch Hitter Frank Welch of the Athletics with two men on the bases.

Another event out of the ordinary in the home run line was a circuit drive by First Baseman Poole of the Athletics, making his big league debut.

Poole is subbing at first base for Joe Hauser, who probably will be out of the game for the entire year with a broken kneecap. Hauser is noted for his home run wallops.

Few openings have ever been featured by such an epidemic of home runs. However, I look for the germ to abate and doubt of the four-base totals of this year will approach that of last season.

..Fewer new balls in play, more curve ball pitching, and the use of a change of pace by most pitchers, are certain to retard hitting considerably.

SOUTHPAWS

The other theory, dispelled for a day at least, was the belief that southpaw pitching would stand both major leagues on their heads.

Yde of Pittsburg, leading southpaw of the National League last season, was beaten, as was also Arthur Nehf, one of the best left-handers in the majors.

In the American League, a number of highly touted southpaws got away to a poor start.

"Lefty" Groves, Connie Mack's fancy-priced portsider, lasted only a few innings against Boston, while Sherry Smith and Joe Shaute of Cleveland found the going very tough at St. Louis, as did Wingard of the Browns.

George Morgridge, veteran star of the world champs, was beaten by New York. While Detroit won with Leonard pitching, "Dutch" had to be relieved in the seventh.

All in all, it was anything but an auspicious debut for the southpaw brigade.

On the other hand, those sterling right-handers Vance, Shocker, Barnes and Donahue, all pitched winning ball in the season.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

SPRING GAMES.

It is rather a difficult task to get an accurate line on a club's real worth from spring exhibition games.

The world champions, Washington is a good ball club, but it hasn't been very successful in its exhibition against the Giants.

The Washington club's pitching was far from right during the spring. The veteran twirlers have conditioned slowly. It is just possible that Manager Harris may be up against it during the first month of the race due to pitching.

On the other hand, the Boston Braves, seemingly a makeshift aggregation, looking for all the world like a tailender or close to it, have been playing great ball in the exhibition contests.

Incidentally, Donie Bush's Indianapolis club of the American Association, has repeated its success of last year against the majors training in the south. Indianapolis is certainly entitled to be rated the champions of Florida.

But let's get back to the world champs and the outlook for that club to step out in front and again make the running in the American League.

NAT'S SHOWING.

After the Nats had dropped the first two games to the Giants in their spring series, I had a long chat with Manager Harris relative to his ball cub.

I am sure at that time Harris realized that his pitching staff would be slow getting into shape and the club wouldn't make a very good showing in the spring series.

While admitting he liked to win every ball game he played, whether exhibition or not, Harris said he was not going to hurry any of his veterans, pitchers in particular.

"No matter what the outcome of the spring series with the Giants, we are still the world champions," said Harris, "that event is decided in the fall.

"Fandom isn't going to judge the Washington club on what it does in the spring exhibition games, but upon its showing in the American League.

"You can't win a pennant in the spring. It takes six months to put it over. It is apparent to me that my club is going to start slowly and I am prepared for early reverses in exhibition games most of all."

There is no denying the fact that Stanley Harris is a wise young man. His dope that the fans judge you on the regular season, rather than exhibition games, is a matter of record.

UPSET DOPE.

Well do I remember one year that the Detroit club made a sensational showing in the spring games. The fans looked for a big season, a probable pennant.

The moment the season opened the club slumped, batting in particular. The Tygers appeared to have left all their base hits in the south.

While I cannot recall the exact figures, the Detroit club won only about two out of the first 15 games played. This was most disappointing after the sensational play in the south.

The Detroit fans were loyal, however, stuck with the Tygers until they emerged from the slump and were rewarded with a great come back by that club.

There have been other cases where certain clubs couldn't win in the spring only to go big the moment the regular race began. Maybe Washington will do that very thing.

"Most pitchers pay too much attention to their arm and too little to their general physical condition."

Lefty Liefield in his day one of the games' greatest southpaws, recently made the statement to me at New Orleans when I was making the rounds of the spring training camps.

Liefeld is now acting as assistant to Manager Lee Fohl of the Boston Red Sox.

"The Boston club may not boast the strongest pitching staff in the American League this season," he continued, "but I will wager my season's salary that it is the best conditioned."

For an hour I watched Liefeld hit fly balls to a half dozen pitchers who were scattered over the infield of the New Orleans ball park.

"Lefty" tried to so hit every ball that it was necessary for the player he called to, to cover considerable ground in order to reach the ball.

"Pitchers should seek to attain the same physical condition as any other player," he opined. "If such were the case, being forced to run out an extra base hit wouldn't so fatigue a player that he pulls up all in."

Liefeld's remarks caused me to recollect any number of cases where a pitcher, after cracking out a double or triple on a hot day was later forced to retire from the game because of the exertion entailed.

I am sure Liefeld has the pitching situation properly sized up. The pitcher nurses and coddles his arm in order to properly strengthen it for the long season and passes up entirely the other necessary features of play.

Too many pitchers work on the theory that a pitcher isn't supposed to do any effective work at bat, that his duties are merely confined to pitching. However, a twirler who is dangerous at the plate, adds an offensive punch to his team.

Pitchers perhaps are called upon to do less running than any other player. Often after they reach first or second the instructions are to play it safe.

For that reason they neglect the running end of the game almost entirely. They build up the arm but forget the legs and wind.

Thus, when a pitcher cracks out a long hit that nets a double, triple or home run, the thought immediately arises that the long run will upset the pitcher physically and ruin his effectiveness. At such a time the wise manager starts warming up another pitcher for an emergency.

If the pitcher conditioned the rest of his body as carefully as his arm this condition would never arise. Undoubtedly Leifeld's theory is correct and should be more universally followed in conditioning a pitching staff.

A few weeks later the case of ..... George Uhle came as another recommendation for Leifeld's methods.

In 1923 George Uhle was about the best pitcher in the American League. Last year he was just so-so. In most of his games in 1924 Uhle would go along well for about six innings, then wilt.

In discussing this feature with him at the camp of the Cleveland club, he told me that his arm usually felt O.K. but that he always experienced a general weakening in the later stages of the game.

This spring no player on the Cleveland club looks more physically fit that Uhle and it would not surprise me if he had another year like 1923, when he was a big winner. He's looking after his body as well as his arm.

STAR'S VALUE

Does one outstanding star, who is constantly backing in the limelight, play havoc with the morale of a ball team or a football eleven?

It is a well-known fact that one individual no matter how great, cannot achieve success unless he is

The world's greatest pitcher cannot win consistently unless his team gets him some runs and by its work in the field help defensively to keep the opposition in check.

Walter ohnson's career is a shining example of such a truth. Johnson, at the height of his career, was a member of just a so-so Washington club.

I feel it is conservative to say that had Johnson always been with a first division club, a team having the strength of say the New York Giants or Yanks, his games won column would show at least 50 more victories.

* * *

One star dropped in a mediocre aggregation can flash many brilliant individual performances but he cannot make a winner out of such a combination.

"RED" GRANGE

Take a player like Ruth. He is a super-slugger doing his stuff in an era where batting is paramount.

Ever since he joined the New York Yankees Ruth has been in the headlines. On the Yanks are any number of other stars, yet their importance has been dwarfed by the deeds of Ruth and the prominence given them.

Switching to the gridiron for a moment, the case of "Red" Grange of Illinois is somewhat similar to the Ruth situation in baseball.

A Grange in football is just like a Ruth or Cobb in baseball, decided rarities. Grange, fleet of foot, the possessor of a hair-trigger brain and endowed with many natural football assets, has for two years hogged the limelight at Illinois.

Illinois has had other stars, sterling forwards, brilliant ends and capable players in the backfield, but like Ruth, the deeds of Grange have eliminated all others from serious consideration.

Athetes on the gridiron and diamond are just human. They contribute their bit to the success of their team, know it, hence resent one-man glory. Such a star makes the job of manager and coach all the more difficult.

HURTS MORALE

It is a rather difficult matter to discipline an outstanding star. Failure to do so finally breaks down laws which make for the best interests of any athletic team.

Recently I met a former University of Illinois star, now a leading realtor of the southland. Unsolicited he told me a story that was decidedly interesting. Take it for what it is worth.

After asking me if I had seen the Minnesota-Illinois game and I had replied in the negative, he told me that Illinois' unexpected reverse in that game was the direct result of too much praise being showered on Grange.

In that game Grange lost more ground than he made, if I recall the statistics correctly. The Minnesota line outcharged Illinois throughout the game.

The former Illinois star said the Illinois linemen, by their indifferent play in that game made it apparent that Grange, without assistance from the forwards, couldn't gain at will as he did in other games. They had tired of the one-man theory at Illinois.

Being an outstanding star has its drawbacks. Incidentally, unless said player is a most unusual person, the manager or coach get a kick-back.

EARTH LIKE GOLF BALL.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The earth is much like the old metal core golf ball, says Professor E. D. Williamson of the Carnegie Institution. Around the metal core are wrapped several layers of lighter material, ending with a thin surface crust. He says the metal core of the iron is of pure iron.

A THREE-CORNERED RACE-TRACK SPILL

A stirring picture of a three-cornered spill in the trotting races at Epping in New South Wales. On the left is the first horse to fall. His driver lies full length beside the sulky. The centre and right gigs were so close they could not turn out. The centre one is still in mid-air, the driver's foot being all that can be seen of him beyond his fallen horse. The driver on the right has not yet overturned, but is on his way. Note seat cushion high in the air.

ACES HUTCHISON'S MASCOT.

Jock Has Been Partial to Them Ever Since Winning of British Open.

Stars in sport are superstitious, professional golfers and ball players in particular.

Jock Hutchison, one of the most colorful golfers in the game, relates a series of interesting incidents which he feels played a part in the winning of the British open three years ago, and incidentally proves Jock is no exception to the theory of superstition.

Here is the way "Hutch" tells it:

"When I left Chicago for New York my Pullman berth was No. 1. Arriving in New York and registering at a hotel, my room number was three aces, 111. Getting aboard the steamer for England I was assigned to Cbain A 11.

"The aces that were being slipped me at every stop started to cause me some worry. I made up my mind they were going to be either a jinx or a mascot.

"When I played the eighth hole of the St. Andrew's course I realized that the string of aces was a mascot. I made it in 1.

"At the finish I needed that ace hole to get a tie with Roger Wethered. I won the play-off and title.

"Ever since I have been partial to aces. Always like to have one in the hole."

PARLOR SUITE FOR DEPARTING FRIENDS

People of Bonar Law Make Presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Morrison.

BONARLAW, April 20.—A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. John Morrison on Wednesday night when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered there to bid them farewell before their departure for their new home. About ten o'clock order was called, and Mr. and Mrs. Morrison were presented with a beautiful parlor suite. Mr. Morrison thanked them for their kindness and invited their friends to visit them in the future. After a dainty lunch was served the rest of the evening was spent in dancing. All reported a real good time.

J. McKeown, general merchant at BonarLaw, has sold out his entire stock to D. Bell and Wm. Barlow.

Mrs. John Meikeljohn has returned to her home in Campbellford after spending a few days with her daughter, Mrs. John S. McKeown, who is quite ill.

Thomas McKeown is spending a few days in Toronto.

W. S. Stiles and John S. McKeown attended the Conservative meeting at Harold on Monday night.

M. Fitzgerald loaded a car of pigs and calves on Wednesday. Pigs are quite scarce in this district, brood sows especially being real hard to buy.

A large number attended the dance at the home of Chas. McIrvy on Monday night. Everybody reported a first-class time.

Mr. Fred McKeown and family spent Easter Sunday with Mr. John Morton.

Mr. Manley Shortt spent Sunday with his daughter, Mrs. W. S. Stiles.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wellman made a brief visit to D. Wellman's on Sunday.

Her Headaches Were So Bad She Couldn't Do Anything

Once the head starts to ache and pain you may rest assured that the cause comes from the stomach, liver or bowels, and the cause must be removed before permanent relief may be had.

There is no better remedy for headaches of every description than

as it removes the cause of the headaches in a way that no other remedy will do.

Mrs. Wm. Helpard, Lower Stewiacke, N. S., writes: "I suffered for a long time with my head. It would ache and ache until it made me so sick I could not do anything, but after taking four bottles of B.B.B. I feel that I cannot recommend it too highly to all those suffering from headaches of any kind."

B.B.B. has been on the market for the past 46 years and is recognized by all who have used it to be without an equal as a remedy for headaches; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Money AT WORK

Many a man or woman dreams of making a fortune by a turn of the stock market and yet makes no consistent effort towards education in stock trading.

In one home where there were two high school children, the father was always being asked why he didn't make a lot of money like other men."

One day he said, "I'm going to give each of you people $5000 in paper slips. You may invest it as you like on paper. Ask my advice if you care to and I'll tell you the very best I know. Keep your books; buy and sell as you think best. Charge yourself the brokerage fees you would have to pay in real business and see how you come out, at the end of six months."

The market was studied; the family subscribed to the best financial journal; the financial page was more popular than the funnies and stocks became daily conversation. The father gave very careful advice when asked for it—and made exactly the sort of study he would have made had the transactions been made with dearly saved cash. Books were kept of all transactions."

At the end of six months it was found that the 10,000 had shrunk to $9,200. If the money had been conservatively invested at six per cent.,

There are eight precautions every man should take in regard to his insurance. These precautions will save him time, money and worry.

Insurance, like any other financial project, is a highly specialized and highly legalized game. Here are some of the precautions which the average man should take in regard to his insurance.

1. Deal with a broker whose standing is unimpeachable.
2. Don't prejudice the rights of the insurance company in any way.
3. When you have any trouble give immediate written notice to the company.
4. Don't change companies unless you have a very good reason for so doing.
5. Do not insure for less than value not for greater than value.
6. Take care of all your policies.
7. As soon as you get your policy, read it. If there is anything you do not understand, get it explained.
8. See that your application for insurance is absolutely correct.

An incorrect application may invalidate the policy.

"Let's go to California"

EVERY day some tired, prosperous or otherwise travel-inclined man says to his wife, "Let's go to California!" And such is the power of advertising that, although neither of them may ever have been there before, they know just how to go, approximately what it will cost, and where they will want to stay.

The same with anything you may need or want. You already know all about it, by whom it is made, what it costs, and where it is for sale. Advertising is the modern intelligencer. It keeps you informed, advises you of new things, suggests new uses for articles you already own, and prepares you to-day for wise and useful purchases to-morrow.

It does all this for you, almost unconsciously, during the half-hour or so you spend each day with your newspaper. Little by little—the best and surest way to learn—advertising makes you informed of what is going on in the world that is useful to you.

Read the advertisements. Get ready for to-morrow.

PARKING BY-LAW WRONGLY DRAWN CITIZENS THINK

Peterborough Should Encourage Visitors Instead of Discouraging Them.

HARSH RULE.

Awkward Situations Might Prevail Under Present System, Alderman Thinks.

It is the opinion of several citizens directly affected by the parking by-law passed by the City Council last year and latelyy enforced by the police, that there is something fundamentally wrong with it. This by-law says in effect to motorists "You must park here," naming streets and locations. This is an awkward situation for visitors and even for residents, since they may not be acquainted with the localities, or with which one is nearest the point they wish to visit. No permission is given, even, for a man to leave his car outside his own home, and if the by-law were strictly enforced the man without a garage would be compelled to leave his car on one of the designated downtown streets and walk home. In case of a party at a house, the visitors would have to walk from the parking place in the centre of the city.

Approached by The Examiner this morning, Alderman J. O. Fife expressed disapproval of the present state of affairs, recalling that he objected in Council at the time the by-law was put through. In his opinion the simpler and more efficient way would be to say "You must not park here," designating the few streets where parking really hurts. This would leave the citizen or visitor to use his discretion regarding all the rest of the city. "After all," Alderman Fife said, "there is only a stretch of George street a little of Water street, and a block of Charlotte street where parking really hurts. All of the rest of the city, except, of course, in front of fire hydrants, beside street railway switches, and other similar places, could be left open. Then if the owners of the property there wish to stop parking they may say to the autoist 'This is not a parking place' and there would be no trouble to anyone, or worry and inconvenience to the motorist. What we want to do is to encourage people to come here—not seek ways of making a visit to Peterborough uncomfortable."

COMPETITIVE LINE WOULD NOT ASSIST

Ocean Rates Cannot Reasonably be Reduced by This Means, Reported.

OTTAWA, April 21. — That the placing of a competitive line of ships in the North Atlantic would be the "worst form of any attempt to control rates," was the declaration of H. M. Cleminson, general manager of the British Chamber Shipping before the special parliamentary committee on ocean rates this morning.

He expressed the opinion that the international control of ocean rates was impossible.

Under cross-examination by H. J. Symington, counsel for the Canadian government, Mr. Clemenson admitted that the introduction of a competitive line would affect the rates. If the competing line were strong enough it might even bankrupt the lines now in operation.

He admitted that the effect of the North Atlantic Conference System had been to keep the rates up, but took the ground that the system had also resulted in an improvement in service.

STANDS UP FOR C.N.R. SYSTEM

Sir Henry Thornton Refutes Allegation Made in C.P.R. Circular.

NOT LAVISH.

MONTREAL, April 21.—(Canadian Press).—Asked for a statement in regard to the Canadian Pacific Railway circular published to-day which referred to the "lavish expenditure of public money by a competitor," Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railway said: "I have nothing to say excepting to point out that for the year 1924, the C.P.R. expended on traffic account $8,341,350, or 4.61 per cent. of its gross earnings and the C.N.R. system spent $6,892,761, or 2.93 per cent. Expenses chargeable to traffic represent largely the money spent in securing business."

The aims of the new body will extend over a varied field. The name of the Ontario Government has been associated with the movement. Hon. George S. SPRING CLEAN THE HOME LAWN

Scrubbing and Dusting Now in Progress All Over the City.

HELP OUTSIDE.

Many of the local authorities on weather predict that winter has loosed its last bolt and that from this time forward the brigher tints shall reign over those of a more sombre nature.

The thoughts of many have turned to spring cleaning and this desire for healthier surroundings is commendable.

The effects of such a clean-up should not end with the home, however, but should extend to the surroundings. Now is the season of the rake and hoe and great are the wonders which can be performed by these humble instruments if they are employed with industry.

It has been noted that in many localities there are still to be found remnants of garbage, old auto tires, milk bottles and other miscellany which should be cleared away. These objects fill a space far greater than their actual size whereas substitutions of flower beds and ornamental shrubs might be made which would greatly enhance the value of the real estate.

14,400 BOTTLES OF BEER SEIZED

BELLEVILLE, April 21 (Canadian Press).—Twelve hundred dozen (14,440) bottles of Frontenac beer were seized early today at Trenton by Provincial Inspector Guernett and License Inspector Nappan. The shipment was from Frontenac Breweries consigned to Trenton. It was sent forward to Toronto today to await disposition.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Mrs. W. J. Davis, who passed away in Nicholls Hospital April 21, 1922:

There is someone who misses you sadly
And finds the years long since you went.
There is some one who thinks of you daily,
But tries to be brave and content.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days,
Sincere and true in heart and mind,
A beautiful memory left behind.

So we shed a tear that is silent,
And breathe a sigh of regret,
For you were ours we remember,
Though all the world forgets.
Oft we think of you dear Annie,
And our hearts are filled with pain,
Oh this world would be a heaven
Could we see your face again.

—Sadly missed by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Zinston and family.

STEAMSHIP COMPANIES REVEAL HEAVY LOSSES IN OPERATION OF FREIGHT VESSELS ON ATLANTIC

Accountants' Figures Show Loss of $142 a Day by 31 Cargo Steamers.

TRUE STATEMENT.

Witness For Steamship Companies Before Special Committee of Parliament.

OTTAWA, April 22. — (Canadian Press).—Steamship lines are operating cargo steamers on the North Atlantic at a great loss, according to a statement presented to the special Parliamentary committee on ocean rates Tuesday afternoon. David Young, a member of the firm of Price, Waterhouse and Company, chartered accountants, presented a summary of combined earnings and operating expenses of cargo steamers in the North Atlantic Canadian trade which showed that 31 cargo steamers making 150 voyages covering 9,242 days, turned in a loss of $142 a day. In the following year, 51 vessels making 201 voyages covering 10,496 days made a loss of $79 a day. In both years depreciation charges were included in the losses. Mr. Young vouched for the accuracy of the figures presented.

Mr. Young's statement gave freight earnings of the 51 steamers on 201 voyages in 1924 as $3,698,544. Total operating expenses amounted to $3,363,493. Consequently there was an operating surplus of $335,051. Depreciation of the vessels, however, amounted to $1,165,530, resulting in a deficit of $830,479 or $4.131 a voyage. In 1923, the operating deficit for 31 boats was $449,123, but depreciation increased this to $1,316,008. Mr. Young explained that his statement did not cover figures of the Cunard, White Star-Dominion or Head lines.

The witness was called by George H. Montgomery, one of the counsel for the steamship companies. Previous to this, H. M. Cleminson, general manager of the Chamber of Shipping of the United Kingdom, completed his testimony. Mr. Young was being cross-examined by H. J. Symington, K.C., counsel for the committee, when adjournment was made.

Sir Henry Drayton asked Mr. Young to explain why repairs for 51 steamers in 1924 amounted to only $381,940 while repairs to 31 steamers in 1923 cost $409,836. Mr. Young was at a loss to explain this. He could only suggest that the expenditures on repairs in 1923 had been heavier than in 1924.

Maintains Rates.

Under cross-examination by H. J. Symington, K.C., counsel for the ocean rates committee, H. M. Cleminson, manager of the Chamber of Shipping of Great Britain, admitted that there existed a conference of which all companies on the Atlantic were members, that the main object

EMIGRATION TO U.S. RAPIDLY DECLINES

While Many American Settlers Entering Canada This Spring.

OTTAWA, April 22—Confirmation of the fact that emigration from Canada to the United States is rapidly falling off is found in a return just issued by the United States Bureau of Immigration at Washington. This return shows that according to United States figures emigration from Canada to the United States for the month of February last fell off nearly two-thirds as compared with February a year ago.

Emigration from Canada and Newfoundland to the United States in February, 1924, was quoted as 14,002, but in February, 1925, only 5,730. Newfoundland is included with Canada in these United States statistics. On the other hand, return movement from the United States is growing in importance and numbers, many excellent American settlers entering Canada this spring well supplied with cash and effects.

CEREAL EXPORTS LESS.

Decline of 30 P.C. in March Shipments.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 22—Canada's wheat exports in March, 1925, were about thirty per cent of the exports in March, 1924. Last month 4,422,515 bushels of wheat went out of Canada. In March, 1924, 13,446,100 bushels were exported.

Exports of flour were only slightly lower, or 1,397,810 barrels compared with $1,385,240 barrels in March, 1924. Exports of barley were higher and of oats and rye somewhat lower. In the eight months ended March 31 last wheat exports totalled 104,241,020 bushels compared with 204,901,636 bushels in the previous corresponding eight months.

ORDER FOR WAR A GERMAN FAKE

Declares Secretary of Communist Internationale—Moscow Not to Blame.

BULGAR OUTRAGES.

MOSCOW, April 22. — (United Press).—"The Communist Internationale nowhere condones individual terrorism," the Pravda said to-day, indignantly denying that Moscow was involved in Bulgarian outrages or uprisings.

Press comment on developments in Bulgaria was delayed owing to the holidays. The Pravda places the responsibility for the trouble in Bulgaria upon the Zankoff Government's policy of military repression.

"Independent plotters arose, sword in hand, to behead prominent Zankovites," the newspaper said.

A document ordering an uprising in Bulgaria on April 15th, which had been attributed to the Communist Internationale and previously repudiatd here, was "faked" in Germany, Kolarov, a secretary of the Communist Internationale and himself a Bulgarian, declared to-day.

CENSORSHIP IS STOPPING NEWS

No Estimate Can Be Made of Present Bulgarian Situation.

MANY RUMORS.

LONDON, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—Information reaching London regarding troubles in Bulgaria is of such a character as to preclude a satisfactory estimate of the situation. The censorship established under the state of martial law apparently is preventing independent observers there from recording developments and at the same time there is no means of checking up the rumors emanating from such doubtful centres as Vienna and Belgrade, which are sending out reports of massacres, wholesale executions and fighting with enormous numbers of casualties.

CLOSE MINES IF DON'T PROVIDE DECENT LIVING

The Anglican Archbishop of Nova Scotia Says Miners Should be Fairly Treated.

SEES BOTH SIDES.

Also Says Prohibition Fanatics Have Set Back Cause of Temperance.

HALIFAX, N.S., April 22.—(Canadian Press).—"In the present case either the mines are not worth working or the miners should be able to have decent homes and adequate provision for food and clothing and recreation; if the mines won't stand the cost of working let them be closed, but if, as we believe, they are one of the most valuable assets of the country, let them be worked by fairly treated men even if the dividends are less."

In the above words, the Most Rev. Clark L. Worrell, D.D., Archbishop of Nova Scotia, summed up the conditions among Nova Scotia coal miners, in the course of his charge to the Synod of the Anglican Diocese of Nova Scotia Tuesday.

Hesitant lest his feelings led him to say too much and fearing his caution would lead him into platitudes, the Archbishop said he could not avoid mentioning the "spring freshet of disaster which has at last resulted from the badly dammed waters of discontent and injustice on which thousands of workmen and their families have so long been struggling to keep afloat.

Some One Wrong.

"Someone must be wrong and corporations and unions should be taught that the well-being of the country is paramount to the wish for dividends for the one or of unearned pay for the other. The workman is worthy of his hire and that should be a living wage, but the man who lives by keeping alive an unholy friction between employer and employee earns nothing of what he is drawing from those who are under the spell of a pythonic grip which leaves behind it a trail of fruitless strikes, idle workmen and impoverished houses.

"And I want it to be distinctly understood that in saying this I am not in any way aiming at legitimate trade unions nor am I condemning the United Mine Workers of America —whose president I heard with pleasure when he told of the purposes and ideals of that organization. I am thinking of those who seek for affiliation with foreign Communistic societies whose avowed object is to destroy British institutions and advance the selfish interests of Soviet propagandists.

Shows Heart of People.

"But this is a larger question than I intended to touch. I only wanted to say that it has been a splendid opportunity to show the real heart of our people. As it was in the Halifax explosion, so has it been during this Cape Breton horror — there will never lack the sympathy and generosity of those whose hearts are touched by a tale of suffering."

The Archbishop pays high tribute to the volunteer relief workers and all who have helped maintain the destitute families of the colliery districts, and to the men who are idle, "who have been in every way striving to observe law and order in spite of the privations they have had to endure."

Hits at Prohibition.

Touching upon prohibition, His Grace said he was glad to know that the Church of England Social Service Commission had not allowed itself to be "swamped by the fanatical fancies of those who have put back the cause of true temperance for many years by their unwise, although sincere, attempts to force the world to adopt their views. In some places social service has become synonomous with prohibition, and all else of the many branches of social service has been absorbed, submerged and almost lost in that. If the same results which have followed that are to be the result of all moral and social reform one might well hesitate to touch it."

The charge scores the rich who spend for pleasure without stint but give only a small moiety of what they are asked for Christian work and urged greater courage and sincerity upon the part of ministers and lay workers. The latter class are advised not to accept office in the church work unless they are prepared to put their hearts into the duties that are assigned them.

ACCUSED EGYPTIANS DECLARE MURDER OF SIRDAR WAS HOPE OF MANY FOR INDEPENDENCE

General Sir Lee Stack Was to Have Been Only the First.

SERIES PLANNED.

Secret Society Existed For Carrying Out Political Crimes.

CAIRO, April 22. — (Canadian Press). — Judicial authorities have published a summary of the confessions of some of the men accused in connection with the assassination last November of the Sirdar of Egypt, General Sir Lee Stack. Abdel Fattah Anayat, one of the accused, is quoted as declaring that the conspirators met at the house of Dr. Shafik Mansur and decided to commit a series of political murders with the Sirdar as the first victim. It was believed, he said, that Egypt could gain independence only by political murders.

Mahmud Rashid, a railway worker, is alleged to have confessed that he was a member of the "Society of Vengeance," and that Abdel spoke to him about the murder plans; that he lent his automobile, that he and Abdel drove to the scene of the outrage, waited until the assassination was accomplished, and then escaped with Ibrahim Musa, another of the accused.

Dr. Shafik in his reputed confession said there was always present in Egypt a force believing that British rule could only be ended by violence and individual reprisals. He, however, did not condone the outrage, and he took no part in it.

Mohammed Fahmy, another of the accused, admitted committing outrages against several Europeans, but disclaimed participation in the Sirdar affair. He also admitted the existence of a secret society for carrying out crimes.

PARKING BY-LAW AS IT IS SEEN BY MOTORISTS

Interviews at Random on Peterborough's Streets—Points Raised.

SIGNS NEEDED.

Warning Should Be Conspicuously Given of Prohibitions Made.

The parking situation continues to present difficulties to great numbers of motorists and it has been discovered that many are at present ignorant of the regulations regarding the proper streets for parking. Motorists are not wholly to blame for this state of affairs, for so far as has been discovered to date, the only official notice designating the correct parking locations was that which appeared in The Examiner of Saturday.

Accordingly, many have never seen that lone notice and believe that they are justified in protesting if their choice of a parking place is questioned.

In consultation with garage men, drivers of privately owned vehicles and hotel keepers, some suggestions were made which might appeal to good sense.

Publish Lists.

"Lists of streets available for parking conveniences should be made and placed in prominent places," says one out-of-town motorist. "'No Parking' signs should be obtained and placed in the forbidden areas," says another.

"Streets which are intended for diagonal parking should be designated as such by markings on the asphalt."

"The hotels should be supplied with complete information regarding this matter, and charts provided for the guidance of tourists and other strangers unaccquainted with local conditions," says a traveller, who was reproved by a constable after coming away from dinner at a hotel.

It can readily be understood that tourists bent on vacation purposes do not relish the idea of being driven from one spot to another by members of the police force, and they say they consider their time of too much value to spend it in a laborious search for regulations regarding local traffic bylaws.

Count Lauds Free Speech Allowed In Old England

LONDON, April 22 (United Press) — Interviewed by the United Press in a Hampstead boarding house today, Count Karolye lauded the free speech permitted "in Conservative England" after the gagging in the United States.

The former Hungarian Premier reiterated his belief that restoration of the Hapsburg dynasty would "make Hungary a convenient stepping stone for another war."

"This," said Count Karolyi, "Is what the United States forbade my saying."

200 HOMES BURNED.

Mexican Mining Town Suffers $500,000 Loss.

NOGALES,(Ariz., April 22.—Special despatches to The Herald say hundreds were made homeless and property damage of approximately $500,000 was caused Tuesday by a fire which devastated a large portion of Cananes, Sonora, Mexico.

Flames were still raging last night in the town a rich copper mining centre of 20,000 population. Fifteen business buildings and nearly two hundred homes have been consumed by the fire which started shortly after midnight Monday night and raged unabated throughout Tuesday.

RUPRECHT WILL AID HINDENBURG

Announced His Support of Marshal's Campaign For Presidency.

AGREEMENT MOOTED.

BERLIN, April 22 (Canadian Press).—Probably the most striking development in Germany in the last few years is the official proclamation yesterday of former Crown Prince Ruprecht of Bavaria, announcing his support of Hindenburg.

Ruprecht is a Catholic, and as head of the Wittelsbach dynasty, he is the rival of the Hohenzollerns, but nevertheless he has officially announced his disapproval of Marx, the Catholic leader, and has conferred his royal patronage upon Hindenburg, the faithful servant of the Hohenzollerns. His action confirms authentic reports that informal agreements have been reached between Ruprecht and the Hohenzollern crown whereby the return of the Hohenzollerns to power would insure Ruprecht's mounting the subsidiary throne of Bavaria.

DRY NAVY HITS TITLED RUNNER

Sir Broderick Hartwell Lost 30,000 Cases in "One Full Swoop."

INVESTORS WORRY.

LONDON, April 22.—England's rum-running baronet has fallen upon lean days, and the hundreds of persons who answered his advertisements and bought stock in the liquor-running business are likely to get no returns, says the Daily Mail.

America's dry fleet is the cause. The Mail said Sir Broderick Hartwell, who recently went to the United States to manage the disposal of his seventh and largest shipment of liquor, cabled back that the venture was a failure. The message read:

"Visit discloses appalling situation. Over 30,000 'yards' seized in small vessels. Balance of goods transferred three schooners at present safe but cannot reach or communicate.

Cash Paid Out Again.

"Few thousand unloaded, but resulting funds have been paid out for chartering vessels. No funds available unless three schooners land their goods, which is at present impossible owing to intensive campaign.

"I am returning as soon as possible. Communictae to the investors with my deepest regrets."

According to the Daily Mail, 800 persons invested in this rum-running venture.

Miss Hartwell, the Baronet's daughter, who is in charge of his London office, had an anxious and nervous time yesterday as a result of the Daily Mail story.

Want Money Back.

She received many callers, among them investors who wanted to know what chance they had to recover their money.

Hartwell returned to London on Monday afternoon. He said:

"The cable which I sent after investigating the situation in America gave an accurate description of the situation. I am communicating through direct letter to all my contributors.

"It is very regrettable that the whiskey has been seized, but that is a fact and there is nothing more I can say at present.

The word "yards" in the cable message was said to refer to cases of whiskey.

BUYERS BALKED WHEN STOCK OF BANK DECLINED

Deception Alleged By Dauphin Farmers Who Bought Home Bank Shares.

PURCHASED AT $133.

Soon After Offered to Them at $90—Cashed Dividend Checks.

DAUPHIN, Man., April 22. — Twelve Home Bank Shareholders, chiefly farmers from Northern Manitoba, told the Ontario Commisison on Tuesday their defence against a double liability. Many others from rural districts were present. Some were depositors but most of them were owners of from two to ten shares of stock. All were intensely interested and invariably their stories were similar.

They charged that W. J. Powell, acting as the agent of the Grain Growers sold them the stock at $133, telling them that they would not be required to pay more than the first ten per cent., and in return a branch of the bank would be established at Grandview, a kind of farmers' bank, where they could get accommodations not extended by the other banks as a rule. This was the chief inducement held out for them to invest these shareholders in; as a further defence they charge the price was misrepresented. They swore that Powell told them the price at which he was offering the stock was the lowest it could be purchased for, yet three months later they received circulars from a firm of Toronto brokers offering Home Bank stock at 90.

All of the witnesses admitted having cashed dividend cheques over a period of three years, but desired to repudiate their obligation on the basis of misrepresentation.

Bought Five Shares.

James Carmach of Grandview said he had been told at the time of purchasing five shares from the Grain Growers agent Powell that the price was $133 and that they could not be bought elsewhere for a cent less. A few months later a Toronto broker's list sent to him, showed shares for sale at 90. He told the agent of the bank that he would never pay any more. He had gotten some dividend checks, but no more were received after he had notified the manager of the Grandview branch of his decision to have nothing more to do with the stock payments.

J. G. Vance swore that Powell told him the market price was 133, and that the bank only wanted ten per cent. paid, and that he would not have to pay anything further. This ten per cent. he paid on five shares, and cashed ten dividend checks he bought in 1909, but in 1912 the bank manager at Grandview asked him for further payments. This he had refused and told the manager he had interested himself in the stock in order to get the branch at Grandview. He had been charged too much for the shares, and he was not going to pay any more. He was through. He had never received any communication from the bank about shareholders meetings and could recall no letter until that of the liquidator.

Similar Defence.

Henry Weidenhammer, of Grandview, had a similar defence, except that he had never cashed any dividend cheques. He had kept them, however, and produced them for the commission's inspection. He had refused to cash them because, when he discovered three months after paying 133 for the shares, that he had been overcharged he did not want to have anything more to do with the concern, and told the manager so. Powell, the U.G.G. agent, had sold him his shares, and had assured him ten per cent. was all that he would be called upon to pay.

NO CHOICE YET.

Campbellford Commissioners Unable to Decide on Style of Pump.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22 — The Water and Light Commission held another special meeting, but adjourned without reaching an agreement as to the make of pump that it is proposed to purchase for the pumping station. On motion of Mayor Meyers and Commissioner Caddy, it was decided to invite the Turbine Equipment Company of Toronto, agents for the De Laval pump, to send a representative to Campbellford to look over the situation. Pending a reply, no further action will be taken.

Hastings Holsteins Are Sold For Western Farms

BELLEVILLE, April 22.—Hundreds of herds of yearling Holstein heifers are being bought in Hastings County for shipment to Alberta where ranchers are going into dairying in earnest. One Alberta company, it is said, has five hundred of these yearlings on a farm near Stirling ready for shipment and it is stated that five hundred more will be shipped out of the Madoc section.

The buyers are in various parts of the country where the black and white predominate. They are going in for milk producing according to a Belleville man interested in the beef and dairy business. Some bulls are also being bought.

HIGHER BUTTER DUTY IS URGED

U. S. Producers Ask Tariff Advance of 8 to 12c. a Pound.

AID TO FARMERS.

WASHINGTON, April 22 (By Associated Press)—Representatives of United States Butter producers appeared Tuesday before the tariff commission to urge an increase in the tariff on butter imports, which they termed the soundest plan yet devised for government aid to one branch of the farming industry.

Asserting that foreign butter producers are able to sell their product in this country at a price lower than the domestic producer can afford, they argued for an advance in the duty from 8 to 12 cents a pound under the flexible provisions of the tariff act to assure the United States farmer that he would get a fair profit on one of his increasingly important products. The effect of an increased tariff on butter they contended, would tend toward general farm prosperity.

While the butter producers admitted that their chief competition at present comes from Denmark, they declared heir greatest concern was the growing competion of butter producers of New Zealand, Australia, Argentina and other countries in the Southern Hemisphere, which are in the midst of their best butter producing season at the time of the worst season for the American farmer, enabling them to sell their butter here at their lowest price when the American producer is paying the maximum in the manufacture of his.

LINERS UNABLE TO CLUTCH MEN FROM SEA'S MAW

Japanese Freighter Sank With Crew of 38 Before Eyes of Hundreds.

ATLANTIC TRAGEDY.

Tuscania and Homeric Stood By Helplessly as Boat Sank in Lashing Sea.

NEW YORK, April 22. — Thirty-eight Japanese seamen, the entire crew of the Japanese steel freighter, Raifuku Maru, were drowned in the raging North Atlantic seas on Tuesday when their ship sank under the eyes of two ship loads of humanity, unable to help them.

Two ocean liners, the Cunarder Tuscania, and the Homeric of the White Star, futilely stood by as the seas gulped down ship and boat, their decks filled with agonized Atlantic voyagers. A wail went up from the helpless spectators as the stricken ship upended her stern and plunged beneath the waves.

The Homeric was first at the scene arriving at 12 o'clock Atlantic standard time, but was prevented from reaching the disabled craft because of the force of wind and waves and the necessity of protecting the hundreds of souls making up the liner's passenger list. The Homeric's tragic report was then sent out that the Raifuku was sinking before their eyes but they were unable to save any lives. A little later the Tuscania came up but was unable to do more than stand by and watch the freighter in its death struggle, and at 1.15 Atlantic time, advised the world by wireless that the Raifuku Maru had gone down with all on board.

Listed during the Night.

The Raifuku sailed from Philadelphia, April 3, and called at Boston, leaving that port on April 18, with a cargo of grain for Hamburg. It was the shifting of this cargo that caused the tragedy, according to the sketchy reports that came out of the air yesterday. It was evident, judging from this report, that the steamer listed during the dark hours of the morning, the first message having been picked up here at 6 o'clock Atlantic time and timed Greenwich.

The story of the struggle that followed will probably never be told, unless some members of the ill fated crew remained alive long enough to be picked up after the steamer sank.

The most dramatic message came at ten o'clock when the wireless flashed: "Now very danger. Come quick." This was answered by the reassuring message of the Homeric seventy miles away, and travelling 20 knots an hour, asking the Japanese operator to maintain his wireless if possible to give his bearings.

ST. CATHARINES HAS NO COUNCIL

Mayor and Aldermen Resign as Result of Irregularities.

ELECTION MAY 4.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., April 22.—(Canadian Press.)—After to-day St. Catharines will be without a city council. Mayor Smith and Aldermen have resigned in a body as a result of the recommendations of Commissioner Judge Campbell, following the exposures made in the recent municipal investigation.

Thus far there has been no talk of criminal prosecution against any of the deputies where irregularities were reported and proved. In the report of the commissioner no collision between the aldermen and the deputies was shown in the malpractices and indications are that all the present council will again be candidates. The new election has been ordered for May 4th.

PRINCE SAILS FROM NIGERIA

Boarded Repulse This Morning With Impressive Military Display.

GOES SOUTH.

LAGOS, Nigeria, April 22.—(Canadian Press).—Concluding his visit to Nigeria, the Prince of Wales left Lagos aboard the battle cruiser Repulse this morning in continuation of his southern voyage.

The Prince found the trip through Nigeria interesting and enjoyable, despite the great heat encountered. There was an impressive military display as he boarded the Repulse.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

SHOULD RECONSIDER.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: After some thirty-nine years of association with the electrical development of Peterboro, the resignation of Mr. H. O. Fisk from the management of the Utilities Commission seems like an unnecessary loss. The city wil be deprived of the services of a man of wide experience and foresight as well as one who has always exemplified the highest standards in the world of public ownership and as a Christian gentleman.

Mr. Fisk, while manager of the Commission made far-reaching plans for a better Peterboro—plans which saved thousands of dollars, and which will continue to inure to the benefit of the public for years to come. The spirit with which he imbued his staff makes our electrical system the boast of the city. His initiative and keen business ability have been most favorably commented upon from time to time by Hydro experts, and are well known to his associates.

A few of the developments within more recent memory for which Mr. Fisk deserves full credit, are, elimination of the countrified poles from our main streets, placing unsightly transformers out of the line of vision, developing a scheme for quick replacement of burned out units in case of emergency, and new lighting of North George and Water streets, which gives us real big city lighting, and doing this at far less than had been thought possible by others.

While several Hydro cities have shown a deficit recently, Peterboro has actually shown a credit, and the financial affairs of the Commission appear to be in such good shape that penalization on account of low power factor has been spared the manufacturers for the most part. Mr. Fisk's consistent stand against this form of extortion is well known.

Many doubt the wisdom of accepting Mr. Fisk's resignation so abruptly. In view of the acceptal integrity of character of Mr. Fisk and his undoubted and outstanding ability, numbers of ratepayers would like to see his resignation reconsidered, or the reason for it given. Yours truly,
JOHN H. VERNOR.

MENDING THEIR FENCES.

The nature of the speeches being delivered in the Budget debate in Ottawa suggests that all parties are worrying less about contributing useful ideas for the country's benefit as they are over mending their fences for an election campaign.

The majority of the members, in fact, are doing little else than delivering campaign speeches, for which the people are paying at the rate of nearly $17,000 a day.

These addresses are being listened to by a mere handful of members.

On one occasion the debate nearly collapsed for lack of a quorum, and at another stage there were only 35 members in the House, with 200 absentees.

The situation is developing into a farce.

If an election is imminent, let the members deliver their campaign talks from the hustings; on the other hand, if an appeal to the people is not to be an event of the near future, then in the name of common sense can't this cyclone of talk be stopped long enough to let the business of the country be transacted?

BEER PERMITS.

Mr. W. H. Bradburn, member for West Peterboro in the Legislature, has expressed the hope that the report that the Government members or the defeated Government candidates in other ridings are to decide the disposition of 4.4 beer permits in their respective constituencies is erroneous, and the majority of people will share that hope with him.

Not only would such a method be placing an unfair responsibility upon the members, but it smacks so much of patronage that an attempt to allocate the permits by this means will be resented throughout the province.

It would be better not only for the members but in the general interest as well if the Government called itself of the services of its Ontario Temperance Act inspectors in deciding to whom beer licenses are to be given.

Many of these officials were inspectors in pre-O. T. A. days, and they know the conditions better than the average member of the Legislature, while they would not be bothered by the same influences that would make life miserable for the member.

If there is any patronage to be followed in the case of 4.4 permits the Ontario Government will have a very strong current of public against such a method.

The sale of beer has aroused enough antagonism in itself without having a patronage tag mailed to it by the Government.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS.

Premier Mackenzie King in a radio message broadcasted from Ottawa in connection with "Save-the-Forest Week" urged that the battle to protect Canada's forests should be waged by all Canadians with the same energy and sincerity as Canadians showed in the Great War.

That is the crux of the campaign.

If it can be once established that this business of saving the forests is the business of everybody and not just of those directly connected with the lumbering industry, then something may be accomplished.

The Premier emphasizes that phase of the question in his message to the people of Canada, and rightly so, for until there is a nation-wide awakening to the seriousness of the situation the present campaign will not prove any more successful than its predecessors.

Can any Canadian afford to be indifferent to the fact that forest fires burn up $15,000,000 of our wealth every year?

Should any Canadian worthy of the name refuse to think about this problem, and to ask himself whether there is or not something that he can do to assist in protecting our timber resources from this huge annual waste.

Human carelessness is responsible for most of the fires—that means that the majority can be prevented if the people generally realize their duty in this regard.

TEN YEARS AGO.

Ten years ago this evening the Canadian Expeditionary Force found itself filling a gap in the British line at Ypres, a breach left by the retirement of French coloured troops in the face of the first gas attack launched by the German hordes.

To those Peterboro men who survived that terrible battle the memory of the events of ten years ago tonight must still be painfully vivid.

Many of the soldiers from this city—members of the 2nd Battalion—were out of the line when the news filtered back that there had been a serious break through, which the German hordes threatened to pour to overrun the channel ports.

The march up in the darkness, the uncertainty of the situation, the mysterious menace of the unknown weapon used by the enemy, the gallant charge by A Company of the 2nd in the early dawn of the morning of the 23rd, the death of Major Geo. W. Bennett at the head of his men, the heavy casualties among the Peterboro quota, the terrific fighting that followed—all come back with photographic clearness on April 22, 1925.

And the people at home who first heard that the gallantry and determination of the Canadians had saved the situation, as the official communique factually put it, then learned that the price of fame had been heavy, and finally, as the yellow messages of death were distributed throughout the city, realized indeed that "the path of glory leads but to the grave," but also feel the significance of the anniversary.

It was then that the war first came to Peterboro.

WHEN WILL THEY ACT?

President Beatty and Sir Henry Thornton will, of course, realize that they have thoroughly aroused the liveliest expectations on the part of the cruelly-burdened taxpayers of Canada.

They have both of them publicly promised action which will reduce the railway burdens on our people by millions of dollars.

It is exactly as if Parliament were unanimously to promise a reduction in the income tax. Indeed, it is better than that; for a reduction in the income tax would only interest income tax payers, while a reduction in railways costs interests every citizen in Canada.

And every citizen of Canada will have but one thing to say to these two prominent men in their positions of unparalleled power; and that one thing will be—

"Do it now."

* * * *

As the Star said on Saturday—"The public will judge their work by results."

We do not care two straws how many times they take luncheon together, or how often their experts confer, or how many schedules are drawn up.

What we want to know is—WHAT DUPLICATE TRAINS ARE TAKEN OFF; and HOW SOON.

WHAT DUPLICATING LINES OF RAILWAY ARE TO BE CLOSED.

Every day that the present useless and expensive duplication goes on, costs the Canadian people a lot of wasted money. Every day that can be saved means precious dollars saved.

These two railway executives should realize that their promised co-operation is by far the most important job that either of them has just now to put through.

Their respective railways could probably run if they were compelled to go to London or down to Florida. But this vital business of getting together and agreeing upon mutual economies will never be accomplished unless it has behind it the sincere effort and the constant study of these two men.

They cannot delegate this job. They must give it their personal and persistent attention. It will call for all their skill, all their patriotism, all their readiness to give-and-take.

* * * *

But the country expects them to do it.

They are serious men in serious positions, and they have made serious public statements pledging themselves to serious action on a most serious matter.

They cannot go back on it now.

They cannot even delay.

They are not "politicians to cynically fool the people with pie-crust promises.

Popular expectation is on tip-toe. Their voluntary statements have stirred public interest as nothing else has done for many a day.

The sooner they can at least begin to satisfy this awakened popular expectation, the better will it be all round. They will give whatever spirit of sacrifice our people may have—of determination to stand by Canada and bring her up out of the valley of "The Whisper of Death"—a new force that will mean everything for the future of this Dominion.—Montreal Star.

COMMUNISM IS DESTRUCTION.

The trend of the times is toward preventing wars, and in the direction of doing away with armament, says the London Advertiser. That is a desirable course, and would be a perfectly safe one were all the nations of the world following the same direction.

The spread of communism, radiating as it does from the centre in Moscow, is one of the developments that is standing in the way of disarmament, because communism is not peace; it is not disarmament. It makes no secret that its objective is the destruction of society as at present constituted and the setting up of world-wide communism in its place. Nor does it seek to do this by peaceful means; it makes no pretence at accomplishing its aim by conviction that its plan is right and in this way securing its objective through the ballot box.

It is only necessary to recount that in the communist papers published in Russia boast is made that success attended the propaganda carried on in Canada; this same propaganda is being spread in Britain, in the entire Balkans, and operations are carried on in the East with the idea of jeopardizing British interests there. It is this feeling that makes it impossible for the world to resume trade conditions with Russia because confidence has been destroyed.

Right now the Russian communists seem to have centred their activity on Bulgaria. If they can succeed in destroying constitutional authority there, it will give them a leverage from which to impress their plans on the whole of the Balkans, and link it up with the Russian movement. It is only a matter of days since they attempted to assassinate King Boris of Bulgaria; in that they failed, but in his place they killed General Georghieff, and the occasion of his funeral was made the occasion for wholesale slaughter. Placing an infernal machine on the roof of the cathedral where his funeral services were being held, the following explosion took the lives of 140 persons, among them many women and children.

If that is the sample of the barbarism that is travelling under the cloak of communism it is time the world realized the situation. Communism is not law and order; it is not a peaceful revolution, nor simply a change in the order of society. It is the complete breaking down and smashing of all our parliamentary and other institutions, and the building up of a state that we would not tolerate for one minute.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Examiner flatly refuses to divulge the names of the farmers who voted in favour of daylight saving. We will not be an accessory of any lynching activities.

Ex-Ald. Stocker proposes to look after the fowls on the market and the foul balls at James Stevenson Park.

Still, if the grocers are to be boycotted for handling 4.4 beer, it could hardly be called patronage to hand out permits to friends of the Government. Perhaps they would only be given to those who vote the opposition ticket.

The people of Ontario have shown that they want Alberta coal. Although only 25,000 tons can be secured at present, orders for 90,000 tons have already been received.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, April 21.—The immediate demand for eggs is comparatively heavy, both in the country and at the large consuming centres and in addition to this a large quantity of eggs at this season are being used for incubation purposes. The movement into storage is heavy although some of the larger operators have not yet put many away. A shipment is reported of some Ontario firsts to Halifax at 28 f.o.b., An Ontario shipper is offering a car of eggs packed in export cases, extras 33, firsts 31, f.o.b.

Toronto — Firm, prices unchanged.

Montreal—Easier; prices 1 cent lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 21.—Beneficial rains northwest and likelihood of moisture for the entire grain belt had considerable effect toward easing down the wheat market today. Besides, export business was of disappointing volume, only 200,000 bushels. Closing quotations of wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1 cent lower—May $1.49 3-4 to $1.50 1-4 and July $1.40 to $1.40 1-4, with corn unchanged to 1 cent down; oats at 1-8 cent off to 1-8 cent up, and provisions varying from 10 cents decline to an equal advance.

In connection with rains over the spring crop district, the fact was pointed out that in 1905 and in 1915 bumper crops were raised under present conditions, and it was suggested that a repetition of the ten year cycle might be expected this season. On the other hand, crop reports from parts of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas today, as well as from some sections north of the Ohio River, were pessimistic. Furthermore, the Liverpool market was strong, especially when taken in relation to exchange rates. Under such circumstances, the market fluctuated rapidly over a range of 3 1-4 cents, with selling pressure developing anew on every upturn except just as the day came to an end.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, April 21.—Sterling exchange rates were quoted here today as follows:
Sterling demand $4.79 1-4.
Sterling cables $4.79 5-8.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 21. — A steady feeling prevailed in the local flour market for spring wheat grades and prices were unchanged. There was no improvement in the volume of business with foreign buyers, but millers stated that a number of cables received asking them to make offers in nearby positions which would indicate that stocks have been reduced to a low level and the prospects are that if the wheat market here remains steady a fair business may result in the near future. There was also an improved demand for local and country sources and a good trade was transacted.

The feature of the market for millfeed was the increased enquiry from United States buyers for supplies of bran and shorts, but owing to the limited quantities available here at present little business resulted in that direction. A fair business was also done with local and country buyers and the tone of the market was very firm. A moderate turnover was transacted in standard grades of rolled oats and prices were steady.

Dairy Markets.

The receipts of butter were 1,512 packages, as against 336 for the same day last week, and 1,581 for the corresponding day a year ago. A firm feeling prevailed in the market and prices for all grades were fully maintained. There was an improved demand from local houses for supplies to meet immediate requirements and there was also some orders received from outside sources for odd fair sized lots with the result that a more active business was done in held creamery, as receipts of fresh made goods are still insufficient to satisfy the trade.

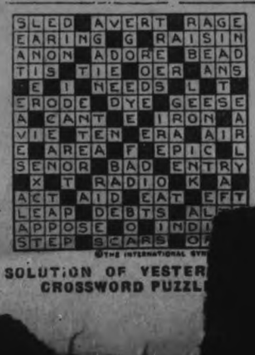
Odd small lots of Saskatchewan fresh made seconds sold at 33 cents per lb.

The receipts of cheese were 2,457 boxes, as compared with 1,640 for the same day last week, and 893 for the corresponding day a year ago. Owing to the continued absence of any foreign demand for supplies and the fact that the large local buyers are not operating at present, the market was very quiet and the feeling continues easy, with holders of Western No. 1 white and colored offering to sell at 18 3-4 cents per lb., and No. 2 grades at 17 3-4 cents per lb.

Beans were unchanged at $2.70 per bushel.

JAPS TO SOUTH SEA

TOKYO, April 21.—Since many countries are banning them, the Japanese should emigrate to the South Sea islands, says Baron K. Den, former minister of communications.



SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S CROSSWORD PUZZLE

A THOUGHT.

SORROW'S TEACHING.

Happy youth whose early footsteps,
Were not sped through roses fair;
Happy boy whose roaming pathway
Lay where tempests sweep the air.

Happy man whom Sacred Sorrow,
Nursed from infancy in pain;
O! So rich does suffering make us,
Pleasure weakens; grief is gain.

Never mourn a saddened childhood,
Tell of bliss that did not cloy,
Ne'er look back with eyes that moisten,
O'er the joys that griefs destroy.

Could we learn to feel men's sorrows
Had we not of care a part?
Could we now esteem our pleasures,
If we never felt pain's smart.

How should patience be our teacher
Prayed we not in time of stress,
Learned we not to strive and suffer
Fall and rise and onward press.

Always Tired in the Mornings

MISS M. BECKER, 113 David St., Kitchener, Ont., writes:—"My system became generally run down. I was nervous, tired and subject to headaches. After using nine boxes of DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD I felt like a new person, could sleep and eat well and was relieved of all the symptoms".

"NERVOUS bankruptcy is being courted by the young women of today," says Dr. Mosher, widely known authority on women's health.

"In her desire to not miss anything she burns the candle at both ends, cutting short her sleep, hurrying or omitting meals.

"This disregard of periods of rest and sleep must necessarily lead to a breakdown of the nervous system, a condition which is the despair of the physician".

Among the early indications of trouble are irritability, restlessness, indigestion, headaches and sleeplessness.

The rational treatment is DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD to revitalize the wasted nerve cells. This medicine is natural and gentle in action and so wonderfully potent and restorative that you will soon see the benefits derived from its use.

TWEED, April 22.—Mrs. M. E. Rutter and daughter have returned to Oshawa after spending the Easter week wih Miss J. Wright and Mrs. Cobb.

Mr. Newton Foster has returned after a short visit in Orillia and Peterborough.

ONLY SIX FARMERS FAVOR PLAN FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING IN CITY WHILE 458 OPPOSE THE CHANGE

Two Hundred and Seventy-four Will Take Their Trade Away.

WORK LONG HOURS

Tabulation Shows Average Farm Day is Thirteen Hours Long.

FOR DAYLIGHT SAVING	6
AGAINST DAYLIGHT SAVING	458

East and west, north and south of the city, the farmers knocked daylight saving, and if their word had anything to do with the question there would be no daylight saved by Peterborough this year anyhow. About five hundred voted, but fifty or so ballots were thrown out because they were not properly completed or were duplicated. Of the 464 acceptable ballots, only six expressed favor of the daylight saving plan. A great many went further and expressed strong disapproval.

The question as to whether farmers would stop trading in Peterborough if the city adopted the daylight saving plan was largely ignored, about half of the voters preferring not to commit themselves. This is unfortunate inasmuch as the question of the farmers' trade was largely at issue as determining the viewpoint the business man of Peterborough would take on the matter. However, enough answered this query to show that the sentiment against the place that adopts daylight saving will be very strong, 274 farmers and farmers' wives declaring they would not trade in Peterborough against only 50 who professed it would make no difference to them.

In the question as to whether they would work on daylight saving, the farmers showed a strong and anticipated antagonism, registering 331 posed as only 15 prepared to adapt themselves to the change in time.

Average 13 Hours.

The last question on the ballot paper will probably furnish the greatest surprise, revealing as the answers do that the average hours worked by farmers in this district is 13 a day. Here are the answers tabulated:

Hours a Day	No. of Farmers	Hours a Day	No. of Farmers
5	1	13	16
7	1	14	64
7½	1	15	49
8	4	16	19
9	2	17	7
10	32	17½	1
11	6	18	1
12	69	19	1

Besides these there were some who did not state exactly, but gave approximate numbers of hours They were:

Hours a Day	No. of Farmers
10 to 12	3
10 to 16	4
12 to 13	3
12 to 14	4
12 to 15	4
12 to 16	1
13 to 14	5
14 to 16	5
15 to 16	2
15 to 18	1

The average of all of these, representing 306 farmers who answered the question, is a trifle over 13 hours a day. If a farmer makes $1,000 a year clear, working 13 hours a day, he is paying himself at the rate of 25 cents an hour.

Regarding Trading.

Some of those who answered the question as to trading in Peterborough very evidently did so in the spirit of imposing a boycott, which was entirely foreign to the iea of asking. The question was: "If daylight saving comes into force will you stop trading in Peterborough?" These persons answered "As far as possible; All I can; I certainly will; As much as possible; To be sure; Yes, if convenient other places; I will try to." Four candidly said, "I would trade as little as possible."

The spirit of the question was caught by one man who wrote on his ballot in answer, "I will have to."

The Examiner, with its more than six thousand farm subscribers, endeavoured to act in this matter as a connecting link between the country and the city, interpreting the feeling of the large body of country traders who deal in city stores. It has been suggested to the city council that the adoption of daylight saving in the city would deprive the store keepers of a great volume of trade. The question was not whether the farmers would voluntarily cease trading here if daylight saving went into effect, but whether by reason of the change in time they would be prohibited from trading here.

Strong Opposition.

Enough has been shown by the vote among farmers and by their letters in The Examiner to indicate that daylight saving in the city will to some extent or other affect the country district within the city's trading area. There is an almost unanimous and bitter sentiment against it among the farmers, even though it is not aimed to compel them to work by the system. Two hundred and seventy four of the four hundred and sixty four who voted declare they will cease trading in Peterborough if the measure goes into force. Only 15 will synchronize their time with the city's against 331 who will work by standard time in any event.

That is the summing up of the case as presented by the farmers themselves, and it rests with the city council to consider it in relation to the 6,000 votes cast in the city with their majority of 845 in favor of daylight saving.

STEAMSHIP COMPANIES

of that conference was to increase and maintain rates, that the conference was subject to no control or supervision, and that the only kind of control which was possible was that which might be secured from a competing line of vessels.

He refused, however, to admit that there was any monopoly in shipping declared that economic control was much more effective than any government control could be, and expressed the opinion that the creation of a competing line of a subsidized character might drive other companies into bankruptcy in the event of their endeavoring to meet such competition. Whether they would undertake to meet such competition if instituted he was not prepared to say. If the conference were abolished, Mr. Clemenson stated that rates would be immediately lower, but ultimately higher, inasmuch as the intense competition would discourage further building. In the meantime, witness declared, lower rates could only be secured, under present conditions, through reduction in wages, cost of production, and port charges.

Danger of Bankruptcy.

Mr. Symington: "If it were possible, could not control be obtained by putting on a competing line of ships?" "There is the danger of running other lines into bankruptcy."

"Is it possible to put on a competing line? Can you tell me of any other method of effective control than that?" "I don't think I can. If rates are too high it is quite possible to refuse to accept them."

"We have got down to this point—whether it is right or wrong—will a competing line control rates?"

Mr. Stevens: "A subsidized competing line, remember that."

Witness: "Supposing you put on ten ships carrying on ten per cent. of the traffic and they cut rates and supposing the others refuse to cut, what is the result?"

Mr. Symington: "Would they meet the competition or not?" "I can't say. Companies have gone bankrupt before meeting such competition, and I suppose there will be other bankruptcies in the future."

Says People Misled.

"You have no suggestion to make whereby rates should be reduced?" "I cannot answer. The people of Canada are not in possession of the facts. They have been misled. I cannot understand how they would agree to force control. Rates can be reduced in many ways. It could, for instance, have a reduction in port charges, which to-day are very high."

"Irrespective of port charges, the object of the shipping companies is that grain should reach Liverpool at an equal price, no matter whence it comes?" "Yes."

"So that we do not have the advantage in any way by reason of our wonderful waterways and remarkable loading facilities?" "I think so; every advantage."

"If a competing line has superior ships, prominently suited to the trade should they not, on an economic basis carry cheaper than inferior ships?" "The inferior ships might accept lower profits and be able to carry at lower rates."

"But if they are both members of the conference they carry at the same rates?" "That is right."

Present Rates Relatively Low.

"You say rates at present are too low?" "They are relatively low."

"And if things remain as they are have we any hope of a reduction?" "Yes, when wages and cost of production come down."

"What about port charges?" "They have enormously increased. If they are reduced we must pass the advantage on."

"If there was no conference would rates be lower?" "They might be higher. We get a great deal of stability out of the conference. They would, I believe, be immediately lower but would ultimately be higher. Under intense competition for a period of years building would cease and later rates would be higher still."

"There would be a shortage of ships and rates would be higher?" "Yes."

"Ship owners at the present moment, I understand, take the view that rates are really lower than they should be?" "They are lower than they should be to provide a fair rate of interest and depreciation."

Better to Cut Down Ships.

Replying to other members he agreed that if there were too many ships it would be better to cut them down and give lower rates.

"If there were fewer ships and they were carrying a greater tonnage, could they not carry it at a lesser charge with greater profit to themselves?" "If you shut out the grain and gave them the better paying produce, that would be the case."

"You are not prepared to say there are too many ships on the north Atlantic trade to-day." "I am not in a position to judge."

To R. S. Halbert witness said that ships would make more profit if they carried more bacon, cheese and cattle. He could not say if liners charged lower rates than tramps.

Answering H. H. Stevens, he did not know if the taking on of cargoes contributed to the of general rates.

Another member rates were lower mit Canadian

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton

Gloria swayed slowly to her feet. Her face was white as she walked across the dining-room to Mother Gregory's table.

She was afraid of this major-domo of a woman. And Mother Gregory knew it.

"Come into the dressing-room with me," she said sharply. "I want to talk to you a minute or two!"

She gripped Glory above the elbow and steered her out into the women's rest room. May Seymour winked at Glory as they passed.

Glory pulled off her hat and began to powder her nose before the mirror, to gain a moment's time to gather her wits.

"Sit down!" Mother Gregory said. And Gloria sat.

"Now then," Dick's mother said in her powerful voice, "what in the world are you doing down here with that woman who is the talk of the town? Have you lost your senses?"

"How do you mean, talk of the town?" Glory asked weakly.

Mother Gregory snorted.

"You know as well as I do that her affair with Jim Carew is common talk everywhere!" she said. "And here I find you sitting with them where everybody can see you!

"And another thing, young woman. . . . I sent Maggie over to your house to show you how to cook and take care of the home Dick's given you . . . not to leave you free to gallivant all over town with your queer friends!"

"If that's what Maggie's there for, you can have her back . . . and I'll get a maid of my own!" Gloria cried.

Her fear of Dick's mother was blotted out by her sudden anger.

"If you think I'm going to be a scrubbing-brush for your precious son, you're barking up the wrong tree. I'm not going to drudge for him or anybody else!" she cried. Tears of fury were in her voice.

"He can perfectly afford to get me a cook, and I don't mean anything previous! I don't have to work in his house. . . . I can go out and earn my $25 any week in the year. And it won't be at dishwashing either. . . ."

She rose and, returning to the dining room, gathered up her beaded bag and white gloves.

Mother Gregory followed. She laid her jeweled hand on Gloria's arm.

"Sit down a minute, while I pay my check," she said gently, "and we'll leave together. There's no need to make a scene this way, is there?"

Together they walked out of the crowded restaurant.

Gloria had forgotten all about May Seymour.

• • •

Outside in the street stood Mother Gregory's coupe.

"Jump in!" she said to Gloria.

The girl hesitated.

"I have a little shopping to do . . ." she said.

"Jump in!" Mother Gregory repeated. "I'll drive you home. It's time you and I had a talk about things in general, and marriage in particular!"

She started the car.

"Now, Glory," she began. "Just what is your idea of what you owe my son, as his wife?"

"What do I owe Dick?" she repeated in surprise. "Why, I don't owe him anything, do I? He wanted to marry me, and he has me."

"You think that's enough?" Mother Gregory asked. "How about being a real wife to him . . . taking care of him, cooking his meals, darning his socks, reading to him when he's tired? How about such things? Do you try to do them?"

"Certainly not," Gloria snapped. Her beautiful face was distorted with anger.

"Certainly not," she said again. "I can't see where he makes life so terribly comfortable for me. Does he hire a maid for me when I ask him to? Not a chance! . . .Does he leave me the car to use daytimes? No, indeed! He rolls downtown in it himself every morning. And I can walk! . . . And what makes me so sore is that I know he can afford to keep a cook and an extra automobile!"

"That's where you're wrong," said Mother Gregory. "Dick is just starting his career. Lawyers don't suddenly make a million like inventors or promoters, you know. Dick has a long, hard row to hoe . . . and you must help him as I helped his father 30 years ago when Dick was just a baby!"

Mother Gregory smiled, her eyes full of memories.

"We had a tiny house then," she said. "And I did every strok ef work in it myself . . . and took care of my baby besides."

Her face became serious.

"By the way, my dear, have your babies early in your married life," she said. "The younger a mother is the more of a playmate she is for her children . . ."

• • •

Suddenly Mother Gregory stopped.

In the tilted mirror above the windshield of the car, she could see Gloria's face. It was smiling scornfully.

"I'm scarcely married, and you're beginning to talk babies already," the girl said. "Is that all women are for . . . to have babies?"

"If it isn't that, perhaps you'll tell me what they are for," suggested Dick's mother.

"Oh, how do I know what women are for?" Gloria cried. "But I suppose they're on earth to live and be happy like anyone else."

"And to drink hard liquor, to smoke cigarets until they're dopey, and to play bridge for money until they have faces like misers!" Mother Gregory's voice was deep with disgust. "Oh, you women who are growing up . . . who can't boil a decent pot of coffee, but can shake up any kind of cocktail that's ever been invented! You girls who haven't strength enough to put the buttons in your husband's shirtsleeves, but have 'pep' enough to strut and shimmy half the night at some tough Gal9 ey iZeihr Daily Story Gal.9 party or other! What earthly good are any of you? . . . Now, Glory, I want you to think things over. . . ."

"Will you please stop this car and let me out?" Gloria interrupted. "I've stood all the insults I can stand."

Silently Mrs. Gregory stopped the car. Gloria got out, and her mother-in-law drove on.

Gloria turned toward home, kicking the walks as she went.

By the time she reached home she was thoroughly out of temper.

Dick's roadster stood in the driveway.

There was a fire burning in the living-room grate. And before it, stretched out on the davenport asleep, lay Dick.

Gloria tiptoed into the room and stood looking down at him. His face was flushed, and he breathed quickly. Suddenly he opened his eyes.

"Gloria," he said. And his voice was like that of a sick child who wants his mother.

"What's happened to you?" Gloria asked.

"Nothing," Dick answered. "I've had a nasty little cold for days, and it seems to have slipped up behind me, all of a sudden. Haven't got any lemons in the house, have we?"

"I guess so." Gloria went out into the kitchen. Maggie was there, tearfully peeling onions.

"Maggie," her mistress said, "have we any lemons? Mr. Gregory wants one for his cold."

"It's a hot lemonade he wants," Maggie said. "As I've been telling him for the last hour. But nothing would he take till yourself came home. I'll make it, and then we'll get him into bed between blankets with a hot water bottle to his feet . . . and let him sweat the cold out of himself by morning."

She moved briskly around the kitchen as she spoke, filling the teakettle and mixing lemon juice and sugar together in a tall glass.

Gloria went back to Dick.

"Come upstairs," she said. "Maggie thinks you ought to go to bed. And while you're undressing I'll put a hot water bottle in your bed."

• • •

In 15 minutes Dick was comfortable. Gloria turned to leave the room. She wanted to telephone the employment agency about a maid to take Maggie's place. For she was sure that the first thing Mother Gregory would do would be to send for Maggie to come back to her.

"Don't go," Dick said. "Stay here and talk to me."

"What is there to talk about?" Gloria asked indifferently.

"Lots of things," Dick answered. "What has my golden girl been doing all day?"

"Fighting with your mother, mostly," said Gloria with piercing sweetness. Dick looked miserable.

"And if you want to make a hit with me, you'll never ask me to have anything to do with her again," she went on bitterly. "She's been bawling me out for not doing my own housework. I notice she keeps a maid, all right! And she had the cheek to tell me I ought to go ahead and have a whole family of children . . . when she had only one herself!"

Dick stared at her thoughtfully.

"She had three, you know. . . my mother," he said at last. "The other two died. I'm sorry you rowed with her, Glory."

"That's right, blame it all on me!" Glory replied. "It was she who started it. I was having lunch with May Seymour and she made me leave the table and go home with her . . . and then started to tell me what a terrible woman I am. So I just got out of her darned old car. And you can do as you please about it, but I'm through with your family!"

Downstairs Maggie was striking the Japanese dinner gong. It chimed like the very voice of peace and harmony.

Gloria ran down to the dining-room to eat alone.

• • •

So this was marriage!

Facing an evening alone while Dick dozed upstairs.

Doing her own housework beginning tomorrow? Helping Dick get along, year after year? Losing her looks in the meantime!

. . . Why she wouldn't be much better off than her own mother!

The only difference would be that she, herself, would have a better house and more money to run it with . . . roast lamb instead of stew. Fresh peas instead of canned ones!

Gloria pounded the table in her anger and disappointment. . . . How life had tricked her! . . . Well, she'd get herself out of this mess, somehow!

• • •

The next morning Dick was better but too ill to leave the house.

Gloria sat beside him while he ate breakfast before the bedroom fire.

"Dicky-bird," she said with all her sweetness, "I'm going to hire a maid of our own today, dear. I want to get her used to the house before we throw our first party."

"Party?" asked Dick, startled.

"Now don't say we can't afford one, first thing," Gloria cried. "I've figured it all out. It won't cost much for food and cocktails and a little jazz band. Not much over a hundred dollars . . ."

Maggie appeared in the doorway.

"A Miss Biggs downstairs to see you, Mr. Dick," she said.

"Miss Briggs," Gloria repeated. "Who in the world is Miss Briggs?"

PAINLEVE WINS CHAMBER VOTE

Division Was 304 to 218 in First Test of New .. Ministry.

CAILLAUX JEERED.

PARIS, April 22—The Chamber last night voted confidence in the Painleve Government 304 to 218.

Scenes of turmoil surpassing anything within recent years, occurred in the chamber when deputies, assisted by hoots and jeers from the galleries, attacked the presence of Joseph Caillaux in the cabinet.

So violent was the storm directed against the new finance minister that the session at which Paul Painleve read his ministerial declaration frequently was interrupted.

Opposition Deputies Charles Bertrand and Jean Coy directed their interpellations at Caillaux, denouncing him as a traitor, while the new minister sat glaring defiantly at them through a monocle.

Communist deputies interrupted to shriek that now was the time for a government of "workers and peasants."

Caillaux, a jaunty figure in immaculate clothes, was surrounded by plainclothesmen every time he stepped into the corridors.

Moral Bankruptcy

The debate in the chamber was opened by Charles Bertrand, president of the veterans' union, who began by saying:

"It is with profound emotion and stupor that the nation observes Joseph Caillaux in the cabinet.

"I hope the country hasn't come to such a pass that it has to choose between Caillaux and bankruptcy. His very presence here is proof of moral bankruptcy."

Turning toward the tribunal and dramatically facing Caillaux, Bertrand said:

"If you had been innocent you would have asked a revision of your trial, instead of entering freedom through the back door.

"Your presence here is in defiance of the dead and living.

SUPPORTS BUDGET.

Conservative Says Finance Statement is Beclouded—Not Understood by People.

OTTAWA, April 22 (Canadian Press).—The debate on the Budget was continued in the House of Commons yesterday by J. F. White (Conservative, London). Mr. White declared that the acting minister of finance, in presenting his statement, showed "too much anxiety to claim a surplus."

The Government had not "produced a financial statment that could be clearly understood by the people," Mr. White said. Members of the House had professed their inability to fully understand it, and if they could not do so, how could the taxpayers be expected to arrive at any definite conclusion The statement delivered was "partial and beclouded." It had not taken into consideration in the computation of the alleged surplus, the debts of our national railways.

Mr. White thought that Canada should "hang out a welcome sign" to repatriated Canadians, restore the three months' residence clause, and not compel a Canadian who wished to regain his citizenship to go through a five-year probation as if he were a foreigner. He was obviously a more desirable citizen than those who knew nothing of Canadian life.

Mr. White contended that agricultural implements cost more now than they did in 1921, in spite of reductions in taxation.

The member for London was opposed to the export of electric power. He considered that this was just another form of exporting raw material. It had been said by authorities that there would be a shortage of power for Canadian industries in two years. The Government should permit the issue of only short term contracts for electric power, and as soon as possible should arrange to revoke all contracts as they expired.

Raymond for Budget.

W. G. Raymond (Liberal, Brantford), said that, trying to take an impartial view of the Budget, he had reached the conclusion that the acting minister of finance was to be congratulated on it. With customs and other revenue falling, many people had predicted a deficit in the Budget. Instead, there had been a surplus. He believed that Mr. Robb's presentation of the country's finances was a fair one, and he based this belief on the exercise of his own judgment, and on his confidence in the honesty and integrity of the acting minister of finance.

The attempt to "cast aspersions" on that gentleman was deplorable. Sir Henry Drayton had said in the House that men were "doing time" for similar methods of financing. That statement by the ex-minister of finance had passed unchallenged in the House, perhaps because most members did not suppose that Sir Henry meant it to be taken seriously. Sir Henry sometimes liked his little joke. But the ex-minister of finance ought to have remembered that he was not speaking to a limited circle of fellow-members of the House. To those in the galleries it must have been very shocking to hear a responsible statesman cooly imply that the business of Canada was being run by men who were no better than felons and forgerers. The possibility of a visitor from another country going away from the Parliamentary galleries with such an impression had been overlooked by Sir Henry perhaps because he sat in that corner of the House where he and the member for Centre Vancouver (Hon. H. H. Steven) copied their leader (Right Hon. Arthur Meighen) in combination with whom they constituted a "school for scorn."

Mr. Raymond declared that Sir Henry Drayton, ex-minister of finance, had in the course of his speech on the Budget, stated that there was a deficit of $110,000,000 instead of a surplus of over two million dollars. But the Conservative financial critic had moved an amendment suggesting a reduction in taxation. If there was an actual deficit, was that the proper way to meet it?

Progressives Unsatisfied.

Mr. Raymond had hoped that there would be no more downward changes in the tariff; but a further reduction had been made on farm wagons and sleighs. Was there a good word of appreciation given for this reduction by the Progressives? He had not heard any, and it confirmed his opinion that whatever reductions were made in the Budget, Progressives would never be satisfied.

He regretted that no mention of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement rates had been made in the Budget. The restoraton of these rates had created discrimination, and no point had suffered more on this account than the City of Brantford. On certain classes of agricultural implements, for instance, the rate from Brantford to the West was $1.28 per

Most headaches due to lack of internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons form in the accumulated food waste and are carried to all parts of the body. Headaches follow. Biliousness, insomnia, lack of energy, all result from constipation, which if unchecked will lead to serious results.

Avoid Laxatives—Say Doctors

A noted authority says that laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative, and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

LACK OF SNOW DOESN'T HURT

Youngsters at Victoria Park Continue to Find Thrilling Sport.

STONES SMOOTH

It has never been the fashion for the little boys of Central school to go to St. Moritz or even to Lake Placid for their winter sports. They may be seen any day on the steps of Victoria park in front of the court house at their tobogganing.

The lack of snow, ice and a sled have interfered only slightly with their coasting. Gravity and a flat board complete the necessary equipment. The simple craft plunges down the steps with the sound of a stick being drawn swiftly along a picket fence. The boys are rough riders, to say the least.

Sometimes even the board is discarded, and seats of small pants show wear and tear of sliding on the stone coping that flanks the uppermost tier of steps. The stone is worn smooth now probably by the sliding of the parents who now spank their offspring for doing the very things they themselves did years ago.

"His Love Lives On"

"He can't have left her much, you know, because he was only just getting nicely established"—said the friends of Frank's widow when he died, only 31 years of age.

But the family realized the true nobility of Frank's nature, when the solicitor announced that, just the year before, the young man had been foresighted enough to provide through insurance with The London Life, an income of $100 a month for his wife as long as she lives.

The cost, equal to $5.78 a week, was his sacrifice for the wife and children he loved.

The London Life agent has had experience in arranging such policies of protection and will be glad to advise. London Life rates mean lowest net cost.

COUNCIL WILL CONSIDER NEW POLICE OFFICER

Special Meeting of Campbellford City Fathers on Friday Night.

MUCH BUSINESS

Firemen Want Revision Made in Their Salary Schedule.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22—A special meeting of the Town Council will be held next Friday evening for the purpose of dealing with at least two important matters that were laid over from the last regular session. One of these is the request presented by Chief Brown for the appointment of an assistant, the latter to act as night constable, leaving the chief free to devote all his time to day duties.

Another question to be settled is the petition from the firemen asking for a revision of their salary schedule, the details of which were recently published in The Examiner. The committee that has had the matter in charge have already presented a report to the council, recommending a new rate of pay for the members of the brigade. There report awaits final action.

McIntosh will conduct religious services at the family residence at 2 o'clock this afternoon after which the funeral will be held to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

The following centres are requested to send delegates so that arrangements may be completed: English Line, Hoard's Station, Burnbrae, Rylstone and Seymour West. It is possible, too, that a town team may be taken in, with Harry D. Atkinson as manager, in order to make out an even number which means that the drawing up of a schedule will be an easier class. Some good games were played by teams from these places last season although there was no league organization.

Rev. C. D. Daniel has consented to act as Secretary-treasurer for the team that Campbellford plans to enter in the Northumberland League.

REDISTRIBUTION HAS DIVIDED VILLAGE OF STIRLING IN TWO

Boundary Line Now Follows Main Street—Loses Distinction.

POLITICAL TALK.

Reputation Well Known and Citizens Feel Aggrieved By Move.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

STIRLING, April 22. — Stirling, long famous as the hub of a wheel, the spokes of which are of equal length, with Campbellford, Belleville and Madoc, forming the rim, each of the three places being exactly 16 miles from the central village, has had a new distinction thrust upon it, and that too by no less an agency than the Dominion parliament. Stirling has been bisected—or, perhaps, vivisected is the more expressive term—by Federal decree, one half being placed in one riding and the remainder thrown to the lions i.. another. If there is any other town or village in Canada that enjoys—or suffers—a position so unique, it has yet to be heard from. In redistribution bills it is nothing unusual to ignore county lines, but the division of a municipality is another matter. In the case of Stirling, the town line between the townships of Rawdon and Sidney has been followed and Stirling's fate is due to the fact that this line constitutes the main street in the village. Of course there are some who assert that the village has been torn open in this way for political advantages, and that two constituencies are now tolerably safe where only one was so regarded before.

For Federal election purposes what was once known as West Hastings will in future appear in the returns as South Hastings. It will be made up of the City of Belleville, the town of Trenton, the township of Sidiney and the south half of the Village of Stirling.

West Hastings is the riding that Gus Porter of Belleville held for so many years and in which he came such a decided cropper last fall in the bye-election, and in which Charles Hanna was elected on the Liberal ticket. They say that this reverse has aroused the Conservatives in what is now South Hastings as they have never been before and that every corner of the riding is being thoroughly organized. Political seers comfort themselves and their colleagues with the reflection that when the party pendulum takes an abnormal swing out of line it is just as likely when again called on for action, to redeem itself by going as far to the other extreme. Mr. Hanna, failing death or disability, will be his party's nominee again, but he is assured of as lively a fight as he came through so triumphantly last fall.

Hastings-Peterboro.

The west half of Stirling finds itself, after the redistribution shuffle, in the new riding that has been formed by a joining together of portions of the counties of Hastings and Peterboro. It is a peculiar situation. In an election campaign political meetings may be held in buildings separated only by the main street of Stirling and on polling day neighbors can sit on their front porches and enquire of each other across the road how the election is going in this or that riding.

Stirling's political reputation has been long established. It has never given the party managers a moment of doubt or uneasiness. The size of the majority it was likely to roll up was the only problem. And now the village feels that its force and influence has been weakened by the division of its voting strength between two ridings. It can no longer hone to be the deciding factor in a political contest.

Another Division Proposed.

It seems that in the Ontario redistribution for Legislative purposes there are to be no changes in the Hastings ridings. There is, however, a proposition before the Government to divide the immense county into two parts, so that two agricultural representatives may be appointed. It is claimed that the territory that Ray Atkin, the present district representative, is required to cover, is too big for any one man, but the Department of Agriculture as a rule moves slowly in such matters, and some time is likely to elapse before anything is done.

There are over 100 schools in Hastings County that will take part in the School Fairs this year, and Mr. Atkins and his office staff are busy these days sending out the seeds which will be planted by the pupils of these schools, the grain, flowers and vegetables raised to be entered for competition. These School Fairs are growing in popularity every year and the number is increasing steadily.

Business men appreciate Blue-jay particularly, because it is scientifically efficient. It leaves nothing to the user's guess work. You do not have to decide how much or how little to put on. Each plaster is a complete, standardized treatment—and it does the work.

Mr. Hyde had corns . . . Dr. Jekyll had none!

At the root of many a bad temper, there's a corn. It is hard to keep the disposition serene when a corn is jabbing and baiting it with pain. You can cover the tip of a corn with a match-head. But this tiny pain-center makes one feel mean all over—and act that way. Doctors know that a corn may irritate the whole nervous system—so the patient with a corn is told to use Blue-jay. A Blue-jay plaster will end a corn pain in ten seconds, and the corn itself in 48 hours.

CAMPBELLFORD MEN PAY LAST TRIBUTE

W. J. Meiklejohn Buried Among Signs of Regret —Touching Service.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22—"Happy is he that hath the Lord of Jacob for his help," was the text chosen by Rev. C. F. McIntosh who conducted the religious services yesterday afternoon at the funeral of the late William J. Meiklejohn. In his personal reference to the deceased Mr. McIntosh said that the large crowd at his funeral was the best evidence of the esteem in which he had been held. The late Mr. Meiklejohn was well known and in his home relations, as a neighbor and in business not one word was heard against him. He had been, while in life, a straight-forward and whole-hearted man who made friends on all sides. Mr. McIntosh had known the deceased for eight years and had never heard of his attempting to take an unfair advantage of any one in his business dealings.

While the late Mr. Meiklejohn was making his hopeless fight for life in a Toronto hospital Mr. McIntosh had visited him and, exhausted as the patient was, he had shown an interest in the message brought him by his former pastor. The speaker said he believed that the deceased had passed away relying on the help that was promised in the text.

Rev. Wesley Elliott, pastor of the Methodist Church, and who wore a badge showing him a member of the Oddfellows, to which the deceased also belonged, assisted Mr. McIntoh in the services and a volunteer choir impressively rendered the hymn "Nearer My God to Thee."

A Long Procession

Forty-five members of Oddfellows Lodge No... 248, marshaled by Sergeant George J. Salter, marched in procession to the residence of their departed brother and at the conclusion of the services rode in cars to the cemetery at the head of the procession. Sixty-five autos made up the cortege, one of the cars being completely filled with the beautiful floral tributes sent in by relatives and friends and by the fraternal societies to which the deceased belonged. The offerings included wreaths from the Curling Club and from the members of the Town Council, several of whom had served with the deceased when he was in the service of the town. One immense floral piece which almost completely covered the casket was the gift of the immediate relatives.

The pallbearers, all members of the Oddfellows fraternity were: C. H. Davison, R. J. Bullen, George A. Kingston, Freeman Bailey, J. P. Archer, and F red W. Wood.

At the Cemetery

At Mount Pleasant cemetery where the remains were interred, the service for the dead was read by Revs. C. F. McIntosh and C. D. Danil. The Oddfellows then took charge of the obsequies and the beautiful funeral ritual was delivered by J. D. McEachren, N. G. of Lodge No. 248, and Rev. Wesley Elliott, acting Chaplain.

Besides the cars in the procession it is etimated that over 300 people on the sidewalks followed the remains. It was one of the largest funerals ever seen in Campbellford, a tribute to the memory of the deceasd and a graceful assurance to the mourning relatives that he for whom they grieve passed out of life enjoying the esteem of a large circle of acquaintances.

Corn Plasters Gifts To Commons Members

LONDON, April 22.—(United Press).—Members of the House of Commons were dumfounded the other day to receive by registered post envelopes containing Hashhish corn plasters. Strangely enough the distribution of this gift had its significance and was not intended to alleviate the corn-growing propensities of elderly members. Research elicited the fact that the plasters were made of Hashhish, or Indian hemp, and that the propogators originated the idea of a general distribution as a protest against the scheduling of Indian hemp as a poison by the Home Office.

CHEESE BOARD WILL CONTINUE

May Not Function as Selling Agency, But Will Be Educational.

AT CAMPBELLFORD.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 22. — The Campbellford Cheese Board is still preserved in its integrity as an organization, although it may not function as a selling agency any longer. The first meeting of the season, at which nearly every factory in the district was represented, was held yesterday afternoon, with President Robert Innis in the chair. On motion it was decided to continue the officers for another year, which means that Mr. Innis is president, George Van Volkenburg, vice president, and George A. Kingston, secretary.

Dairy Commissioner Heard.

The feature of the gathering was an address by George Barr, who was recently transferred from the Federal service to succeed G. A. Putnam as dairy commissioner of Ontario and who made his first public appearance in that capacity yesterday. In a quiet, practical talk, Mr. Barr gave the dairymen some valuable advice on conducting their business.

In order to secure higher profits, he said, that more careful methods must be employed. The competition is so keen in the markets of England that it is only the best grade of cheese that can command a fair price. It does not pay to manufacture cheese that grades No. 2, and to produce the best there must be co-operation among all those engaged in the business.

"I am satisfied," said Mr. Barr, "that if the dairymen send good milk to the factory, and if the cheese is placed in proper boxes for shipment, Canadians have nothing to fear in the British market, but will be able to command the top price for their produce.

In reply to a question from Alex. Hume as to the best type of box, Mr. Barr said he believed that the boxes manufactured at Stirling are as good as any available.

Testing the Milk.

Mr. Barr believes that the instructor should be required to test the milk as he could be employed in other lines to better advantage. Testing is a work that can be done as well by a girl as by the instructor.

There seemed to be a feeling among the dairymen that if the testing were done by the cheesemaker the latter might be suspected of showing favors to some of the patrons and that an independent outsider was to be preferred. Mr. Barr met this objection by saying that if the cheese maker was regarded as worthy of confidence for one line of duty, he was entitled to the same consideration in all matters entrusted to him.

The Feeding of Turnips.

Feeding of turnips to dairy cattle still remains as a topic of debate among dairymen and it was discussed again yesterday without arriving at any definite conclusion. It was agreed, however, that every precaution should be taken to avoid anything likely to lower the grade of the cheese.

John Murray, the instructor for the district, made a short address and the meeting adjourned, subject to call.

It is expected that George Ivey, representing Olive and Dorin, will handle the bulk of the cheese produced here this season.

CHAMBER VOTES CONFIDENCE IN NEW CABINET

After 8-Hour Debate in Which Insults Were Heaped on Caillaux.

TOOK IT CALMLY.

Only Slight Evidence Shown of Strain on His Patience.

PARIS, April 22. — (Canadian Press).—Caillaux has his vote of confidence from the Chamber of Deputies. At midnight, after an eight-hour debate that turned almost exclusively around Caillaux, the new Painleve Government was given a majority of eighty-four. The Cartel Des Gauches gave the new Ministry support, and even part of the Locheur Radical Left party which had threatened to abstain, made the 304 votes cast for its support, the solid opposition of 218 maintaining its hostile attitude.

From three o'clock in the afternoon until midnight the new Cabinet was under fire, Caillaux sitting through the constant insult poured on him from tribune and benches. When finally he made a brief declaration on the financial policy after having been called defeatist, traitor and associate of thieves, the only evidence of strain on his patience was a red flush over his bald head. Painleve took the brunt of the attack, ably supporting the Ministerial declaration read early in the afternoon.

AND NOW IT'S KBHOO.

LONDON, April 21.—Mah jongg is on the wane in Great Britain and the new game is kbhoo, which, like jazz, originated in Central Africa. The board for the game represents a valley between two ranges of mountains and "men," similar to those in chess, are carved to represent African warriors. The game calls for considerable skill.

FLYS ARE POLITE.

LONDON, April 22.—Julian Huxley, eminent biologist, says flys are polite." A fly in a box was seen to devour a small insect, but when a female fly was placed in the box with it, the next insect was killed by the male and given to his mate. Even after the female was removed, the male remembered his manners by catching another insect and saving it for the "wife."

CHARGE SOVIET WITH REBELLION

Bolsheviks Are Backing Revolutions All Over the East.

By HENRY WOOD.

GENEVA, April 22.—(United Press).—As a result of the recent sessions of the Pan-Russian Congres at Tiflis and the Executive Committee of the Third Internationale at Moscow, where it developed that the Bolsheviks are now principally interested in Asia as their future field of activity, the Internationale Entente against the Third Internationale has just issued a bulletin on the present status of Bolshevik efforts in the entire Far East.

The bulletin shows that the present Bolshevik drive comprises not only Asia, including Turkey, but Egypt, and Northern Africa generally, and the various Pacific archepelagoes.

The bulletin issued by the Internationale Entente is based not only upon reports of its agents in the various countries, but usually upon actual copies of the orders issued by the Soviets and the Executive Committee of the Third Internationale to their representatives in each country.

In a general way these orders show that the Bolsheviks are backing revolutionary movements through the entire East.

WOMEN'S INTERESTS

CANADIAN CLUB HEARS ADDRESS

"Some Scenes in the Drama of Empire" By Col. Ponton.

PATRIOTIC FERVOR.

A very interesting address on "Some Scenes in the Drama of Empire" was given to the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon, in the auditorium of the Public Library, by Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., of Belleville. There was a good attendance of ladies. The president, Mrs. F. D. Kerr, occupied the chair.

Colonel Ponton is an entertaining speaker. His view in perspective of some of the high lights of the drama of the British Empire was tinged throughout by a high degree of patriotic fervor which gave his utterances a degree of sincere enthusiasm in his subject. His pleasant, low voice and poetic form of oratory, combined with numerous quotations, made in one of the most interesting of the Women's Canadian Club lectures of this season.

Speaking of the Anglo-Saxons as the "radiant" race, Colonel Ponton said: "It is possible for us to be ardently Canadian and enthusiastically British at the same time. The British Empire is not geographical. It is a people in action, and there are three strands of patriotism which bind it together: the strand of memory of the past, the strand of love in the present, and the prophetic strand of the future."

The speaker alluded to the obligation involving on Canadians to help the great Ukrainian group in the Dominion, the immigrants into a strange land, and also drew a parallel between Canada and the description of a land in Deuteronomy, a place of valleys and mountains and streams and of hills containing iron and brass. In Peterboro and in Port Colborne, he declared, were two of the greatest food-producing centres of the Dominion, referring to the flour and rolled oats mills here and to those at Port Colborne, where 14,000 barrels of flour are daily turned out. "Pluck and luck are the great twin elements in the life of the Canada of to-day."

Historic Glimpses.

Harking back to the days of Alfred the Great, founder of the widespread British navy, Colonel Ponton spoke of the anniversary on Thursday of this week of a great naval action of modern times, the exploit of Zeebrugge, when the German submarine fleet was bottled up forever by British valor and courage. This date also commemorates St. George's Day and the birthday and deathday of William Shakespeare. The coming of William the Conqueror was another dramatic incident, and the signing of the Magna Charta by King John at Runnymede, that great charter which declared that "to none will I sell right or justice; to none will I deny right or justice; to none will I delay right or justice." In the great Palace of Justice in Chicago, a facsimile reproduction of the ancient Magna Charta is inscribed in old English type, and every State of the Union provides that where laws are not provided, the old laws of England shall rule.

Three Great Queens.

The three great queens of England were enumerated in turn: Queen Anne, whose main claim to greatness lies in her encouragement of Marlborough and in her diplomatic treatment of the Scottish chiefs; Queen Elizabeth, with her imperial policy of greatness at home and abroad, and Queen Victoria, greatest of all the queens. It was Queen Victoria's fondness for her Royal Engineers, said the speaker, which caused her to choose Ottawa as the capital of the Dominion, against contrary advice, because the Captain of the Royal Engineers at that time declared that the capital of Canada should be absolutely inaccessible to attack.

Colonel Ponton digressed to pay an eloquent tribute to the memory of Shakespeare, and finished his address with a description of several old volumes and interesting souvenirs of the past, now in his possession. Included in the collection, which aroused much interest amongst the ladies, was an illuminated psalter of the type produced in Kent, England, from 1290 to 1492, a copy of "The Times" printed on the day following the Battle of Waterloo giving the modest announcement of one of the greatest military victories of all time, an old Scotch sun dial, with the inscription, "Time trieth troth," and a valuable copy of the famous Caxton Bible, the "Armada" Bible, published in the year of the Armada, 1588.

At the conclusion of Colonel Ponton's address, a standing vote of thanks was accorded him by the audience.

SPEED-DEMON BLIM

Give ear to me, ye speed fiends all,
Who run your cars amuck—
Ye who have dared,
Whose lives are spared,
By sheer good grace o' Luck—
I would a tale unfold to thee,
Of one named Blimme Blim,
Who daring was,
And died because,
A fast express hit him.

This Blimme never f't a fear,
Or tremor of the spine
(Tho' full oft' he,
In fiendish glee,
Has put a crimp in mine);
But with one flat foot on the gas,
And fat head in the air,
With every breath
He jockied death
And never turned a hair.

Destruction he left in his train,
Wrecks strewed his fevered way;
P'lice judges grim,
This Blimme other B
Soaked every day.
With haughty and derisive mien,
Blim paid his fines, and said—
"Pedestrians,
Like silly hens,
Must quick be, Judge, or dead."

Alas! for reckless Blimme Blim—
One morning he was late—
A railroad he
Discerned. Ah! me—
He tried to beat the gate.
They gathered up his poor remains,
And in a box placed him;
So now, beware,
Ye speed fiends, 'ere
Ye meet the fate of Blim.

REJECTION OF PACT EXPLAINED

British Ambassador Tells Why Britain Rejected the Geneva Protocol.

HOPES FOR PEACE.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 22.—(Canadian Press.) — Reasons for Great Britain's rejection of the Geneva protocol for compulsory arbitration of international disputes and the hopes held out for future peace in Europe by means of a security pact proposed by Germany, were outlined last night by Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, in an address before the English speaking union.

"It is impossible to say now," he asserted, "how the security pact discussions will end, but we can at least all hope that they may lead to settlement by agreement and to the establishment of peace not dependent upon huge and ruinous armaments, but based on good will and common sense."

"If that comes about," Sir Esme continued, "the next disarmament conference will not be long in coming. If, on the other hand this hope also fades away and dies, why then I frankly do not see any other alternative than the maintenance of our national security—and what irony to call it security—by the force of arms and military alliances, which will mean crushing taxation, financial ruin and inevitable armageddon in the end.

FEMALE VOICE CHOIR CONCERT

Mrs. R. Bugg Directed a Splendid Effort For Worthy Causes.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

The concert and dance held in Victoria hall last evening, under the auspies of the Female Voice Choir, was very well patronized. About two hundred people attended the concert, and a large number came in later for the dance. The proceeds were devoted to the work of the Health Association and the Well Babies' Clinic.

The concert programme, which was presided over by Mayor Turner was very enjoyable. The director, Mrs. R. Bugg, deserves a great deal of credit for the training of the choir, which sang in sp'endid voice, showing careful attention on the part of the members and a soft tone production which was particularly pleasing in the choruses to the various solos.

The programme opened with a choral number, "Rio Nights," which was greeted with the applause that followed other members, as follows: Song, "Dolly, "by Little Barbara Gray; "Georgia Lullaby," by Mrs. Jackson; "Dreams," by Miss M. Allan; "Irish Lullaby," by Mrs. Brealey; song and dance, "Love Nest," by Miss A. Guerin; "Boy of Mine," by Miss J. Patterson; and "Peek-a-Boo," by Miss E. Harrison and children. This was a particularly fetching little selection, the soloist in masculine attire, and the children's chorus hiding behind chairs. "The Lost Dolly," by Miss Phyllis Pink, was an interesting interlude. The little fairylike tot, with starched white frock and tinsel head-band, forgot her lines on her first appearance, to reappear later, and go valiantly through her pretty little song. A vocal solo was given by Miss Ruby Quartermaine, a lengthy and well-rendered reading, "Tim and Me," by Mrs. A. Nicholls a song, "Demoiselle," by Miss M. Kitchen, and a children's chorus, "Snowflakes," by a group of little girls in white, graduated in size, their tinniest members extremely cunning little things. Solos in this were by Barbara Grey and Madeline Fletcher. A selection by the Bluebird orchestra, led by Bert Bugg, closed the first portion of the programme.

During the intermission, Mayor Turner in a neat speech, expressed thanks to Mrs. Bugg and her assistants for the excellent entertainment being provided, and for the thought which prompted so much hard work, for the good of such worthy causes.

The second section of the entertainment included a recitation, "Oh!" by little Jean Gray, and a "Squibbs" number, by Miss E. Harrison and choir, the soloist wearing the famous Betty Balfour hat and carrying a try of flowers, which were later sold to those present. Little Phyllis Pink did a loudly encored Highland Fling in costume, and was rewarded by a salute from the Mayor. "Lullaby Land" was a chorus, with solo work by the Misses Fletcher and J. Gray; Miss M. Kitchen sang "White Moon," Miss M. Allan sang "Whisper and I shall Hear," and Mrs. Jackson, in sweet voice, sang "Ma Curly-Headed Babby." Miss J. Patterson gave "The Old Rustic Bridge," and Mrs. Brealey's pretty voice was heard to great advantage in "O Sole Mio." Miss A. Guerin sang "Sally," and the vocal programme concluded with the choral number, "Rose Dreams"

Each of the soloists received pretty floral tributes, which added to the effectiveness of the pretty costumes worn Mrs. Bugg also received a large bouquet of roses.

At the conclusion of the entertainment, Mrs. Bugg thanked the audience for their patronage, and was answered by a loud hand clap.

Members of the choir are: Mesdames Pink Farthing, Matthews, A. McKinley, F. McKinley, Flegler, Dainton, LaGrow, Chatten, Brealey, Jackson, Kitchen, Cheu, Murray, Kearns, Fletcher, the Misses J. Patterson, J. Anderson, Phyllis Pink, M. Allan, E. Harrison, the Misses Parkins, Shurety and Fletcher, A. Guerin, M. Dainton, Ingham, LaGrow, Jackson, Kitchen, R. Quartermaine, J. Gray, B. Gray, Fisher, Rummary, Masters Jack LaGrow and J. Pink Mrs. R. Bugg acts as director and Miss Margaret Flowers as pianiste Mrs. B. Fletcher was convenor of refreshments for the dance which followed.

YOUR GARDEN

BUYING AND PLACING GARDEN FURNITURE.

The gardeners' year will soon be in full swing and it is none too soon to consider the subject of this article.

Garden furniture is so often wrongly placed and of poor design that a few pointers should be of value.

Choose simply designed iron or wooden benches, etc., and avoid elaborate scroll work, fancy cast iron designs or heavy twisted so-called rustic work. The former are more pleasing, sightly and less obstrusive, all of which points are desirable.

Select a piece for any given situation with care. Stone seats (artificial or marble) of severe design are most suitable for formal gardens and are more out of place in the average naturally arranged grounds. White painted furniture also is most suited to somewhat formal situations but may also be used in natural situations although naturalness is lost somewhat.

If the furniture (seats and tables) is to be grouped irregularly under trees or used in some natural spot where it should not be conspicuous, it should be painted a suitable shade of green or should be left to weather a natural gray. For this natural weathering cypress or teakwood furniture is best.

Seats should be placed with some definite relation to the house or to the formal garden. That is at the end of a walk which then becomes what is termed an axis. Other axes may be worked out in line with prominent windows. French doors, centre or end of a terrace (brick or sod) the gable end of a house or any feature which suggests a straight line with a possible terminus (the seat). Under strictly natural conditions, a seat may be set under a tree (preferably toward the boundary line) along the boundary planting in a bay or in a corner partially hidden from view. Never place a seat in the central part of a lawn when it appears as if dropped by accident. In such a case the seat (probably in the sun) is in too prominent a place for use (rest) and serves no good purpose. Likewise, arched or pergola seats should always be placed over a path and not at any angle in the centre of the lawn as so often seen. Also they should always be partially clothed in vines for that is their object rather than being left to show their entire framework. Last but not least, do not buy seats of various kinds for the sake of buying them just to clutter up the front lawn or the grounds, as seems to be the purpose of many. Decide on some definite and suitable place for them first.

Birdbaths, sun dials and similar objects should also be placed on some definite axis and be of simple and pleasing design. The low set birdbath, however, may be given an informal setting in almost any corner of the grounds. A cautionary word is necessary here, however. Do not plant any flowers or bushes close to the bird bath that prowling cats can conveniently sneak up on the birds without being seen. Also a good plan to place all baths where they can be seen from the porch or window as they afford a great deal of pleasure and the water supply will be well looked after.

Wall fountains deserve special mention as a feature that could be more often used especially in the city backyard. These should always be placed on axis. Other fountains should never be placed in the centre of a green lawn especially of informal outline. Some kind of a definite relation or axis is indicated here also.

Bird houses are an added attraction to any grounds which may be given freer treatment. They may be used in a balanced or formal treatment or set among the shrubbery preferably on the boundaries. As the focus for an axial point from a window they are excellent.

A very much abused lawn ornament is the ubiquitous flowering plant vase. These are usually of elaborate design and very poorly placed in relation to the house. Here again the proper place is along walks and not in the centre of the lawn or by its boundaries. The more formal the plants in the vase the more carefully should it be placed.

The space of this article will not allow me to discuss statuary or more elaborate garden ornament. Neither can I take up pergolas or summer houses which are a special subject. I have endeavored them to cover the smaller articles which are within the reach of the average owner of smaller gardens.

NON-CONCURRING PRESBYTERIANS RE-AFFIRM LOYALTY TO CHURCH AT BIG GATHERING IN ST PAUL'S Enthusiastic Get Together Social Was Held Last Night.

HEARTY CONCORD.

Delegates to General Assembly Named From All Three Churches.

It has been said that Presbyterians are "cold" and "reserved." Any person who has hitherto had this opinion should have been present at St. Paul's Church on Tuesday evening when the Sunday School Hall was filled to capacity with members, intending members and adherents of St. Paul's Church at what might be called a "Get Acquainted Gathering." It is interesting to note that this is the first time that the continuing Presbyterians in Peterborough have met together for a social time since the results of the Church Union vote were announced.

On entering the Sunday School Hall everyone received a tag, on which he was asked to write his name, so that formal introductions would not be necessary. They were then received by the members of the Session and Board of Managers.

The evening's proceedings were divided into two parts, the first half hour being devoted to business, when delegates were appointed to represent the non-concurring members of Knox, St. Andrew's and St. Paul's Churches at the General Assembly to be held in Toronto on June 8th and 10th.

William Madill acted as chairman and Rev. James Cuthbertson opened with prayer. Those appointed as delegates were: from St. Paul's, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. S. McKee and Mrs. W. R. Turner and Messrs. William Madill, James Dutton and Conrad. Representing Knox were Mrs. J. McPherson, Dr. J. M. McCulloch and Arthur McLeish Sr. Representing St. Andrew's: Mrs. Weir and Messrs. R. Lees and J. Hill. A resolution was adopted and carried unanimously that those present would stay with the continuing Presbyterian Church by whatsoever name it might be called.

Musical Programme

The second part of the evening took the form of a musical programme interspersed with short addresses by the chairman, Mr. Madill and Messrs. Sedgewick, E. F. Mason and Dutton. Each genteman in turn extended a hearty welcome to the Non-concurring Presbyterians who had found that circumstances forced them to leave their own churches and worship in St. Paul's. Mr Sedgewick described the gathering as an historic one, and one that would be remembered by the Presbyterians of Peterborough. He also remarked that it was indicative of the spirit that prevailed in the Presbyterian Church and that there could be no question as to the ultimate success of the outcome. Mr. Madill described it as a unique gathering, saying that they were meeting under unusual circumstances having passed through a crisis, and that this happy evening was a reward of the efforts they had put forth in days gone by.

E. F. Mason, chairman of the board of managers, gave a short outline of the financial conditions of the Church.

Great Opportunity

Mr. Dutton stated that the condition of the Presbyterian Church today presented a great opportunity and that the future depends on the way the people respond to the chal- with the intense desire to do his portunity that comes to them. He also said that success did not depend on the leaders of the church, on the minister, on the session or the board of management, but on each individual member. He said: "Everybody seems to be possessed with the intense dseire to do his best."

The musical programme was very enjoyable. Vocal solos were given by Miss Greta LeBarr, and readings by Mrs. S. McClelland and vocal solos by Messrs. Clark, Pratt and Dr. Smith of Lakefield, also an enjoyable quartette by Messrs. Anderson, McKeown, Chenhall and McLeish. Every number was heartiiy encored and was generously responded to.

During the evening occasion was taken to present Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbertson with a beautiful umbrella and leather club bag, before their departure for Japan, where they will again take up their work on the mission field. The following address was read by Mr. Madill, to which Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbertson responded in a few well chosen words.

An Address.

God sends great crises into the lives of His people in order to accomplish His own, all-wise purposes. We need such disciplining in order that we may see more clearly the value of things we have held all too lightly and that we may learn our dependence on Him.

The members and intending members of St. Paul's Congregation gathered here this evening realize that we have come through a time of testing. Issues and principles for which our forefathers gave their lives have been endangered and in order that they might be safeguarded we have been led, under God's guidance, to use every honorable method at our disposal, to ensure their preservation. Friends whom we have held dear have differed with and separated from us, to our mutual regret. But new and even deeper friendships have been formed. Many of those gathered here this evening have left the church homes which for years have been to them the outward symbol of the invisible church of which all true believers are members and which they have loved with a true and abiding affection. They, as well as the continuing members of St. Paul's Congregation, with devout and grateful hearts thank God to-night that our beautiful church home here has been preserved to us and that it is to be our privilege in the years that lie ahead to worship Him here in the same manner and based upon the same Confession of Faith that he has so honored during the hundreds of years since it was first formulated.

Even before the events of the past few months many of us had grown to esteem you and Mrs. Cuthbertson through contact with you from time to time during your sojournings in our midst and your ever ready willingness to promote in every way within your power the best interests of St. Paul's congregation. But we look upon you now with a new and deeper affection and regard. You have not spared yourselves to protect and maintain in such ways as you could those things which have been so dear and vital to us all. We have valued your fellowship of prayer, your divinely guided advice and spiritual leadership in our prayer meetings during recent weeks, as well as your ministry from the pulpit, have been a blessing to many and have marked out for us the path which God would have us take. The members of our Men's Association, and the officers of the Sunday school each have their special reasons for gratitude to you.

And now, God has called you once more to separate yourselves from us, and from your closest family ties, in order that you may further serve Him in the foreign land where already you have spent so many years of fruitful service. We desire, therefore, to-night in this united and public manner to give expression to our deep feelings of affection and regard by asking your acceptance of these slight gifts to you both. We realize that there are times of testing ahead for you and our prayers will be with you. The God of our forefathers, who is our God and your God, through the in-dwelling Christ, will ever prove His sufficiency, and we rejoice that you have tested and found this to be true in your own experience. We pray that God will continue to bless you and the great missionary enterprise with which you are so prominently identified, and we trust that you will be spared in the not far distant future to return and sojourn among and worship with us in St. Paul's.

Big Crowd Out.

The Ladies' Aid had charge of the refreshments, with the young ladies and young men assisting.

Mr. Madill mentioned the fact that in all his years of membership in St. Paul's Church, he had never seen the Sunday School Hall so full. It was so crowded that the ladies found it utterly impossible to serve refreshments, and the people were forced to adjourn to the church, occupying every alternate seat.

The coming anniversary was brought to the attention of the people, and promised to be an interesting event, the choir giving its annual concert on Monday, May 11. It has been very successful in obtaining as assisting artists for the occasion Miss Agnes Adie, soprano; Miss Jessie Butt, contralto; Harry Binns, tenor, and Frank Oldfield, baritone (Brunswick artist). The choir is practicing diligently and is arranging some very fine numbers.

An evening of historic interest was brought to a close by singing "God be with you till we meet again," Mr. Madill closing with prayer.

Deathless Wars Foretold By U. S. Warfare Chemist

Chemical warfare, the General said, is being developed along the lines of incapacitating great cities and their people, rather than attaining sudden loss of life.

Her Friend Says:
"SHE IS SKINNY"

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face, hollow cheeks and neck and run down looks.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing vitamines that make flesh, creates appetite, restores vigor, builds up the power to resist disease and chases away nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctors are prescribing and the people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, which Warne Drug Co. McDermid & Jury, Jas. Lynch and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

It is a wonderful upbuilding medicine for skinny, backward children, especially after sickness and 60 tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablet.

Just what are "bucket shops?"

Bucket shops are illegitimate brokerage houses which offer "inducements" to customers which legitimate brokers cannot offer such as lower commissions, reduced interest charges, and lower margins. This is possible because their transactions are not genuine. The bucket shops have no margin to maintain at the bank, no interest to pay on loans, and no commissions to other brokers or costs of handling securities—because they handle no securities.

Their business is to bet against the customers by book entries, instead of executing his orders as broker. Most inexperienced speculators are "bulls" so that in a long declining market the bucket shops win the bet, gobbling up customers money as profit. When the market turns, the bucket shops lose the bet and they close by the dozen. Whatever happens, the customer loses.

The bucket shops do not wish to exist on the commissions of a broker—they are after the cash capital of their customers.

HAD NO LICENSE; YOUTH IS FINED

Jack MacClelland Hired an Auto and Ran It Into Street Car.

Three cases were on the court docket this morning, two of which dealt with cars being driven by young men not possessing drivers' licences, while the other case was held "in camera."

Jack MacClelland, a young man under the age of eighteen, and not possessing the necessary permit, secured a car from Fontaine's Tax Service, it was said. At the corner of Hunter and George Streets he was halted abruptly by a street car which did considerable damage to the front section of the automobile.

J. Fontaine, when called upon to explain, attributed his negligence to a lapse of memory. The price of this lapse was a warning from the magistrate and a fine of $7.50 and costs. MacClelland paid a fine of $15.

Mr. James Guiry was fined $5 and costs for allowing his son, Emmett Guiry, to drive his car. The young man was under eighteen and had no driver's permit. The licenses of both car owners were endorsed.

The chief states that strict attention is being paid to offences of this nature, and issues a warning that all offenders will be treated similarly.

FLAMING CROSS SEEN 20 MILES

Impressive View From St. Lawrence at Night—To Welcome Immigrants.

BIG TASK.

MONTREAL, April — The St. Lawrence route is open for the season and ships bearing hundreds of new settlers for Canada are crossing the ocean and soon will be steaming up the river to Montreal, the present head of ocean navigation. One of the first sights to greet the newcomers to a new country this year will be a gigantic cross erected on the summit of Mount Royal, visible down the river for a distance of 20 miles or more and visualizing to the stranger a conception of Canada not unlike that afforded by the sight of the Statute of Liberty to the newly arrived immigrant to the port of New York.

The most impressive view of the cross is at night when it stands forth in the darkness as a beacon of light, illuminated, as it is, by means of 240 75 k. w. lamps, placed two feet apart, or 120 lamps to each facade of the cross. The cross itself is made of steel; it measures 100 feet in height, weighs 26 tons, and has a reactionary force of 57,000 pounds.

The concrete base is five feet deep, and the base of the steel structure has a diameter of 32 feet. It comprises 1830 pieecs joined together by 6376 rivets. The arms of the cross measure 30 feet in length, 12 feet on each side of the body of the cross.

Has Historical Significance.

The cross occupies a promontory 800 feet above the St. Lawrence on the summit of Mount Royal. Its erection is the outcome of a movement begun as far back as 1874 when Father Alexandre Marie Leschamps, P.S.S., suggested the commemoration of the act of Montreal's founder by the erection of such an edifice. The Society of St. Jean Baptiste has since kept the project alive but it was not until last year that means were found for giving it effect. The total cost will be more than $25,000. Some 88,000 Catholic school children in Montreal and 12,000 students in different colleges and convents have contributed to its cost.

Was Big Task.

The design was chosen by competition, 13 entries in all being submitted. Its erection required the labors of 121 persons. The cross is said to be the most monumental work of its kind in the world. The levelling of the rock and the drilling of the anchor holes required the extraction of 800 tons of stone.

A Montreal power company supplies free of charge the electricity for the illumination which is turned on and off by means of a clockwork device.

The first illumination was made on Christmas Eve and every night since the lighted cross has hung high above the city, visible to the greater part of the inhabitants and supplying a topic for wonder and admiration to the thousands of tourists who flock to Montreal.

SHOOTING FISH IS PROHIBITED

Cap Carson Issues Warning —Season is Closed Now, Anyhow.

SOME OFFENDERS.

Captain Carson, fish and game inspector, has been informed that men have been seen in this vicinity shooting ducks and maskinonge. He is investigating the rumor. The shooting of fish is forbidden at all times, and killing of 'lunge by any means is forbidden until June 16th. The season for ducks does not open till September 1, and steps will be taken to have punishment meted out to all offenders.

The officers of the local Fish and Game Protective Association call attention to the folly of killing fish at this time of year, before they have spawned, as it cuts down the supply for next year and following years.

BICYCLES ARE OVERLOOKED BY TAXATION AUTHORITIES

If City Jumped to Opportunity First it Could Raise $3,000.

BUY ROAD ROLLER.

Estimated There Are 3,000 Wheels in the City—Used For Convenience.

How many bicycles are there in Peterborough?

When a well known local bicycle dealer was asked this question by an Examiner representative he looked in horror and amazement at reporter who had the temerity to ask such a question. Then, when he realized that he had heard aright, came the answer "Why, I dunno—a couple thousand I guess." Another dealer gave his opinion that there were between four and five thousand in the city and vicinity. But for purposes of calculation just split the difference and call it three thousand. What a gold mine for the the first governing body that discovers it to tack a tax on. For if one person in seven in Peterborough has a bicycle and the same average applies to the rest of the province there are over 400,000 in Ontario. At $1.00 each the province would collect $400,000 while if the city beat them to it there would be $300 toward buying a new road roller and in three years it would be paid for.

Kept Count

A local young man who might be termed an average cyclist provides a few figures of interest. Being of a methodical turn of mind he installed a cyclometer and kept track of his expenditures and mileage and the figures used are taken from his records.

For repairs, tyres, etc., including the pretty red tail light which the government recently made obligatory his average expenditures have been around $7.00 per year and the average mileage has been 3000. This bicycle was used for riding to work and to ball games and around town generally.

If each of the 3000 odd bicycles in the city travels 1000 miles during the season, and no doubt that is a fair average, there is a total of 3,000,000 miles that the bicyclists of Peterborough travel without thinking that each turn of the pedals is helping to pile up such a stupendous total.

Another thing to consider is accommodations for bicycles. Almost every factory has sheds to protect the employees' whels. The C. G. E. shelter is large enough for about 200 and yet many bicycles are stowed under platforms and in other places. The schools all have large bicycle racks for the accommodation of the pupils' bicycles and many wheels are parked at store rear entrances.

What are they use for? The great majority are used for convenient transportation to work and school. A number are used for light delivery by the merchants and by messenger boys.

In former days the circular track at Nichol's Oval and the pathways through Jackson Park were the Mecca of hundreds of cyclists who gathered there of an evening and rode round and round simply for exercise and to see their friends. Nowadays very few are used for this purpose except by those young ladies desirous of developing a shapely calf. The present use of the bicycle is for convenience and efficiency although the riders incidentally get lots of exercise.

If any reader wishes to confirm these figures he might just stand outside any plant in the city and he will be convinced that 3000 is a small estimate.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

On the forward swing the clubhead, with whatever club is swung, should appear to be going downward just as it strikes the ball.

That is, there is a feeling, in the correctly made stroke, that the clubhead will bite through the ball and into the ground just in front of the ball. It does that with the iron, and the reason it doesn't do it with the driver is because the ball is teed. The brassie also takes a bite of turf and when there is a lie that does not make this action possible with the brassie head, use an iron. The clubhead snaps through the ball on a straight line parallel with the ground. This flattening of its path is what makes it appear that the clubhead will dig into the ground in front of the ball—that, and the action of reaching out after the ball. The whole weight of the body should be slapped against the ball, through quick hip action, when the clubhead thus hits. You "sit right down on the ball," as one pro recently expressed it.

SPRING SERIES.

By breaking even in the spring series with the Giants, the Washington club relieved considerable tension in American League circles.

When the series was arranged it wasn't regarded with favor. Had the world champs been vanquished it would have reacted strongly.

Certain magnates didn't like the idea of a club putting at stake the prestige that goes with winning baseball's highest honors.

Others entertained the thought that it savored a bit of the "bunk." That it was against the best interests of the game for two pennant winning clubs to barnstorm in the spring.

As a matter of fact, a rule was later passed by the American League owners forbidding any such series in the future.

BIG GAMBLE.

When I was in Augusta I discussed the meeting between the Giants and the Nationals with Ty Cobb.

"If I ever win a pennant and a world championship," said Cobb, "I wouldn't care to risk losing much of the prestige I had won by a spring series with the same team.

"The Giants are a corking good ball club and there is a chance for them to reverse the decision of last fall in an even more decisive fashion.

"If McGraw does, it will take much of the glamour from the Nats great victory of last fall, and to a certain extent will keep Washington from capitalizing in a financial way on that prestige.

"Incidentally, if Washington should be decisively defeated it isn't going to help the morale of the club in its battle to repeat."

"The world series is decided in the fall," was the way Manager Harris put it when I discussed the series with him. "I want to win the spring meeting, but regardless of the outcome, Washington is still the champ."

GAME CLUB.

For a time it looked as if the series was going to develop into a rout for Harris & Co. At one stage it stood five to one in favor of the Giants.

Even then Manager Harris wasn't discouraged. "My veteran pitchers are slow in rounding into form, and I would rather lose games than pitchers." Meaning, of course, that Harris didn't intend to take any chances.

Washington won a pennant in the American league last year simply because it refused to be beaten. The Nats are a game ball club.

On three different occasions last year Harris and his players suffered reverses that would have made a less courageous team curl up and quit.

After being apparently out of it in the spring series with the Giants, Washington staged a remarkable comeback, reversing the results of the first six games by capturing five of the last six contests.

* * *

A rout by the Giants would have hurt. However, the rout did not take place, instead the Nats got an even break, each club winning six games. As a result, the morale of the club will start strengthened rather than weakened.

SPRING TONIC FOR GOLFERS

As Prescribed by Alex Smith.

One often wonders why a little fellow, much lighter in weight, can drive as far as a big fellow.

The reason probably is that the little fellow has well developed forearms, wrists and hands. The forearms furnish much of the power. The hands supply the grip. And the wrists are the connecting link between the two.

The power of a drive should be felt in the hands and forearms. The co-ordination that exists between these two, other things being equal, determines a player's success on long shots.

 beaten par, as well as the   course record. **

There is nothing particularly interesting about a woman's bare foot (unless Mrs. Dalziel happens to be an exception to the general run of exhibits which have passed in review before our not altogether unappreciative eyes).

But the fad has possibilities. In Scotland, where the crime of golf originated, the ancients used to play in kilts, exposing to the world the human knee in all its primitive and unrouged characteristics.

 It is not—as any student   of anatomical research will   tell you—an interminably   long way from the fluttering   ankle to the blushing knee-   cap. And who knows but   this may be 400's next eye-   popping contribution to the   silly season? **

And you may read items like this in the sports section: "Mrs. Otis P. Flaxseed was unable to play in the club championship today because of a bunion on the right foot, which destroyed her putting finesse."

If the barefoot fad becomes general it will not be unusual to hear such comments as, "Hilda has a terrible swing but her ankles are certainly a distinct comfort to the eye."

AUGHT ON THE FLY!

The Belleville Ontario finds a little comfort when it considers the luck of those teams who have got out to practice ahead of the Grand Trunks. Incidentally they get in a sly dig at the practice of winning the pennant on the newspaper columns instead of on the field. The following extract expresses their opinion nicely.

"Many amateur ball games were played on Saturday in perfect weather and the good teams ran up against some snags. The Motor crew took a good licking from the Oslers and perhaps will now settle down and try to win the C.O.B.L. on the field instead of through the newspaper columns.

"The weather will set back the training so Belleville will be in as fine shape as any when the gong sounds."

PROTECTION POLICY OF

hundred, as compared with 96 cents per hundred from Hamilton. These rates were charged by the Canadian National Railway. "Why should the Canadian National Railways discriminate against Brantford in the shipment of its more important products to the West?" he asked.

Good Customer of C.N.R.

The Canadian National Railways "should never discriminate against the City of Brantford, that has been on of its very best customers."

In reply to L. J. Laduer (Conservative, Vancouver South), Mr. Raymond stated that "if they reduced the rates from Brantford down to the rates from Hamilton, we would be satisfied." He hoped that the discrimination against Brantford would soon be removed.

"I believe," stated Mr. Raymond, "in a revenue tariff," and believed it should be put on a reasonable and sound basis.

Several Progressives interrupted to point out that insofar as they were aware, no tariff reduction on farmers' wagons had been made in the Budget.

The leader of the Opposition in his Protectionist resolution, on the Order Paper, made all the misfortunes of the country the result of tariff. But every manufacturer would look at Mr. Meighen's resolution with caution. Manufacturers would recall that in 1919 Mr. Meighen swept the duty off farm tractors and they poured into this country, with the result that two Brantford industries went out of business. Manufacturers wondered if Mr. Meighen would do such things again.

Donald Sutherland (Conservative, South Oxford) interrupted to ask if Mr. Raymond would be in favor of entirely removing the duty on farm implements.

Mr. Raymond retorted that he was not aware that the Liberal policy was entirely to remove the duty. "When they voted for me, it was not my policy," said he. As one who confessed to "some protectionist proclivities," he could not see that the Conservative group in the House had really been courageous enough to come out strongly for Protection.

Shatter Confederation.

Personally, Mr. Raymond believed that if the Protectionist resolution tentatively sumitted by the leader of the Opposition could be carried out by any Government, "it would shatter Confederation." There was a sort of genius in the history of Canada which could be best described as the spirit of conciliation. On this spirit the warring provinces which had been at each others' throats had come to an agreement at Confederation. On this spirit peace had been reached between the French and English races in Canada. Only on this spirit of conciliation could be based a constructive policy for the whole of Canada, and Mr. Raymond believed that Premier King, who had "done more than anybody else to reconcile Labor and Capital" in Canada and in the United States, was the political leader most likely to successfully bring about such a spirit.

Government Tardy.

John Morrison (Progressive, Weyburn) was "disappointed at the tardiness of the Government," in the matter of tariff reduction. At the same time, he had grown tired of listening to the chronic fault-finding of the Conservative group, which seemed to consider it a duty to cry "Wolf, Wolf," when nothing was wrong.

Mr. Morrison stated that the Liberals had declared to the country during the last elections, that they favored a low tariff; but when one came to Parliament "it took a magnifying glass to find the difference between a Liberal and a Conservative."

The Tariff Board, in his opinion, would merely be something for the Government "to hide behind." Our railways should "cut down their overhead. Canada, stated Mr. Morrison, could not prosper under high freight rates. He regretted that the Prime Minister had not yet brought down the alternative vote bill as promised by him last session.

Mr. Morrison concluded his speech by briefly urging upon the government the necessity for immediate action, in introducing a bill to provide relief for Home Bank depositors who had lost savings through the failure of that bank.

A. M. Dechene (Liberal, Montmagny) speaking in French, criticized Progressive members for their over emphasis upon local problems. It was a spirit which tended to create many Canadas instead of one unified country. The debate on the Budget had revealed more than anything else this sectionalism. Last year Conservatives, in the Budget debate, had demanded tariff stability. When that was given to them this year in the Budget, they were still dissatisfied.

REFUGEES FROM BULGARIA SAY HUNDREDS SLAIN

Tzankoff's Military Tribunal Shot 600 Members of Peasant Party.

REVOLT GROWING.

Boris is of Foreign Stock and Not in Sympathy is Complaint.

ROME, April 22 (Canadian Press).—Refugees from Sofia who have arrived at Tsarlrod, a frontier town, say that Tzankoff's tribunals within two days shot 600 members of the Peasant Party. Refugees however, deny the statements being given out officially in Sofia to the effect that the revolution is being suppressed. The interior, they say, is seething with revolt.

Although the summary tribunals in Bulgaria are working day and night, events have made it plain that the Bulgarian police are unable to cope with the various counter plots which still are being made.

King Boris, although said to be personally courageous, is entirely under the influence of Tzankoff, whose heavy handed methods crush as many innocent as guilty. This fact is exasperating many who have no political game to play.

The Bulgarians once more are complaining that King Boris is not of their own stock, but the son of foreign parents and incapable of feeling as they do. But even in the event that he should abdicate, it is thought no better days would be in prospect, for Tzankoff's power already outweighs that of the king.

Boris with his sister, Eudosia, is prepared for orders to quit the country at any moment.

Peasants Dissatisfied.

BERLIN, April 22 (Canadian Press).—A special correspondent in Sofia reports that Bulgaria is trembling on the verge of revolution. The wholesale executions and fearsome terror imposed by the government upon the populace have resulted in peasant insurrections which are spreading. Although without doubt Communist propaganda has had its share in bringing about the crisis, the upheaval is due primarily to dissatisfaction with the Tzankoff regime, and with the king, on the part of the radically minded peasants. It is likely that King Boris will accept the invitation of Roumania to seek refuge there until the storm is over.

"JANICE MEREDITH" TELLS HISTORY OF DAYS OF '76.

Paul Revere's Ride, Washington Crossing the Delaware, Surrender at Yorktown, and Many Other Incidents of the Revolution Shown in Picture.

Spectacular scenes of famous episodes of the American Revolution are accurately reproduced in "Janice Meredith," Marion Davie's pretentious and beautiful Cosmopolitan production, which ends today at the Regent Theatre.

The skirimish at Lexington—"the shot that was heard around the world"—the breathless moment of suspense, waiting to see whether the British would fire the first shot in the American Revolution; the dauntless Minute Men bravely fighting against frightful odds—this is one of the thrilling scenes of the production.

Cowboy Pastimes in Big Gibson Western.

There is no country whose development from the raw state is so tinged with romance in any of its periods as is the case with that section of the United States which began wih cattle raising as its chief industry, in most cases the only industry.

Motion pictures have been a potent instrument in keeping alive the romance of the cattle range days. "Let 'Er Buck," taken from the novel by Charles Wellington Furlong, Universal - Gibson special being screened in the Royal Theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, an outstanding example of the kind of motion picture having an historic as well as an entertainment value.

For those who live in the present-day West, or anywhere for that matter, although in the case of those far distant a considerable expense is entailed, there is another instrument of perpetration and that is the rodeo or round-up. Several cities that once were the cowtowns of the plains hold these affairs as annual institutions, among them Cheyenne, Fort Worth and Pendleton, the latter considered to be the most important, is the place that Hoot's Company came to and made most of their pictures, using actual reodo scenes.

AT THE CAPITOL

"SEVEN CHANCES" HAS 700 BRIDES

Buster Keaton Just Can't Say "No" in Latest Comedy.

When it comes to money and marriaige in "Seven Chances," his latest Metro - Goldwyn comedy, coming tomorrow to the Capitol Theatre, Buster Keaton just can't say "No".

Buster starts out as a millionaire but, being of a most religious turn of mind, he sells all he has and gives the proceeds to the poor. Meanwhile some 700 women in bridal regalia answer his newspaper advertisement for a wife, believing him to have $7,000,000. And there the fun begins.

Belasco Thinks It's Best.

David Belasco considers "Seven Chances" the funniest stage comedy of recent years. And Buster Keaton has "gagged it up" until his film version is declared to be seven times as funny as the stage comedy was. Joseph M. Schenck purchased "Seven Chances' from David Belasco and released it through Metro-Goldwyn Pictures.

Buster's new leading woman in "Seven Chances" is Ruth Dwyer, who has just finished the lead in "White Fang."

"Seven Chances' was adapted from the David Belasco play by Jean Havez, Clyde Bruckman and Joe Mitchell. It was made under the supervision of Lou Anger.

Don't fail to see the one-act comedy, "The Right Word," with a theme based on a cross-word puzzle, which will be an added attraction at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next, April 27, 28, and 29.

Written by Miss K. L. McCarthy of The Examiner staff and produced under direction of Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, it has a very clever and well-known cast of local players. Vocal and instrumental Hawaiian guitar numbers will be introduced during the progress of the play.

INSURANCE POLICY.

Every man, woman and child who attends any performance of "The Seven Chances" the Buster Keaton comedy at the Capitol Theatre for the last half of this week will be comfortably conscious of the fact that they can laugh all they like at the versatile comedian. Every member of the audience has been insured in the sum of $1000 against death by laughter while attending this show.

The blanket policy which covers such an event is a bona fide policy, taken out with a bona fide insurance company by the management of the theatre.

MAY BE ORIGIN OF KLAN RUMOR

Story of Kluckers' Activities Here Makes the Rounds Fast.

SOMEONE NERVOUS.

Rumors that the Ku Klux Klan was organizing in the city have been ascribed by a number of citizens to a recent visit of the Knights Templar to the local Masonic Hall. The noble knights wear a long flowing robe in their ceremonies, and it is probable that some nervous citizen caught a glimpse of one of them during the night and didn't stop to look twice but fled to the shelter of his home, possibly hiding under the bed until his nerves had recovered their usual state of calm. On emerging in the morning he would, of course, tell all his friends and acquaintances of the ghostly figure he had seen and the rumor would start out on its rounds, gaining force with every new hearer.

The said nervous citizen, in his fright, would fail to notice the lack of the helmet with the tall spike, or if he did notice that it was missing, doubtless thought that, as the Klansmen are supposed to have dealings with the powers of darkness, the helmet had been taken off for a moment to cool the head of the wearer.

OLD TELEPHONE EXCHANGE GONE

Machine Telephone Company's Apparatus Has Been Dismantled.

HERE 19 YEARS.

The Peterboro Machine Telephone Exchange is no more. The machines which for nineteen years connected up the three hundred subscribers without listening in, were dismantled during the past week by Mr. W. H. Lytle of this city, and the delicate instruments have been sold as scrap. The cables throughout the city will be taken down next week. Mr. Lytle has the contract for dismantling the systems at Brantford and Lindsay, where the system was developed to a greater extent than in Peterboro, but which are also scheduled for destruction.

Noted Entertainer Is Coming to Peterboro'

The world-famous English elocutionist, John Duxbury, is to pay Peterboro a visit this week, giving a recital in George St. church on Friday evening.

Professor Duxbury is the head of the London School of Elocution, and as such holds the foremost place in his profession in the Empire. Through his hands there have passed many of the best-known orators and public men of the present in England and his own work as a dramatic interpreter has won him fame throughout the English speaking world.

His present visit to this side of the Atlantic has already added new triumphs to his long list of successes. He has spent some weeks in the leading cities of the United States, giving a series of ten recitals in President Coolidge's church in Washington. He is concluding his tour with a few weeks in Canada, covering the country from coast to coast, his services being in greater demand than can possibly be met.

He is a master of both humor and pathos, and those who are fortunate enough to get into the church here to listen to him will enjoy an evening long to be remembered. Among other selections to be given is Robrt Louis Stevenson's "Doctor Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" and his interpretation of that classic story is alone enough to thrill his hearers.

The recital will begin at 8.15 sharp and the doors will be open at 7.30. The advance sale of tickets has been heavy, and those who wish to hear him are strongly advised to be on hand with the opening of the doors of the church.

TRAINING YOUR DOG

How would you like to have a dog that does tricks? A dog that stands on his hind feet and begs, that jumps and stands on his head and does lots of other clever things?

You can teach your own dog to do tricks by following the series of articles written for The Examiner by Lowry L. Brancel, one of the most successful dog trainers in America.

This is the first of the series. Clip it out and paste it in your scrap book for reference.

If you would be pleased with double companionship on the part of your dog, teach him simple tricks.

Training in the successful accomplishment of tricks serves to give the dog a keen appreciation of his responsibility to his master.

You who know dogs of course know that they have their little vanities the same as their human brothers and sisters.

In selecting a dog, care should be taken to obtain the best type of dog for the purpose for which you desire to use him.

Terrier Lively Pet.

The smooth-haired fox terrier is the liveliest gayest, and most active of all dogs.

His sense of hearing is particularly acute, a faculty which makes him immensely valuable as a watchdog.

As for adaptability as a trick dog, the fox terrier has the "get up and get to it" temperament which is invaluable for this sort of training and he has plenty of style, making him pleasing to the eye.

Selecting the Dog.

Obtain a fox terrier about four months of age with a long pointed nose, V-shaped ears, large dark eyes and straight legs with plenty of bone.

The dog also should have a moderately long body, deep chest, ribs well sprung and good headquarters. He should weigh from eight to 18 pounds. To "top off" his appearance the dog's tail should be cut at the second joint.

Feeding the Dog.

The fox terrier MUST be fed in accordance with a regular schedule the year round. When two to six months old feed three times a day; from six months to a year feed a light breakfast and a well-cooked meal at supper time.

For breakfast feed him a cooked cereal, at noon give him one-half of an ordinary dog biscuit, and for supper well-boiled rice with meat, either cooked or raw, mixed thoroughly into the rice.

Another excellent supper for the dog is composed of toasted bread smothered with meat and broth in which it has been cooked.

By adhering exactly to a regular schedule of meal times and a rigid diet, you will find that the dog does not get fat or lazy.

DIRECTORS' APPEAL OPENS IN TORONTO

McMaster Contends Minutes Were Never Proved and Not Binding.

TORONTO, April 22 (Canadian Press).—In the first appeal of the Home Bank directors against their conviction and sentence by Judge Coatsworth of offences under the Bank Act, A. C. McMaster, counsel for Clarence F. Smith, of Montreal, argued this morning before the Supreme Court that there was no proof that his client had concurred in any statement of the bank's affairs, whether false or otherwise. Mr. Smith was found guilty of negligent concurrence and sentenced to six months in jail in the County Criminal court.

Mr. McMaster occupied his time this morning with argument repecting the minutes in the books of the bank, recording affairs on meetings of the board of directors. He argued that none of the minutes in these books had been proved at the trial before Judge Coatsworth. He declared that even if the minutes were correct, they were not binding on the directors, as there was nothing in the Bank Act to make them binding.

Mr. McMaster contended that there was no evidence that the minutes of the last annual meeting of the bank in June, 1923, had ever been proved.

Sir Henry Thornton Says C. N.R. Pays in Central Canada.

HEIRS TO DEFICIT.

OTTAWA, April 22. — (Canadian Press).—"We are trying to do the best we can with something that was handed to us," said Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian Railways, speaking before the special committee of the House of Commons this morning. We inherited many different corporations. We are not responsible for their capitalization, and I do not think the present financial conditions of the National Railways can be attributed to state ownership, but rather to circumstances to which we became heirs."

Sir Henry Drayton, who led the cross-examination of Sir Henry Thornton, agreed on this point. Sir Henry Thornton referred briefly to negotiations now under way between the two railways for economy in operation. He mentioned that the Canadian National lines in Western Canada and in the Maritime Provinces are not paying. The road's profits are on Central Canada lines and lines in the United States.

VOL. LVI., No. 95 PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1925 PRICE THREE CENTS

$585,848,974 SPENT BY DOMINION ON RAILWAYS IN LAST SIX YEARS LOAN REGARDED AS A LIABILITY

Herbert Marler, Montreal, Asks How Long Country Can Hold This Pace.

MUST SPEND LESS.

Says Robb Budget Follows Form of Budgets Prepared By Conservatives.

OTTAWA, April 23. — (Canadian Press). — Differing sharply from critics of the budget, Herbert Marler, Liberal, of St. Lawrence - St. George, Montreal, held in the House yesterday that the financial statement presented by Hon. J. A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, was "clear to analyze and clear in its effect." He did not agree that railway loans should be included in the total of the net consolidated debt. Operation of the National Railways had been "an extremely expensive matter" for the people of the Dominion, but while our railway debt was a debt of the Dominion, Mr. Marler thought it was another matter that it should be included in the consolidated debt.

For one reason, Mr. Marler argued, the question of public ownership was on trial, and if at any subsequent date it was terminated, "it would be distinctly preferable to have as large a part as possible of our railway debt kept separate from our other financial dealings." He submitted, however, that the public should each year be given a statement of the combined debt showing, in one part, the consolidated debt with its increases or decreases, and, in another part, any increase in the railway indebtedness.

Outlay in Six Years.

Mr. Marler estimated that in the last six years the Dominion had put $585,848,974 of new money into railways. "Members who are so much in favor of public ownership," he added, "or who desire extensions and costly improvements will pause for a moment and consider how long we can keep up this pace—or how any of them can expect a decrease in our taxation if this yearly expenditure is continued." The only way to reduce taxation was to spend less.

General A. E. Ross, Conservative of Kingston, following, spoke of Mr. Marler's remarks as a "second budget speech." Progressive predictions of the coming end of the Conservative party reminded General Ross of a boy whistling as he went through the woods — just to keep his courage up.

Mr. Marler deplored suggestions that had been made from the Opposition benches, and particularly by Hon. H. R. Stevens, that the budget speech was not an accurate presentation of the country's affairs. He asked if the leader of the Opposition was proud of the imputations that had been made against Cabinet Ministers and against the officers

PROTEST MILK CUT.

Oxford Farmers Object to Reduction By Toronto Dairy.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., April 23.—The farmers of Oxford county who ship their milk to the Toronto City Dairy are up in arms against the cut of 25 cents per eight gallon can in their payments which will go into effect May 1 here, according to an announcement made by Fred. Dean, local manager of the Toronto concern. Throughout the winter the company has been paying $1.95 per eight gallon can and the new price after May 1, will be $1.70. The farmers' viewpoint is that owing to the increased cost of feed and the scarcity of farm labor, it costs them just as much to produce milk now as when the $1.95 price went into effect.

JARVIS OUT OF CUSTODY TO-DAY

Fine Was Paid Yesterday and He Left Jail This Morning.

SERVED SIX MONTHS.

TORONTO, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—Amelius Jarvis, Sr., was released from the municipal farm at Langstaff shortly after midnight this morning, following the completion of the six months' sentence imposed upon him by Chief Justice R. M. Meredith on his conviction by jury in the Criminal Assize Court last October for the part he took, together with Peter Smith, ex-Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, in Provincial bond scandals.

The revised fine of $60,000 which the Appeal Court had imposed on Mr. Jarvis in place of the $600,000 joint Jarvis-Smith fine, was paid yesterday afternoon, thus leaving nothing in the way of his release from custody. Mr. Jarvis had previously made restitution to the Province to the extent of $140,000, which fact was considered by the Appellate Division when it varied the fine imposed by the trial judge.

The City of Toronto has now launched proceedings to secure the sixty thousand fine.

GERMANS FEAR LOAN BOYCOTT

Alleged Statement of Kellogg Being Used to Offset Fear.

AIDS HINDENBURG.

By Carl D. Groat
(United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, April 23.—The "Empire Bloc" to-day made use of a statement alleged to have been made by Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg to promote the candidacy of General Hindenburg.

The Nationalist organ, the Lokal Anzeiger, quotes Kellogg as saying, "The United States Government will not be connected with any attempt to financially boycott Germany even if Hindenburg is elected President."

The Lokal Anzeiger's interpretation of this is:

"Kellogg opposes the loan swindle."

Other Nationalist papers carried head lines to the effect that "Kellogg denies the rumor that the American loan policy will be changed if Hindenburg is elected."

The Opposition, supporting the candidacy of ex-Chancellor Marx, did not claim the American Government would boycott Germany, but dealt with the prospects of a Wall Street boycott.

LABORITES SAW MANY ARRESTS

Three Members of Parliament Were in Sofia at Time of Outrage.

MANY IN CUSTODY.

BELGRADE, Jugo Slavia, April 23.—(Canadian Press)—Three Labor members of the British Parliament who arrived yesterday from Sofia, Bulgaria, declared that they were convinced that several hundred persons were killed without trial and on the merest presumption after the recent bomb explosion in the Cathedral in Sofia.

Those who arrived were Josiah C. Wedgword, W. Machinder and P. D. Malone. They were in Sofia at the time of the bomb outrage and during subsequent events.

"We employed all the influence at our disposal to induce the Government to prevent the militarists from massacreing men and women apprehended in the course of the recent police operations. Thousands of persons suspected of Communist tendencies or of belonging to the Left Socialist party were held in custody.

"On Monday after the explosion we saw forty arrests within five minutes, and this continued four days after the police began their search."

COTTON ENQUIRY FAILS.

No Practical Results From British Conference.

MANCESTER, England, April 23.—The conference of the British cotton industry which began sessions here on April 3 in an effort to find means for spreading the heavy losses of the last three years and to reduce production costs will not be able to announce practical results until much more thorough investigations are conducted, states an official report issued yesterday. A permanent committee of of employers' organizations has been appointed by all other questions have been deferred for future consideration. No question of an immediate reduction of prices is contemplated, the report states.

He went a wooing again this year, and as a result has just led to the altar Mrs. Emma Davis Raymond, who also is 71.

HERRIOT GIVEN PRESIDENCY OF LOWER CHAMBER

Balloting For Coveted Position Suspended as Fighting Deputies Invade Rostrum.

RIOTOUS SESSION.

New Ministry Face Senate To-day Seeking Vote of Confidence.

PARIS, April 23. — (Canadian Press). — Edouard Herriot, former Premier, was elected to the coveted Presidency of the Chamber of Deputies yesterday in one of the stormiest sessions ever staged there. He suffered a studied affront from the Opposition, however, as M. Herriot was the only candidate who failed of election on the first ballot, his supporters lacking thirteen of constituting a majority of the Chamber membership necessary for a quorum.

On the second ballot he was really unanimously elected, 267 to 1 as this negative vote, it was learned, was cast by M. Herriot himself.

Fist fighting is no novelty in the French Lower House, but yesterday the presiding officer expressed the greatest indignation that the deputies should carry their rioting into the rostrum itself, even upsetting the chair of the President, who immediately donned his silk hat as a signal that the session was suspended.

Fighting General.

This conflict ensued during the second balloting, when Deputy Balanaut charged that ten deputies had voted twice. Two Socialist deputies attacked him, and the fight became general.

The Cabinet triumvirate, Painleve, Caillaux and Briand, face the Senate to-day and will ask for a vote of confidence on the Ministerial declaration presented Tuesday. M. Caillaux will appear before a body, half the members of which sat in judgment upon him when he was sentenced to imprisonment and exile and stripped of his civil rights. Though it is expected that the senators will be reasonably peaceful, there is no concealment that a strong hostility to Caillaux exists in the Upper House.

Will Hear Triumvirs.

The Senate is credited with the intention of following tradition and allowing the new Ministry to show definite plans and specific acts before it passes judgment. M. Caillaux's tactics in refusing to become involved in the controversy in the Chamber Tuesday over his past are taken as proof that he will confine himself to financial matters before the Senate, if he speaks at all.

The Finance Minister really began his Parliamentary financial work last evening by appearing before the Chamber Finance Commission and pushing through a recommendation for the May and June monthly credits, which must be adopted before the Senate and Chamber adjourn for the municipal elections.

BRITAIN TO CONTROL BUSINESS IN FOODS

Royal Commission on Food Prices is Making Drastic Proposals in Report.

LONDON, April 23.—(Canadian Press). — The Morning Post forecasts an interim report dealing with bread and meat by the Royal Commission appointed last December to investigate food prices. The paper says it is understood that drastic proposals are contemplated, among them the establishment of a great new department of state with wide powers, including the authorization to examine shopkeepers' books, supervise their methods of trade and even to become financially interested in importing.

LONE WOMAN FOUND BURNED TO DEATH

Thought She Swooned With Lamp in Her Hand, Causing Fire.

TILLSONBURG, Ont., April 23. —(Canadian Press). — Alarmed at the non-appearance of Mrs. Jane Bowman, neighbors went to her residence yesterday, and, peering through a window, saw her dead body lying near the stove and grasping a lamp in her hand.

The body from the shoulders down was practically burned to a crisp. The deceased, having a heavy cold, it is surmised, got out of bed to obtain a mustard plaster and swooned. The deceased lived alone, and was in her 64th year.

Recovered His $20

WARSAW, April 23. — A farmer, who had syrup on the market, dropped a $20 bill. He went to The Examiner office to avertise it, and was not long recovering his money.

OTTAWA ENQUIRY.

North Atlantitc Conference Confers Benefits on Shipper, Official Says.

OTTAWA, April 22 (By Canadian Press()—"The conference is in no way a combine as generally understood by the word," asserted Col. William I. Gear, Vice-President of the Robert Reford Company, before the special committee on ocean rates yesterday afternoon. To strangle trade by going to extremes in ocean rates was no object of the North Atlantic Conference, he declared. Not only did the conference not extort excessive rates, but it conferred numerous benefits on the shipper in th line of regularity of service, reduction in insurance premiums, improved accommodation, etc.

"The opinion has been expressed that New York governs the conference. We deny this absolutely," Col. Gear continued.

"There is no discrimination in tariffs as between United States and Canadian ports. We quote the same rates to London, Liverpool and Glasgow as are quoted by any other U. S. port." He pointed out that no conference rates were fixed on eastbound grain, flour or cattle. Two Cunard liners which operated on the St. Lawrence route in 1924 had been withdrawn from this service because of their losses, Col. Gear said.

Cross - examination of David Young, chartered accountant and member of the firm of Price-Waterhouse and Company was concluded yesterday.

Mr. Young was cross-examined on a statement covering the operation of cargo-boats in the North Atlantic Canadian trade, presented Tuesday.

Statement Meaningless

"I am going to suggest to the committee when the time comes, that this means nothing and that we must have actual voyage accounts,'" remarked H. J. Symington, K.C. counsel for the government, in regard to the statement which showed large losses in operations, when depreciation was considered, during 1923 and 1924.

William Duff, of Lunenburg, a member of the committee, asserted that the statement presentd by Mr. Young was "no good" as it gave the committee no information in regard to the operations of individual lines.

Sir Henry Drayton remarked that the figures of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine were available.

Mr .Duff replied that he didn't consider that the Merchant Marine was well operated.

Sir Henry Drayton retorted that Sir Henry Thornton differed from Mr. Duff.

Mr. Duff remarked that Sir Henry Thornton was busy operating a railway.

Hon. H. H. Stevens expressed the opinion that the committee should devote itself to consideration of the Petersen contract or take up some other concrete proposal.

Mr. Duff said he thought it was important first to determine whether or not rates charged were excessive. He thought, however, that the steamship companies should be compelled to present actual figures of operation.

Confidential Accounts

G. H. Montgomery, counsel for the shipping companies, informed the committee that his clients did not propose to spread out their voyage account and other confidenital documents for public perusal. It would be unfair to ask them to do this. He hoped, however, that some

Last night was the warmest night of the present season, the lowest the temperature going being but 45 degrees; by 7 a.m., it had gone up ten degrees, with the likelihood of reaching its highest spring record before the day was over. A falling barometer this morning denotes showers on the way. Last evening the roads were dry, and the dust flving, boys were playing the great American game of baseball on Central Park, and elsewhere, and yet only a day or two previous there was almost a foot of wet sodden snow on the ground! This only goes to prove that the ground was unusually dry this spring. There is little sign as yet of the trees budding, but a few warm days may work wonders. In connection therewith, a retired farmer told me recently that in a long lifetime he had only known the trees to be in leaf by the first of May on two occasions—1870, and I think, 1907. The spring of 1870 was the year of the great snowstorms in March, and the subsequent great flood in the Otonabee; 1907 was the year of the 6 inch snow storm on May 4.—W.P.

Rumors Of Reprisals In Bulgaria Exaggerated

SOFIA, April 23—Regarding the wild rumors in circulation that thousands of persons have been killed or arrested since the bomb explosion in the Sveti Kral Cathedral, it is learned from what is considered trustworthy authority that these are gross exaggerations. Although detailed information is lacking, the number killed, it is declared, does not amount to more than a few dozen. There have been 1,500 arrests, but many of those taken by the authorities have already been released.

MAKE FOLK PAY FOR NEGLIGENCE IN FIRE LOSSES

Suggestion of Dominion Fire Prevention Association in Convention.

OTHER PROPOSALS.

Would Compel Municipalities to Instal Adequate Fire Fighting Equipment.

OTTAWA, April 23. — Cancellation of all insurance benefit to persons who through their own negligence are responsinble for fires, is to be urged upon all provincial governments by representatives of the Dominion Fire Prevention Association.

At the Association's convention, which concluded yesterday afternoon questions involving federal and provincial legislation were decided.

Among the recommendations made are the following:

That Federal, Provincial and Municipal Governments be urged to instal sprinkler equipment on all public buildings.

That moving picture films be so labelled when being transported from one point to another that ample warning may be given as to their degree of inflammability.

That Provincial governments be urged to make it compulsor for all municipalities to instal adequate fire tinguishing equipment.

That all isolated rural and farm property be provided at least with one chemical extinguisher or portable hand pump of approved type for fire extinguishing purposes.

JOINT BOARD OF ENGINEERS TO INVESTIGATE EFFECT OF WATER DIVERSION ON LEVELS OF LAKES

Instructions by United States and Canadian Governments Are Made Public.

PLAN OF ENQUIRY.

To Determine Best Scheme For Improvement of St. Lawrence Waterway.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 23. — Lake levels in their relation to any diversion of water at present licensed, as well as in their relation to the waterways scheme immediately under consideration, will be investigated by the enlarged joint engineering board which will investigate the St. Lawrence waterway scheme on behalf of Canada and the United States. A copy of the instructions issued by both governments to their representatives on this board, is included in a file of correspondence tabled in the House of Commons to-day.

The file reveals that there was considerable difference of opinion between the two governments as to the propriety of including in the order of reference the present diversion of water from the Great Lakes by Chicago.

Scope of Enquiry.

The engineers are instructed to find the best scheme for the improvement of the St. Lawrence waterway; to examine minutely the possible effect of any such scheme of international or local interests entitled to consideration, or on such matters as current, ice formation, or the general levels of the watershed; whether the estimates of cost should be revised, and what would be the respective costs for improving the river for navigation alone or for power alone; what part of the proposed works could be in the interests of economy, constructed and operated under an international board; what the channel depths should be; whether the Welland Canal should be included in the scheme; what would be the cost of improving and deepening the main navigation channels between and through the lakes; how long the project would take to complete, and what progress it would be necessary to make yearly to ensure the best results.

Probe Diversions.

There was considerable correspondence between Ottawa and Washington governments on the order of reference to the engineers on the subject of water diversion. Canada wanted an inquiry into the diversion from the Great Lakes by the Chicago drainage canal. On its side the United States government wanted to include an inquiry into the diversion from Lake Erie and the St. Lawrence watershed generally of water for power purposes generally.

Canada argued that the latter diversion did not reduce lake levels, because the water after being used, was returned to the same channels.

In the case of the Chicago diversion the water finds its way into the Mississippi. Finally the two governments agreed to the following instructions to the joint engineering Board on this subject:

How are "water levels in St. Lawrence River and on the lakes affected by diversions authorized by license by either Canada or the United States?" and "by what measures could the water levels of navigable depths affected by the diversions be restored and what would be the cost thereof?"

The engineers are also instructed to ascertain how much power could be developed on the St. Lawrence River with the water diverted under license, and without considering compensation by the relative diversions what works could be constructed to recover the amount of power so lost?

These instructions, it is pointed out here, include inquiry into the Chicago diversion.

Titled English Sisters Die At Almost Same Hour

LONDON, April 23. — (Canadian Press).—Lady Frederick Cavendish, widow of Lord Frederick Cavendish, died at ten o'clock last night at her home in Tunbridge. She was 84 years old. By a strange coincidence, her sister, the Hon. Mrs. Talbot, died at 8.15 o'clock last night at Edenbridge, near Tunbridge.

Lord Frederick Cavendish, husband of Lady Cavendish, was assassinated in Phoenix Park, Dublin, in May, 1882. At the time he was Chief Secretary for Ireland.

RELIEF NEEDED BY 10,618 TAXES LIMIT OF FUNDS

Hundreds of Others in Glace Bay Alone Too Proud To Ask Aid.

2,100 FAMILIES.

The Failure of Negotiations Leaves Community Dazed In Their Disappointment.

GLACE BAY, N. S., April 23. — (Canadian Press). — The following statement signed by Rev. M. A. Macadan, parish priest, and Rev. A. M. McLeod, was issued last night by the Glace Bay Relief Committee:

"To-morrow, 2,100 families, a total of 10,618 dependents, in Glace Bay alone, will require rations from the Relief Committee. The amount of energy and supplies necessary for this effort is taxing the committee to the utmost. No effort is being spared to ensure that those in need will get their rations. There are hundreds who have not and will not apply at the relief stations. Conditions are thus worse than any figures have yet depicted them.

"Coupled with the disappointment that has followed the breakdown of wage negotiations this makes the most pitiable story ever recorded in the annals of the community. Volleyed between hope and disappointment our community is bewildered. Its future is a bigger puzzle than its present. Every assistance granted is a contribution to the upkeep of its morale. Appreciation for every effort made by our friends is hereby expressed."

HOPE ABANDONED.

Sir Augustus Nanton Has Been Unconscious 36 Hours.

TORONTO, April 23. — For thirty six hours Sir Augustus Nanton, the president of the Dominion Bank and one of Canada's outstanding business men, has been unconscious and it is now believed that his death is only a question of hours.

All hope for his recovery from the illness that attacked him several weeks ago has been abandoned and all members of his immediate family are at his bedside at his home on Castle Frank Road.

Proposal To Reduce The Membership Of Commons

OTTAWA, April 23—Reduction in the membership of the House of Commons is sought in a petition to His Majesty, of which notice was given in the Senate yesterday by Senator Lynch Staunton. He suggests that the representation from Quebec, which is the fixed factor on which Dominion representation from the rest of the country is based, be reduced from 65 to 50, so that the unit or representation could be reduced all over the country.

The Senate, after transacting routine business, adjourned until Thursday afternoon.

HOMERIC COULD HAVE RESCUED SOME SAILORS

Passengers Assert Japanese Could Have Been Saved By Boats.

OTHERS DISSENT.

Captain Roberts Given Testimonial by More Than Half First Class List.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(Canadian Press). — The White Star liner Homeric docked here last night with the passenger list divided, in regard to the possibility that at least some of the 38 members of the crew of the Japanese freighter Rai Fuku Maru, which sank Tuesday, might have been saved.

Many passengers reported that they had seen Japanese seamen either swimming or being swept toward the Homeric after the freighter floundered, and that they believed they might have been saved had lifeboats been lowered from the liner. At least an equal number declared that everything possible had been done. Captain John Roberts was given a testimonial signed by 123 of the 239 first-class passengers.

Seaton L. Lewis, an attorney of New York, was among the passengers who expressed anger over the manner in which the attempted rescue was handled. "I was not impressed that the Homeric upheld the tradition of English sailors," he said.

"I saw several men struggling in the water for some time after the Japanese ship capsized." Mr. Lewis also expressed regret that the Homeric had not remained in the vicinity of the foundered vessel after it turned over and sank.

Another passenger who told a graphic story and who believed he had seen bodies in the water was Raymond E. Wolf, a member of the University of Pennsylvania relay team.

"I saw the Japanese boat until the last," he said. "Its rigging and smoke stack were dipping into the water, and its crew were huddled on the high side of the bridge, which was the highest point out of the water. Heavy seas and salt water spray hid them from sight at times and splashed over the Homeric.

"During the hour that the huge liner lay alongside the sinking freighter the Rev. James J. Talbot, pastor of the Old St. Patrick's Cathedral, in Mulberry Street, stood in the stern of the Homeric with bared head praying for those aboard the freighter. When the ship foundered he gave a general absolution for the drowning seamen."

"Standing in the stern of the Homeric, I could see the heads and shoulders of the Japanese seamen banked against the sky," said Father Talbot. "They were apparently trying to climb to the highest point on the bridge as their vessel was listing about sixty degrees. I counted about twenty seamen.

"I have frequently seen death, but that was the most tragic disaster I have witnessed."

PRISONS FILLED TO OVERFLOWING

Cellars and Dungeons Being Pressed Into Service in Bulgaria.

SEARCHING HOUSES.

(By Robert Best, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

VIENNA, April 23. — The prisons of Bulgaria are filled to overflowing. Cellars and dungeons—any place in which the thousands of prisoners taken by the government in its campaign to suppress its opponents can be penned—are being pressed into service as the house to house search goes on.

Such is the picture of conditions in Bulgaria presented by Sofia despatches and by a commission of three British members of parliament who personally investigated the situation.

Charles S. Wilson, the American ambassador, is reported to have joined other foreign diplomats at Sofia in a protest to the Zankoff government against such extreme measures.

FLAWS IN TALE OF ROBBERY AT BUTCHER'S FIRE

Windsor Police Investigating Story of Hold-up Preceding Fire in Shop.

DAMAGE OF $1,000.

Butcher Ran to Doctors—Said He Did Not Notice Fire in Store.

WINDSOR, Ont., April 23—While Hercules Bezeau, who told police he was beaten, cut and robbed of $600 in his butcher shop at 1601 London St., West, shortly after midnight Monday by three armed and masked bandits who locked him in an ice box and set fire to the shop, is being held in custody, the police are checking up on his story.

Bezeau was questioned yesterday afternoon by F. P. Heaton, Fire Marshall of Toronto, who police say found several discrepancies in Bezeau's story.

Bezeau said that the bandits after binding him with a long rope and locking him in the ice box placed a meat block weighing 500 pounds against the door.

Bezeau said he escaped from the ice box after cutting the rope with knives he found inside the refrigerator. The meat block, the police say, was still aagainst the ice box door when they arrived there an hour after the alleged attack. The knives Bezeau said he had used to cut his bonds were on the meat block they said.

An inspection of the clothing said the bandits had been "literally torn from him" showed intact and free from bloodstains. And the "long rope" the bandits according to Bezeau used to bind him proved a short piece of such as used to tie up parcels.

Bezeau said that after freeing himself he ran to the home of a physician two blocks away. He said he did not notice the shop was on fire. Passers-by who noticed the fire turned in a fire alarm. The damage to the shop was $1,000.

WINNIPEG, April 23. — The body of an unidenified man was found yesterday hanging from a tree on the shores of Lake Minitaki, Ont., acording to word received here.

The discovery was made by a party of three hunters who reported that the condition of the body indicated that the man had committed suicide some time last fall.

COMMITTEE FORMED.

Church Union Property Committee Headed By J. D. Falconbridge.

TORONTO, April 23. — Attorney-General Nickle has received from J. D. Falconbridge, K. C., notice of his acceptance of the appointment to the chairmanship of the Church Union Property Commission.

Mr. Falconbridge is getting in touch with the other members of the commission and will get down to work in a few days.

PROTEST CLAIM.

Province May Test Right of Toronto to Jarvis Fine.

TORONTO, Apil 23. — Attorney-General Nickle intimated to-day that the province might test the constitutionality of the Dominion legislation under which the city of Toronto is claiming the sixty thousand dollar fine paid yesterday by Aemilus Jarvis, Senior.

It has been contended that the Dominion law is ultra vires, was Mr. Nickle's brief statement. He suggested that the province might be satisfied with a "split" of the fine.

Enthusiastic Meeting Of Gallagher Salesmen

Held Monday Evening—Directors and Salesmen Have Round Table Conference.

One of the most enthusiastic and interesting meetings ever held by the Gallagher Remedy Co., Limited, was a gathering of the salesmen of the company to meet each other and the directors of the company in a round table conference on Monday evening last, when about twenty sat down to a most excellent turkey dinner at the Empress Hotel.

In opening the discussion, Mr. Walter H. Kidd, the president of the company, expressed his gratitude at the good turnout though a number of salesmen were unable to be present. In a few words, he stressed the reasons why the company was building on a solid foundation, namely a line of Herbal Remedies tried and proven over a long period of time, a directorate of business and professional men of ability and standing in the community, and now the nucleus of a force of enthusiastic salesmen of ability and character as represented by the men present at this gathering.

Mr. A. R. Pilkey of Orillia, one of the medal salesmen, spoke for some time, giving case after case where Gallagher's Remedies had restored people to health after all other things had apparently failed. One case was that of his own daughter suffering from asthma for fifteen years on whom large sums of money had been expended to no purpose, and at the time of commencing on Gallagher's required frequent hypodermics. She took the Blood Purifier, Kidney Remedy and Lung Remedy two years ago and has had no return for the trouble for over a year, her chest has developed and a substantial gain in weight, and is a well, robust girl to-day. He cited many cases of Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, Eczema, Stomach Trouble, etc., with equally good results, and said he liked to get those hard cases where other medicinal help had failed. In concluding, he said, he believed there were no remedies in the world equal to Gallagher's Remedies.

Mr. Dunford of Chatham spoke along similar lines, giving a few specific cases of relief from Kidney Stones, a Mr. Appelle and a Mr. Kronz of Pembroke both being completely relieved of these ailments without any operation, and have remained in good health ever since. He also cited a case of Pneumonia where the Golden Drops Plaster placed on the front and back of the chest had relieved a child in less than two days after hope had been given up of recovery. The president also stated that he had a letter from this child's mother, corroborating the statement. Mr. Pilkey said he had had similar cases.

Mr. Paul F. Bilger of Stratford related similar experiences and stated that the whole thirteen of the family lines comprising Gallagher's Remedies were each equally good for the purpose intended, and said he could talk all night on the results obtained by the intelligent and persistent use of the Remedies.

Mr. Harry W. Jones of Peterborough gave specific cases of Gall Stones which had been relieved without any operation and said that after four years of selling the Gallagher Remedies in Peterborough County he was selling more than ever.

Mr. Will S. Jones of Trenton related a case of Gangrene healed completely by Gallagher's Golden Drops and said he did not require any printed testimonials, for the reason that he could get sufficient sensational testimonies in his own territory without going outside. He spoke of the splendid sale of Gallagher's Liniment Life Drops, which he had established.

Mr. Leeson of Belleville, Mr. Switzer of Virginia, and Mr. Risto of Windsor, all spoke enthusiastically of the sale of the remedies in their respective districts and of the results they had seen following the use of these herbal medicines.

Mr. A. Schneider of Mitchell said he had Asthma for some years before taking Gallagher's, but is completely relieved and had passed through the past winter without even a cold. While only with the company a short time, he was already getting the results experienced by the others.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, in rising to speak as a director of the company, said that the evidence as to the value of the remedies was overwhelming, and on the evidence so far, predicted certain financial success for the shareholders. He advised the salesmen to buy a few shares in the company, if possible, so that they would feel themselves a part of it.

Mr. J. E. Smith stated that the salesmen were assured that the directorate would stand behind them to the limit and would give serious consideration to any suggestion offered.

Mr. B. D. Hall complimented the management on having in such a short space of time gathered together such a splendid staff of salesmen as represented there that night and that he would be delighted to make the acquaintance of the salesmen who were unable to be present, if they were of the same calibre.

Mr. John A. Dewart, also speaking on behalf of the directors, told the salesmen that from the evidence submitted they were doing a missionary and humanitarian work unexcelled by any body of men engaged in the relief of human suffering.

A pleasing event of the evening was the presentation by Mr. John A. Dewart on behalf of the company of medals and cheques to the company's star salesmen. Messrs. Harry W. Jones, Paul F. Bilger, Will S. Jones and Alex. R. Pilkey.

The gathering was so enthusiastic that it did not break up until midnight. A Senior and Junior Salesmen's Contest for the present year was announced.

STORES TO CLOSE ON EVERY FRIDAY

Campbellford Merchants Are More Nearly Unanimous Than Last Year.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23. — John A. Linton and J. M. Ferris interviewed the business men of the town yesterday and secured the signature of sixty to an agreement to close their stores at 12.30 every Friday afternoon during the months of May, June, July, August, September and October. Four of the dealers approached refused to sign, but at least one of them is considering the matter and may yet join the majority. The first day of May this year happens to fall on a Friday so that no time will be lost in giving the agreement effect.

The practical unanimity among the business men means the elimination of the danger of any such difference of opinion that arose over this problem last summer when a large number were in favor of closing the stores on Thursday afternoons.

The butchers have not yet decided to close but there is a chance that they will take the matter over among themselves and decide to do so.

Real Estate Deal.

Charles Longmuir, who recently sold his farm, stock and implements in Seymour, being compelled to give up active work on account of failing health, has purchased the property of George O'Sullivan, near the new power house at Dam 9. The new owner intends to devote his attention to the raising of poultry. The property consists of a tract of land suitable for gardening, a comfortable residence and an up-to-date poultry house.

Stanbury—Wynne.

A quiet wedding was held on Wednesday afternoon at the Seymour Parsonage, when Rev. C. F. McIntosh united in marriage Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wynne, of Seymour, and Edward Stanbury, of town. The young couple were attended by Miss Harriet Potts and Ross Wynne, the latter a brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Stanbury will reside in Campbellford, having taken a house on the Grand Road.

Personals.

John I. Adams, who has been ill for some time, shows little signs of improvement.

John O'Donohue, High School teacher at Port Arthur, is seriously ill at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Donohue, Rear street.

John Milklejohn, who went to Toronto hospital for medical treatment some time ago, is expected home to-day. Word has reached his friends here that the doctors have decided that an operation is not necessary.

J. D. Cumming left on Wednesday morning for Farnham, near Buffalo, to visit his brother-in-law, Dr. T. H. Johnston.

Miss May Johnston left Wednesday morning for Toronto.

Charles H. Davidson went to Oshawa yesterday and returned with two new cars for his garage.

GRAIN VALUE HIGHER.

U. S. Exports For Nine Months Increase By $231,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—One result of the violent fluctuation in grain prices during the last six months was noted yesterday by commerce department calculations that the value of grain exports for the nine months ending with March was $231,000,000 in excess of those during the same period a year ago.

For March alone grain exports were valued at more than $39,000,000, the increased price of wheat being largely responsible for the gain.

Total value of grain and grain products exported during the nine month period ending with March was $431,454,000.

OMEMEE LADIES' AID COLLECTED $568 LAST YEAR

Spent $501.68 on Renovation of Church and Have $85 in Treasury.

ANNUAL REPORT.

Officers Re-elected Until Church Union Becomes Effective Next June.

OMEMEE, April 22.—The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church was held on Thursday afternoon in the Sunday School-room, with a fair attendance. The president, Mrs. Wm. Henderson, presided, and opened the meeting with a hymn and prayer, the Scripture lesson being read by Mrs. J. Widdis. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The treasurer, Mrs. C. L. Morcombe, then gave the annual report, which was very gratifying to the Society.

Balance on hand April, 1924, $310. Amount raised by the Society during year, $568.

The amount paid out for the renovating of the church last summer was as follows:

Painting, muresco and varnishing $160; paint, $67.48; varnish, $11.31; cork carpet, $105; coloring drape and chair colorings, $6.80; carpet, $137.04; stair treads, $4.80; work done on pulpit, $1; plaster, 75c; incidentals, $7.50—total, $501.68.

Much work was also done gratis by the members of the Society. $50 was also paid to the Quarterly Board for ministerial support, and besides a number of other necessary expense, there is a balance of $85 in the treasury. Two rooms in the memorial parsonage have just recently been re-painted and an extension ladder purchased for use on the church property. Plans for repainting the parsonage fence and stable, also important details regarding the meals to be served on July 12th was discussed at some length.

A committee of two ladies, Mrs. Charles Ivory and Mrs. J. Bushnell, were appointed to be responsible for flowers placed in the church each Sunday during the month of May. This plan was carried out last summer and gave splendid satisfaction.

A letter of appreciation was read by the secretary from Mrs. Wm. Earle for kindness shown to her and the other members of the family during their recent sad bereavement.

Resignations from the president, secretary and treasurer were read but were not accepted. A resolution was passed that the present officers retain their office until after the consummation of Church Union. Mrs. Rowland then spoke a few words of appreciation of the splendid work done during the past year by the executive, and the meeting closed with a hymn and the benediction.

James Edward's Death.

It was with keen regret that the older citizens of Omemee learned of the death of James Edward, divisional freight agent of the C.N.R., who passed away at his home in Montreal on Thursday, following an illness of several months' duration.

Mr. Edward was born in Millbrook and came with his widowed mother to reside in Omemee, when quite a young man, where his older brother, the late George Edward, was then operator and station agent at the junction. Under his tuition, James and his brother Joseph learned the art of telegraphy, from which as the years passed, they have risen to positions of great responsibility. The Edward home is still in Omemee and it has been with a feeling of real pride that Omemee citizens welcomed Mr. James Edward to his old home town on his annual visits here.

Besides his sorrowing wife and family of three daughters and two sons, two sisters, Mrs. R. J. Patterson and Miss J. Edward of Omemee, and one brother, Mr. Joseph Edward of Portland, Maine, survive.

Miss Blackburn returned on Saturday after spending the holidays at her home at Bowmanville.

Miss J. Edward has returned home after spending several months at the home of her brother, the late J. Edward, at Montreal.

Provincial Detective Storey of Lindsay was in town Monday on business.

Mrs. J. Mitchell spent the past week with her sister, Mrs. Shea, of Fleetwood.

Miss Jessie Ferguson, of Toronto, visited her sister, Mrs. S. Connell, last week.

CHEESE FACTORIES MAKING REPAIRS

Warsaw and Westminster Factories Are Being Thoroughly Overhauled.

WARSAW, April 23. — Warsaw cheese factory is receiving a thorough overhauling before re-opening for the season; new tanks and a new engine are being installed.

Warminster cheese factory is being thoroughly overhauled. The whole working floor is lowered to the ground level, a good cement floor is put in, the stone work is plastered. The milk stand is lowered to the level of the new floor. There is no new ceiling put in, but the walls are left so that one may be, if thought best. There are new doors, and the windows are enlarged, to give light lower down. All the machinery and tanks are being put in perfect order. Ralph Selby is to run the factory this season.

Meadows and wheat are looking quite good. There are some exceptionally good fields of alfalfa, and this snow is a protection from the hard frosts.

Farmers are getting their land well cultivated; one near Warsaw is nearly through spring seeding; several have oats or spring wheat in; others have not attempted seeding.

Quite a lot of mixed oats and barley will be brown for feed.

The new Lakefield road was in good condition before the snow. M. McIvor had graded the Douro Line as far as the boundary, and John Payne graded the Dummer one. On Friday, A. McQuaig graded the boundary.

Herbert Richmond bought the house owned by the late Mrs. Richmond, and will move in shortly.

There was no service in the Presbyterian Church in the morning, and Mr. Atkinson did not attempt to go to Cottessloe in the afternoon.

Mr. Weir did not go north to his charges, but attended the Warsaw Sunday School, when despite the storm, there were about seventeen pupils. Considering the roads there were quite a number at the evening service.

One man went from the village to Lakefield and back on Sunday evening with his cutter, but decided the buggy would have been better.

CHIEF BROWN BACK.

Gave Evidence at Cobourg —Judge Huycke Presided.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23—Chief Brown returned from Cobourg yesterday having been called there to testify at the trial of Allan Buchanan of Campbellford who was charge with an unnatural offence which was finally reduced to one less serious. A sister of the defendant, implicated with him, was discharged. In the case of the brother the matter will be heard further on Saturday when sentence will be pronounced.

Judge Huycke of Peterboro presided. Crown Attorney Kerr appeared for the Crown and A. R. Wilmott of Cobourg for the defendant. Mr. Willmott called witnesses to show that his client is not mentally competent.

of the Crown. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen nodded his head, and Mr. Marler questioned him point by point, as to whether he was prepared to back up these insinuations. Mr. Meighen, rising in his place, said that not only the Conservative Opposition, but the leader of the Progressives had suggested this. This brought Mr. Forke to his feet with a denial that he had made any such imputation.

Compares Budget Speeches.

Mr. Marler then dealt with the last seven budget speeches, which include those of Sir Thomas White, Sir Henry Drayton, Right Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. J. A. Robb, and he sought to show that the current budget had been prepared on fundamentally the same lines. It was in keeping with precedent that the railway business of the country was treated separately. Hon. H. H. Stevens had fallen into error in his calculations and comparisons on surplus and deficit. It had been stated in the criticism of the budget speech, declared Mr. Marler, that it had not made a full disclosure of the various financial transactions for the fiscal year under review. "That criticism is not well founded. The present speech makes a full disclosure of all the issues made for railway purposes and whether guaranteed or not by the Dominion. Indeed it gives information which was not disclosed in previous budget speeches."

Mr. Marler took issue with the statement which he declared was made earlier in the debate by Hon. H. H. Stevens, to the effect that during the three-year period from March 31, 1922, to March 31, 1925, the net consolidated debt, by reason of surpluses set out in various budget speeches and the receipt of certain moneys should have decreased to the extent of $300,000,000. "The figures which my hon. friend used in his computation were entirely incorrectly applied," stated Mr. Marler.

Drayton's Budget.

"Was Sir Henry Drayton telling lies in 1920 when he claimed a surplus of $39,000,000?" asked Mr. Marler. Dr. Manion had used the term "conspiracy of silence" in regard to the Acting Minister of Finance's budget this year. If that was true, it also applied to the budgets of Sir Thomas White and Sir Henry Drayton. Dr. Manion did not know what a budget speech ought to be anyway. He had never read any of the speeches of former Ministers.

"I have been here in this House eight years and I ought to know something about them," said Dr. Manion.

Mr. Marler replied that if one of the budget speeches was wrong, in its presentation, then the others were also. Mr. Robb's surplus had been arrived at just as the surpluses of former budgets. Mr. Marler maintained that a full disclosure of Canada's obligations was made in the budget speech.

During part of Mr. Marler's speech, there were several interruptions from Conservative benches, to which Mr. Marler replied, "I intend to tell my story in my own words, in my own time."

"Nail them to the barn door," added Mr. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, by way of encouragement.

In the course of his speech, Mr. Marler was asked why the National Railway finances could not be included in the main finances. One of the reasons Mr. Marler said why this should not be done, was that the railway (calendar) year was not identical with the fiscal year. Hon. George P. Graham had pointed this out to the House a few minutes earlier, and Mr. Marler elaborated the point to show that this reason alone was sufficient for keeping the two accounts separate.

Railway Loan Liability.

W. D. Euler, of North Waterloo, asked if Mr. Marler would consider the twenty-five millions loaned recently to the Canadian National Railways, a national asset or liability. Mr. Marler said it was a liability, whereupon Opposition members applauded and Liberal members demurred. Mr. Marler, in answer to the latter, could not see that this loan to the railways was an active asset. It was practically as much a liability as the sums loaned to the railways many years ago and now practically unrecoverable.

Considerable discussion, stated Mr. Marler, had centered around the question of the inclusion of the railway bond issues made each year in the financial statement for the year in question.

"There is no doubt," he declared, "but that our railway bond issues are a part of our indebtedness, and should be taken into consideration in our yearly financial statements—but not for the reasons given in our consolidated debt. They should form a separate part of such statement—so that each part can be readily understood, and the two together show the total expenditure." Because this had not been done in the past in any instance, was no reason why it should not be done in the future.

Mr. Marler defended the inclusion of the sum of four million dollars, approximately, arrears of interest on debts due by Roumania and Greece as an additional active asset.

He declared that there was a "precedent" for this on the part of the Conservative Government in 1920, established in the case of Southern Alberta Land Company.

There was no doubt but that railway bond issues were part of national indebtedness and should be considered in the yearly financial statement, but not in the consolidated debt. They should form a separate part of the financial statement, so that each part could be readily understood, and the two put together to show the total expenditure. Because this had not been done in the past, was no reason why it should not be done in the future. The real test of financing operations was the extent by which the net consolidated debt plus the net increased railway debt to the public, increased the combined consolidated and railway debt.

Mr. Marler emphasized the enormous amount of new money placed in railway lines each year. Mr. Marler went into the figures of expenditure by the Dominion during the past six years by the railways, including cash advances, capital and bond issues, as available from the public accounts, less the refundings.

Must Spend Less.

"The necessity for spending less," stated Mr. Marler, "has been so frequently emphasized in this House, that it almost seems absurd to again dwell on that matter. It is, however, extremely urgent, of immediate necessity." Those control of our affairs should realize that we should not continue for long, our basis of taxation on a greater than that of the United States.

General A. E. Ross characterized Mr. Marler's address as a "set budget speech." Mr. Marler, he declared, had started out to make a the budget of the Government, had ended "with as much criticism of the Acting Minister of Finance statements as ever came from side of the House."

The remarks made in the House a few nights ago by a Progressive predicting that the Conservatives "in twenty-five years would be solved" were, stated General Ross, "like the whistling of a boy going through the woods, trying to keep up his courage." He referred to the result in the last Ontario election which the Ontario Conservatives were returned to power, after predictions by Ontario Progressives similar to that voiced a few nights ago in Parliament here.

Mr. Forke had on many occasions condemned the Government, but when it came to a crisis, he always voted for them. This year he has said he had nailed his colors to the mast, and the Conservatives, said General Ross, were waiting to see how soon the colors were coming down.

General Ross moved the adjournment of the debate.

A FRIEND—NOT A FOE.

The Chief of Police of Ford City has issued a set of ten rules for motorists.

All of them are good, but one that the Examiner thinks should receive the special consideration of drivers in Peterboro, which is the rule that says: "Try to help instead of hinder the traffic officer—he is there for your good and he's got a tough job."

It is to be feared that there are too many motorists who completely lose sight of the last two parts of this rule.

They ignore altogether the fact that the traffic officer is there for their good, and they also forget that there are much easier tasks than standing on point duty for hours in all kinds of weather.

The traffic officer should be treated by the driving public as a friend whose sole mission is to make conditions as safe as possible for motorists and pedestrians; by many drivers he, on the contrary, seems to be regarded as an enemy set to catch them in infractions of the rules.

Conditions could be made much more pleasant and comfortable for everybody if drivers generally would co-operate cheerfully with the uniformed man at the street corner.

He may not always be perfect, but he is making the best of a disagreeable job, and he deserves the help of motorists generally.

It is a good thing to keep in mind whenever you pass a corner where a traffic officer is on duty.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

Out of the flood of speeches in the Budget debate in the House of Commons there sometimes emerges constructive, practical suggestions of real value to the country generally.

Some of these ideas were laid before the members on Monday by R. B. Hanson, the member for York-Sunbury, New Brunswick.

They outlined some steps, simple enough in themselves, by which the cost of government could be materially reduced.

Briefly, Mr. Hanson recommended a reduction of the number of members in the House, the cutting down of the sessional indemnity from $4,000 to $3,000, the abolition of the Departments of Labour and Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment and the abandoning of the posts of Solicitor-General and Secretary of State.

Such suggestions will be more enthusiastically acclaimed throughout the country than at Ottawa, where proposals to reduce the membership and the indemnities have never been popular.

As to the elimination of several departments, the member for York-Sunbury is only expressing what many citizens have long thought.

It has been a mystery why Canada requires more Cabinet Ministers than the United States, and it is difficult to see why the efficiency of the governmental machine would be interfered with in the least if Mr. Hanson's suggestions were adopted.

The departments he mentions could be readily absorbed by other departments; the Solicitor-Generalship, for example, could be taken care of by the Department of Justice, and the Labour Department could be just as effectively administered under the Trade and Commerce portfolio.

Have fewer members, pay them less, cut out the unnecessary Cabinet Ministers—all practical reforms—but they are not likely to be heard of again so far as the House of Commons is concerned.

SAVE THE FORESTS; THEY'RE YOURS.

It is well for the people of Ontario—if they cannot visualize what saving the forests means to the country generally—to understand what it means to this Province and to themselves.

We now have 15,000,000 acres of forest reserves, dedicated for all time to the production of timber and other forest uses.

The people of Ontario—that means you—receive a direct revenue of $3,500,000 annually from this property.

As a direct source of revenue, think of the possibilities of this forest property.

The forests of older countries produce annual net revenues of from one to six dollars per acre.

We have at least 50,000 acres, which will be eventually managed as Provincial forests to produce forest crops.

The protection and proper management of this property is of vital interest to every citizen.

The chief menace to the future menace of this great Provincial asset is the forest fire, and the solution of the forest fire problem is the greatest economic problem facing Ontario.

The Provincial Government is doing its part by providing a large organization for the protection of the forests.

Aircraft, lookout towers with telephone communication, modern forest fire fighting equipment—all are being utilized.

The chief need is public support.

Over 90 per cent. of the forest fires are caused by human carelessness, and the interest and moral support of every one using the forest is required.

Our citizens should understand that this is their property, its welfare is their concern, and that the present as well as the future prosperity of Ontario depends to a great extent upon keeping our forests productive.

WHERE LAW HAS A DUTY.

A Chicago paper claims there is something very unusual and almost pathetic in the efforts being made by the friends of Russell Scott, condemned for murder in Chicago, to save him from the gallows, says the London Advertiser. It refers to the activities of two young women in holding dances and entertainments in order that enough funds might be secured to carry on the fight for his life.

It is all very spectacular and rather interesting to the outsider, but back of it all there is a reality that cannot be overlooked. Scott has friends who are willing to make every effort to save him; that is natural, and as long as the effort works in a way that does not aim to defeat the ends of justice little fault can be found with it.

There are always two parties to a murder. In this particular case there was Russell Scott and a young man who was working in a drug store, as he had a perfect right to be doing. He was attending to his business when Scott entered the store, and because this young man stood between him and the cash in the premises, Scott deprived him of his life. That clerk had just as much right to live as Scott, yet Scott did not hesitate to take that life away from him.

That drug clerk is gone, and there are no petitions circulated on his behalf; there are no entertainments staged at which people dance and play in order to raise funds on his behalf. The reason is very plain—he is gone and nothing can be done for him. He was not even given a chance to state his case or to show why sympathy and leniency should have been extended to him.

It is here that law and justice come in. It is their duty to take up the case of the man who was murdered; to speak in his place, and to take such action as will thunder out the basic principle that the protection of life is the prime duty of the state, and to make it known that murder is so hideous a thing that it requires the life of the murderer.

There is always that tendency to centralize on the case of the murderer and to strive for his release, forgetting the other party to the crime, who is not able to speak for himself because he is dead. It is the sacred duty of law to be the spokesman for that absent witness.

ENGLAND'S DAY.

There is no land like England
Where'er the light of day be;
There are no hearts like English hearts,
Such hearts of oak as they be.
There is no land like England
Where'er the light of day be;
There are no men like Englishmen
So tall and bold as they be.

There is no land like England
Where'er the light of day be;
There are no wives like English wives
So fair and chaste as they be.
There is no land like England
Where'er the light of day be;
There are no maids like English maids
So beautiful as they be.

—Tennyson.

This is a great day for the people of English birth—the anniversary of the birth of St. George, the patron saint of England; the anniversary of the death of the greatest English writer, William Shakespeare, and the anniversary, too, of one of the finest exploits in the glorious history of the British navy, the attack on Zeebruge, on April 23, 1918.

For any one of these causes the day would be of the greatest significance; when three such anniversaries are combined Englishmen have reason to be proud today that they can trace their ancestry back to the "tight little isle."

Not that they'll make much fuss about it—that has never been the English way.

THE MAKING OF LAZY MEN.

Mr. W. Black, the Progressive member for South Huron, has made a valuable contribution to sociology, says the Ottawa Journal. He has discovered one of the chief causes of human laziness. It is daylight saving. He did not hesitate to say "it is the greatest curse this country has ever seen." Going a step further, he vehemently declared that "it has done more harm and made more lazy men than anything on the statute books of the country." Thus a day in Parliament that might have been utterly wasted by being given up to the discussion of such trivialities as national taxation and debt was redeemed by the announcement of this priceless discovery.

Government should not lose a moment in seizing upon this revelation. It opens up unreckonable possibilities. If turning the clock forward an hour makes men lazy, then obviously the effect would be stimulating if the clock were turned back. The entire scheme of production could by this simple process be revolutionized. As the hands were turned further and further back, first one hour and then two hours, three hours or any number of hours, according to the results desired, we should find ourselves suddenly in a world with everybody on the jump.

Mr. Black's discovery should immediately be crystallized into law. Priority gives it to Canada, and Canada must not be robbed of assured golden fruits. With a statute in operation that would permit the adjustment of the clock according to the needs of the country, we could safely defy any other nation to beat us in production. We should have command of the markets of the world. The wheels of industry would simply buzz. If it became necessary to make them whirl a little faster, a half turn of the minute hand would do the trick. No more loafing.

One stands stupefied by the progress Canada could make with this wonderful discovery turned to national account. Just think how Parliament, which controls its own clock by an ancient and exclusive prerogative, could be speeded up! With skilful manipulation, the session could be reduced to a month, and Mr. Black could then hurry home to see the hired man leaping over the farm.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The case of the Harvard Lampoon shows that it is not always "the home of the free."

Mr. Ferguson seems to be afraid the bootleggers will try to libel the 4.4 beer. They may not need to, however.

The tone of the Budget debate continues to suggest a general election soon. Mr. Forke's warning to his followers to "keep their powder dry" may not have been far off the mark.

Tht Kiwanis Minstrels deserve generous patronage, not only because of the merit of the performance, but because the proceeds are to be devoted to community work of much importance.

The lesson of Save-the-Forest Week should be remembered by Peterboro people later on when vacation-time calls them into the northern woods.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, April 22.—Loads of nice handyweight butchers sold readily this morning at $7.50 and $7.60 a cwt. and others just lacking a little finish at $7.25 a cwt. The only butchers with a poor market were bullocks over 1,100 lbs. each. These were not good enough for export and were not wanted by the abattoirs except at sharp cut from the price of the good handyweights. Rogers & Maybee were buyers of a few steers at $8, heifers from $7.25 to $7.75, bulls $4.75 to $5.50 and choice export cows at $7 a cwt. These they are carrying till next Tuesday.

The trade in butchers' cows was exceptionally good and the best made $6 to $6.50 a cwt. Good medium cows were $5 to $5.50 a cwt.

Baby beeves sold in bunches at $8 and odd ones at $9 a cwt. Some grass cows were bought to-day from $3 to $4 a cwt. and loads of light stockers sold at steady prices. The market on the whole was not as snappy as on Tuesday but there will be few cattle left over from the day.

With a heavy run of calves late on Tuesday, prices were difficult to hold, even at the week's decline of a cent a pound. The common light calf is the weakest feature, while the good to choice ones are keeping steady at 11 to 12 cents a pound. Common light calves are only good for a nickle a pound to-day.

The sheep and lamb market is in good shape, owing to the light supply. Choice butchers' sheep brought 10 to 10½ cents, and a few heavy yearling lambs sold at 13½ cents a pound. Spring lambs went at $15 to $18 for the good ones.

Hogs are still easy on the American exchange, and packers' buyers feel that prices should go still lower here. The fresh pork trade they state is not at all good at present. To-day's price was steady at $12.25 a cwt. f.o.b., and this is likely to hold for the balance of the week.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, April 22 — The increase in production has not affected prices during the past few days. Chicago is a quarter lower for spot delivery but the general tone of the market in both Canada and the United States is strong with no immediate prospect of lower prices.

Toronto Jobbing Specials 34, extras 32, firsts 30, seconds 27.

Montreal unchanged.

Winnipeg extras jobbing 30, firsts 25 to 26, seconds 20 to 22.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 22—Lively price upturns of as much as 7 cents a bushel compared with yesterady's finish accompanied renewed indications today of possible difficulty in filling contracts for May delivery of wheat here. Russian famine reports and excessively dry hot weather southwest in this country as well as active buying ascribed to a New York speculator, were also given attention. The wheat market closed nervous, 2¼ cents to 6 cents net higher, May 155½ to 155¾ and July 143 to 143½ with corn unchanged to ⅛ cents off, oats ¼ to ½ cents higher and provisions at 2 to 30 cents advance.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, April 22—The enquiry from foreign buyers for oats and barley on the Montreal Grain Market today was good and a fair amount fo business was transacted for May loading. The demand for ocean grain room here for May shipment continues steady and the market was moderately active with no important change in rates to note.

The feature of the local market for cash grain was the stronger feeling in oats and spot prices for car lots were higher, but the volume of business was not large. A sale of 20,000 bushels of No. 2 Feed Oats were made at one cent per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, C.I.F. Montreal.

Millfeed Price Up

Owing to the continued good demand from all sources for supplies of millfeed and the somewhat limited offerings here at present a stronger feeling developed in the market and prices generally were advanced $1.00 per ton. The volume of business was fair. The tone of the market for rolled oats was steady with little trading passing.

A fairly good business continues to be done in eggs in a wholeale jobbing way and there was no actual change in prices, but the undertone to the market was easier. The receipts were 3,279 cases, as compared with 3,047 for the same day last week, and 3,784 for the corresponding day a year ago.

There was no improvement in the condition of the market for potatoes,

A THOUGHT.

GOD'S GOOD MAN

A fatal verdict: "He is a good man, but he does not remind me of Jesus Christ." What else are we in the world for but to remind men of Jesus Christ — to stand in Christ's stead — to bring back to men's thoughts a haunting memory that shall make them say, "What is there familiar about that man; I have never met him before? Ah, I have it! He reminds me of Jesus Christ; something about his voice; something in his tone; something in his eye; something in that radiating spirit that goes out unconsciously from him, reminds me of Jesus Christ." Ah, that is a good man!—Bishop Hubert Welch.

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton

"Miss Briggs is my secretary," Dick answered.

"Please ask her to come upstairs, Maggie," he went on. "I told her yesterday when I left that if I wasn't able to come to the office today, she'd have to bring my mail out here this morning. Is there any kind of table around that she could use for her typewriter?"

"I suppose she'll have to use my spinet desk. I hope she won't scratch it," Gloria said.

She was taking the ornaments and blotter from it when Miss Briggs knocked on the door.

She was a small, plain woman of thirty or so. Her one good point was her eyes, Gloria saw at a glance. They were black-lashed blue ones, tired and shadowy.

"How do you do, Mrs. Gregory," she smiled when Dick introduced her to Gloria.

"What a marvelous voice!" the girl thought. Miss Briggs' voice was low and silver-sweet as a flute. She began to unpack her typewriter.

Gloria had never thought of any other woman being in Dick's life.

And yet, this Miss Briggs saw more of Dick than she herself saw of him.

She was all alone with him eight or nine hours every day, in his office. . . . And Gloria could tell, from the way she had looked at him when she came into the room, that her whole life was bound up in Dick. She wondered if Dick knew it. Probably not.

Probably Dick didn't want to know it. Men were not interested in plain little women of thirty. . . . What they wanted was the Gloria kind of girl . . . the ones with scented burnished hair, skin like satin, and little useless, pink-tipped hands. Exquisite toys of women. . . . And she was going to go on being that kind. . . .

With sudden determination, Gloria went to the telephone and called an employment agency.

"Pardon me, ma'am."

It was the voice of Maggie behind her. Gloria wheeled sharply.

"Pardon me, but if that's the Finnish employment agency you're calling, there's no need for it," Maggie went on. "Mr. Dick's mother phoned me first thing this morning and told me I was to stay on here as long as you needed me . . . particularly as Mr. Dick was sick."

"Is that so?" Gloria dropped the receiver in her surprise. Then she put it back on its hook and walked into the living room. She was thinking hard.

"Please come here, Maggie," she called in a few minutes.

"What would it cost to get up a midnight supper for about thirty people?" she asked when Maggie stood before her. "Chicken salad, sandwiches, French pastry and coffee. And how much help would you need to serve such a supper?"

"Oh, I wouldn't want to be bothered having any hired help round," Maggie said with fine scorn. "Let's see, if I make the pastry myself, I think we could do it for about thirty dollars."

"Well, I'm thinking of having a little party next Friday night," Gloria told her. "So go ahead and make your plans."

She spent the rest of the morning at the telephone. She ordered six dozen pink roses, and as many daffodils. She called up May Seymour to ask her the name of the jazz orchestra she had had at her New Year party last year.

"What do you think you're tearing off—a regular party?" May asked slangily. "Well, you want to remember one thing when you're getting your crowd together. . . . Any party is absolute zero in entertainment to me unless Jim Carewe is there. Get me, dearie?"

"I do," Glory answered. "I'll call him right up and invite him."

She did.

She wondered whether she ought to ask Lola and Bill Hough. Bill was a good mixer and heaps of fun, of course.

But Lola was such a frump. She wasn't pretty any more. . . . She wouldn't take a cocktail. . . . Besides, she watched Bill like a cat for fear he might happen to have a little fun. And she would telephone her house two or three times during the evening to see if her children were all right . . . and bore everybody to death telling what cute things they said and did!

No. Gloria made up her mind not to ask the Houghs to her party.

As she started up the stairs to Dick's room, Gloria heard Miss Briggs coming down.

"Work all done?" Gloria asked gaily. She was happy now that she knew she was going to have her party Everyone had accepted . . . even to the Gails, the most high-brow of Dick's high-brow friends. The Gails went to Europe every year or two, and Myra Gail spoke of the Avenue de l'Opera as if it were Main Street.

Gloria went to the door to say goodby to Miss Briggs. As she watched her go down the street, she remembered the day she had watched Stanley Wayburn walk swiftly away.

She laughed. . . . She would ask Stan to her party!

She telephoned his family hotel, the Empress.

"This is Gloria Gregory," she said softly when she heard his voice at the other end of the wire. "I'm having a few friends in Saturday night, an I want you to come. Will you?"

There was silence for a long minute.

"You know I couldn't get there until after the show . . . Stan's voice replied.

"I'll expect you about half-past eleven, then. Don't forget," Gloria said.

She thrilled with excitement as she ran upstairs to Dick.

"Hurrah!" she cried, opening the door of their room. "Everybody can come! And I've got everything ordered for Friday night, even the jazz band! Oh, it's going to be a knock-out of a praty . . ."

"Do you mean to say you've gone ahead and asked people here for a party Friday night!" Dick exclaimed. "Why, you don't even know that I won't be in bed with pneumonia by then. I'm as sick as a dog, now. Ask Maggie to make me some more hot lemonade, will you? I'm going to take a hot bath and go back to bed."

Dick was much better Friday night. "I want you to go down in the kitchen as soon as you're dressed and mix the punch, darling," Gloria lilted "The pineapple juice and all the rest of the things for it are ready in big crocks in the pantry. And the washtub is on the floor in the corner. . . ."

"What do you mean, washtub?" Dick asked, battling with his shirt studs.

"That's what we're going to make the punch in," his wife laughed. "This isn't going to be a Sunday school festival, sweetie peach. It's going to be a real live party with a kick in it! And I want the punch to be one-third fruit juice and two-thirds gin. Now remember!"

Dick didn't say a word. His wife had just come into his range of vision.

He had never seen anyone so beautiful in all his life. He was sure no one else ever had either!

Gloria was all in white that floated around her as she walked across the bedroom. There were strands of pearls around her neck, and bracelets of them on her arms.

"You look like a snow-queen," Dick told her. "Remember the Snow Queen in Anderson's fairy tales?"

"Well, then, don't touch me!" Gloria put up one rosy palm as he came toward her. "I'm made of ice and I'll freeze you to death . . ."

But Dick had her in his arms.

"Oh, Dick, leave me alone!" she cried, wrenching herself away. "Look there! You've just ruined my hair . . ."

Frowning, she sat down before the dressing-table and began to smooth her soft shining curls.

"Glory," Dick said suddenly. "Don't you think we're making too much punch for this crowd? They're likely to get sick, dancing in this warm house if they drink too much . . ."

"Oh, no, they won't," Glory answered serenely. "They're all used to it . . . all except Lola Hough. Come on, let's go downstairs. I'll get out the cigarets while you mix the punch."

She had finally asked Lola and Bill Hough. Dick had insisted upon it. He liked the Houghs, and didn't want to hurt their feelings by leaving them out, he said.

* * *

It was almost midnight.

In the sun room the little jazz band had just swung into the soft melody of "I Want To Be Happy."

"Oh, don't play that thing! Play 'A Couple of Cups of Tea for Two,'" called Bill Hough. He and Gloria were dancing together.

Gloria left him and went over to the leader.

"Will you please play 'Tea for Two' again?" she asked him. He had played "Tea for Two" a dozen times before that evening. Bill Hough had insisted upon it.

"Come on, Glory!" Bill called now across the hubbub of the room. "Come on! Strut your stuff!"

Gloria returned to him. They began to dance.

She wished Bill Hough weren't so loud. She could see the cold, gray eyes of Myra Gail fixed on him with a sort of disgust as he danced madly around the room.

She wanted to make a good impression upon Myra Gail. She wanted to be friends with her.

Because, if she could make Dick pay for it, she intended to go to Europe next summer with Myra. She had not seen him come in' . . .

* * *

Through the smoky haze of the living room she suddenly saw Stan Wayburn standing in the doorway She had not seen him come in . . .

She started toward him. Then she felt a hand on her arm.

Dick!

"There's your interior decorator man," he said. "How in the world did you happen to invite him tonight?"

A.Y.P.A. GIFT TO HELEN WATSON

Lakefield Girl Going to Niagara Falls Hospital as Nurse-in-Training.

LAKEFIELD, April 23—A very pleasant gathering was held on Friday evening in St. John's Sunday School in honor of Miss Helen Watson, who leaves on Monday for Niagara Falls, where she will enter the hospital as a nurse in training. The first part of the evening was spent in progressive euchre and after the serving of refreshments and following the singing of a topical song in honor of the guest, Rev. Walter Cox read the following address and Mrs. Cox presented Miss Watson with an umbrella and a vanity case as slight tokens of the esteem in which she is held in the A.Y.P.A. and by many other friends.

St. John's A.Y.P.A.,
Lakefield, Ontario,
April 17th, 1925.

To Miss Helen Watson,
Lakefield.

On the eve of your departure from our midst to enter upon your course of training for the honorable profession of nurse, your fellow members of the A.Y.P.A. desire to express to you their very best wishes for your future and to say that we shall follow your career with a great deal of interest, in the hope that you may be entirely successful in your chosen profession and be able to alleviate much suffering by your kindly offices.

We ask you to accept, with our earnest regard, these slight tokens of remembrance. May you, at all times, be able to pack all your troubles in the small compass of this vanity bag, and shelter many through the storms of disease as the umbrella will shield you from the raindrops of the clouds.

Sined on behalf of St. John's A.Y.P.A. and friends, Walter Cox, patron.

Though taken by surprise Miss Watson replied gracefully thanking her friends for the gift and assuring them of her remembrance of them and the happy hours they spent together.

Sunday's Snow

Sunday's snow storm, which was one of the heaviest of the season, was a surprise to the people of the village and those who courageously waded in snow between seven and eight inches deep to church found it rather a grim joke. The village snow plough had been put away in moth balls for the summer and was not available till Monday when it made a rather belated appearance.

Softball Set Back

The soft ball league has literally had a wet blanket thrown upon it by two heavy snow storms within a week. So far no games in the series have been played but there is reason to believe that later in the season when the evenings are less suggestive of the comfort of the home fireside that the series will be run off with real "pep" in the players and plenty of support from the fans.

Concrt April 28

The Male Voice Choir of Peterboro will give their first concert in Lakefied in the evening of April 28th.

Miss Eva Roddick Tells How Cuticura Healed Eczema

"My trouble began with an itching and burning of the skin and then eczema broke out on my hands in a rash. It got so trying on my nerves that I scratched it, which caused watery, sore eruptions. It was very painful to put my hands in water, and hard for me to do my work. I also lost my rest at night because of the irritation.

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they helped me, and after using almost two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Eva Roddick, Falleigh Lake, Nova Scotia.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum helps to prevent skin troubles.

IT OUGHT TO HELP.

LONDON, April 23.—A British invetor claims to have done much toward ending cursing in the world. He has invented a golf ball that starts whistling as soon as it hits the ground, and thus aids the "dub" in finding a lost ball.

HE'S A BIG BOY.

BUTTER TARIFF HEARING ENDED

U. S. Commission Will Report Findings to President For His Action.

LITTLE OBJECTION.

WASHINGTON, April 23 — The Tariff Commission yesterday concluded hearings into the cost of producing butter in this and foreign countries and took under advisement the application of American butter producers for a fifty per cent increase in the duty on butter imports.

Both sides were given until May 10 to file briefs, after which the commission will report its findings to the President who may then, if he sees fit, invoke the flexible provision of the tariff law, and increase the duty on butter to the extent of fifty percent to 12 cents a pound.

The only objection to the proposed increase from American interests was expressed by Cornelius A. Parker, representing the Cream Dealers' Association of New England, who, because of a suggestion by the commission that the duty on cream might have to be advanced with any increase in the butter duty, declared New England distributors would oppose such action because they often find it necessary to bring in milk and cream from Canada to fill out their needs. Little of such imports, he said, is turned into butter.

CHINESE "SHIEK" SHOOTS IN SARNIA

Injures Two Men Who Intercepted Him Trailing Girl.

SARNIA, Ont., April 23 — Yip Jim, a local Chinaman faced Magistrate Gorman yesterday charged with shooting with intent to harm James Kerr and Archie Lawrence. He was remanded for a week.

According to police reports Yip Jim was seen on Cobden street Tuesday night walking behind a girl and the two men followed him and upon asking his intention Yip Jim answered with three revolver shots, one grazing Lawrence's scalp, one wounding Kerr in the leg and the third missing. Kerr and Lawrence called for an automobile and notified the police and Yip Jim was later placed under arrest. An automatic 32 pistol partly loaded was found yesterday near the scene of the shooting. The wounds of the injured men are slight but an inch either way would have undoubtedly proved serious. The identity of the girl has not been made known.

PREMIER ASKS FOR CITIZENSHIP

Makes Appeal to Provincial Chapter I.O.D.E. at Annual Convention.

LOYALTY TO ENGLAND.

HAMILTON, April 23 (Canadian Press)—Mrs. Harry F. Burkholder was re-elected president of the provincial chapter I.O.D.E. at the fifth annual convention yesterday afternoon. Premier Ferguson gave an address in which he said that government and I.O.D.E. were inspired by the same motive in their respective work, namely, the building of a vigiorous citizenship in Canada. The responsibilities of good citizenship were not as fully realized in Canada as they ought to be, Premier Ferguon said. He made a plea for unswerving loyalty to the mother country. This feeling must be instilled in the minds and planted in the hearts of young Canadians lest such sentiment be smothered by the influence of associating with new comers from foreign lands. The Premier urged his audience to get in touch with and interest themselves with young immigrants.

BINGO ENGINEER SAID SAMPLES RICH

Letters to Myers Based on High Assay Reports.

WINNIPEG, Apjril 23—Cross-examination of J. A. Reid, consulting engineer to the Bingo Gold Mine Company, occupied the entire afternoon session of the hearing, in the City Police Court yesterday, of charges against Joseph Myers, manager of the mine. Myers is charged with making false statements with intent to defraud.

Two sentences from letters written by the witness to Myers were read to him by defence counsel. They read: "The fact that you are getting gold in the pump sludge is certainly convincing evidence of the richness of the mine," and, 'I may say that in Bingo you have a property that will compare favorably with any property in the country."

The witness said that he had rich assay reports in mind when he wrote the letters. He said that samples from the mine were put into sacks and left in the drying house which was unlocked, but that at the time he had not considered further precautions necessary.

DECORATORS UNCOVER STORE OF OLD HISTORICAL POSTERS

Notice of Sale Dated 1860 Buried Under Wall Paper.

NAMES ON WALL

Youngsters of 65 Years Ago Scribbled Just Like Today's.

A discovery of a rather interesting nature, more especially to older people, has been made in the building now undergoing repairs on George Street, between Hunter and Simcoe. It is in the nature of an ancient copy of a bill of sale which the workmen brought to light on removing several thicknesses of wallpaper. Mr. Howden, of the shoe firm of Howden and Evans, recalls the names of those concerned as well as the transaction which was effected.

Together with the sale bill, which was dated the 25th day of September, A.D., 1860, are bills advertising a show troupe which was to appear at the Town Hall for two days, curiously enough, on a Saturday and Monday. The year date on these bills could not be discovered.

On the plaster which composes part of the wall surface, scribbled names are barely discernable, showing that the desire for perpetuating names in this manner is by no means a modern one.

Small pieces were missing from the sale bill, but it is here given as it stands at the present date:

Auction Sale

Of valuable Farm and Mill Properties. By virtue of powers of sale contained in certain mortgages which will be produced at the sale, on Friday, the 25th day of September, A.D., 1860, at 12 o'clock noon, at the rooms of Alec MacNeil, in the town of Peterborough.

Lot 1.

Improved farm in North Monaghan. The south half of Lot 2 in the 10th Concession of the Township of North Monaghan, containing 100 acres of land, more or less, of which eighty-five are cleared; on the property there are located a log house, frame barn, log barn and frame stable. There is also on the place a young orchard of fruit-bearing trees covering about an acre.

Lot 2.

Extensive mill property adjoining the town of Peterborough, comprising Lots 2, 3, 4 and 5, as laid out on a plan of the Auburn estate, being part of Lot No. 2 in the 12th Concession of the Township of Douro, containing 12 acres of land, more or less, in close proximity to the town of Peterborough, together with the water privilege on the Otonabee River, dam and conduit and a large stone building, 45 x 85 feet, 2 stories in height, unfinished, erected on the same.

A portion of the property is occupied by Messrs. A. Robertson & Co. for the purposes of —— woollen factory, and wil be sold subject to their lease. —— situation of this property, the valuable improvements, the inexhaustible water supply, render it one of the most desirable for milling and manufacturing purposes in this province.

Terms.

One-tenth of the purchase money to be paid down; for the balance terms will be made known at the time of sale.

For further particulars, apply to the Auctioneer, to Duncan McLeod, Esq., Port Hope, or to Messrs. Jones Bros., Solictors, Masonic Hall, Toronto St., Toronto.

Chewett & Co., Printers, 17 and 19 King St. E., Toronto.

Finds of this nature increase greatly the interest which places can hold for people as they provide a real link with the past which cannot be obtained in any historical work. Concrete evidence dealing with business transactions such as this should revive a new flood of reminiscence in the minds of the pioneers and their descendants.

KILLED 'COON WITH ROCK.

MILLBURY, Mass. April 23.—Charles Cunningham recently killed a 13-pound 'coon by hitting it on the head with a rock. Before he threw his rock, a friend fired a shot at it and missed.

REJECT TENDER FOR BALL PARK

Parks Committee Decides to Recommend Civic Administration This Year.

NEW POLICY

A new policy regarding the administration of James Stevenson (formerly Riverside) Park will be recommended by the Parks committee to the City Council following a discussion last night.

Tenders were invited for the use of the park from May 1 to November 15, and two offers were received as follows:

John McFarlane, 421 Bethune street, tendered $625.

Peterborough Baseball and Athletic Association tendered $500.

W. J. Hancock proposed that neither tender be accepted; that a committee be appointed to administer the grounds, making arrangements with organizations for use of the grounds and conduct of the park. He suggested that the ladies softball league might want to play there.

His proposal was seconded by Alderman J. W. Meyers and carried unanimously.

Move Cattle Pens.

It was proposed some years ago, Alderman Turner said, that the C.N.R. roundhouse should be moved from Bethune street to a plot of ground behind the De Laval factory, and this was revived a few days ago when officials of the system were here. Mayor Turner moved and Alderman Phelan seconded, a motion to be forwarded to the C.N.R. requesting that the engine house, cattle pens and turntable be removed in accordance with objection of residents in the present locality. The motion carried.

King Edward Park.

Mayor J. J. Turner reported that improvements are being considered at King Edward Park and prices are being estimated. A report will be made later.

Mayor Turner proposed that the City Engineer prepare estimates of levelling off tennis courts at King Edward Park, and providing posts and netting, if the expense can be met out of the Parks Committee appropriation. He also included a suggestion that a spot be selected there for a bowling green and preliminary work done so that green may be ready for next year. Carried.

There were present Alderman E. Mel Turner, chairman; Mayor J. J. Turner, Aldermen Nagle Phelan, J. W. Meyers, J. O. Fife and W. J. Hancock.

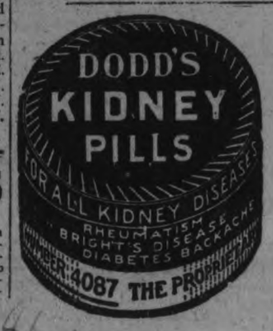
WOODEN ELEVATORS BURNED AT CHICAGO

Structures Containing 2,000,000 Bushels of Grain Were Destroyed.

CHICAGO, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—Fire last night destroyed two wooden elevators of the Rosenbaum Grain Corporation with an estimated loss of $2,000,000, including upwards of 2,000,000 bushels of corn and oats belonging to a grain marketing corporation. The elevators were the oldest wooden ones in Chicago.

The fire, which started in the Keith elevator, the larger, quickly spread to the adjoining smaller structure, and for a time threatened nearby packing plants and lumber yards.



MOSUL OIL LANDS MAY GO TO TURKEY

Report of League of Nations Commission is Not Favorable to Britain.

LONDON, April 23.—(Canadian Press.)— The League of Nations Commission, which has been investigating the question of future possession of the rich oil district of Mosul, in Mesopotamia, has completed its report, which is not entirely favorable to Great Britain, the diplomatic correspondent of the Westminster Gazette will say to-day. The commission is a purely advisory body, and the decision now rests with the League Council.

Mosul Vilayet, which is in dispute between Turkey and Great Britain, is more than 35,000 square miles in extent and is believed to be rich in oil. Under the first Turkish treaty it was included in the British mandated territory of Mesopotamia, but under the Lausanne treaty its future was to be decided by the League Council after a report by the League Commission. Britain claims the territory, both on grounds of wishes of inhabitants and because it is said to be necessary for the protection of Bagdad. It is said that the League Commission's report recommends recession of part of Vilayet to Turkey.

UNWASHED WINDOWS

CAMPBELLFORD FARMER HAS COMPLETE WATER SYSTEM FOR ALL PURPOSES ON HIS FARM

Samuel D. Moir of Hastings Road Has Cheap and Efficient Outfit.

RUN BY GASOLINE

Costs Little Over One Cent a Day for Fuel and Oil.

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23.—Any person who entertains the opinion that it is impossible to put up a farm house with all the conveniences of a town or city residence—except, perhaps, at a cost that is prohibitive to the ordinary farmer, can be convinced to the contrary by paying a visit to the home of Samuel D. Moir, who resides out on the Hastings Road four or five miles from Campbellford. There the visitor will find a residence fitted out with a complete system of water-works, in which the water is hard and cold, the same system being also in operation in the stables, where Mr. Moir keeps his herd of pure-bred Holsteins. And as for the cost of all these conveniences—the system is operated by a gasoline engine which from February 20 to April 11, consumed exactly two gallons of gas, a daily outlay of one and one-nineteenth cents. The plant is practically indestructable, so that after the initial outlay the cost of upkeep is negligible.

Something New.

This system, which has been inspected by visitors from all parts of the province, is something new in Central Ontario. It was installed by Howe and Hagerman, whose headquarters are in Belleville but who about a year ago established a branch business in Campbellford. The plant is worked by compressed air, the gasoline engine being used to fill a tank for this purpose. Every alternate day the tank is filled up to pressure of 100 pounds or more, if required, and this operation requires not more than 15 minutes. When the tank is filled a small whistle blows as a warning to stop the engine so that it is not necessary for an attendant to watch it all the time.

The Source of Supply.

The water is drawn from a well about 100 yards from the house. This well is only 12 feet deep and has a pump at the bottom, but the equipment is guaranteed to raise water from a well 150 feet deep. A pipe three-eighths of an inch in diameter carries the compressed air to the pump, while another three-quarter inch pipe conveys the water to the house and stables. All that is necessary for the barn man or the housewife to do in order to get all the water required is to turn a tap. The cattle in the barn have not been out of their stalls since early last autumn. They have a constant supply of water in a trough ahead of them It appears to have come through the winter in the pink of condition and to have escaped the pest of vermin to which stock shut up all winter are so prone.

Fire Protection.

There are other practical uses to which this system can be put. By attaching a hose to the pipe, a stream of water can be thrown over the highest building on the farm, a novel equipment in the rural districts and one which if more generally adopted is likely to result in a lowering of the present high cost of insurance to the farmers. Autos can be washed and flat tires inflated as readily and thoroughly as in any garage.

Mr. Moir is one of the most enterprising of the younger generation of farmers in his district. He has 150 acres of land which he is bringing to a high state of cultvation and his barn even at this late season is well stocked with grain and fodder. He built the brick house in which he resides since buying the farm and has equipped it with hardwood floors and modern bathroom. All that is lacking to make the home modern in every respect is electric light, and for the present at least the source of supply has not been brought close enough to the Moir home to enable the owner to avail himself of this improvement.

Sweet Clover Advocate.

Like so many dairy farmers in this district, Mr. Moir is a firm believer in the virtue of sweet clover as a fodder. He cut it for hay and has not yet come to the point of substituting it for corn in the silo. His horses as well as his cattle have been fed on this hay all winter and even the thickest stalks have been eaten up clean.

Standing in Mr. Moir's barn are two calves of which he is especially proud. These animals although only one year old are already as large as ordinary cows and as they are beautiful specimens of the Holstein breed are likely to be attractive in the show rings at the Fall Fairs. He also has some fine pens of hogs and a fancy collection of Plymouth Rock fowls.

Compliments the Pioneers.

When Mr. Moir was asked whether he regarded the men of his generation as better farmers than their fathers, he modestly but with unmistakable emphasis, replied in the negative. Considering the disadvantages and handicaps under which they labored, he declared that the pioneers achieved greater results than their descendants are ever likely to attain.

MOST OLD FOLKS REQUIRE A HEART AND NERVE TONIC

After middle age little sicknesses and ailments seem harder to shake off than formerly as the heart action becomes weak and uncertain and the nerves are not as steady as they were in the younger days.

Now is the time when all aged people who wish to maintain their health and vigor and retain their energy unimpaired should use

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS.

Mrs. M. O'Connor, Whitestone, Ont., writes:—"I have been troubled, most of my life, with shortness of breath, palpitation of the heart, and fainting spells. I was advised, by a friend, to try Milburn's H. & N. Pills, which I did, and at once found relief, and I have never had a really bad spell since. I am 80 years of age and I always keep them in the house, and feel that with their help I will see many years yet. I always recommend them to anyone who is suffering from heart trouble."

Champion Cabbage Started Competition

CAMPBELLFORD, April 23.—When James Alexander, local market gardener, produced last year what was regarded as the biggest cabbage ever raised in Ontario, he never dreamed that he was about to start a journalistic holocaust in Ontario. That cabbage, stripped of its unedible covering, weighed 24 pounds, and was too large to be placed in a half bushel measure.

A notice of this vegetable prodigy appeared in The Examiner and was copied by a Toronto paper. Then the conflagration started. Towns that had never been heard of previously forced themselves into the limelight by describing what has been accomplished by them in the production of annual and vegetable freaks.

The contest goes on from day to day, and the Alexander cabbage is responsible for the development of—not to put too fine a point upon it— a race of monumental and unmitigated prevarication.

But Mr. Alexander does not accept any responsibility for this situation. His record still stands. He is saying nothing but is quietly preparing for the season's campaign. He may not be able to produce two giant cabbages where only one grew last year, but it is his ambition to raise another, bigger and heavier than the one that has created so much excitement in the province, one that will throw the exploits of other communities into the shade.

THE MARKETS.

business being still of a very limited character on account of the fact that buyers in most cases are only operating from hand-to-mouth owing to the warm weather prevailing and the fact the offerings are liberal. Car lots of No. 1 Green Mountain were quoted at 70c to 75c per bag, and Quebec varieties at 60c to 65c per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, ex-track.

Dairy Markets

The receipts of butter in Montreal were 524 packages, as compared with 879 for the same day last week, and 606 for the corresponding day a year ago. There were no new developments in the market, the undertone being firm with a moderate amount of business passing for domestic and outside account.

The receipts of cheese were 1,175 boxes, as against 521 for the same day last week, and 510 for the corresponding day a year ago. The market was reported quiet, there being no improvement in the demand from source for supplies and in consequence the undertone was easy with Western No. 1 white and colored fodder made goods quoted at 18¾c per lb. and No. 2 grades at 17¾s per lb. The market for Quebec 20 lb. cheese was dull on account of the liberal supplies available on spot.

One Egg On Easter To Feed The Family

DUNSFORD, April 23—Last week while one of our correspondents was visiting at the home of Mrs. Joseph Johnston, Dunsford, she looked with surprise when they brought in the eggs from the hen house to see such huge ones. Some of them were taken out and measured and found to be 6¼ by 8 inches. Some size for a hen's egg! One would almost imagine on picking one up that it was a goose egg.

Mrs. Johnston has quite a large flock of White Rock hens and she says they are real good layers, always laying a very large egg. If everyone would get White Rocks before next Easter then one egg apiece would do for dinner.

ADDRESS ON WORLD CONFERENCE GIVEN

Rev. M. C. Mackinnon Gave Interesting Address to Millbrook People.

MILLBROOK, April 23.—The open meeting, under the auspices of the ministerial association, held in the Methodist church on Thursday evening had but one disappointing feature—the small size of the audience, which was yet representative of more than one denomination, and circuit.

The address delivered by Rev. M. C. MacKinnon, of Knox Church, Peterborough, bringing "some echoes, and main impressions of the great World Conference for Missions," held recently at Washington, D.C., was decidedly inspirational in character.

The secretary, Rev. R. T. Richards, of Cavan, read the Scripture lesson, and Rev. A. H. McConnachie, of Centreville, led in the opening prayer. A duet, "Only in Jesus," by Messrs. H. W. Johnston and M. McDowell, was much enjoyed.

Rev. M. G. Williams, president of the association, introduced the speaker in a few well-chosen words, and for upwards of an hour Rev. Mr. MacKinnon held his listeners spellbound as he expounded the message from the great international and interdenominational gathering.

President Coolidge gave the address of welcome, and outstanding Christian statesmen, representing one hundred different mission boards, and including such men as John R. Mott, Robert Speer, the Bishop of St. Alban's, England, and others, were among the speakers. Sixty-two main addresses were listened to, and there were many auxiliary speakers as well.

Rev. R. M. Paterson, of Frazerville, and Rev. R. T. Richards voiced the thanks of the audience to Mr. Mackinnon for his enlightening and inspiring address, the spontaneous rising of all present voicing their appreciation. Rev. G. S. Gervan dismissed the gathering with the benediction.

Master Joe and Master Kelly Munroe spent a few days of their vacation in Peterboro.

Mrs. E. Syer, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. M. Syer, Millbrook, went to Montreal on Monday to visit her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Clegg

Scientists say that well-chosen colors in our homes make for happiness. Paint and varnish accomplish this miracle.

A fashionable and practical development in decorating is the use of enamels, both in old and new houses. Dark stained panels and mouldings are often done over in ivory, pale grey or other light colors with added beauty. Many pieces of furniture, especially wickerwork, are made more attractive by this process.

"There is something of magic in doing over an old, dark room with a modern enamel finish. The effect is almost like the sudden appearance of another window

Fines For Non-Attendance at Public Schools Paid By Sale.

MORE TO-DAY.

GRAND FORKS, B.C., April 23. —(Canadian Press).—Two-thirds of the chattels seized from thirty-five Doukhobors recently for non-payment of fines for the violation of the schools laws, were sold by auction yesterday, and the sale will be continued to-day. A large number of Doukhobors look on but there were no incidents.

M. W. Cazakoff, acting president of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, announced he had tried to raise money for the fines, totalling about $4,000, but had not succeeded in doing so

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

TO REMOVE IODINE

Iodine may be removed from unstarched fabrics by soaking in cold water, or in white goods by being boiled in a starch solution. Sponging with alcohol is also effective.

IRON ON WRONG SIDE

Colored materials ,ironed on the wrong side, appear much more like new material then when ironed on the right side.

TO REMOVE SCREWS.

Rusted screws are difficult to remove from wood, but if you apply a red hot iron to the head of the screw you can easily remove it with a common screw driver after it has become sufficiently heated.

DRYING FLANNEL.

Do not put flannel garments close to a fire or register to dry. Let them dry slowly.

PLEATED PAJAMAS

Pajamas are showing many feminine influences, such as pleated frills, jabots, lace ruffles and accordion pleats.

HOME TOWN RECIPE.

Everyone — almost — has heard of these famous puffs. Now is a good time to try them.

Mrs. A. Mowat, 773 Water street, contributes the following recipe for potato puffs:

2 cups hot, well-mashed potatoes.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
1 cup milk.
2 eggs.
Pepper and salt.

Add the melted butter and milk gradually, beating until light and white. When cool, or just before baking, add the eggs, with yolks and whites beaten separately. Cook in a brisk oven, in gem pans or muffin tins. They should rise like muffins, light and fluffy.

OPPOSITION TO CADET TRAINING

Peterboro High School Students at Convention in Hamilton.

P. C. I. LAUDED

The Literary Society of the Peterborough Collegiate sent a delegation of five boys to the third annual convention of Y.M.C.A. High school boys in Hamilton last week, where there were over 26 places represented.

Harry Ebbs, Allen Neal, George Cunningham, Robert Sturgeon and Winston Merell formed the Peterborough delegation.

The meetings were all of a high order.

Dr. Best, of McGill University, gave a series of addresses on the "Religion of Jesus." "Universal Brotherhood" was the subject of a stirring talk by Rev. J. L. Wordsworth, M.P.

The problems of High school boys were gone into also. The convention went solidly against cadet training in schools, when this subject was put to a vote after an interesting debate.

The local delegation reports that it found that P.C.I. stands high in the regard of the school boys of Ontario as to clean sportsmanship and the producer of good rugby teams. The Toronto schools are still lauding the hospitality they received at the hands of P.C.I. when they played here.

Rugby players of Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston and Oshawa think that Coach C. S. Browne of the P. C.I. is a wizard in planning trick plays.

TRAINING YOUR DOG

(This is the second of a series telling how to train dogs to do tricks. Clip it and save.)

Proper selection is the first consideration in obtaining a dog for training purposes.

As an example, you may wish to select a dog for mind reading, dog counting, adding and kindred tricks.

For this sort of training you must carefully study the dog's ways and disposition, as success depends entirely on his character.

In selecting a dog for acrobatic work, it is always best to pick the one of smaller build, weight from eight to 14 pounds.

Getting the Dog in Shape.

A dog used for acrobatic tricks and balancing must receive his early training when very young. When he is about four months old give him his first lesson, teaching him to obey your commands.

If the dog is inclined to be timid and lie down at your command, never scold him and NEVER USE A WHIP; these savage methods will only make him more timid.

To overcome timidity, pick the dog up and place his front feet against your leg and pet him.

Starting Simple Tricks.

After he becomes familiar with you, and with what is expected of him at your commands, it is time to start him on simple tricks.

Teach him to sit up or jump over your foot on command. These tricks are easily taught a dog if he is obedient. Be sure to do your share.

By all means be PATIENT and remember that a dog is not a human being. Don't blame him if he does not learn rapidly. Pet him and repeat the trick until he knows what you expect of him.

Rest is Essential.

Never work the dog too long at one time. If he shows signs of fatigue, allow him to rest completely. Always remember that it is an easy matter to break an animal by overwork.

LAUNCH MISSED FEAR MEN LOST

Four in Boat That Left Cleveland on Sunday—Storms Since.

ST. THOMAS, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—Residents of Port Stanley are greatly alarmed over the non-arrival there from Cleveland of four men who left the Ohio city on Sunday morning in the gasoline launch, Ada Maybelle, to cross Lake Erie for Port Stanley. Three of the men, Frank Payne and Bert Butcher, are married, of Port Stanley, and Geo. Knaggs, single, of Windsor, left Port Stanley on Saturday for Cleveland, and word was received that they, in company with a Cleveland man, left Cleveland on the return trip Sunday. Since then they have not been heard from, and as there have been several severe storms on the lakes since, fears for their safety are becoming greater. A storm on Sunday afternoon was particularly severe. All ports along both sides of Lake Erie are being wired to in an endeavor to see if the men have called at any of these. Tugs are being sent out from Cleveland in an effort to locate them.

FOREST WEEK RECALLS NEED

Picturesque Portugal Furnishes Unique System for Preserving Forests.

TREES' PRAYER

This is "Forest Week," when the Dominion unites from coast to coast in an effort to further the preservation of the forests and their trees. Travellers in Portugal report that in many places where timber trees are to be found—in woods, parks and gardens—one sees the following inscription, headed "To the Wayfarer":

Ye who pass by and would raise your hand against me, harken ere you harm me.

I am the heat of your hearth on the cold winter night, the friendly shade screening you from the summer sun, and my fruits are refreshing draughts, quenching your thirst as you journey on.

I am the beam that holds your house, the board of your table, the bed on which you lie, and the timber that builds your boat.

I am the handle of your hoe, the door of your homestead, the wood of your cradle, and the shell of your coffin.

I am the bread of kindness and the flower of beauty.

Ye who pass by, listen to my prayer; harm me not.

In the Garden

CARE OF THE ESTABLISHED LAWN.

The alternate freezing and thawing of the winter and spring will have heaved the sod to a certain extent, especially on clay soils. Therefore, just as soon as the lawns are sufficiently dry so that they will not be marred by working on them, proceed to roll with a heavy roller. Roll thoroughly both ways to make sure that the work is well done.

Throughout the season also, the lawns should be given a good rolling after a rain to keep them in good shape.

Mow the grass twice a week if possible during the rapid growing season or at least once a week. The more frequent mowing will mean shorter clippings which will settle in the grass and will not need to be removed. They also serve as a mulch and will rot in time and supply humus to the soil. Should the lawns be cut at the less frequent intervals the longer clippings will most likely become wiry and need an occasional sweeping and collecting. Where the clippings are removed as a regular practice the lawns should be given an occasional application of well rotted manure or a commercial fertilizer. Sheep manure is good, applied as shown on the sacks. Apply manure in the fall or early winter at the rate of 1-4 to 1-3 ton per 1,000 square feet. Commercial fertilizer in the spring or growing season at the rate of 1,000 to 15 lbs. per acre (6 1-4 to 9 lbs. per 30 sq. yards), using a 7-3-2 or a 5-3-2 formula, that is 7 or 5 per cent. of nitrogen, 3 per cent. phosphoric acid and two per cent. potash.

Spud out all perennial weeds such as the dandelion, plantain and dock regularly or at least out of the lawn to keep them from seeding.

Dandelions may be destroyed by spraying with iron sulphate (copperas or green vitriol). Dissolve 1 1-2 lbs. in a gallon of water. This will cover 375 sq. feet of lawn. Best results are obtained from a fine spray forced well down into the growth. Apply in May just before the first blossoms appear and give one or two applications at intervals, of three or four weeks. One or two applications in the late summer or fall may also be necessary. Every third year should be sufficient. Be sure to re-seed the bare spots and apply a good dressing of sheep manure, stable manure or some commercial fertilizer. This is necessary to aid the grass in growing thickly and helping to prevent further inroads of the pest. Avoid wetting stone or cement walks as the spray will stain them.

Very often you will find, especially under trees, a certain amount of moss growing in the thinning sod. This is a sign of sourness and calls for an application of air slaked or charcoal lime. Apply air slaked lime at the rate of 10-12 lbs. per 400 sq. feet of lawn. Afterwards rake the ground thoroughly and sprinkle a little grass seed over the spots at the proper season. Use a shady place mixture or some special seed that will grow in a shady place as—Red Fescue or Rough Stalked Meadow Grass. In stubborn cases, when the shade is very dense, it may be necessary to apply lime every fall, dig lightly every spring, apply pulverized sheep manure, rake the ground and sow seed suitable for the position.

If worms become very annoying, they may be killed by the use of some standard worm killer on the market or by using corrosive sublimate. Apply this in the proportion of 1 part to 1,000 parts of water applied after a rain or with a thorough irrigation. This will bring the worms to the surface and kill them.

With either method they will have to be swept up and destroyed.

In the spring bare patches may be seeded, or better still, sodded. Then patches should be fairly deeply scratched with the rake, re-seeded and rolled. An endeavor should be made to keep a thick, even sod over the entire area.

The NUT CRACKER BY JOE WILLIAMS

In the case of Mr. Ruth it appears the bigger they are the harder they flu.

Nurmi is going to the coast to race and we are surprised to hear he is not to compete against any of the fast girls in Hollywood.

Both Tunney and Gibbons are listed as gentleman fighters .... If this is true it probably will be a terrible scrap.

We have heard that some of the girls in the movies are awful tomatoes, but even that hardly justifies Miss Gish's passion for carrots.

Neither of the St. Louis teams has ever won a championship and this probably explains why Abe Attell, Chick Gandil and those boys never liked the town.

Mr. O'Goofty's idea of egg-rolling is to clout a tough one on the whiskers and watch him roll.

The life of John L. Sullivan is to be had in book form, not in bottle form, as some of the old Roman's traducers would seem to prefer it.

Ban Johnson's suggestion that amateur teams play preliminary games to the offficial major league contests might be embarrassing in Boston .... It would be hard for the fans to tell when the amateurs were playing and when the Braves were playing.

Wayne Munn has been offered $100,000 to tour Europe .....It is suspected Strangler Lewis made him the offer.

New York City issued licenses to 12,000 fighters last year .... This, however, does not include subway guards and taxicab drivers who fight without licenses.

SPRING TONIC FOR GOLFERS

As prescribed by Jim Barnes

I find that a great many golfers have the idea that they must keep their left foot firmly on the ground in driving. This is wrong. Of course they can drive straight either way, but a lot of power is lost by not moving the left foot.

It is lost because they do not get the advantage of the turn in the body that results in holding the head still on the swing. The loss of power from the pivot leaves only the forearms, wrists and shoulders to develop power.

But if you can't come by this pivot naturally, don't worry about it, unless you want to develop your game all over again. If the pivoting is properly done, fitting the heel should come naturally.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans

Golfers often hear the expression that it is necessary to get in back of the clubhead with the body in the hitting swing.

Most players, I venture, do not know what that means and have to guess at it. The reason the body weight is transferred to the right, in the back swing, is so that the weight will be in position, back of the ball, to be thrown forward, into the ball, at the moment the ball is hit. It was seen long ago that the player could slap his weight against the ball, together with the flying clubhead, and get 25 yards more of distance, and that's why we do it, though what I mean to convey is that this is no new discovery at all. In subsequent articles I will try to describe how the player gets in behind his club.

RUTH IMPROVING.

NEW YORK, April 23.—(Canadian Prerss).—Babe Ruth, convalescing from influenza, continued to improve yesterday, but physicians said he would remain at St. Vincent's Hospital for at least another week or ten days.

Battle Ball Is Latest Fad

A new indoor pastime, battle ball, which is approaching the craze stage in Europe, has been introduced in this country by the father of the game, Dr. Alexander Hryntschak of Vienna. The game is a combination of several outdoor sports and can be played by from two to fourteen persons. A table, resembling a billiard table, with small guns to shoot metal balls at a large leather ball provides paraphernalia for the game.

AUGHT ON THE FLY!

The Indians of Curve Lake, who have operated successfully in the East Peterborough Baseball League, are talking about putting a midget team in the City League. Up to the present nobody in the city has spoken of entering a team in this series, although there are plenty of players available under the age of seventeen.

Rube Brady is the only manager to enter a team in the Bantam series. This team, the Beavers, is composed of East City talent, and was always in the fight last year. It is hoped that the boys of the other sections of the city will turn out, as a good league can be formed. This is one of the best series to handle and there should be plenty of men willing to enter teams. A team from the North End, another from the South and one from the West Ward, with the present entry, would make a nice circuit and the backers of the respective sections of the city as ideal places of residence could get out and support the lads of their own districts.

The Kingston Whig makes an open statement of what they would like to see done in preparation for the next hockey season. No under cover work here:

"It's not far to May 15th, and still nothing is being done about a couple of hockey players for Kingston. Why all the delay on the part of those in charge of hockey affairs?"

Circle-Six have cleaned up the other Junior teams of Kingston for several years back but they can still find managers to back teams against them. Why can't Peterborough find some managers?

"Jack Powell thinks that the juniors should be rounded up and put on a firm footing for the summer. He is a strong follower of Circle-Six, having been a former manager, but he insists that he can gather a bunch of juniors who would trim their heads off. If he could get two teams like that and include the Circle-Six, why a good junior league could be formed. Let's go."—Kingston Whig.

The Whig sees a silver lining in the dark cloud. Wonder what the Kingston team has up its sleeve?

"Just when things looked to be going along pretty well, along came the announcement that "Red" Legon would not be able to play here this summer. Added to this, the depature of Compeau, when it looked as though his case could be fixed up, the local baseball executive was left in a bad way. However, there's a silver lining behind the dark cloud and there is no doubt that things will brighten before long."—Kingston Whig.

Kingston has joined in the chorus of protest against the juicy list of dates handed Benson and Gloster of Toronto by the Central Ontario League. The Belleville Ontario furnishes the following comment on their ability:

Kingston is supporting the Belleville stand over the umpire question in respect to the Central Ontario League and they say they will not stand for Benson nad Gloster, the Toronto men, this season.

The Ontario learned this today in conversation over the telephone with The British Whig, Kingston, view is that Sullivan and Alex. Kay are the men with the Belleville men already named, Colling and Woodley, for many reasons, principally on the ground of efficiency and expenses.

Benson and Gloster were washouts. They were always getting into hot water over their innacurate decisions on plays by both teams in almost every game.

Something will have to be done to clear up the umpire situation before the playing season starts, it was said as one or two teams in the loop have said what amounts in effect to this: That they would not go on were these Toronto men to be given the job of arbiters in the great majority of the games.

Both Sullivan and Alex. Kay are good men. There's no argument about that as both the team and the public know that they are one hundred per cent square.

The Oshawa Telegram is thankful that Saturday's game with Oslers was the first of the season and was not a scheduled encounter.

"Saturday the local baseball team failed to show up to the expectation of some of the fans, when Oslers gave them a whitewashing, however, it should not be lost sight of that it was the first game of the season, in fact, the first real practice.

During the training period between now and May 25th, when the C.O.B.L. scheule opens, they will in all probability show to far greater advantage and Saturday's defeat may have the effect of showing the players where they are weak.

Manager Reeves was not disappointed with the result and took advantage of the game to see a few of the players in action. He "[illegible]bed" quite freely.—Oshawa gram.

ARREST MADE IN SEPARATOR CASE

Mrs. Agnes Petrie Arrested For Conspiracy to Defraud Shareholders.

PETRIE JUMPED BAIL.

TORONTO, April 23.—(Canadian Press).—With her husband having already fled the country while on bail because of the operations of the company and with one Johnston having already been sentenced, and still facing criminal charges of the same account, Mrs. Agnest Petrie was arrested last evening by the Provincial Police, and so lent a somewhat dramatic turn to the affairs of the Petrie Cream Separator Company. The charge facing her is conspiracy to defraud and she is held without bail.

She is alleged to have been one of the principals in a scheme by which stock to the value of $150,000 in the Petrie Cream Separator Co. was sold to the Ontario public. The company was to have erected a factory in Deseronto. According to the Provincial authorities, no such step was taken but proceeds of the sale of the company's stock were diverted for the promoters' benefit.

Some days ago the shareholders of the company held a meeting in Toronto. The situation was rendered anxious by the fact that Mr. Petrie, the company head, had jumped his bail and was believed to be in Buffalo. A hasty examination of the books is said to have shown a condition almost of chaos. Some shareholders, it was stated, had invested as high as $10,000 to $15,000 in the venture.

SUGAR PRICE DROPS.

Spot Raws Lowest of Season at 4.37.

NEW YORK, April 23.—An increase of 200,000 tons in original estimates of the Cuban sugar crop, raising it to 4,975,000 tons affected the sugar market yesterday, and sent prices to new low levels for the season. Spot raw sugar sold down to $4.37 delivered.

INTERNATIONAL GAME.

All Star Soccer Team From Quebec Will Play Brooklyn Wanderers.

TORONTO, April 23 (Canadian Press)—The first international soccer game between Canada and the United States will be played May 10 at Hawthorne Field, Brooklyn. The Province of Quebec Association will send down an all-star team, which wil play Brooklyn Wanderers of the United States Soccer League.

CRICKET PRACTICE.

Royal Oak C. C. Had First Practice Last Night—Another To-night.

The Royal Oak C. C. had their first practice of the season last evening and there was a large turn-out. Another practice will be held to-night at 6.00 and also Saturday afternoon at 2.30. All interested in the game are cordially invited to come to the exhibition grounds and renew their acquaintance with this splendid game.

LEAGUE MEETING

Large Attendance Heard Good Paper Read by Vice-President.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, April 23.— The Young People's League met on Thursday evening with its usual attendance. The meeting was in charge of the citizenship department under their vice-president, Morley Petherick. A devotional talk was given by Thomas Fy. Morley Petherick gave a very good paper on Citizenship.

It was decided at this meeting that the last meeting of the month, which is in charge of the social vice-president, Miss Agnes Thomson, be held in Sentinel hall and that one of the items on the programme is to be a debate, "Resolved, that city life is preferable to country life." The affirmative is to be taken by Miss Alma Simpson and Roy Barnum and the negative by Miss Verna Barnum and Roy Fry.

It was also announced that at the next meeting a special meeting will be held to organize an athletic club.

The play, 'Valley Farm,' was again staged in Sentinel hall on Friday evening with a very good crowd in attendance.

A large number of those who were present saw the play the week previous and some of them were so deeply interested that they stated that they would like to see it the third time. A. J. Meyers, of Campbellford, acted as chairman. The proceeds of the evening were about $40.00.

J. D. Thomson has returned to Toronto, where he will finish his course at the Normal College.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barnum returned from their honeymoon trip on Saturday afternoon.

The community join in wishing them every success.

Mr. Jack Damon, of Port Hope, renewed old acquaintances in this district over the week end.

Tells of Conference

Col. Gear gave a history of formation of the North Atlant Freight Conference in 1902. One the factors resulting in the forma toin of the Conference was the re quest of shippers. Meetings of th Conference were usually held i New York or Montreal once month.

"Do you confer with the shipper before fixing rates?" asked Chairman McMaster.

"Sometimes," replied Col Gear.

The Conference had no contr over the sailings of any line, said. It was quite incorrect to that if a line left the conference conference lines immediately t to put it out of business.

Col. Gear subscribed to a sta ment, which he quoted saying th if the Dominion Government wishe to assist the Canadian cattle shippe it should bonus the farmer for th cattle shipped.

He closed by inviting the member of the committee to visit Montrea at the expense of the steamship lines and witness the operation of loading vesels.

The committee adjourned until four o'clock today.

It is just five years since this ...mpany was organized. During the ...erval it has sold over $7,500,000.00 ...orth of cheese and butter. This ...epresents an increase of 47% over the ...ales of the previous year.

The meeting was presided over by the President, R. W. Ireland, of Wellington, Ont., who is the President of Cloverdale Cheese Factory, one of the largest cheese factories in eastern Ontario. The Montreal manager of the company, W. W. Moore, reported that the combined sales of cheese last year of the United Dairymen Co-operative, Limited, and the Quebec Co-operative Farmers' Co., were approximately half the total exports of cheese from Montreal last season. This he claimed showed the wonderful strides the co-operative movement is making. The sales of cheese in the Central Ontario district, including Peterborough County, last year showed an increase over the year before of approximately 100%....

The Secretary-Treasurer, H. B. Cowan, of Peterborough, reviewed the history of the company. He pointed out that the Co-operative Company was the first organization in Ontario to sell cheese according to its grade. This system of selling was so successful that the Dominion Government ultimately passed a law making the grading of dairy products compulsory.

Mr. Cowan described the compulsory cheese and butter pools which have been formed in New Zealand and Australia and the campaign now under way in Alberta to form a dairy pool for that province. He explained why the Co-operative Company had not adopted different methods of marketing dairy products that have been widely advocated and showed some of the reasons why they weren't practicable. He also said that at times considerable higher prices were paid for cheese in Canada than are paid at the same time in Great Britain.

Peter Hughes of Oxford County and John S. Cowan of Perth County described dairy conditions in their counties and the growing desire on the part of farmers to market their products co-operatively.

Financial Statement.

The Treasurer, H. B. Cowan, submitted the financial statements covering the operations of the company for the past year of its Montreal, Belleville, and Peterboro' offices. These showed that substantial profits had been made. The shareholders approved a recommendation from the Board of Directors that a dividend of 6% should be paid and that the sum of $1,300 should be set aside out of the surplus profits to the contingent account to be used as the directors may decide.

During the past few months a large number of factories have voted to sell co-operatively during the coming season, specially in the Brockville district. Mr. Moore, the Montreal manager, expressed the conviction that the sales of the company for 1925 would exceed 13,000,000, and that the prospects of the company were more favorable than ever before.

Election of Officers.

Four directors were elected to the board. The officers of the company for 1925 are as follows: President—R. W. Ireland, Wellington, Ont.; Vice-President—Hugh Moloney, Marmora, Ont.; Secretary-Treasurer—H. B. Cowan, Peterboro', Ont.; Directors—W. R. Shields, Peterboro', Ont.; Peter Hughes, Burgessville, Ont.; John McCaffery, Madoc, Ont.; J. A. Humphrey, Lansdowne, Ont.; Newton Brownlee, North Grower, Ont.; R. C. Bogart, Berwick, Ont.

About 85,000,000 animals were slaughtered for meat in the United States last year.

Manitoba Will Plant Sugar Beets

WINNIPEG, Man., April 23 (Associated Press). — One hundred plots within 75 miles of Winnipeg are to be planted this summer with seed of sugar beets grown in Germany. The Manitoba Sugar Beet Company is distributing the seed among chosen gardeners and farmers, to insure a trial under the best conditon .

The beets are to be tested later to determine the quality and suitability of Manitoba-grown beets for sugar manufacture. Machinery costing $1,300,000 is to be ordered, if tests are satisfactory, to care for beets raised on 12,000 acres.

The material will be forwarded in the order in which the applications are received while the supply lasts. No charge is made for the experimental material, and the produce becomes the property of the experimenter. A report is requested after harvest. Each person applying should carefully write his Name, Address and County. HOW TO CULL THE POULTRY FLOCK

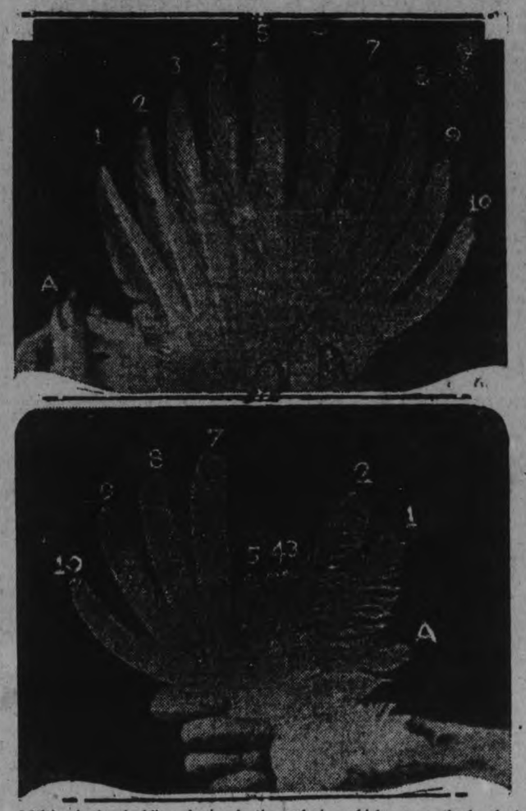
To measure body depth hold the hen in both hands with the head facing you. Place the thumbs together in the middle of the back and clasp the fingers along the breast bone. The two little fingers should fall on the front end of the breast bone and the forefingers on the rear end. By handling several hens a difference of a fraction of an inch can easily be detected.



Molting is the shedding of wing feathers, during which process the hends do not lay. A fast molter, therefore, is a good producer. The order of shedding is shown in the upper view, in the numerical order shown. "A" is the axial feather that separates the primary from the secondary feathers. In the lower view, 1 and 2 are full grown new feathers; 3, 4 and 5 are just coming in; 7 to 10 are yet to be molted.

A good, and a poor, layer. Upper view shows a model good laying hen, with deep and long, prominent breast. Below, the poor layer has short back, loose feathers, shrunken eye.

COLUMBUS, O., April 23.—Part of the success in raising poultry lies in choosing the best layers for the flock and in being able to separate, or cull out, the failures each year.

This important process of culling is explained in the following way by E. L. Dakan of the department of poultry husbandry.

Culling consists of weeding out any hen that is sick or shows a decided lack of vitality. The whole flock should be gone over carefully and systematically at some time of the year to separate or cull out the hens that have been poor layers.

The time for this thorough culling should come before the pullets are ready for the laying pens. Since it is a process of eliminating the non-layer it will save feed to cull as early as possible.

If the flock is gone over in July or August it is well to repeat the culing in September or October. If only one culling is to be done it is better done in August or September.

In culling the flock we have two questions to ask regarding each hen:

1—Is she laying?

2—Has she been a high egg producer?

The answers to these questions are based upon the following·

1—Color changes in the body due to egg production.

2—Body changes in fat and lay bones.

3—Time of molting.

Color Changes.

When a hen is not laying she deposits fat on her body. This fat contains a yellow pigment (in yellow-skinned varieties) which gives the yellow color to the legs, beak, skin, etc. As soon as a hen begins to produce eggs, this yellow pigment is diverted from the body and is used in coloring the egg yolk. As long as a hen produces eggs the pigment is all used by the yolk and none of it finds its way to the body.

The pigment deposited in the body during the hen's rest period gradually fades or bleaches out during production, leaving the body color a bluish white or pink. This process of fading follows a certain definite course, always in the following order: First, the vent; second, the eye rings and ear lobes; third, the beak; last, the shanks.

The kind of feed a hen has had affects the period necessary for the color to fade. The yellow pigment is derived from the grain and green feed that the hen eats. The hen that has had yellow corn and plenty of green feed has a larger supply of yellow stored in her body than a hed fed on white corn with no green feed, and the more yellow pigment there is stored the longer the time required for bleaching.

Color Process.

The vent is the first to lose the yellow color after egg production starts. A white or pink vent of a yellow-skinned bird indicates she is laying.

The eye rings, which are in the inner edge of the eyelids, bleach out a little more slowly than the vent and, therefore, bleached or white eye rings indicate a longer production than a bleached vent.

The ear lobes on the white-lobed varieties bleach next and indicate a still longer period of production than a white vent and white eye rings.

The beak loses its color before the shanks do, and a white beak indicates that the hen has been producing eggs for a month or six weeks.

The lower beak bleaches faster than the upper. The lower beak should be used for observation when the upper is covered with black or horn, as in the Rocks and Rhode Island Reds.

The shanks are the last to lose the yellow color, and for this reason are the surest indication of long, continuous production. It takes from four to five months for the shanks to become white after the hen begins producing eggs.

Body Changes.

The vent of a laying hen is large, open, moist and soft. The vent of a non-laying hen is small, closed, dry and puckered.

The comb of a laying hen is lagge, full and bright in color. The comb of a non-laying hen is dry and hard, often covered with scale, and is pale in color.

The fat covering of the body cavity in a laying hen is soft and pliable. The skin is soft and velvety. The abdomen of the non-laying hen is dry and hard.

The pelvic or pin bones of a laying hen are straight and flexible, with very little or no fat around them. They are spread apart far enough to permit the passage of the egg. The spread varies with the individual and the breed, so no definite measurement can be given. In general, however, a laying hen will show a spread between the pin bones of at least three fingers.

Practice is necessary to determine just what spread indicates that the hen is laying. Keep in mind the fact that a hen that is laying will show a greater spread of pelvic bones than one not laying, and that the bones of a non-laying hen are thick, stiff and blunt, with the ends bent in.

A laying hen consumes more feed than one that is not laying. A high egg producer consumes more feed than a poor egg producer. In order to consume and digest this feed the intestines of a laying hen are larger than a hen not laying.

When laying the ovary and oviduct are greatly enlarged and require more room. To provide this extra room, the body increase in depth. This is noticeable by the increase in the distance from the pelvic bones to the end of the keel bone.

Body Depth.

The increase in size of the body cavity is secured by the dropping down of the keel bone. By measuring the distance from the pelvic bones to the keel bone an idea can be formed as to whether the hen is in laying condition or not.

No definite measurement can be given that will fit all individual hens. As a general rule, a hen that measures less than three fingers is not laying, or is a poor layer, because such a hen lacks the capacity for handling a large amount of feed. The hen that shows the greater body depth is to be chosen as a good layer if she shows the other marks of egg production.

The best hens in the flock are the ones having the deepest bodies when measured from the center of the back to the front end of the breast bone. A good hen is flat-sided and has a long, prominent breast. The best method of handling the birds to measure body depth is shown in the accompanying photo.

This method of determining capacity is preferred to that of measuring the distance from the pelvic bones to the keel bone because the latter merely tells whether the hen is laying or is not laying, and cannot be depended upon for selecting pullets, cockerels, or hens not in production. The measurement illustrated can be used to select pullets and cockerels as well as hens.

The Molt.

Most hens stop laying when they begin to molt. Since the molting period covers several weeks it is advisable to sell the hens that molt early.

It is a fact, no longer disputed, that a hen, in order to make a high yearly record, must be a consistent layer. The early molting hen is not a consistent layer. She takes all the fall months as a vacation for changing her plumage.

The time of the molt is the best indication of the last year's performance. This can be used in culling all breeds and varieties, but is of special importance with such breeds as the Orpingtons and Minorcas that do not have the yellow skin.

The hen that molts early, under normal conditions, will not lay as many winter eggs as the hen that molts late. Neither will she begin egg production earlier in the spring.

No definite date can be set as to early molting. As a general rule, however, the first hens in the flock to molt should be sold, and the last to molt should be kept for breeding purposes.

Hens may be thrown into an early molt by starving while laying heavily; by irregular feeding; by roosting in a house that is poorly ventilated, or in any way that tends suddenly to check egg production.

This should be avoided, as it is very likely to result in a lower total egg production. If the pullets are hatched early, they will be laying early in the fall and thus the egg production kept up at all seasons.

STANDARDS FOR SEED POTATOES

Dominion Experimental Farms Issue Instructions for Raising Seed.

6 PER CENT. DISEASE

Owing to the wide interest now taken in the production of certified seed potatoes, our readers will appreciate the information which we are able to give on the standards for 1925 which govern the inspection of their potatoes.

The field standard remains the same as last year, viz., Blackleg 3%, Leaf Roll (Curly Dwarf, etc.) 2%, Mosaic 2%, Wilts 3%, Foreign 1%, providing that in no case shall a total of more than 6% disease be allowed. No field shall qualify for inspection unless separated by a reasonable distance (say two hundred feet) from any other potato field, or unless the latter field measures up to the above standard.

The tuber standard has been modified slightly this year to make the standard more clear to growers, and will include 5% for Internal Discolorations other than due to variety. The standard as it now stands is as follows:

Wet Hot (bacterial) 2%. Late Blight and Dry Rot 3%. Common Scab and Rhizoctonia—severe 5%. Powdery Scab 1%. Necrosis, Wilts and Internal Discoloration, other than due to variety 5%. Providing that in no case shall a total of more than 10% be allowed. Not more than 2% of the tubers shall be foreign, badly off type or damaged by sunburn, cuts, cracks, bruises, insects, etc. No frost injury shall be allowed. Not more than 5% by weight of the tubers shall be below three ounces or above twelve ounces.

It must be understood that the total of 10% does not mean that there can be 10% of rot, or 10% of Powdery Scab or 10% of severe Common Scab, but the 10% can be made up of some of each of these diseases, providing there is not more of each disease than stated in the standard. BONAR LAW MAN EXHIBITS BULL

Robin Hood of Springbrook Was on Better Livestock Train.

A FINE ANIMAL

F. M. Rutherford of Carisbrooke Farm, Bonar Law, spent three weeks this year on the Ontario Government's Better Live Stock train on which his fine Ayrshire herd sire, Robin Hood of Springbank, 60165, was one of the principal exhibits in the dairy cattle section. This train was visited by thousands at each stopping place and Mr. Rutherford's splendid animal was one of the centres of attraction among all the fine stock loaned by different farmers throughout the province. There were one car of beef cattle, two cars of dairy cattle, one car each for horses, sheep, swine and poultry. Lecture and information cars and an exhibit of wool and seed.

Another Eastern Ontario exhibit was the Holstein bull, Sir Francie Mercena Burke, the property of D. A. McPhee of Vankleek Hill. This animal was grand champion at the Royal Fair of 1924 and Mr. Rutherford's Ayrshire bull was Grand Champion at Toronto in 1924.

Mr. Rutherford is having a sale shortly when he will sell some of his registered Ayrshire cattle and Yorkshire swine.

SEEDING WELL AHEAD IN WEST

Very Satisfactory Conditions Face Farmers in Prairie Provinces.

AHEAD OF 1924

By E. CORA HIND,
Commercial Editor, Manitoba Free Press.

WINNIPEG, Man.—The Canadian West has been blessed with exceptionally good weather for spring work for the past eighteen days, and excellent progress is reported from many sections of all three prairie provinces.

Wheat seeding is going forward rapidly and with the end of the present week will be general over the entire West.

The weather has been particularly favorable for spring plowing and that form of cultivation is making good progress.

If present conditions continue wheat seeding should be completed in good time, and very considerably ahead of 1924, when the spring was very backward.

Moisture conditions are very satisfactory. While there was very little plowing done in the fall, and it looked as if wheat acreages would be curtailed on that account, the fact that farmers were able to get on the land for spring work at least 15 days earlier than in 1924 will to some extent make up in spring plowing what was lacking in fall plowing, though spring plowing, except in certain areas, is not regarded as so good a preparation for wheat. The general outlook at the present time is satisfactory.

FARMERS RUN OWN RAILWA...

Experts Abandoned the Li... as a Losing Proposition.

MAKING MONEY

By ROY J. GIBBONS.

YORKVILLE, Ill., April 16.—The men who guide the destinies of the United States' great transportation systems can learn a thing or two from the farmers of Yorkville locality.

For here is being tried an interesting—and what promises to be a successful—experiment in railroad management.

The men who till the soil along the right of way have bought and are operating on a profitable basis a little electric line that was about to be junked because the men who owned it—experienced railroad men though they were—couldn't make it pay.

It's a modest little road—extending only from Yorkville to Morris, Ill., a distance of a little over 30 miles. But it's mighty important to the territory it serves.

Last fall its owners decided to abandon it. They got the necessary permission from the state commerce commission.

The decision was a blow to the farmers. Though they were already burdened with debts, they realized that if the road were abandoned the only practical outlet for their products would be taken from them. Likewise their farms would decrease in value.

They knew they would all have to invest in expensive motor trucks, for there is no other railroad in the vicinity. And then bad roads made motor truck transportation impractical.

So they bought the property, that had cost $350,000 to build, for $100,000. They assumed debts amounting to $25,000, and agreed to pay the $75,000 balance within five years.

The road is known as the Fox and Illinois Union Railway Company, and taps one of the richest grain districts in Illinois.

The farmer-owners adopted a policy of economy in the management. They reduced the payroll, they got their assessments lowered for lower taxes, they sold a strip of land for $25,000. They charge themselves a small bonus on grain handled.

The farmers are willing to pay the bonus, because practically all of the 250 who deal with the railroad are stockholders.

"A year ago we weren't able to break even," says W. C. Miller, general superintendent. "Now we are making money."

The books bear out his statement.

The company maintains no presumptuous offices. The officers do their work in a little wooden shack adjoining the track just outside Yorkville. They have no expensive desks no soft-cushioned leather-seated swivel chairs.

They keep their own books and attend to all the little details connected with their duties. The place is heated with a little coal stove.

There are no passenger ...stations or waiting rooms At Yorkville the patrons wait in the town bank.

PLANTING FAR ADVANCED NOW

Report of Department of Agriculture Shows Good Progress in Province.

FALL CROPS GOOD

The following is a summary of reports made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

Reports from Agricultural Representatives would indicate that seeding is fairly general over the Province with the exception of a few counties and districts in Eastern and Northern Ontario where ploughing and cultivation are in progress. In some counties in Central and Western Ontario practically all the spring grain are sown. In Kent and Essex the planting of early potatoes has commenced. The season is from ten days to two weeks in advance of last year.

Speaking generally fall wheat has wintered well and is now beginning to green up. In Kent and Elgin reports state the past two weeks without rain and with night frosts have been very hard on wheat.

New seeding of clover looks very promising.

Rain is badly needed.

Many Representatives report a great increase in the acreage sown to alfalfa and sweet clover. Many enquiries have been made about nitro-culture for clovers.

Live stock is reported to be in good condition. Algoma says, "this has been a good spring for lambs, very few having been lost."

Hogs sold from $12.75 to $13.00 per cwt. during the past week. Demand for little pigs is keen, many being picked up at from $10.00 to $12.00 per pair whereas they brought from $5.00 to $6.00 per pair a year ago. Brood sows are selling from $35.00 to $50.00 each.

Milk production is increasing rapidly. Cheese factories are practically all operating. No cheese has been sold. Butter at creameries varies from 32c to 34c per lb. Dairy cattle are selling at fairly satisfactory prices. Auction sales would indicate that good draft horses are in great demand.

Norfolk Simcoe states: "Beekeepers in some sections report heavy losses from feed shortage of bees in wintering due to small flow last year."

Waterloo states: "Some feeder steers have been bought to go on grass, farmers paying as high as 5½c per lb. for good steers."

There seems to be a plentiful supply of potatoes in the farmers' hands owing to the low market price and as a consequence, some are being fed to stock on the farm.

Seven Chances

TODAY FRIDAY SATURDAY

Capitol Entertainment

LAST TIME TO-DAY

"The Air Mail"

Pendleton the all round championship.

In "Let 'Er Buck," Hoot plays the part of a Bob Carson. When the story opens he is a cowboy on a big cattle ranch in Texas. A romance has sprung up between Hoot and the ranch owner's daughter, played admirably by Marian Nixon. This earns for Hoot the enmity of the foreman. Through a scheme of the latter Hoot is made to believe he has killed his rival. He flees to become a hobo who beats his way as far as Pendleton where he is ejected from the brake beam and finds himself in the centre of the impending Round-up.

From then on the story blends into the real Round-up contests. There is an engaging plot, and a love interest augmented by the arrival at Pendleton of Hoot's former employer, daughter and all.

TWO SHOWS SATURDAY NIGHT AT ROYAL, 7 and 9

Owing to immense crowds that patronize every theatre when "Let 'Er Buck" has been shown, and anticipating the same in Peterboro, the Royal management have decided to run two performances Saturday night, to give everyone an opportunity to sse this production, said by every critic to be the greatest out-door production of its type ever produced.

AMATEUR NIGHT TO-NIGHT.

To-night at the Royal, the added attraction will be the ever-popular Amateur Night. Among the young artists on to-night's list are to be found:

George Farrence, in a song, "When My Pa was a Boy like me."

Rome and sister, piano and violin

Leslie Dyer, singer.

Lucas and Weir, The Tennessee Two, clever chatter and songs.

Olga and Evelyn Reynolds, Chinese novelty.

This will be presented before the feature presentation, Hoot Gibson in "Let 'Er Buck."

AT THE CAPITOL

BUSTER KEATON'S NEXT "SEVEN CHANCES"

Solemn-Faced Comedian Makes Big Picture from Belasco Play.

David Belasco sold his great stage success, "Seven Chances," to Buster Keaton and Buster's first moving picture version of a stage play is said to be seven times as funny as the original "Seven Chances."

"Seven Chances," written for Belasco by Roi Cooper Megrue, and produced with tremendous success in New York, was adapted to the screen by Jean Havez, Clyde Bruckman and Joe Mitchell. It is at the Capitol Theatre today.

It looks as if hereafter Buster will continue to make film versions of stage plays, for Buster's scenarists have transformed "Seven Chances" into the funniest scenario ever submitted to the comedy star.

They're All Beautiful.

Buster is surrounded with seventeen of the most beautiful bevy of leading women he ever has had. T. Roy Barnes, New York musical star, and Smitz Edwards also are featured in Buster's support.

"Seven Chances" tells the story of a young New York broker who was so big-hearted that he sold everything he had and gave it to charity, thereby ruining himself and partner and breaking his financee's heart.

Then comes a bequest from a deceased uncle who wills Buster $7,000,000, provided he marries within 24 hours after notification of the inheritance. Whereupon some 7,777 women in bridal finery, lured by Buster's matrimonial advertisement, come on the run looking for Buster.

"THE RIGHT WORD"

A young man who yearned to be a detective and also to be the successful suitor of a pretty widow is one of the characters in "The Right Word," the entertaining one-act comedy which will form an added attraction to the regular programme at the Capitol Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The mysterious Professor, however, is the hero of the piece, and there is an Irish maid who adds to the mirth of the brief playlet. The small girl who works cross-word puzzles with enthusiam and has no respect for sentimental emotions, is a bright portion of the programme. The youthful widow is the heroine around whom much of the interest centres. The Commissioner of Detectives, solving the puzzle expertly, and the young school boy who contributes Hawaiian guitar selections, are additional characters. Songs by the heroine make an interesting portion of the entertainment.

The stage settings for the piece will be as complete as is usual under Mrs. Bingham's direction, with grand piano kindly loaned by Heintzman and Company, furniture from Rummary's antique shop, and gowns from R. Hall and Son.

The cast for "The Right Word" includes Mrs. W. McKee Bingham, Miss Mathilde Masson, Miss Alma Goselin, Messrs. James Dixon, W. E. McWilliams, Gordon Cornish and Lionel Chapman.

AGENTS OF SUN LIFE COMPANY MEETING TO-DAY

Annual Conference For Central Ontario District Convened in City.

ADDRESSED BY MAYOR.

Paid Tribute to Profession in Formal Welcome to Peterborough.

The insurance profession is vitally connected with the well-being of the whole community, said His Worship Mayor Turner, in his address of welcome to the agents for Central Ontario of the Sun Life Assurance Company at their annual convention this afternoon.

I am glad to have the privilege of saying a word of welcome on behalf of the citizens in General, and myself in particular, said the Mayor. We are happy to have visitors come to the city to partake of hospitality, visit our schools and public buildings, and possibly have a peep into some of our local industries.

We have many things we are proud of, and the first is civic pride in Peterboro, for we feel as St. Paul when he said he was a citizen of no mean city.

We have pride in our churches, our schools, our parks, the Library, and the many and diversified industries, some of which have been established for many years, and have carried the name of "Peterborough" up and down the breadth of the land, and across ocean and seas.

We are proud of our citizens as our biggest asset, as being industrious, religious and law-abiding.

The standard of the city institutions and those who operate the departments, is of the highest, and again I say we are proud to be called citizens of Peterboro.

The conference you are entering upon is important in view of economic conditions prevailing. Mayor Turner continued, and you are vitally connected with our city and every other city, town, village and township throughout Canada. Your profession calls for industry and thrift, to discharge family, municipal, Provincial and Dominion responsibilities. Industry, hours of labor, regular and continued, are necessary to our livelihood, our health and happiness, and the welfare of our nation. Industry of digging, sowing, reaping, no matter what our vocation in life may be, continuing sticking to it, hammering away that we may produce with a minimum of expense to meet competition in the markets where we trade. This industry fails if we do not encourage thrift in our private and public life, to make provision for that rainy day which comes to all some time in their life. Remember the splendid poster put out by the Government some time ago, depicting a wet day, an umbrella, and a query, "Was this all you had provided?" Here, gentlemen, you fit into the picture, with a commodity, or an investment, which fits every and any purse, and should commend itself to everyone. You are doing your share in the industrial world by educating the public to the advantages of insurance, and also stimulating thrift to meet premiums or obligations assumed for protection of one's family, protection against old age.

I am glad to have the privilege of extending a welcome on behalf of the citizens, and trust this convention will assist you in the work you are doing, and if you find it convenient to visit us again, you will always receive a very warm welcome.

Agents from all parts of the Central Ontario District are gathered together this afternoon for this conference on matters of interest pertaining to life insurance problems.

The head office of the company is represented by George H. Harris, Supervisor of the Field Service Bureau, and W. Stuart Penny, Inspector of Agencies. Both of these gentlemen are to deliver addresses to the agents.

The first session was held this afternoon with J. F. H. Wallace, manager of the Central Ontario District, in the chair. After Mayor Turner's address, Mr. Penny officially opened the convention with a few remarks, dwelling on the importance of the men getting together for discussion of their problems. He also referred to the International aspect of the company's operations and its splendid financial position.

The addresses for the afternoon were in the hands of members of the field force, M. E. Hartley, of Oshawa speaking on Service to Policyholders, and S. J. Phillips, of Madoc, on organizing new territory by a new man.

This evening the representatives and their frineds will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace at their home.

To-morrow Hr. Harris will address the agents both in the morning and afternoon. At noon he will speak to a combined meeting of the Kiwanis Club and the Life Underwriters' Association. Mr. Harris is a well-known speaker on insurance topics, and lectures on the subject at McGill University in Montreal, and at the University of Toronto.

"THE PRAIRIE WIFE" NOW A PHOTOPLAY

Ballin Screens Arthur Stringer's Story of the Western Homestead.

An epic of the American prairies, depicting the struggles and hardships of a girl born to a life of ease and culture, who goes to live on her husband's prairie farm.

That is "The Prairie Wife," Hugo Ballin's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which begins an engagment of three days at the Regent Theatre on Thursday.

"The Prairie Wife" was made for the screen from Arthur Stringer's popular novel of the same name, and it was adapted and directed by Hugo Ballin, noted artist, director and author, who made "Vanity Fair," "Other Women's Clothes" and many other productions.

The story of "The Prairie Wife" deals with the adventures of a girl and her husband in wresting a living from the land. Frivolous Chaddie finds the dingy shack that is her husband's home a decided change from her old luxurious surroundings. The big Swedish servant, Ollie, is a "queer bird" when compared to her well-trained servants at home but she enters into her new life with zest, eager to make her marriage a success. Farming and housekeeping take the place of the matinees, teas and dances to which she had previously devoted her time, but Chaddie blooms with the unwonted work and the love of her "Dinkie-Dunk" husband.

The story is really of epic quality, not from the standpoint of the discovery of the West, nor the winning of it from the savages, but the tense, heart-breaking struggle to develop it.

She was one of the oldest and most respected residents of Ennismore Township, although of late years she had made her residence in Peterborough.

Mrs. Phelan is survived by one son, Edward, of this city, and two daughters, Mrs. David Godfrey of Peterborough, and Mrs. David Maher, of Duluth, Minnesota. The funeral will take place on Saturday morning at 8.45 from the residence of her daughter, 307 Bethune Street to St. Peter's Cathedral and Cemetery.

STORE KEEPING

Successful merchandising consists of fair and honest dealing with the public. Progressive "store keeping" means that the merchant must protect his business as well as the interests of his patrons, with uniform high quality of merchandise, bought right, so as to be sold at prices that will induce home patronage. If you pay less, you get less, either in quality or service.

We have been store keeping for 17 years.

MINSTREL PARADE TO-MORROW NIGHT

Kiwanis to Have Full Dress Rehearsal To-night—Best Show Yet.

Owing to the complete way in which all those taking part in the Annual Kiwanic Club Frolic "Minstrel Mimics" have been carrying on all indications point to what must be the best dress rehearsal ever attempted by local thespians. Last night a preliminary rehearsal was held on the stage of the Grand Opera House, and beyond a doubt it was the most pleasing ever done for so soon before the final rehearsal. One could hardly hear a word of correction from the director in charge, and every one feels confident that the best show put on by amateurs is to be seen by packed houses on Friday and Saturday nights of this week. Never yet has a bast been chosen who were able to hold down their respective parts so well from the very start as here in Peterborough, says H. J. Perkins of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., who is staging the production for the local Kiwanis Club. This speaks very well for the production to be seen by present ticket holders. There is truly a treat in store for all those who witness this elaborate spectacle.

The Kiwanis Club feels honored in being able to announce the fact that the Rotary Club of Peterborough will appear one hundred strong with their ladies and friends on Friday night for the initial performance. They will occupy the whole first part of the balcony.

A huge parade comprised of the Salvation Army Band and the members of the Minstrel First Part will occupy George Street at 7.30 sharp on Friday evening before the first show. Right here, an individual treat is waiting for those who love the toot of instruments and the roll of drums. Be on hand for a flashy spectacle.

The seats are going fast for both nights, but as yet there are plenty of the most desirable ones left, so when remembering the underprivileged children of Peterborough, get in on the fun at the Opera House on the above-named dates.

The seat sale is now on at the theatre box office.

PETERBORO MANUFACTURERS SEE SUN OF INCREASED TRADE RISING IN THE SUMMER SKY

Interviews Begun Today to Sound Business Conditions in the City—No Cause for Apprehension or Reason for Pessimism, Say Proprietors.

GOLDEN ERA IS NOT HERE YET

Some Report Business Exceptionally Good, While to Others the Reasons for Slackness Are Apparently Due to Outside Influences—Statements Heartening.

Speculation is rife at the present time concerning the future business prospects of the city, the uncertainty being possibly due to the slothful appearance of what is usually termed the "spring rush." While it is true that the past two years do not warrant dreams of an immediate Eldorado or Arcadia, it is nevertheless to be expected that trade cannot possibly remain at its present level if the country is to continue in a solvent state.

The number of business failures recorded, warrant an investigation, and, with that in mind, and the welfare of Peterborough in view, the managers of a number of the prominent manufacturing concerns in the city, were interviewed by The Examiner, with the following results:

J. H. Vernor, superintendent of the Western Clock Manufacturing Company, believes that this year will be a repetition of last year in his business. Mr. Vernor states that the supplies held by the wholesale dealers must be nearly depleted and he is of the opinion that orders should be received very soon. In anticipation of such an event the factory is working on stock greater than the actual demand.

A competent authority connected with the Quaker Oats Company states that they have received no intimation of a greater volume of business than that which they are at present turning out.

Very Optimistic.

The Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company is very optimistic as their business to date of this year has been greater than that of last year. Trade has been mainly with the Western Provinces, the Maritime section being unusually quiet. During the present month considerable overtime has been necessary and the company is greatly cheered by the indication of pending prosperity to the country.

Exceptionally Good.

E. W. Borbridge, Vice-President of B. F. Ackerman, Son & Co., Ltd., when interviewed, replied that the harness business was exceptionally good and a busy year was expected. The western trade was good, and the factory was running to capacity. Mr. Borbridge gave it as his opinion that the general business outlook for the present year was not encouraging. He believes that the present demand is due to wholesale dealers replenishing stocks which have become exhausted.

B. F. Ackerman, when questioned as to the shoe situation, stated that the present depression was due to two reasons, namely, the unfavorable tariff and overproduction.

The present tariff allows British shoe manufacturers to dump their goods in this country, he said, at prices which the Canadian manufacturers are unable to approximate. Mr. Ackerman said that a pair of shoes could be sent from England to Vancouver for 5½c whereas the freight charges on Canadian shoes carried from Montreal to Vancouver is 17c. The trans-ocean rates made this difference possible.

The British shoe manufacturers were quick to take advantage of this fact and as a result the importation of shoes has constantly increased. In 1923 341,814 pairs of shoes, valued at $652,925, were imported from Britain; in 1924 652,925 pairs of shoes worth $1,188,097, an increase of practically 100 per cent., were received. In January and February of this year the increase is 50 per cent. above the figures shown for the corresponding months of 1924.

Forced out of Business.

While Canada has been receiving these foreign goods numbers of Canadian shoe manufacturers have been forced to close their factories. For some peculiar reason the buying public demands material manufactured by alien hands. Mr. Ackerman presented rather a striking illustration of this point. He said: "Place a French shoe at $12, a British shoe at $10, an American shoe at $8 and a Canadian shoe at $7, side by side on a retailer's coupter. The Canadian shoe has the smallest sale value, although it equals any of the others in quality of material, workmanship and beauty.

Mr. Ackerman believes that there is certainly a great volume of overproduction in the business. Shoe machinery is obtainable by paying the freight charges and as a consequence many would-be manufacturers glimpse a chimera of sudden wealth and go into the shoe business. Disaster, however, awaits them, for the machines are operated on the royalty system, and certain payments are due monthly whether they are used or not. It is impossible to buy shoe machinery outright, and this fact is the cause of high shoe prices.

There is also a lack of confidence on the part of the buyers, as he will not buy on a falling market. As a consequence there are now no heavy spring or fall orders. Dealers rely on the telephone or wire for rush shipments of small lots which thy dispose of when sales are assured.

Business Good—More Coming

G. S. Matthews, manager of the Canadian Packing Company, states that business in the packing line is good, but not yet up to expectations. The price for hogs has been increased 33 1-3 per cent, which is the equivalent of $7 per hog. The sales to date of this year are ahead of those of last year, while the business carried by their retail stores is as good as last year's trade. The C.P.C. has been operating at full time, and indications predict a busy year.

Decided Improvement.

One of the leading wholesale dealers says that the business done by his concern to date is a decided improvement on that of last year.

He states that as regards foodstuffs the Peterboro people buy as much as possible the goods manufactured within the city.

The majority questioned find their collections to be slightly better than last year's figures indicated.

The manufacturers interviewed are of the opinion that the retail merchants do not feature goods manufactured in the city as they should but are more inclined to give their orders to firms not paying taxes in Peterborough. It was also stated that the citizens of Peterborough do not demand goods made in the city. Local patriotism is certainly necessary if prosperous conditions are to be achieved, the city manufacturers believe.

"Tuscania" Not a Witness of Tragedy Of Atlantic

HALIFAX, N.S., April 24.—(Canadian Press).—An error in transcribing the call signal in the messages broadcasted by wireless from the White Star liner Homeric at the scene of the Rai Fuku Maru tragedy on Tuesday morning resulted in an erroneous report being circulated to the effect that the Cunard liner Tuscania, was also standing helplessly by the Japanese freighter when it sank with thirty-eight men.

Owing to a marked similarity in the call signs of the two steamers and the prevalence of static interference, the receiving operator at the Halifax naval wireless station confused the Homeric with the Tuscania, the officials said yesterday. So far as the naval wireless officers are aware, the White Star liner Homeric was the only steamer to reach the scene in time to see the Rai Fuku Maru sink.

NO FOOTWEAR FOR CHILDREN

Glace Bay Committee Unable to Provide Clothing For 2,000 Children.

BUY ONLY FOOD.

GLACE BAY, N.S., April 24. — (Canadian Press). — The following statement signed by Rev. M. A. MacAdam and Rev. A. M. MacLeod, was issued last night by the Glace Bay Relief Committee:

"To-day in Glace Bay alone 2,116 families, over 11,000 dependents, received rations amounting to thirteen cents per day per person. This has now been in progress seven weeks. Besides this number there are many here just as hard pressed who have not and will not stand in the bread line. This means that distress is of greater extent than any committee can compute. Over 2,000 have made application for children's footwear and clothing and are still waiting for the same. Basic foodstuffs alone have been purchased with monies contributed by friends.

"Large volunteer committees are handling supplies. Not one cent is being used in wages. These volunteer committees are working every day with patience and tact and are handling a most trying situation with great energy and care.

"We greatly appreciate the thoughtfulness of American and Canadian friends who have already cheerfully aided the suffering here. The fact that worse results have not followed is due to the timely cooperation of friends from far and near."

DEBT QUARREL CAUSED DEATH

One Foreigner Shot Another Because of Unpaid Board Bill.

KILLER ARRESTED.

HAMILTON, Ont., April 24. — (Canadian Press).—Vaso Knezevich, 37 George Street, aged 32 years, was shot through the head and killed at 6 o'clock last night by Marko Corich, 36 Depew Street, aged 36 years, who is in the custody of the police on a charge of murder.

The shooting was the result of a quarrel over a debt which Corich had attempted to collect through the courts.

Scores of children witnessed it and several foreigners were able to give Detective Speakman a report of what occurred. Two shots were fired from a .32 calibre revolver, but only one struck the victim. Staggering from the front steps of Corich's house, Knezevich started to run across a field to his own home, two blocks away. He dropped 135 feet from the spot where the shot was fired and fell unconscious. He died a few moments after.

According to the story gathered by Detective Speakman, Knezevich owed Corich a bill of $145 for board. It was an old account and recently Corich took steps to collect it.

OCEAN FREIGHT RATES KEPT UP BY CONFERENCE

Rates on Grain and Flour From Canadian Ports Fixed by Committee.

CATTLE EXCEPTED

Shippers Given Opportunity to Make Representations on Rates to Combine.

OTTAWA, April 24 (By Canadian Press)—Col. William J. Gear, Vice-President of the Robert Reford Company, told the Special Parliamentary Committee on ocean rates Thursday afternoon that shippers of commodities were given an opportunity to make representations in regard to rates fixed by the North Atlantic Conference.

"Have you ever been at a meeting of the Conference when shippers were present?" asked R. J. Symington, K.C., Government counsel.

"Personally, no," Col. Gear replied. He stated, however, that although shippers were not admitted to general meetings of the Conference, they sometimes attended meetings of "the Liner Committee," which gave consideration to their representations. He stated that the Canadian Liner Committee fixed rates on grain and flour shipped from this country, but asserted that the cattle rate was not fixed.

Col. Gear declared that the rates were the same on all commodities moving from New York and Canadian ports, with the exception of grains. A reduction in rye was given to shippers who made an agreement to ship by Conferences lines.

"Supposing there was no Conference operating in Montreal, what would happen?" asked Chairman McMaster.

Might Cut Rates

Col. Gear replied that there would be severe rate competition and that eventually the service would probably suffer severely. He admitted that there might be a reduction in rates.

Just prior to adjournment, there was some discussion in regard to the production of voyage accounts by the steamship lines. Mr. Symington asked that these be produced.

Chairman McMaster explained that he had suggested to the shipping companies the name of Gordon Scott of Montreal, as auditor, to go into the voyage accounts. This selection had been satisfactory to the steamship companies. He had found however, that the Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. T. A. Low, had spoken to another firm of accountants. He felt that it would be discourteous to the minister to appoint Mr. Scott, therefore, and thought he would see if the committee could not devise some other scheme of getting the information, the firm of Crawley, Milne and Co. suggested by the Minister was not known by the Steamship Companies.

Sir Henry Drayton remarked that the Minister, on thinking the matter over, might see that his choice of an accountant might be looked upon as being unfair. The chairman, on the other hand, was in a different position, and no such impression could prevail in regard to him. He suggested that the matter of auditing the voyage accounts should be decided at a later sitting. This was agreed to, and the committee adjourned until this afternoon.

Americans in Majority

Mr. Symington asked Col. Gear to explain various terms which he had found in the minutes of the Conference, defining rates, and then asked him also to explain the pro-

FRENCH INCOME TAX INCREASE IS CAILLAUX PLAN

Level It With British Ratio and Collect From Rich and Poor.

MEETS SENATE

Anniversary of His Sentence to Imprisonment and Banishment by Upper House.

PARIS, April 24.— (Canadian Press).—M. Caillaux's fundamental remedy to restore the French treasury is an increased income tax, bringing France up to the level of th British ratio and ruthlessly collected from rich and poor alike. The new finance minister served notice on Parliament yesterday of this intention.

His announcement came incidentally when the question of voting provisional credits to carry on the public business of France during the months of May and June was under discussion. M. Caillaux put this measure through the Chamber in a few hours. It provides for credits amounting to 6,969,377,286 francs. Of this amount 101,507,574 francs is for the maintenance of the French occupation troops. The credits were voted 480 to 384.

Maintaining the imperturbable calm which characterized his reappearance in French public life, M. Caillaux attended the sittings of both Senate and Chamber. It was just five years ago yesterday that Caillaux heard himself sentenced to imprisonment and banishment by the Senate.

SENATOR URGES RURAL CREDITS AS WEST'S NEED

Western Canada Benefits the Least From Protection and Should Be Compensated.

MANY HANDICAPS.

Senator Willoughby Believes Hudson Bay Railway Feasible—Perhaps Over-rated.

OTTAWA, April 24 (Canadian Press).—Hon. W. H. Willoughby, in the Senate Thursday called the attention of the Government to the matter of rural credits, and necessity of legislation this session to give effect to some scheme to provide cheaper money for Western farmers both on long term and short term credits. He said the question of rural credits was of great significance to Western Canada and that part of the Dominion deserved very favorable consideration owing to certain conditions which obtain there and not in other parts of Canada.

Western Canada, he said, benefitted less from the Protective tariff than any other part of the country. He would waive any disadvantage to Western Canada that might come from protection in the interests of the whole Dominion, but in so doing he thought there should be compensation to the West in some form. The West labored under geographical handicap. Western railway rates compared favorably with those of other countries and were more favorable on grain than corresponding areas in the United States, but the geographical position of the West made preferential treatment in freight rates imperative to the success of that part of the Dominion. At present the Crow's Nest Pass agreement was discriminatory and would have to be changed by legislation, but in any legislation he thought preferential treatment to the West should be given.

Many in the East, he said, looked upon the Hudson Bay Railway as an absurd proposition. He believed the scheme was feasible, but its value as a grain route had probably been over-estimated. It would, however, be a splendid outlet for cattle and meat products and it would also assist in the grain trade.

Senator Michener moved the adjournment of the debate. Senator Dandurand previous to Senator Willoughby's speech stated to the House that the Government had under consideration a scheme of rural credits based on Dr. Tory's report.

Bulgarian King Reported Prisoner of Nationalists

ROME, April 24.—(Canadian Press).—A despatch Thursday from Belgrade to the Tribuna says that King Boris of Bulgaria has been imprisoned in the Royal Palace by the order of General Lazareff because the Nationalist military element objected to the Sovereign's request that Premier Tsankoff resign to permit the formation of a coalition cabinet, including opposition elements.

Another despatch from Belgrade, but sent by way of Vienna, declares that Jugo-Slavia, offended by Minister of Interior Russeff's declarations before the Bulgarian National Assembly regarding the activities of the Jugo-Slav Legation at Sofia, has demanded an explanation and is threatening to break off diplomatic relations.

RIGHT TO JOIN UNION UPHELD

Montreal Police Union Decision in Judgment by Mr. Justice Coderre.

NOT DISMISSED.

MONTREAL, April 24.—(Canadian Press). — Montreal policemen have the right to belong to a union and the city is not lawfully entitled to dismiss them from the force for so doing, was a judgment rendered by Mr. Justice Coderre yesterday.

The order of the Police Chief requiring constables to leave the union or leave the force was the outcome of a resolution passed by the Executive Committee over a year ago to this effect. It was opposed by the Police Union, through their counsel, John Sullivan, who asked for a writ of injunction against the city, alleging that they had a legal right to organize themselves in a union, and that it was unlawful for the city to dismiss men because they belonged to a lawful trades union.

An interim judgment was granted, and this injunction has now been made permanent by Mr. Justice Coderre's judgment. He declares that the city's order is illegal and cannot be lawfully put into effect. He draws attention in judgment to the fact that arbitration was available for the city at the time of the dispute with the Police Union, and they should have availed themselves of this recourse.

AMALGAMATION OF CANADA'S TWO RAILWAYS IS ADVOCATED IN HOUSE BY MONTREAL LIBERAL MEMBER

S. W. Jacobs Regards Absorption of C. N. R. by C. P. R. Benefit to Country.

END OF SUBSIDIES

Also Demands More Comprehensive Immigration Policy —Opposes Method.

OTTAWA, April 24. — (Canadian Press).—When General A. E. Ross, Conservative, Kingston, resumed his speech on the budget in the House of Commons Thursday afternoon, he clashed with Herbert Marler, of St. Lawrence-St. George. Commenting on Mr. Marler's speech of Wednesday, Gen. Ross compared that gentleman to "a man climbing up the back stairs of the band wagon and playing the big drum," when he proceeded to criticize the manner in which the Acting Minister of Finance had handled some sections of the financial statement, Mr. Marler interrupted to ask if Sir Thomas White and Sir Henry Drayton, former Conservative Finance Ministers, had not "put the thing in exactly the same way." Gen. Ross retorted that he could not go back so far and make lengthy comparisons with past performances, and he added that since Mr. Marler had cut short some of his questionaires Wednesday, he felt justified in doing the same.

Criticism levelled at the Canadian Government Merchant Marine was "more a criticism of the shipbuilding industry of this country which we should encourage rather than do anything to injure it."

What has the Government accomplished? It had erected a "grain elevator at Prince Rupert without grain," "an immigration office at Paris without immigration?" and succeeded in the deportation of a large number of red-blooded Canadians from this country, he declared. General Ross denied that the responsibility in respect to the Ross rifle, lay at the door of the Conservatives.

If there had been disasters with respect to the Ross rifle, they were due to the refusal of the Liberal Government before the war, to concede to repeated demands for an investigation. Respecting the unfit men who were sent overseas, General Ross said that it was all due to improper medical examination. But on the other hand, unfit men managed to reach France and rendered great services which would offset the alleged one hundred and fifty million dollars cost of the unfit.

The Government's attitude toward the situation in Cape Breton, General Ross added, was not in accord with its pledges in the party platform, where it was stated that the physical status of Canadians would be improved.

Could Say More.

S. W. Jacobs (Liberal, George Etienne Cartier) declared that General Ross's speech dealt only with "generalities," and thought that if he were to attempt to criticize the

After deductions for all charges and dividends, a surplus of $2,995,879 remains, in contrast to the preceding quarter's surplus of $1,940,539.

Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock, payable July 1, to stock of record June 1.

BUDGET DEBATE NOT WORTH THE EXPENSE

S. W. Jacobs Computes $342,000 Cost For 19 Days.

OTTAWA, April 24. — (Canadian Press).—"I don't think it is worth it," drily remarked S. W. Jacobs, member for George-Etienne-Cartier, in the House yesterday, commenting on how much the budget debate had cost the country. It had been estimated that Parliament cost $18,000 a day. This was the 19th day of the budget debate. The House of Commons had already spent $342,000. Mr. Jacobs did not believe that in fifty years the budget debate had ever changed anybody's vote. He did not believe that any member had changed his vote because of the tariff, although the tariff had sometimes been blamed for a change of vote. He proposed to make himself popular by being brief.

When J. E. Archambault, of Chambly-Vercheres, suggested that Mr. Jacobs was now proceeding to add to the cost of the budget debate, Mr. Jacobs offered to "turn it all back into the Treasury."

DEFICIT DECLINED LAST YEAR IN OPERATION OF CANADIAN FLEET

Gross Revenue $8,811,038 and Operating Expenses $10,251,918.

FLEET OF 87 SHIPS

Directors Recommend Writing Off Substantial Part of Cost and Interest.

OTTAWA, April 24.—A decrease in the deficit on operation of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine is noted in the annual statement of the line, tabled in the House of Commons Thursday. Gross revenue was $8,811,038 and operating expenses were $10,251,918 leaving a deficit from operation of $1,440,880, which is $423,412 less than last year's deficit. The deficit after all charges, including depreciation and interest, were taken into account was $8,836,680 in 1924, which was $532,061 less than in the 1923 deficit.

Vancouver Profit.

The decrease in cargo earnings was about $181,000 The Vancouver Board of Harbor Commissioners made a profit of $57,000.

Insurance was provided in the Canadian National Insurance Fund. The net result was a credit balance for the year of $536,325. The total balance at December 31 was $877,144

The passenger service to the West Indies, operated by the Canadian Fisher and the Canadian Forester, shows a loss of $120,000 in operation, slightly less than in 1923. As a result of the services to Australia, New Zealand and Newfoundland Dominion subsidies to other lines aggregating $156,000 were discontinued.

57 Vessels in Fleet.

There are now 57 vessels in the fleet. Three were sold last year. Excepting the stranding of the Canadian Scottish and the collision of the Canadian Pioneer with another steamer, there were no serious accidents during the year.

The directors again recommend that a substantial proportion of the cost of the fleet and of the interest payable to the government should be writen off. It is emphasized that prices received for the vessels sold today are much lower than the original cost. The difference between assets of the Government shipping and the total capital and liabilities shows a total deficit to date of $35,004,994. Capital and liabilities total $100,093,343.

The whole fleet combined made 256 voyages on the Atlantic and 93 on the Pacific during the year.

GREEKS MOBILIZING.

Reported Demonstration Against Bulgarian Army's Increase.

LONDON, April 24.—A despatch to the Daily Mail from Brindisi, Italy, says a report was in circulation there yesterday that a portion of the Greek army was mobilizing. The correspondent says the reason is not clear, but one theory is that it may be a demonstration against the increase of 7,000 in the Bulgarian forces sanctioned by the councils of ambassadors Wednesday.
